BY JOSHUA SPAULDING

GILFORD — The Gilford boys' basketball team made sure that the Lakes Region Holiday Hoop Tournament championship stayed in the Lakes Region on Sunday, Dec. 28, dispatching interloping Campbell in a hard-fought title game, 47-36 to return to the top of the tournament.

Cooper Perkins and Henry Sleeper hit hoops to open the game and a Mark Uicker three-pointer gave the Golden Eagles a 7-0 advantage before

Alton voters will decide on six proposed zoning amendments

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

ALTON — Town voters will decide on six proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance including some new definitions, conditions for different approvals, and other wording changes.

The Planning Board is proposing six zoning amendments that will be decided on town election day in March. A full listing of the proposed amendments and all the different changes can be found at <https://www.alton.nh.gov/press-release/2025-proposed-zoning-amendments>.

Amendment 1 would add new definitions including the terms “Boathouse,” “Cupola,” “Density,” “Fence, Legal,” “Footprint,” “Front yard,” and “In-kind.” According to the rationale these are terms used frequently in the zoning ordinance and this amendment would properly define them.

Amendment 2 would amend some definitions for the terms “Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU)” and “Seasonal Cabin.” The rationale states that this will expand the existing definitions to better clarify meanings.

The Accessory Dwelling Unit ordinance would have the word “Structurally” to the definition to read, “A separate, independent, accessory, and subordinate dwelling unit either located within an accessory structure on the same property as the primary single-family dwelling or within or structurally attached to the primary single-family dwelling itself.”

The definition of Seasonal Cabin will be changed from a “small residential structure” used during designated summer and winter months. It will be redefined as a structure on a campsite of 400 square feet or less that will be calculated taking the exterior measurements including several exterior elements. It will also be designated as a dwelling for camping for vacation or recreation and not as a permanent dwelling.

Amendment 3 will make corrections to the definitions on “Nonconforming Uses, Structures, and Lots” that will include different wording changes as well as opportunities to seek a special exception. The amendment also includes striking the current wording in Section 320 with different regulations for nonconforming structures and replacing it with new wording.

The rationale states that this will clarify the wording as well as separate nonconforming uses and nonconforming structures. It will also add the option to apply to the Zoning Board for a special exception for different changes as well as require a variance to expand portions of the nonconforming structure in the setback. It will also qualify when a nonconforming lot can be built on without a variance.

Amendment 4 would amend the ordinance on “Manufactured and Pre-Site-Built Housing.” “Pre-Site-Built Housing” will get its own section. Under this section modular and sectional homes will need a minimum width of 20 feet in the Residential and Lakeshore Residential zones and a minimum width of 14 feet in all other zones.

The section on “Manufactured and Pre-Site-Built Housing” will be relabeled as “Manufactured Homes and Park Performance Standards,” striking the standards on pre-built homes. It will also add to the the Cougars were able to get on the board. After the visitors hit a three-pointer, Brendan Baldi connected on two free throws and a bucket to open the lead up to 11-3.

Campbell got another three-pointer but a Baldi three-pointer gave the Golden Eagles a 10-point lead. The Cougars did get the final basket of the first quarter and Gilford had the 16-8 lead after one quarter of play.

The Cougars came back strong defensively in the second half, scoring the first three points on free throws and after Uicker hit a hoop, hit two more baskets to cut the lead to 18-15. Perkins had a free throw to give the Golden Eagles a four-point lead but Campbell hit a hoop and two free throws to close out the first half and sent the game to the break with the score tied at 19.

Emmett Hughes started the second half by putting back a rebound and after a Sleeper hoop added a free throw for the 24-19 lead. Campbell got a pair of buckets but Uicker converted a three-point play and Gilford's lead was 27-23.

Hughes had another free throw sandwiched around a pair of Campbell buckets and then Andrew Kelly came through with a hoop and two free throws to open the lead up to five. After another Campbell score, Baldi got the final points of the quarter and Gilford went

Traffic safety measures coming to Gilford Avenue/Hoyt Road intersection

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

GILFORD — A plan to implement traffic safety measures on Gilford Avenue at the intersection of Hoyt Road are in place with changes including dropping the speed limit and removing a lane.

The town and the New Hampshire Department of Transportation have been discussing possible safety options at the intersection of Hoyt Road, Gunstock Hill Road and Gilford Avenue for several months. The town announced that different safety improvements will be put in place starting this month and running through the spring starting with dropping the speed limit to 45 miles per hour and later this spring reducing the road to one lane.

Town officials have been discussing ongoing traffic issues at the intersection since last summer. Several accidents have occurred at this intersection especially with line-of-sight issues. Public Works with help from the Police and Fire Departments put forth some new recommendations on how to manage those intersections on the town roads and overlapping with the state's right of way. The recommendation was to purchase two solar powered red beacons to go on the state's stop sign. Another was to authorize painting “Stop Ahead” markings on each town road by the stop signs. The third recommendation was to install two signs

Planning work underway on proposed Jones Field renovation

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

ALTON — An effort is underway to put together a feasibility study to renovate the playground at Jones Field and residents are asked to participate in a community survey as part of the process.

The Friends of Alton, NH, Parks and Recreation have been working toward a renovation project on the playground.

On Dec. 14, the group released a mini case executive summary on a possible $300,000 project at the Jones Field Recreation Area. The Friends group is now seeking participation in an online survey that will be used as part of a feasibility study on what should be done with the playground and recreation area.

According to the summary, an audit from the town's insurance company Primex in 2023 indicated several safety issues on the playground. Some of these issues included hardware protrusions that were not covered safely, worn areas that required repainting, and recommended wood chip cushioning.

The report also recommended installing an additional chain link fence along the Merrymeeting River behind Legion Field, which has since been addressed.

As a result of the study parts of the playground were dismantled.

“In addition, the area is not very welcoming, nor handicapped accessible and not properly designed for multi-age use,” read the summary.

Village Players holding auditions Sunday and Monday “Escanaba in da Moonlight” will take the stage in April WOLFEBORO — As a new year begins, the Village Players Theater in Wolfeboro is preparing for a new season of shows, starting with the Jeff Daniels comedy “Escanaba in da Moonlight,” and auditions are taking place this coming weekend as directors Jonathan Flower and Paul Stewart look to assemble the cast for the spring show.

