Little discussion during Gilford Deliberative Session

BY ERIN PLUMMER

mnews@salmonpress.news

GILFORD — All articles will appear on the ballot unchanged after a brief town deliberative session.

Gilford voters gathered at the Gilford High School Auditorium on Feb. 4 for the town's deliberative session. The session lasted around 48 minutes with only a few comments.

Article 3 would build a new Public Works facility for $11.2 million. The project resulted from a nearly three year study that determined the current facility posed health and safety risks, has considerable structural issues, and does not meet the department's space needs.

No one commented on the article, and it was placed on the ballot as is.

Article 4, a petitioned article that would raise and appropriate $500,000 for improvements to different baseball fields, did receive questions and some concerns from residents.

The project would put in a new turf infield at the varsity field, add new bathroom facilities at the Village Field, and put in a new concession stand/press box at Stonewall Park.

Bruce Thurston of the Old Home Day Committee said Gilford Youth Baseball recently made a presentation to the committee about the project. He said one part of the presentation was putting a fence around the diamond to protect the field and expressed concern this would be encroaching into the adjacent soccer field.

Gilford Youth Baseball president Mike Giovanditto said the fence was suggested during the meeting but doesn't have to be done for the plan.

"We are working with many different programs in Gilford including soccer, that's why we were proposing to only do the infield of it where it meets the soccer field," Giovanditto said.

The Crazy Hat Contest will return to Alton's Winter Carnival this Sunday.

Vendors will display their creations in the parking lot by the bandstand as well as on the ice by Shibley's at the Pier. Visitors can sample from different food tents on the other side of the parking lot by the land bandstand.

Bruce Locke will be offering horsedrawn sleigh rides around the village starting at Alton Bay Christian Conference Center.

There will be a beer and chili bar on the lower deck at Shibley's at the Pier.

Artist Erica Golter will do caricatures throughout the day. There will also be a selfie station.

For those who enjoy time in the air, visitors can take rides with Pine Tree Helicopters and Epic Seaplane Adventures.

Some events will take place right on the ice if ice conditions remain safe. The Alton Fire Department will put on an ice rescue demonstration. There will also be a bob house decorating contest and ice skating.

The Prospect Mountain High School Spanish Trip and World Cultures Club will host a scavenger hunt and offer face painting. People can do some hockey shots with Buck-a-Puck.

Starting at 10 a.m., Jeff Day will do an ice sculpture demonstration and there will be a Princess/Prince Parade at the land bandstand.

The Kids Warming Hut will run at the community center from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Local businesses will share their chowder for the Chowder Contest starting at 11 a.m. Shibley's at the Pier, Foster's Tavern, and the American Legion will serve chowder and guests can pick their favorites.

The Crazy Hat Contest will go on at the SEE CARNIVAL, PAGE A7

NEW DURHAM — The New Durham Deliberative Session, held on Feb. 4, with approximately 30 residents in attendance, saw the passage of all articles on the 2025 Warrant.

Led by Moderator Linda Callaway, the three-hour meeting covered 25 articles. Most passed with little or no discussion. Only two articles saw amendments, both dealing with the sale of cemetery lots and cemetery maintenance. Neither article impacts the tax rate.

Article 2 deals with an operating budget of $4,220,038, with an estimated tax rate impact of $4.669 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Should that article be defeated at the voting session, the default budget would be $4,118,133, with certain

An anticipated Highway Block Grant of $117,428 will defray some of the cost of Article 3's addition of $560,000 to the serve Funds (CRF) are on the Warrant.

Related to the public works department are: $350,000 for Highway Trucks, $20,000 for Vehicle and Equipment Maintenance, and $150,000 for Road Reconstruction. The entire amount of $150,000 for Article 6 Road Reconstruction will come from the Town's Unassigned Fund Balance and will therefore not affect the tax rate.

ABA Monthly Member Highlight: Freedom Boat Club of the Lakes Region

ALTON — Every month, the Alton Business Association sits down with one of our amazing ABA members to get to know them a little better! We ask each member the same questions, providing an opportunity for our members to highlight the important work that they do in our communities. If you're an ABA Member and would like to be considered for future Monthly Member Highlights, please reach out to us via email at info@alton-businessassociation.com

Q: Tell us about your business?

A: Freedom Boat Club is the world's largest boating community. Members have unlimited access to boats in Weirs Beach and reciprocity benefits to go boating at clubs away from home. With 40 locations in New England and over 400 across the globe, members get to enjoy waterways in North America, Europe, Australia, and New Zealand.

Q: Tell us about yourself.

A: My wife and I have two boys and spend most of our free time on the water. We find that our personal values are best represented by the time we spend on the water with friends and family, so we're excited to make the boating life more accessible to families in the Lakes Region.

Q: How did your business get started?