When the Soady clan reunites for the opening day of deer season at the family’s Upper Peninsula camp in Michigan, 35-year-old Reuben Soady brings with him the infamous reputation of being the oldest Soady in the history of the Soadys never to bag a buck. In a hunting story to beat all hunting stories, “Escanaba in da Moonlight” spins a hilarious tale of humor, horror and heart as Reuben goes to any and all lengths to remove himself from the wrong end of the family record book.

The show has roles for five males and a cameo role for one female. Albert Soady is in his early 60s and is the grumpy patriarch of the Soady family. Reuben Soady is in his mid-30s, a vulnerable guy. Remnar Soady is also in his mid-30s, not too bright, a fun-loving, barfly kind of guy. Jimmer Negamane is an ageless character, kind, caring and crazy due to previous alien abduction. Ranger Tom is in his early 40s and represents law enforcement, but is overwhelmed by circumstance. Wolf Moon Dance Soady is in her 30s, Native American, loving and mysterious.

Auditions are Sunday, Jan. 12, at 2 p.m. and Monday, Jan. 13, at 6:30 p.m. at the Village Players Theater, located at 51 Glendon St. in downtown Wolfeboro. Performances of the show will take place the first two weekends of April and rehearsals will be Sunday afternoons and Wednesday evenings, with additional days possible if needed as production gets closer.

Local community and mental health centers receive operating support from Endowment for Health REGION — New Hampshire community health centers and community mental health centers will receive a total of $1,050,000 to provide care and services to Granite Staters. With support from the Endowment for Health, 21 centers will each receive a one-time $50,000 operating grant.

“These grants come at a time when the financial fragility of community health centers and mental health centers pose significant challenges to our communities,” says Tess Kuenning, President and CEO at Bi-State Primary Care Association. “This infusion of resources will support comprehensive primary care, mental and behavioral health, dental, and other essential primary care services throughout New Hampshire.”

“These grants will support center capacity, particularly in the area of workforce,” adds Roland Lamy, Executive Director of the New Hampshire Community Behavioral Health Association. “A lack of mental health professionals makes it difficult for patients to access mental health services. These operating grants will help address these pressing needs.”

Grantees include:

- Ammonoosuc Community Health Services - Franconia, Littleton, Warren, Whitefield, Woodsville
- Coos County Family Health Services - Berlin, Gorham, Lancaster, Colebrook
- HealthFirst Family Care Center - Franklin, Laconia, Canaan
- Lakes Region Mental Health Center - Laconia
- Mid-State Health Center - Bristol, Plymouth
- Northern Human Services - Conway
- White Mountain Community Health Center - Conway

For nearly 60 years, Community Health Centers (CHCs) have provided comprehensive primary and preventive care services in medically underserved regions. CHCs offer services to all in their service areas, regardless of ability to pay. Every CHC is unique, tailoring programs and services to the needs of their communities. Collaborations with community partners allow CHCs to go above and beyond in delivering high-quality primary care. In many communities, CHCs are the only comprehensive, patient-centered medical home open to all patients without restrictions, especially underinsured and Medicaid patients.” CHCs also yield savings to the health care system by helping to keep the population healthy through cost-effective primary care services.

Ten community mental health centers (CMHCs) throughout New Hampshire serve individuals in our state who are living with – and recovering from – mental illness and emotional disorders. This network of mental health centers provides ongoing outpatient behavioral health services and emergency behavioral health services in each of their regions to New Hampshire residents, both children and adults.

Both the CHCs and CMHCs play a critical role for underserved populations in New Hampshire.

In 2023, New Hampshire CHCs served more than 100,000 Granite Staters across 94 sites, in every county:

- Over 19,500 Children
- 2,691 Veterans
- 20 percent of patients were older adults
- 28,726 (one in six) New Hampshire Medicaid enrollees; 31 percent of an FQHC’s payer mix is Medicaid
- 4,982 patients experiencing homelessness
- 13,168 (one in five) NH uninsured patients
- 611 migrant/seasonal agricultural workers and dependents

In 2023, New Hampshire Community Mental Health Centers (CMHCs) served over 57,000 individuals with supportive services in their respective communities across the Granite State. The CMHCs provide a variety of evidence-based practices including but not limited to Assertive Community Treatment and Supportive Employment. The CMHCs provide a wide variety of community-based services including Emergency Services/ Rapid Response/ Mobile Crisis Response Team; telehealth appointments; in-person care; housing services; and School Aged Children Support Services. The CMHC system is heavily dependent on Medicare revenue, with 68% of revenues in fiscal year 2023 coming from services provided to Medicaid enrollees.

Powerhouse announces auditions for big spring musical

LACONIA — Powerhouse Theatre Collaborative, the resident theatre company of the Colonial Theatre, is announcing auditions for its spring musical - Disney’s “The Hunchback of Notre Dame.” This epic musical filled with soaring music and creative staging is one of Powerhouse’s most challenging undertakings yet, and auditions are open to adults 18+ who are experienced and confident choral singers and actors.

Based on the Victor Hugo novel and the Disney movie, the musical features stirring music by the dynamic team of Alan Menken and Stephen Schwartz and a book by Peter Parnell. The cast calls for a troupe of Storytellers as well as a choir. Powerhouse’s production is inspired by the 2019 Notre Dame fire, and the choir will represent the 2019 people of Paris, who sang “Ave Maria” while the cathedral burned. They are also looking for a small group of talented dancers to represent the fire.

The production will be directed by Bryan Halperin, with vocal direction by Jillian Spring and Laura Iwaskiewicz and choreography by Meg King, who will also be assistant directing. The production team is filled with Powerhouse veterans excited to bring this story to life.

Says Halperin, “This has been one of the titles most requested by our participants and we are excited to tackle this ambitious project. We are looking for talented singers/dancers/movers to come out and join this unique staging of this epic adventure. Our group has a lot of regulars but we are always excited to welcome newcomers to the Powerhouse family too - if you are up for a musical challenge, come get involved!”

Leave the phone 'til last in the morning

Most weeks, our Editorial space is typically something our staff is curious about. While the subject of cell phone and screen addiction comes up often, this week, there was a noticeable shift in our view on the topic after receiving a wise tip.

That tip was to ignore your phone, don't even look at it, until 30 minutes after you wake up. In that time, sit down, have your morning coffee and read a book. When you start to scroll on your phone just after waking up, you put yourself into what's called a passive scrolling phase, which can derail your entire day and ward off productivity.

A few days into following this new advice, and there is a noticeable sense of comfort and relaxation that can carry you throughout your day. It's like taking 30 minutes every morning to get back to the basics and recall simpler times.

Most people feel like they are in control of their phone use, but are you? How can you determine if you have a phone addiction, or are just part of the modern era grind? We've said it before, and we'll say it again, nothing beats the days of watching Jeopardy uninterrupted, without the pressure of responding to a ding from your phone.

In 2011, only 35 percent of the population owned smart-phones, now 81 percent do. It is our main form of communication, so much so that now there is a term called nomophobia, or the fear of going without your phone.

Excessive cell phone use is a huge problem for many. As far as addiction goes, some experts say the dopamine connection the phone offers can be linked to something akin to a drug addiction. The triggering of that chemical in your brain, reinforces compulsive behavior. When we can't predict when we will receive a text or a "like" on social media, we check our phones more often.

Adolescents are more vulnerable to this problem than any other age group. Excessive use in that age group is such an issue that most teenagers never turn off their phones. Experts say that the younger a child has access to a phone, the sooner the problems begin. Problematic cell phone use is linked to low self esteem, low impulse control, depression and anxiety.

Signs you may have a phone addiction could be that you reach for your phone if you're bored, you feel anxious or upset if you can't get to your phone, you wake throughout the night to check it, or your phone has caused you to get into an accident. Other signs could be that you spend most of your waking hours on your phone, and that it interferes with personal relationships or work.

When trying to focus on work, or any task, you are significantly disrupted and your concentration is thrown off.

Ways to break the addiction in order to fix your relationships, your health and other responsibilities include figuring out if there is a larger issue as to why you're using your phone so much. Are you avoiding something else bigger? Resolving the larger issue at hand, could cause a decrease in phone use.

Change your settings to remove notifications and other alerts, set your screen to dark mode at night, keep your phone out of sight and never charge it in your bedroom. After a certain time, set your phone up so that only emergency contacts can get through to you, everyone else can wait. Try replacing games on your phone with real in person games, or develop a hobby you've been wanting to try. Too much cell phone use can develop into a loss of control.

There have been some experiments where people have gone two days without their phones. Some people choose to give up their phones all together, while others make significant changes to reduce use.

The potential risk of depression, insomnia and lack of productivity just isn't worth it. Think back to pre cell phone times. While there are safety benefits to having a phone, we don't need to be connected 24/7, and we don't need to respond or answer our phones just because they ding.

Your responsibility is to yourself and it's wild how much you can get done if you just unplug. Take a breather, shut your phone completely off for 15 minutes and see how you feel. If you do try this trick, send us an email and let us know what you find.

Card carrying Lions

The Laconia/Gilford Lions Club distributed grocery gift cards to underserved area residents this holiday season. The project was in place of the Club's usual annual Christmas Baskets effort. "The baskets are a time and energy intensive effort, and due to unanticipated circumstances, we were not able to organize it this year," explained Club Secretary Lori Chandler. "This was a good alternative." Cards obtained at Vista Supermarket were given out to area faith groups which then passed them on to recipients. Faith groups involved included the Lakes Region Vineyard Church in Lakeport, the Congregational Church of Laconia and the Unitarian/Universalist congregation of Laconia. Twenty three cards, each worth $100 in groceries, were distributed. Pictured: Bill Chandler, Pastor Richard AuCoin of the Lakes Region Vineyard Church and Matt Soza.

LETTERS FROM EDWIN

It happens

Have you ever had one of these days? It started out pretty well. I remembered to put my oatmeal on the wood stove last night before I went to bed last night so it was already done this morning. Everything worked out so well that I exited the house about five minutes earlier than usual.

I hopped in the truck and headed to the mountain as I had a lesson today. About three quarters of the way there, I felt the power steering stop working. I glanced over to check for the container sitting on the passenger compartments floor. It was still there, but the normal squishy pump noise wasn't.

Before turning off the highway, the alternator light came on. It looked like a belt had gone. If the temp goes up it will validate my prognosis. After taking the corner the temp gauge shot up to "H" and I quickly found a place to park and turned off the motor.

There was really no reason to actually look at the problem, but I wanted to see if I could possibly fix it. No way. There wasn't even space enough to reach my hand in. The repair person would need to get it from underneath. Not me.

The ramp truck took an hour and a half to get there. It was getting pretty cold in the cab by that time. It was a quick pick up, and soon, we were off to my mechanic. It was nice to be in a heated passenger compartment.

In the meantime, I had found out that my lesson wasn't till two o'clock. I had plenty of time to pick up another car and get back to the mountain. The driver dropped me off at my house and I threw my lunch bag and computer into my car. Taking the key out and putting it in the ignition, I turned it and there was nothing. No dash lights or anything. So I tried it again. Nope, the car is dead. No juice.

I got another car and pulled it up to jump my car. Where were the cables? None in the new car. There should have been a set in mine, but they would be in the spare compartment, under all my sound equipment. I didn't want to clean it all out. Grabbing a battery charger I set it to slow charge, put my stuff in the other car and headed to the mountain.

When my lesson showed up, there were two girls and their mother. I looked down at the little girl's shoes and saw that she had alpine boots on. Her sister was supposed to be taking the lesson. Great! While walking out with her, I looked down to see that her boots were skate boots. I'm an introductory to classic ski instructor. I had skate lessons years ago, but I could never claim to be adept at it. Plus, it's too much exercise, way too much of a cardio workout. I hate to say it, but realistically, I'm 72, I can't keep up with a high school girl.