A: With a baby on the way, my wife and I decided it was time to make a career change that provided more flexibility. We evaluated several business opportunities to find one that would be a good fit for us. Over the course of several months, we got to know the team at Freedom Boat Club and learned more about the concept. It has been a great fit and we couldn't be more excited to open our first location on Lake Winnepesaukee!

Q: What has your relationship with the Alton Business Association done for you or your business?

A: Although we just recently joined the ABA, our membership has allowed us to quickly build connections throughout the community. We look forward to connecting directly with the community at 2025 Alton Bay Winter Carnival this month, as well as future events.

Q: What do you value most about this community?

A: Our family loves this community for the strong connections between its residents and their ties to the lake. My wife and I met while walking on the ice one winter and many of our lifelong friendships were formed on the water. We feel very fortunate to help our neighbors create these same bonds on Lake Winni.

Q: Why did you want to open your business in this community?

A: Lake Winnepesaukee is a body of water like no other, offering a huge variety of boating opportunities. With 8 towns connected by crystal clear water, we couldn't have dreamt of a more ideal location for our club.

Q: What business accomplishment are you most proud of?

A: We are most proud of the relationship we've developed with our host marina, North Water Marine. Their team is family-oriented and have all sorts of services to support our members' safety and fun on the water!

Q: What does the future hold for you and your business?

A: There are over 270 bodies of water throughout the Lakes Region, so we look forward to opening several more clubs throughout the area. In addition to simplifying the boating experience, our club also addresses two major barriers to boating, cost and availability of marina space. We plan to open clubs on other popular bodies of water so members can explore all that the Lakes Region has to offer.

Q: What is one piece of advice you wish you had as a new business member?

A: Start sooner! There are incredible resources available to new business owners.

Had we known about these before, we would have opened our own business decades ago.

Q: How can people who want to learn more about you or your business get in touch with you?

A: Our website has all sorts of details on our club and what it means to be a member. You can also call or text us anytime at (603) 217-3898 with specific questions, or visit our Web site at <https://www.freedomboatclub.com/franchises/fbc-nh-lakes/nh-weirs-beach>. Multiple snowstorms make for long hours of cleanup

mnews@salmonpress.news

GILFORD — Back-to-back snowstorms hit the area in a one-week period with highway crews putting in long hours to clean up roads.

The area has been hit with three winter weather events since the beginning of February with another predicted for Thursday.

The Gilford Public Works Department gave updates on its Facebook page on the cleanup progress from each storm.

An overnight storm on Jan. 31-Feb. 1 dropped around four to five inches of snow and brought crews out to treat roads and do plow rounds throughout the overnight hours and were back in the morning.

Another storm with snow and freezing rain came through around a day later with crews in at 1 a.m. on Feb. 3 to plow and treat roads before the morning commute. Crews were back out around 6:30 p.m. to treat roads following a period of rain and freezing temperatures.

The DPW also thanked Kimberly and Dave Salanitro for bringing wraps from Lakeside Famous Roast Beef, Pizza, and Seafood to feed all the crew members.

The area was hit with a more significant snowstorm on Feb. 6, with around five inches of snow falling hard at times. Town hall and the solid waste center were closed because of the storm.

Public Works put out eight plow trucks with two loaders on the town's roads.

The DPW reminded people that it took around four hours to do each route and it would be several hours before they could do another pass with the snow coming down as it was. Crews were out all day to get the main roads done before the evening commute and went back out after a short break to scrape and treat before calling it a night.

More now blanketed the area on the night of Feb. 9, with more than seven to nine inches measured across the region.

Gilford crews were out at 3 a.m. to plow, but got some help from some sunshine later in the day.

Gilford also reminded people about its winter parking ban. No one can park on any town street during a snow event from 12-7 a.m. Gilford Public Works also advised people not to push snow from their properties into town roads.

We Will NOT be Undersold

Every 8 minutes, we respond to a disaster.

HELP NOW

Reserve your judgment

We see it on Facebook, and other social media accounts — seemingly happy people carrying on about their lives without a care in the world. As we scroll, we tend to pass judgements on what is in reality, a blip in the lives of those who's photos we are currently looking at. A mere moment that perhaps lasted less than a second is captured, and in that moment, we feel that we are free to make a distinction on what that individual is going through in the moments and days prior, or what they may be feeling like in the moments just after. Don't do that.

The best way to find out how a friend, co-worker or family member is, is to simply ask them. With the past year being what it was, mental health issues and rates of suicide are sky rocketing. Is this really a time to pass judgement? Or is this an opportunity to lift those up around us and to make sure that we're all hanging in there?

As humans, some of us can handle any given situation with more grit than others. Some can carry on for just so long until it just becomes too much. Those that have that grit, are those who have the ability to extend their hand, tell someone that they will be ok and that they are not alone. Support for a person overwhelmed, depressed or anxious is paramount to their well-being. Sure, it feels good to act tough, and announce that X, Y, or Z doesn't bother you, but the world is not all about you and it never will be. Be kind, it just feels better.