We got out on the snow, and I admitted my deficiencies and we agreed to just ski. She was happy to be

NOTES FROM WINDY HOLLOW

The broken budget

BY VIVIAN LEE DION

Contributing Writer

My little green budget book was used for many decades before computers and Excel spread sheets became the delight of households. When I came across my old budget book I noticed various envelopes were marked with different categories such as insurance, mortgage, groceries, and extras. To my amazement I found six two dollar bills in the envelope marked extra expenses. Guess we saved a little too much for that category. Imagine that little green book with various envelopes was over fifty years old. With credit cards, automatic bill pay from the computer and the volume of dollars spent monthly managing a household I don't think families could use a little green budget book any more

When I was ten years old my parents bought a waterfront lot in Meredith. It is a crystal clear lake known as Lake Pemigewasset. It borders both the towns of Meredith and New Hampton. My computer research explains, "The western portion of the lake contains a large uninhabited island. The island is edged with edible blueberries and boasts some rather large, old trees inland. It is named Kelley Island on state Fish and Game Department maps but is often referred to as Blueberry Island." The most ironic thing is that my parents named their little cottage, The Broken Budget. I never asked what a budget was. I only knew my parents were frugal. They watched every penny and this must have been a big expense for them.

My parents have passed on. How I wish I had asked more questions such as, "How did you know to build a cottage? Did you have any help? Where did you buy your lumber? All I can remember is that I wanted to help. Dad said, "Okay." After the floor to the cottage was complete he brought over a large Maxwell House coffee can full of nails. He explained that he was running low on nails and wanted to save money. So my job was to dump all the nails out, straighten them plus sort the lot into piles of different sizes. He said it was an important job because if all the crooked nails were straightened he could use them to build the cottage. It took several days. Now the task was done. Finally on a hot summer's day I swam in the cool refreshing lake. How I loved swimming at the lake.

Last September, I wanted to see the little cottage that was built in 1956. I heard that many of the old camps were being torn down. They were replaced by large homes and some were even full time residences. After parking on the road that surrounded the lake I walked down a gentle slope to the camp. To my delight the same little cottage was there. It was painted a welcoming gray with white trimmed windows and door. The porch had been extended nearly the length of the front side and several windows boxes were filled with bright pink petunias. I knocked on the door but no one was home. I must say my heart filled with pride seeing the attractive upkeep of the cottage. I took several pictures and walked to the waterfront when I noticed two turquoise old fashioned metal chairs facing the water. Deep in my heart I knew the owners cherished their property. I was very happy the way things turned out and my parents would have been very proud of the cottage known as "The Broken Budget".

"It's the heart of the place that captures the memories for a lifetime."

Going out of Town

A Merry Boston Christmas

BY ERIN PLUMMER
mnews@salmonpress.news

If anyone is interested in a little road trip on Christmas to a fun environment with a few open businesses and plenty of holiday lights, I recommend checking out Boston. I have found that Boston becomes a very different city on Christmas night than it usually is, with busy train cars and sidewalks that are a lot less busy matched with a lot of holiday lights everywhere. For a few years I have traveled south after a family gathering to check out Christmas in Boston. This year I was back to experience the empty streets, a holiday dinner in busy Chinatown, and plenty of lights.

The first time I ever went to Boston for Christmas was around 2018, and it was completely on a whim. Usually, I spend Christmas day with my parents opening presents, enjoying a home cooked meal, and just hanging out. By the time I leave their house, it's usually early evening, and I have the choice of going back home or maybe going for a drive. One night, I found myself restless and not ready to go home, deciding to check out what Boston was like on Christmas. I found a normally bustling city that was extremely quiet, which felt weird and fun at the same time. The city had become one big liminal space, and the quiet matched with the colorful lights around the Common to create a fun Christmas atmosphere. I eventually found my way to Copley Place and found an Asian hot pot restaurant called Shabu Maru. This was my first time experiencing hot pot, and I fell in love with it. Sadly, Shabu Maru closed a few years ago, and the storefront by the Westin is still vacant.

I've done this a few more years. It's not really a tradition, but more of an option that might become a tradition. This year was one of those years where I got out and felt the pull of the city. A couple hours later, I parked at Alewife Station and went downstairs to the trains. There were a few people passing through the lobby, but it was a lot quieter than I was used to even late at night. I walked into an empty train car, which felt nice but weird. A couple people took seats on snow as there isn't any anywhere around here. We proceeded to go around the loop, she lapped me a number of times. When I had enough, I bid her good by and told her that she could just ski for the rest of the day. She happily headed off onto the snow, I returned to the shack.

My car got used last weekend for the gig. I keep track of my mileage and after a gig, I need to write it down. The interior lights in this car are useless. The ones that come on when opening the door are way in back of the skylight and around the car, but it was empty by comparison. I got out at Charles/MGH Station on the Longfellow Bridge and walked to the street to walk down Charles Street in Beacon Hill.

I was now fully reminded how quiet this city gets at Christmas. Charles Street has incredibly narrow sidewalks, and walking becomes a game of when to get off the sidewalk and move your body to the side to avoid crashing into people. This time, however, there was little shuffling around and at time I had the whole sidewalk to myself.

I got to Boston Common and saw a little winter wonderland. A lot of the trees in the Common, especially the ones around the perimeter, have colorful lights and create a very Christmas-y environment. Mother Nature also had a hand in the decoration too because Boston was actually having a white Christmas. The decorated trees mixed with the carpet of white to create a beautiful environment.

I walked to the other don't light the front seat. In order see my book, I put on the overhead map light which doesn't shut off when the key is off. I suspected that this was the cause of the dead battery.

When I got back from the mountain, I looked into the car to see that the map light side of the Common by Tremont Street and saw the city's Christmas tree. There is a long tradition that Boston's Christmas tree comes from the province of Nova Scotia to thank the city for its assistance after the Halifax Explosion of 1911. The Christmas tree was a popular spot on Christmas night. It was a festive atmosphere with a lot of families, friends, and couples hanging out by the tree and taking pictures with it. I imagined that a lot of people were doing exactly what I was doing: going for a nice excursion after a family holiday gathering.

My next stop was an area that had only recently dawned on me would have a lot of businesses open, especially those involving a tasty dinner: Chinatown. As I expected, practically every business in Chinatown save for a few were open. Even the bakeries were open, so I had to stop in and get a collection of sweet breads. One thing I should have expected was that I wasn't the only person to have the idea of going to Chinatown for a was indeed still on. Another successful diagnosis. I really need to remember to turn it off. This wasn't the first time. The battery easily runs the light for a day, but a week is another story.

holiday dinner. I walked into the neighborhood to see it packed with people; I had never seen it so busy before. I guess I figured out where everyone else in Boston went that night. A packed Chinatown obviously meant picked restaurants with long waiting lines. While this was annoying for my now empty stomach, I can only imagine how great this is for all the small, family run restaurants here.

I passed by the famous Empire Garden and saw it wasn't too busy, so I walked in and was happy to be seated in the wide dining room. The restaurant is in a former theater and the dining room is in the main theater with plenty of gold details on the ceiling and elaborate wallpaper. I've been to Empire Garden a few times, though usually the dining room was hosing different private events, and I was seated in a smaller dining room upstairs. This time, that full dining room was open, and few people were seated around the room.

I was surprised at how few people were here, but I was happy this place was available and a lot quieter. I got some lovely scallion pancakes along with some cashew shrimp with white rice and gleefully chowed down. I walked out with leftovers that gave me dinner for a few nights. I navigated out of the crowds and found the Chinatown Station for my final stop of the night. I went down the Orange Line and exited at Back Bay, walking down the causeway right into the Mall at Copley Place. The Christmas decorations at Copley place are gorgeous with some huge, brightly lit wreaths and some lit reindeer sculptures. Because Copley Place is a mall with a lot of higher end shops, you can walk past Tiffany & Co. and see those "decorations bought at Tiffany."

I went through the upper lobby of the Marriott and crossed the skybridge into the Prudential Center. The tower was lit red and green for Christmas and all the huge ornaments were still in the rafters. I look forward to seeing those glittery golden balls and multipoint stars on the ceilings that are probably the size of a small shed. Quite a few people were walking around the hallways, probably taking a post-Christmas stroll.

I left by the Boylston Street entrance and into the small courtyard in front of the newer building at 888 Boylston St. The trees around the courtyard were covered in bright white lights, creating for one more holiday sight framed by snow.

I walked a little further down Boylston Street, but by now it was getting a little colder and it was close to 9 p.m. I decided to call it a night and walked down to Arlington Station to take the trains back to Alewife. I savored how quiet the cars were and by the time I got to Alewife I was in fact the last person on the train.

I drove back north, savoring some quiet highways and snowy scenery the whole drive back home. I got home shortly after midnight when Christmas officially came to an end.

If anyone has the time or the energy, I recommend checking out Boston on Christmas if only to see what it's like in the city that day. Granted, this is the largest city I've been to on Christmas, and I'm sure some bigger cities might be grander. Still, experiencing a major city on Christmas is a fascinating experience with quiet streets, a lot of holiday lights, and some fun surprises.

3 short-term fitness goals that can lead to long-term success

As New Year's Day 2024 approached, millions of individuals were preparing to make changes they hoped would improve their fitness. In a Forbes Health/One Poll survey of 1,000 adults in the months leading up to the start of 2024, nearly half (48 percent) of respondents indicated improving their physical fitness would be a top priority over the course of the new year.

Fitness-based resolutions are popular every year, but people who aspire to make such changes recognize how difficult it can be to achieve them. In fact, the Forbes Health/One Poll survey found that roughly 44 percent of respondents indicated their resolutions flamed out at the two- or three-month marker. Though there's no one-size-fits-all strategy for sticking with and ultimately achieving a resolution, identifying short-term goals that can help people stay motivated can lead to long-term progress. Individuals bodies for more strenuous activity, which is a transition many people aspire to make when setting long-term fitness goals. A daily one-mile walk won't require a significant commitment of time, but it can help acclimate the body to routine exercise. As the effects of a daily walk begin to take hold, individuals may find it easier to engage in more strenuous physical activities, making this an ideal stepping stone on the way to achieving long-term fitness goals.

Short-term goals can help people remain motivated as they pursue more substantial goals that take longer to achieve. Such an approach can be especially useful for individuals resolving to improve their physical fitness at the start of a new year.

who want to improve their physical fitness can consider these three short-term goals and use them as measuring sticks as they pursue more long-term objectives.

1. Aspire for incremental weight loss. Weight loss goals were the fourth most popular New Year's resolution for 2024 among participants in the Forbes Health/One Poll survey. Though that survey separated fitness goals from weight loss goals, the two are certainly linked. Individuals who aspire to lose 10 pounds undoubtedly recognize that such a goal cannot be achieved overnight, so why not aspire to lose small amounts of weight at predetermined intervals? For example, if the end goal is losing 10 lbs., aim to lose two pounds by the end of January. Incremental progress can motivate individuals to stay the course and ultimately propel them toward achieving a more substantial, long-term goal.

2. Exercise for a predetermined number of days each week. Another way to gradually build toward achieving long-term fitness goals is to establish monthly minimum exercise sessions. Individuals accustomed to a sedentary lifestyle can resolve to exercise three days per week in the first month of their resolution, and then increase that by a day in the second month. A consistent schedule when designing this goal is imperative, which is why it can make more sense to plan for three days per week as opposed to 12 days per month.

3. Resolve to walk a mile per day. Walking is an accessible cardiovascular activity that can have a profound effect on overall health. Walking also can help condition sedentary individuals'

Tips to reduce nutrient loss while cooking

It's not unheard of for people to turn over a healthy leaf at the start of a new year. After a holiday season filled with social engagements and diet-busting meals, it's no surprise many celebrants view January as a time to right the dietary ship.

Home cooking provides an opportunity for people to gain greater control over what they eat, and it's well known that certain methods of cooking are healthier than others. But Healthline notes that nutrient content is often altered during cooking. For example, a 2017 study published in the journal Food Science and Biotechnology noted that vitamin C is a water-soluble and temperature-sensitive vitamin, which means it is easily degraded during cooking. As a result, researchers behind the study noted that elevated temperatures and long cooking times have been found to cause substantial losses of vitamin C.