When a person breaks their leg and can no longer work for a time, they are sent flowers, offered encouraging words of support, given sick time and sent home with casseroles. If a person with a mental health condition takes time off to regroup and to seek the help and therapy that they need to, you know... live...it becomes an issue. Because you can't see the injury. What you might see is a smile that lasted a split second, and you pass judgement — "Oh they aren't really sick." Guess what — you are wrong. Make no mistake, we all go through challenging times, but that doesn't mean that we all handle them in the same way.

Discrimination against a person with any health issue, whether it be physical or mental, is illegal. Furthermore, it is morally wrong. Do we really want to be a society that has stopped supporting one another? We vote no. When we see a neighbor plow the driveway of the house down the street, or three neighbors pulling a stranger's car out of a ditch, we are reminded of how at our cores, we are all kind.

Take note — mental illness is not a character defect. There are many reasons a person may develop an issue, whether it's temporary, brought on by stress, illness or whether it's genetic. Some anxiety may resurface as an adult, due to childhood trauma. Either way, we don't know, unless we know.

When people do not understand mental illness, they tend to exhibit prejudice against those who admit they have an issue. Those people are often treated as though they don't have a real health issue and are then discriminated against. This leads to shame in the person who openly admits that they need help, and so the stigma surrounding mental health is born.

Many workplaces have excellent support systems in place for employees who need help, these to include police and fire departments. These places are to be commended for looking out for one another.

Here are ways to decrease the stigma, be in the know and help your neighbors. Educate yourself, be aware of your attitude towards those who confide in you, pay attention to your judgements and choose your words carefully. When you do educate yourself, spread the word. Treat those around you with respect and offer encouragement, or a slice of pizza; anything goes. We say it often — take care of each other, now more than ever. You will find that it's easy to be kind.

LETTERS FROM EDWIN

Passports

The temperature almost got up to freezing yesterday, so I took the opportunity to check my tire pressures. This is something that I used to do on a regular basis, but since vehicles have become so smart, I can wait till the little yellow light comes on in the instrument cluster. I hate those lights, and am usually able to avoid seeing them by performing my regular routine.

With the temps being so cold lately, I've abstained from putting the compressor through the toil and have just kept driving. It's been irking me for over a week now, so I was glad for the break in the temperature. The truck tires never loose much air so I had attributed the indication as being due to the cold temperatures. As we all should know, warm air expands and cold air contracts. As the temps have lowered, I have regularly needed to add some air. Come spring I'll be letting it back out.

Me, owning such vintage vehicles, I can almost never drive without one of those obnoxious little indicators staring me in the face. Both cars have ever present ABS lights. My inspector guy says that since we have the ability to disable this feature, that he doesn't consider it an inspection fault. I don't really care; I've been driving with dumb brakes for 50 years. I now just have to put up with the warning lights.

All this smart brake stuff expanded into traction control. When I first bought my truck, I wired in a switch so that I could turn this feature off. It generally works wonderfully, but when it doesn't, it's nice to be able to say: let me try it the old way.

Heading out this morning I knew that the tire light would take a while to go out, but after it was still on after ten miles, I figured that I was stuck with it. A while later when I got on the highway and made it over fifty, I turned ON overdrive which extinguishing the O/D OFF light. I then saw my blacked out gauges and no little yellow indicator lights. Not even a check engine light. One of life's simple pleasures.

All the things that I've taken for granted all these years aren't quite so anymore. Aches and pains don't disappear overnight. Hang overs happen with hardly any stimulus. I can't find anything when it's been misplaced, and where did I put that whatever it was?

It has been said that a lifespan is good for seventy to eighty years. Then all bets are off. I've surpassed that lower figure by a bit. But I can tell you, that after I did, that things started going downhill. That larger figure is looking like it's getting more out of a reach every day.

When my boys were in school, seeing that their single dad didn't do much other than cooking and taking care of them, told me that when I turned seventy, that they were going to take me to Montreal for a good time. Back then you could go there and back with just your driver's license. It has long since been changed to passports being required. They said that a long time ago, and since then it was never mentioned. I don't really care. Do they even have passports? Besides that, would I now have that much fun going to Montreal? I'm totally content with a good meal and a comfortable couch.

I wonder why they picked Montreal? It may be that when they were small, we all went there so that I could get my eyes Lasic'd. It was quite an adventure. I don't know how much fun we had, but my eyes are still doing pretty good 22 years later. They've since grown up, graduated, and moved on with their lives. I don't see to much of them anymore. That's life in this society.

Looking out my bedroom window, I look down on the roofs of the sheds still covered with snow. The grounds are all white except for the path to the woodshed. My gaze occasionally makes it to the bluebird house that hangs on the side of the shed. Empty and awaiting reoccupation once the weather warms up. After last year's casualty, I wonder if it will remain vacant, or if one of the many offspring will return to occupy it? Only time will tell.

Letters to the Editor

We voted for Congressmen and senators, not Rip Van Winkles and Dr. Doolittles

To the Editor:

To me, it was bad enough that our congressman sent official mail offering us free passes to the Inauguration. But then he immediately and without asking our opinion voted to detain and deport people who were neither charged, arrested nor convicted. Now, I read he recently visited north country non-profits and businesses while barely whispering a word, tactic or strategy against the palpable attacks on our federal departments, agencies, civil servants and lawful appropriations.

Well, selected cozy visits are fine when the sun is shining and the roads are clear, but constitutional, assertive leadership, strategy and grassroots organizing are required when lightning flashes, dark clouds loom, the road ahead is blocked by fallen trees, landslides and petty gendarmes flush with moneybags.

At minimum, I want our congressman and his paid professional staff to announce and actively participate in a full schedule of listening sessions this month and next throughout Congressional District 1 at the typical tri-town level, followed by voluntary subject groups urgently working for corrective action, not miasmatic hand-wringing.

A few months ago, we voted for congressmen and senators, not Rip Van Winkles from Sleepy Hollow and Dr. Dolittles in the Kingdom of Pushmi-Pullyu. We voted for front-seat drivers, not back-seat passengers. The federal government is integral to American life, not an optional extra. The United States is a country, not a company. Our elected federal officers need to measure up. Tend to the nation first, neighborhood drop-ins later.

GWRSD warrant set for March 11 ballot

BY ELISSA PAQUETTE

Contributing Writer

WOLFEBORO — The annual Deliberative Session of the Governor Wentworth Regional School Board on February 1 in the Kingswood Arts Center ended with the budget and warrant articles unchanged. It now moves forward to be printed for the March 11 Election Day ballot.

The $ 67,427,393 proposed operating budget for the Governor Wentworth Regional School District (GWRSD) 2025-26 school year survived a proposed amendment by Stefanie King of New Durham to round off the total to $67 million, and will appear in its original form on the ballot for approval by voters throughout the district. If the article fails, the budget will revert to a $66,574,504 default budget.

The difference between the proposed and default budgets is $852,889. According to Chairman Brodie Deshaies, 75 percent of that figure is committed to special education requirements, and "If we don't have it, we will have to shift money away from other students."

State Rep. Susan DeRoy of New Durham and David Bickford, also a New Durham resident, expressed concern about their town's residents' ability to cover an increase in the school's portion of their property tax bills. DeRoy wondered if the increase in the budget was connected to an expansion associated with the receipt of ESSER funds from the federal government during the Covid pandemic.

Deshaies responded that the board had made sure to use the funds for one time expenditures, with the exception of the addition and retention of two math coaches, whose work showed positive results in student math scores. The increases, he said, were related in part to increased costs in electricity and heating and insurance and also mandated services.

"We don't have a lot of wiggle room...A lot of students have out of district placements and we can't reduce any more staff or sacrifice infrastructure," said Deshaies.

If infrastructure is ignored, he added, the needs remain to be dealt with the next year.

Scott Lounsbury of Wolfeboro asked how the district would be affected by the federal government's restriction of funding related to DEI (Diversity, Equity and Inclusion). The district does not receive any DEI funding, responded GWRSD Superintendent Caroline Arakelian. She added that the board will also update its policies with help from the School Boards Association to assure compliance with any governmental changes.

Wolfboro resident Steve Johnson asked for the board's definition of equity. Deshaies described it as a matter of access to opportunities for academic success, using the example of students with differing reading abilities. One may not need any extra help, while another may need more services to increase achievement. They may not end up with the same result, but assistance is offered to reduce the disparity.

Two bargaining agreements, one between the School Board and the administrative team, the other between the Support Staff Association are also on the warrant. The former is for a 4 percent increase, for each of four years, the latter is for increases two years in a row. Both have the full support of the Board. In response to concerns raised about the 4 percent increases, and a comparison offered to Social Security Cost of Living Increases, Deshaies noted that administrators are coming out of the previous agreement for 3 percent raises, which occurred during rising inflation rates, as high as 9 percent. That is the risk they take. Budgetary stability is of benefit to the school system.

A request for $150,000 to be added to the Maintenance Capital Reserve Fund to come from the June 30, 2025 fund balance is on the ballot. No amount will be raised from new taxation. Another request for $150,000 for repairs and improvements of buildings/grounds at the ten schools in the district is also requested.

New this year is a request to allow the GWRSD to raise and appropriate $250,000 to provide funding for free meals to all students within the newly eligible income brackets. To do so would align the income threshold with the federal poverty level option: 300 percent of the federal poverty rate, broadening eligibility for students from households earning up to three times the poverty rate (details available from multiple online sites).

Automotive painting is an art form at LRTC

BY ELISSA PAQUETTE
Contributing Writer

WOLFEBORO — High school senior Ella Freeman's painting project for her Collision Technology II class took about two weeks to complete.