Such knowledge is undoubtedly useful, but individuals may wonder what they can do to ensure the meals they prepare remain as nutritious as possible, even after they've been cooked. When preparing meals, individuals looking to maximize the nutritional value of each meal can consider these tips.

- Consume the liquid left after cooking vegetables. It's commonplace to drain pots and pans of water after using them to cook vegetables. However, when doing so, individuals might literally be pouring nutrients down the drain. In a 2016 interview with CNN, registered dietitian and author Elaine Magee noted that boiling vegetables

Bulldogs sweep their way through Brady Sullivan Christmas Tournament

The Belmont-Gilford and Monadnock-Fall Mountain-Conant hockey teams pose for a photo following the conclusion of the Brady Sullivan Tournament in Laconia on Dec. 28.

LACONIA — The Belmont-Gilford hockey team captured the Brady Sullivan Christmas Tournament at Merrill Fay Arena in the days following Christmas, cruising to wins over Kearsarge-Plymouth (5-0) and Laconia-Winnisquam-Inter-Lakes (6-0) before defeating Monadnock-Fall Mountain-Conant in the championship game on Saturday, Dec. 28.

The Mountaineers entered the tournament late as a replacement for Pembroke-Campbell, who backed out of the tournament, so in the championship game, the Mountaineers were without their normal goalie.

Ben Girard had a couple of early chances that were denied and Cameron McClary had a shot stopped as well. The Bulldogs got on the board with 12:52 to go, with McClary putting the puck home on an assist from Ethan Ellingson for the 1-0 lead.

Less than a minute later, Jaxson Embree doubled the lead with the team's second goal, with Brayden Mercier and Nathan Gerbig picking up the assists. And just more than a minute later, Aiden Stafford took a feed from Evan Guerin to give the Bulldogs a 3-0 lead with less than five minutes gone in the game.

Mercier and Sean Ellis had bids denied by the Mountaineer goalie and Carson McGreevy made a couple of saves in the Bulldog net as well. McClary and Girard combined on a chance that went wide of the net and Ellingson also had a shot go wide. McGreevy made a nice poke check on a Monadnock chance and then made another save on a chance.

With 3:43 to go in the first period, Embree picked up his second goal of the game on an assist from Mercier for the 4-0 lead and the Bulldogs took a penalty with 3:20 to go in the period. The Bulldogs got a short-handed goal with 2:41 to go in the first, with Max Ryder delivering the tally for the 5-0 lead. McGreevy made a couple more saves before the power play ended.

The Bulldogs got the final goal of the first period with 1:07 to go, with Embree completing the hat trick with Gerbig getting the assist as the Bulldogs took the 6-0 lead to the second period.

The Mountaineers had an early chance go wide of the net and then McGreevy made a couple more saves. Alex Rowley and Thomas Murphy combined on a chance and Ethan Girard had a chance denied. Jaxen Lien and Alex Bittle combined on a chance that was denied and Lien had a chance stopped as well.

save before the game went to halftime with the Bulldogs up 7-0.

Nineteen seconds into the second half of the second period, Declan Hackett got the eighth goal of the game for the Bulldogs on an assist from Colton Byars. McGreevy made a trio of solid saves and Will Hazelton and Murphy combined on a chance at the other end. Ellingson had a couple of bids denied and the game went to the third with Belmont-Gilford up 8-0.

Murphy and Hazelton got in close on another bid and Tyler Mull was stopped on a chance as well. The Bulldogs got a power play with 10:17 to go but took their own penalty a little more than a minute later to nullify the remainder of the power play. McGreevy made a couple of saves in the Bulldog net and Mull had a chance denied. Belmont-Gilford took another penalty but did a good job killing it off, with Rowley getting a nice clear and McGreevy stopping the Mountaineer chances and the game wrapped up with the Bulldogs taking the tournament title by an 8-0 score.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to host Pembroke-Campbell on Saturday, Jan. 11, at 3:45 p.m. and will take on Laconia-Winnisquam-Inter-Lakes at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 15.

Sachems rally past Golden Eagles in tourney finals

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

GILFORD — In a rematch of last year's holiday tournament championship game, the Gilford girls' basketball team took a halftime lead only to see the defending champions from Laconia come back with a strong second half to eventually take the 53-47 win.

Laconia scored first before Gilford got a free throw from Gracey LeBlanc and a hoop from Grace Kelly off an Olivia Keenan steal for the 3-2 lead. A rebound and basket from Skye Maltais upped the lead to 5-2 before the Sachems hit two hoops in a row to take the lead back.

After Kelly hit a hoop, the Sachems answered with their own basket, but Kelly drained a three before the end of the quarter and Gilford had the 10-8 lead after one quarter of play.

Laconia got a free throw to start the second quarter before Kelly connected for a hoop. A Sachem three tied the game at 12, but Maltais answered with a bucket to give the Golden Eagles the lead back.

The Sachems then drained consecutive baskets to go up by two points only to see Maltais, Lianna Keenan and Kelly all hit buckets for the Golden Eagles to propel them into the lead. Laconia got a free throw and a hoop to close out the first half, but Gilford had the 20-19 lead at the break.

The visitors opened the second half with a hoop and a three-pointer to take a four-point lead before Lianna Keenan drained a pair of free throws. After another Laconia hoop, Maltais connected on one from the line to make it 26-23. The Sachems then hit a hoop and converted a three-point play to take the 31-23 lead.

Olivia Keenan came back with a pair of buckets, the second coming off a Maltais steal and after the Sachems got another hoop, Gracey LeBlanc connected for the Golden Eagles. Laconia converted a three-point play but baskets from Emma Horton and LeBlanc cut the lead to three at 36-33. Laconia drilled a three to close out the third quarter and took the 39-33 advantage to the final eight minutes of the game.

Olivia Keenan opened the fourth quarter with two hoops and a free throw, cutting the lead to 39-38 just minutes into the frame. However, Laconia answered with a three-pointer and two more hoops to stretch the lead back to eight.

A trio of LeBlanc free throws and a hoop from Grace Scott allowed the Golden Eagle to close the gap to 46-43 with just less than three minutes to play, but again the Sachems had an answer, connecting on a basket.