Automotive painting requires skills in creating and applying colors to metal, and the practice she gained in painting on metal of a hummingbird drawing nectar from flowers on a vine were "a good break" she says. She'll return to working on car doors, but she appreciates the variety in the course taught by Lakes Region Technology Center Teacher Derek Place.

Freeman is transported to the center from Farmington for afternoon course work each school day, along with other students from outlying towns, who pay tuition for the resources available at the center in Wolfeboro. The metal design was cut by students in teacher Scott Meserve's Precision Machining class, and Freeman took over from there.

She's learned to use the color wheel exhibited on the classroom wall and an air brush to shade and layer color and create lines by controlling the flow of paint and the distance of the nozzle from the surface. The hummingbird, shaded in green and golds, is color coordinated with the golden brown flowers that are outlined in darker tones and the leaves are shaded as well, creating depth. The metal sculpture is heading soon to her mother's kitchen wall.

White car doors are set up behind her, prepped for painting. Freeman says she enjoys automotive painting and will likely look for employment in a body shop after graduation.

Nurturing Cognitive Health in Later Life: 9 Practical Tips

As we progress through life, cognitive health becomes increasingly important for maintaining our overall well-being. Supporting our brain health is essential for preserving memory, focus, mood, and independence. In this article, we will discuss a range of strategies to enhance mental sharpness and promote a vibrant mind during the later stages of life.

1. Mental Stimulation
Engaging in cognitively challenging activities can help stave off age-related cognitive decline and improve overall brain health by keeping the brain engaged, strengthening existing brain connections, and building new ones.

• How to Start: Stay curious, read books, solve puzzles, or play a game. Continue with activities you love, rediscover old hobbies and skills, learn something new, and get creative.

2. Physical Activity
Exercise is one of the best ways to support brain health. It improves blood flow, reduces inflammation, and stimulates the growth of new brain cells.

• How to Start: Enjoy a walk with a friend or try low-impact exercises, such as tai chi, gentle yoga, dance, water aerobics, or join a class. Even light gardening or household chores can help.

• Always speak with your healthcare provider to determine exercises that are safe for you.

3. Social Engagement

Maintaining strong social connections and meaningful relationships has been linked to reducing cognitive decline, improving mental sharpness, warding off feelings of loneliness, supporting a sense of belonging, and helping to prevent and treat depression.

• How to Stay Engaged: Attend social gatherings (there are many transportation services that can help), join clubs or groups, volunteer, attend church services, consider a pet, and try to stay connected with family and friends.

4. Prioritize Quality Sleep
Sleep is crucial for sorting and storing memories, clearing waste products from the brain, and helping our bodies and brains heal and repair.

• Tips for Better Sleep: Avoid caffeine late in the day, maintain a consistent sleep schedule, allow yourself to wind down before sleep, avoid naps (if unavoidable, keep them under 20-30 minutes), establish a relaxing sleep routine, and aim for at least 7-9 hours of sleep.

5. Eat a Brain-Healthy Diet
What we eat plays a powerful role in supporting our memory and cognitive health as well as maintaining a healthy mood, reducing inflammation, and preventing illness.

• What to Eat: Consume a variety of foods such as vegetables, fruits, nuts, berries, whole grains, fatty fish (like salmon), olive or avocado oils, fermented foods, whole grains, and foods high in omega-3 (like walnuts and flaxseed). Do not forget to hydrate.

• What to Avoid: Reduce added sugars, processed foods, unhealthy fats (such as saturated and trans fats), foods high in sodium, refined carbohydrates, and tobacco and alcohol use.

• Make Small Changes: Consider negotiating with yourself to establish slower, more sustainable nutritional changes.

6. Manage Your Stress
Stress can impair our thinking, memory, decision making, and overall cognitive function.

• Tips to Manage Stress: Laugh, engage in calming practices like hobbies, mindfulness meditation, and deep breathing exercises. Confide in those close to you, get out in nature, focus on things that make you feel grateful (either mentally or written in a journal), review or share old memories (such as photos, videos, or stories), engage in religious and spiritual practices, and seek mental health support for chronic stress management.

7. Protect Your Brain Against Falls

Falls are a leading cause of head injuries, which can harm cognitive function.

• Prevention Tips: Remove tripping hazards, install grab bars, wear comfortable non-slip shoes, ensure good lighting, practice balance exercises to improve stability, and seek additional support from occupational or physical therapy if you struggle with weakness, numbness, or tingling sensations in your body.

8. Monitor and Treat Medical Conditions
Illnesses harm cognitive function from inflammation or direct injury.

• Health Management: Schedule regular check-ups—do not forget dental exams, eye exams, and hearing tests (impaired hearing is a risk factor for cognitive decline). Use tools like medication lists and pill organizers to keep track of your medications, let all your healthcare providers know all the medicines you are on, and assure you know the reasoning and necessity behind each of your treatments.