Olivia Keenan hit two more free throws to again get the deficit to just three and after a Laconia free throw, Kelly cut the deficit to 49-47 with a hoop with 1:05 to play. As they had most of the game, the Sachems had an answer, drilling another three-pointer and adding a free throw as they closed out the 53-47 win to claim the tournament championship.

Kelly finished with 13 points and Olivia Keenan finished with 11, earning them both All-Tournament honors.

The Golden Eagles are slated to return to action on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at Hopkinton at 7 p.m.

WOLFEBORO — Before heading off to the holiday break, the Kingswood-Prospect Mountain girls' hockey team welcomed Berlin-Gorham-Kennett to Wolfeboro's Pop Whalen Arena for a Saturday night tilt on Dec. 21.

The Knightwolves scored four goals in the third period to turn a 3-0 battle into a 7-0 romp over their rivals from the north.

"That was good," said Knightwolves coach Aaron House. "To beat a team from a community that rich in hockey, they go pretty hard and they don't go away."

"We stuck to the game plan and fortunately it worked out," he continued. "They could've beat us 8-7, but Aliyah (Arsenault) played great in goal."

Lexxy Zipf had an early chance for the Mountaineers and Marina Santy also had a shot denied by Arsenault. Kingswood came back with a look from Hadley Aucoin and Emma Ouellette and Jenny Baldwin had shots denied by BGK goalie Riley Hout. Jenna Sykes also sent a shot wide for the Knightwolves and Cassidy Libby got in close with a chance as well.

The Mountaineers came back with a bid from Brooklyn Gagne that went wide of the net and Adelle Harrington blocked another Gagne shot. Willow Brouillette had a shot denied by Arsenault and Irelyn Bell got in close with a bid as well. Gagne sent another shot wide of the net before Ouellette went the other way for a chance that was stopped by strong defense from Sophia Bouchard.

Huot saved another Kingswood-Prospect chance and Sykes made a nice defensive stop as well. Gagne had another bid go wide of the net and Avery Gilpatrick made a nice defensive stop on another Gagne bid. Alaina Belanger got in close for the Mountaineers and Santy sent a rebound high over the top of the net.

The hosts went on the power play with 3:40 to go but then took a penalty just nine seconds later to even things out at four-on-four. And just nine seconds after that, Gilpatrick got the game's first goal, giving the hosts the 1-0 lead with 3:22 to go in the first period. Berlin-Gorham-Kennett came back with chances from Laney Downs, Zipf, Belanger, Gagne and Emma Dziedzic, but Arsenault was there to shut the door on every bid.

With 1:31 to go in the first period, Libby doubled the lead for the Knightwolves, getting in close and finding the back of the net on an assist from Baldwin. Ouellette and Santy exchanged late chances and the game went to the first intermission with the hosts up 2-0.

Gagne fired a shot off the post early in the second period and Harrington and Aucoin came back with chances that were stopped by Huot. Arsenault stopped a bid from Santy and Huot held tight on a wrap-around chance from Libby.

The Knightwolves went up 3-0 with 11:50 to go in the second, as Baldwin finished off a wrap-around on a feed from Ouellette. Gilpatrick and Harrington kept the pressure alive with shots just missing the net and Gagne came back with multiple attempts that Arsenault handled. Baldwin, Sykes and Ouellette combined for more chances, with Huot making the saves and Gagne and Emma Guilbeault had bids at the other end that met up with Arsenault's glove.

The visitors went on the power play with 8:13 to go in the second and Baldwin did a nice job killing the penalty before the Knightwolves took another penalty to give the Mountaineers 13 seconds of five-on-three action. Gagne had a bid denied by Arsenault before the first penalty came off the board and then Libby and Baldwin did a nice job killing off more of the penalty. With 4:54 to go, a Mountaineer penalty made it four-on-four for 29 seconds and Ouellette and Paityn Glidden had bids denied before Kingswood-Prospect got a power play chance.

However, another Knightwolves penalty made it four-on-four again and Gagne had a good defensive stop on Baldwin. With the Mountaineers on the power play after their penalty expired, Aucoin had a shorthanded bid before the teams evened up. However, the hosts got a power play chance with 1:13 to go in the period. Downs had a good clear for the visitors and Sykes and Kida Smith teamed up for a chance for the Knightwolves before the period finished off.

After the Mountaineers killed off the penalty to start the third, Kingswood scored less than a minute in, as Aucoin scored on an assist from Harrington for the 4-0 lead. Santy had a bid denied by Arsenault and Libby's chance was stopped by Huot at the other end. Gagne and Downs had chances denied by the Knightwolves keeper as well.

With 10:41 to go, Aucoin picked up her second goal of the period on an assist from Lena Jackunas and the Knightwolves had the lead up to 5-0. Ouellette had a bid denied before the Mountaineers went on the power play with 9:06 to go. The Knightwolves had some solid opportunities shorthanded before the penalty was killed off and then they got a power play of their own.

With 6:41 to go in the game, Ouellette scored the power play goal on assists from Sykes and Libby to up the lead to 6-0 and then Sykes added her own goal less than a minute later to close out the 7-0.

"That's a game that could've gone either way," House noted. "We have a lot of respect for Berlin."

The Mountaineers are slated to be in action today, Jan. 8, at Concord at 7:30 p.m., will be at Keene at 4:10 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 11, and will be hosting Manchester Central on Wednesday, Jan. 15, at 6 p.m.

Golden Eagle boys dominate Orioles

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

GILFORD — If the Gilford boys' basketball team was looking to make a statement in the early portion of the season, the Golden Eagles may have just done that on Monday, Dec. 23.

Gilford held visiting Conant to just five points in the first half and cruised to a 53-35 win.

"That was as good as a defensive half we've played," said Gilford coach Rick Acquilano. "Where we have to grow is we have to remember there are two of them in a game."

Mark Uicker and Brendan Baldi had early three-pointers to get Gilford on the board with the 6-0 lead and then Uicker and Cooper Perkins hit back-to-back hoops for the 10-0 lead. Henry Sleeper connected for a hoop and Perkins hit another for the 14-0 lead before Conant got their first point of the quarter on a free throw with one minute to go. The Orioles hit another hoop, but Perkins hit two free throws to close out the quarter and Gilford led 16-3 after eight minutes.