9. Listen to Music
Listening to music helps to promote new brain connections and has been proven repeatedly in research to prevent and delay the progression of dementia.

• Consider: Listening to music you have always loved (nostalgia helps too) and trying new music, playing it in the background of your home, learning a new instrument, or attending a concert or play.

Prospect Mountain takes on Plymouth in first game of "Granite State Challenge"

DURHAM — The Prospect Mountain Timberwolves faced the Bobcats of Plymouth Regional High in the first game of the 43rd season of "Granite State Challenge" on Thursday, Feb. 6 at 8:30 p.m. on New Hampshire PBS.

Prospect Mountain High and Plymouth Regional High, along with teams from 32 other New Hampshire schools, took a qualifying test back in November 2024 to secure one of 14 spots in Round One. Four additional teams competed in two wildcard games in December to secure the two remaining spots in Round One. The Timberwolves defeated Bishop Guertin High in the first wildcard game to secure their spot.

Playing for Prospect Mountain High were captain and 11th grader Loralie Chase, 11th grader Liam Conway, 10th grader Jude Dumond and 9th grader Lucas Lund. The team alternates are 9th graders Kira Campanile and Kaydens Roy-Bennett. The team is coached by social studies teacher Amanda Vanderlinde. Prospect Mountain enrolls 496 students from Alton and Barnstead.

When asked what Prospect Mountain High team's biggest strength was, coach Amanda Vanderlinde stressed their communication.

"They work really well together as a team, they're so respectful of each other, it's not just something they do after school they really care about each other," said Vanderlinde.

The Prospect Mountain High team is stacked with underclassmen; team captain Loralie Chase's specialty is math and history.

"We work together as a team trying to keep that sportsmanship going and be polite, whether we win or lose, we are just trying to really remember that," said Chase. "We're representing our school."

Playing for the Plymouth Regional High were team captain and 12th grader Reagan Sutherland, twelfth graders Norm Sackett and Max Shamansky and 10th grader Yuriy Paul. The team alternates are 12th grader Mason Glew and 10th grader Abe Hankens. The coaches for the team are drafting teacher Jay Fogarty and world languages teacher Troy Harris. Plymouth Regional High School is a three-time Granite State Challenge champion. It enrolls 658 students from Plymouth, Ashland, Holderness, Campton, Rumney, Wentworth, Warren, Ellsworth, Waterville Valley and Thornton.

In the hour-long trip to the New Hampshire studios in Durham, Plymouth team captain Reagan Sutherland said, "We did some practice questions in the van. It was a lot of

VanScoy-Giessler earns NHTA honors for Village Players role

WOLFEBORO — The Village Players were thrilled as one of their own took home a trophy from the New Hampshire Theatre Awards held at the Capitol Center in Concord Feb. 1. Phoebe VanScoy-Giessler won the award for "Outstanding Performance in a Leading Role—Community Production" for her exceptional portrayal of Vivian Bearing, PhD, in the Village Players' production of "Wit." VanScoy-Giessler took on the challenging role of a professor of 17th century poetry battling advanced ovarian cancer. While the subject matter was heavy, she brought moments of humor and insight to the performance, drawing laughter from the audience as Vivian navigated her treatment, life, and reflected on intellectualism and the power of kindness.

The Village Players also had semifinalists in three other categories: Outstanding Community Production of a Play, "Wit," Outstanding Direction of a Community Production of a Play, Michaela Andruzzi, "Wit;" and Outstanding Scenic Design in a Community Production, Jay Sydow, "Wit."

The awards ceremony marked the culmi-fun, and we just tried to create a positive atmosphere going into every match so we're in a good spot mentally."

Plymouth Regional High coach Jay Fogarty is excited to be coaching his well-seasoned team.

"I know that across-the-board they play well together and they've been playing together for a long time, and I think one of the nice advantages when you've been playing together for a long time is they know their own strikes and weaknesses," said Fogarty.

growth of New Hampshire's theater organizations and celebrating the impact of the local performing arts community.

The Village Players produce three to five full-length shows each year, including a musical in the fall. Scholarships are also offered each year to students who express an interest in theater arts and plan to continue their participation in one form or another. The group welcomes new members and supporters at any time. Onstage, backstage, or in the audience, the Village Players have lots of fun bringing theater to Wolfeboro. NORTH CONWAY — The Gilford Nordic ski team traveled to North Conway on Saturday for the second New Hampshire Coaches Series race, this time a classical race on the trails at Whitaker Woods.

The Coaches Series races include all high school and middle school

Nordic skiers from across the state, with hundreds of skiers taking part.

PLYMOUTH — It was kind of a weird day for the Prospect Mountain indoor track boys on Saturday. The Division II State Meet was originally scheduled for Sunday morning but had to be moved to Saturday afternoon to the impending snowstorm.

Parker Wood had to throw the shot put in the first event of the day but the only other event that the Timber Wolves were competing in, the 4X200-meter relay, came at the end of the day. So there was much waiting around.

Wood took care of business early on, as he finished in fourth place in the shot put with a toss of 45 feet, 9.75 inches

At the end of the day, he joined Dante Scarpa, Matthew Whelan and Blake Snell in running the 4X200-meter relay, finishing in 11th place overall in a time of 1:45.01.

Prospect boys edged by Newfound

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

Sports Editor

ALTON — It was back and forth all night as the Newfound hoop boys visited Prospect Mountain on Friday, Feb. 7. In the end, the Bears got six of the final seven points of the game to hold on for a 60-52 win over the Timber Wolves.

Newfound got on the board first, with Jayden Belyea and Ty Belyea getting a hoop and a basket, respectively, to start the game. Shaun McAneney answered for the Timber Wolves with a hoop and a three-pointer to tie things at five before Jayden Belyea hit two free throws at the other end. Jacob Luscomb put back a rebound for the Timber Wolves to pull them even at seven.

Jayden Belyea hit a hoop and then Calvin Colby connected from downtown to push the Newfound lead to 12-7. After a McAneney hoop, Connor Hemmingway connected for the Bears and Joe Deane drilled a three-pointer for the Timber Wolves. Hemmingway got the final basket of the quarter and Newfound's lead was 16-12 after one.

A pair of McAneney three-pointers started the second quarter for the hosts, sandwiched around a bucket from Brayden Jenkins at the other end of the court. Ty Belyea put back a rebound and drained another hoop as the Bears pushed the lead to 22-18.

Prospect got another basket from Luscomb by Ty Belyea answered for the Bears. An Anthony Zamarripa three-pointer cut the lead to just one. Ty Belyea connected again and a Jenkins three-pointer opened the lead to 29-23 before Colby Whitehouse hit a free throw for the Timber Wolves to close out the quarter and Newfound had the 29-24 lead at the halftime break.

Jenkins connected on a three-pointer and Colby hit two free throws as the Bears got the first seven points of the second half. McAneney answered with a hoop and then came up with a steal that Whitehouse finished off to cut the lead to 34-28. Colby got a hoop for the Bears but a pair of Luscomb putbacks sandwiched around a Deane three-pointer pulled the Timber Wolves to within one at 36-35.

Jenkins hit a hoop to get the Bears back on the board and Jayden Belyea drilled a three-pointer and a free throw to give Newfound the 42-35 lead. Another Deane three cut the lead to four but Ty Belyea put back a rebound at the other end. Luscomb then hit from downtown to close out the third quarter, cutting the Newfound lead to 44-41 heading to the final eight minutes.

Luscomb got Prospect on the board to start the fourth quarter but Colby answered for the Bears. Trey Everett drilled a three-pointer for the Timber Wolves, tying the game at 46 less than a minute into the quarter. Jenkins followed with a three-pointer and a hoop as Newfound pushed the lead to 51-46.

McAneney came back with a basket and after Jayden Belyea hit a free throw, Jenkins hit another hoop for the six-point lead. A McAneney three-pointer cut the lead to three again, but that was as close as the Timber Wolves got, as Ty and Jayden Belyea each hit hoops and Daniel Sherkanowski added a hoop to close out the game, with a McAneney free throw mixed in for the 60-52 final score.

Jenkins led the charge for the Bears with 17 points while Ty and Jayden Belyea each finished with 14 points. McAneney led the Timber Wolves with 21 points while Jacob Luscomb added 13 points.

The Bears wrap up the regular season today, Feb. 13, at Inter-Lakes at 6 p.m.

The Timber Wolves also wrap up the regular season today, Feb. 13, at home against White Mountains Regional at 6 p.m.

Registration open for Mount Washington Road Race

PINKHAM NOTCH — As the snow falls in the Northeast, runners can look forward to the opening of the random selection registration for the 64th Delta Dental Mt. Washington Road Race. Random selection registration opened Feb. 10 and will be open until Feb. 24 at 11:59 p.m. Random selection registrants can register individually or as a part of a registration group. Runners registering as a group (up to 15 runners) will either all be selected together or all be turned down by the lottery. Notification of acceptance or rejection by the random selection will be sent via e-mail to each applicant on Feb. 27, and the entry fee, charged only to those selected by the lottery, is $130 not including administrative fees.

care, social services, and dental care to the rural residents of Northern New Hampshire, care that would otherwise require travels of great distances to large regional facilities. The ability to provide high quality care and services locally, services that people in cities and larger towns take for granted, is the mission of Coös County Family Health Services.

Sponsored by Delta Dental, the race ascends the Mt. Washington Auto Road from Pinkham Notch to the 6,288-foot summit of Mt. Washington. Runners can expect to be challenged by the unrelenting grade (averaging 12 percent), Mt. Washington's famously high winds, precipitation, and unpredictable temperatures which makes this race truly one of a kind. Prizes include $1,000 apiece for the first male and female finishers, smaller cash prizes for the next five men and women and the top three male and female masters (over 40), prizes for the first male and female finishers from New Hampshire, and a $5,000 bonus for setting a new course record.

The charity registration, which offers 200 slots on a first come first serve basis, sold out in minutes on Jan. 15. The continued support for this option shows the generous spirit of the Mt. Washington running community, as well as the deep desire to take part in such an incredible event. The charity registration, now in its fourth year, provides financial assistance to the Coös County Family Health Services. The Coös County Family Health Services provides vitally needed health would be almost exactly the same as it is now.

Betsy Kelly said while she supported upgrades to the fields, she had questions about the possible health and environmental impacts of the artificial turf.

"I really question if that is the best route to go," Kelly said. "I don't seriously see a problem with mowing actual grass, and it may be safer and healthier and less detrimental to the environment."

Giovanditto said the benefits outweighed the risks. He said the material is antimicrobial and there would be no risk of exposing the surface to heat because New Hampshire doesn't have the prolonged high heat of other parts of the country.

The town operating budget of $20,922,573 was placed on the warrant as is with no discussion. If this article fails the default budget will be $19,672,468.

Article 10 would raise and appropriate $360,000 to make improvements to the ice rink including a concrete surface with pickleball courts, LED lighting, and accessibility improvements among others. This amount would use $150,000 from a Land and Water Conservation Fund grant and then $80,000 from recreation revolving fund and the remaining $130,000 from the surplus fund balance.

Johnna Davis asked if the government's freeze on funding will impact this plan. Town Administrator Scott Dunn said judges recently decided the freeze on federal funds would not take effect. He also said the money from the Land and Water Conservation Grant comes from offshore oil leases and not taxation.

"All systems seem to indicate in despite of what's going on with the federal government this project should be funded," Dunn said.

ND DELIBERATIVE

“and/or rehabilitation” in the wording of the purpose of the 1772 Meetinghouse CRF to read: for the purpose of restoration and/or rehabilitation of the 1772 Meetinghouse.

Article 19 would change the Capital Improvement Plan Committee to be under the supervision of the Board of Selectmen, rather than the Planning Committee, as originally authorized in 2007.

With Article 20, the Select Board seeks feedback on exploring bond costs for accelerating Town road repairs, a new public safety and public offices building, and completion of the 1772 Meetinghouse.

Article 21 calls to discontinue the Shirley Cemetery Site Improvement CRF, established in 1994, with those funds of $1,928.45 and accumulated interest to be transferred to the General Fund. The article is contingent upon Article 22 passing, which calls for those funds to then be placed in the Shirley Cemetery Improvement CRF, established in 2009.

Regarding Articles 23 and 24, Interim Town Administrator Cecile Chase explained that the Department of Revenue Administration (DRA), which reviews all town warrants, instructed the Town to reference RSA 289:2 regarding cemeteries in Article 23 and then provided the Town with Article 24 to limit how funds from the sale of cemetery lots can be used.

An amendment to Article 23, provided by DRA and passed at the deliberative session, calls for monies from cemetery lot sales to be deposited with the Trustees of the Trust Funds, rather than the general fund, for cemetery maintenance.

Article 24 calls to establish a J.C. Shirley Cemetery Expendable Trust Fund for cemetery maintenance. The original wording named the Board of Selectmen as agents to expend from the fund. After residents questioned why the agents to expend would not be the Cemetery Trustees, Town Counsel Shawn Tanguay noted that legally it could be either. An amendment calling for the Cemetery Trustees to be agents to expend passed, along with another amendment changing any references to “cemeteries” in the wording of the article to “cemetery.”

In addition to all of the articles passing, they are recommended by both the Select Board and the budget committee.

Budget Committee Chairperson Terry Jarvis explained that four articles that underwent a change since the public hearing on the budget held Jan. 15 are noted on the warrant as being recommended by the budget committee with the terminology “by an A to B vote” rather than a count of individual members’ votes.

Residents are urged to consult the Voters’ Guide, available on the Town website at newdurhamnh.gov, on the documents page under election information. Jarvis said the guide explains each article “in plain English” that clarifies the required legal wording in the warrant.

Three town officer spots are unfilled and available for write-in candidates: a Library Trustee with a three-year term, and two three-year positions on the Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Regarding other town officer positions, there are no races.

Running for selectman is Rudy Rosiello; budget committee, Ellen Phillips and Kristyn Bernier; cemetery trustee, Kelli Kostick; library trustee, Patrice Mitchell; planning board for three years, Tim Roukey; planning board for two years, Scott Drummey; town clerk, Alicia Housel; trustee of the trust funds, David Allyn; and zoning board of adjustment for two years, Ken Fanjoy.

Candidates’ Night will be held at the Community Room on Wed., Feb. 19 at 6:30 p.m. and voting will take place at the New Durham School on Tues., March 11 from 7 a.m. – 7 p.m.