Owen Hawkins hit a hoop to open the second quarter and Perkins connected as well. Uicker hit another three-pointer for the 23-3 lead before Emmett Hughes put back a rebound and Baldi drilled a three-pointer for the 28-3 lead. The Orioles got their lone basket of the second quarter with 1:20 to go and Gilford had the 28-5 lead at the halftime break.

Conant got the first basket of the second half before Sleeper connected on back-to-back hoops and two free throws stretched the lead to 34-7 and a Uicker hoop added two more points to the Gilford lead. Sleeper hit a pair of free throws before the Orioles drilled a three, a hoop and two free throws to cut the lead to 38-14.

After Andrew Kelly hit a free throw, Conant hit three free throws in a row before Kelly hit two more free throws to close out the quarter and Gilford led 41-17 heading to the final eight minutes of the game.

Conant connected for the first basket of the fourth quarter before Kelly drained another basket to get the Golden Eagles on the board. Conant hit a hoop, a free throw and a three-pointer to cut the lead to 43-25 before Kelly hit two more free throws. Conant got another hoop before Hawkins drilled a three-pointer and Baldi hit two from the line.

After back-to-back three-pointers from the visitors, Hawkins hit a hoop and after the final Conant basket, hit another hoop to seal the 53-35 win for the Golden Eagles.

"It was a tale of two halves," Acquilano said. "We're still getting rotations going, but it's a quality win against a good team, so I'm happy with that."

"We got a lot out of it, even in the second half, there's always something to correct," he continued. "We have to finish games, make good decisions and find open people. That's stuff we can use and look at the film."

Uicker and Sleeper led the way for the Golden Eagles with 10 points each.

Gilford is scheduled to be in action on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at home against Hopkinton at 6 p.m.

Art and Coffee Club at the Belknap Mill Museum

LACONIA — The Belknap Mill has launched a series of workshops designed to bring out the artist lurking in everyone. For several months, Adrianna Antonopoulos, a local artist and business owner, has been hosting free mixed media drop-in sessions for Laconia locals to explore collage, pastels, watercolors, and more. These free workshops will continue to be held at the Museum on Thursday mornings from 9 to 11 a.m.

Antonopoulos sees herself as more of a muse and facilitator than an expert or teacher.

"I enjoy building a creative space with a community of artists who can inspire each other," she says.

She exudes warmth and enthusiasm that helps participants take some risks, try new media, and most important, have fun expressing themselves.

Antonopoulos's education and experience has prepared her to work with artists of all ages and experience levels. At Maine College of Art, she studied sculpture, painting, 2D design, graphics, photography, and ceramics. She has worked with pre-school and elementary students as well as high school learners and adults. She has created theatrical sets for Lakes Region Theater, and had her sculpture featured in numerous galleries in New England and abroad. She is truly a Renaissance woman!

Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

ANSWER:

ABA Monthly Member Highlight: Friends of Alton, NH Parks and Recreation

Every month, we sit down with one of our amazing ABA members to get to know them a little better! We ask each member the same questions, providing an opportunity for our members to highlight the important work that they do in our communities. If you're an ABA Member and would like to be considered for future Monthly Member Highlights, please reach out to us via email at info@alton-businessassociation.com

Q: Tell us about your business?

A: The Friends of Alton, NH Parks and Recreation is a volunteer organization dedicated to enhancing recreational opportunities for the Alton community. We are in the process of becoming a 501(c) 3 nonprofit, which will expand our ability to secure funding and make projects like Jones Field Project possible with little to no impact on local taxes.

Q: Tell us about yourself:

A: The Friends of Alton, NH Parks and Recreation is operated by a passionate group of volunteer community members. Our board members bring a diverse range of skills, experiences, and a shared love for Alton. Together, we work to create opportunities that bring people together, support healthy lifestyles, and celebrate the beauty of our town.
Meet the incredible board members who make it all possible:

President: Jill Houser, Vice President: Sarah Goodrum, Director: Carol Diveny, Secretary: Kelly Sullivan, Treasurer: Joanna Fencer, Ex-Officio: Kellie Troendle.

Q: How did your business get started?

A: The Friends of Alton, NH Parks & Recreation, a volunteer fundraising board, and fundraising arm of Alton's Parks & Recreation Department, was originally created as the Friends of Alton Parks & Recreation Committee in June 2022. The Committee was created after several caring, community parents expressed an interest in seeing improvements to Alton's public playgrounds, especially at the Jones Field Recreation Area on Letter S Road. Since that time other community residents joined to help in this effort. With guidance and support from the town and Alton's Parks & Recreation Department, the committee transitioned to a volunteer organization which will be well positioned to better support fundraising efforts for Alton's Parks & Recreation Department.

Q: What has your relationship with the Alton Business Association done for you or your business?

A: The Alton Business Association will be a great partner in helping us connect with the community. As a new ABA member, we're already seeing the benefits through their incredible support, including being featured as Member of the Month!

We're excited about the increased visibility and connections that ABA membership offers. From networking events to community outreach, their platform will help us share our mission, and grow support for accessible, updated playground spaces in Alton, NH. We can't wait to see what we'll accomplish together!

Q: What do you value most about this community?

A: The kindness and caring that is shown for one another and sense of volunteerism among community members and the impact of their contributions that make Alton a desirable and better place to live.

Q: Why did you want to open your business in this community?

A: Because we are the fundraising arm of Alton's Parks & Recreation Department. This is where we live, work, and play, and we're passionate about creating a thriving, welcoming community for everyone to enjoy. Alton is more than just a town—it's home, and we're proud to contribute to its growth and success.

Q: What business accomplishment are you most proud of?

A: The establishment of our Friends organization as a registered nonprofit corporation and our continued efforts toward designation as a 501 (c) 3 charitable organization as well as a community-wide feasibility study process we initiated to help guide us in the early stages of planned playground renovations.

This has been a complex and labor-intensive journey, requiring a tremendous amount of time, effort, and dedication. We are taking a thoughtful, organized, and professional approach at every stage to ensure our plans are well-informed and sustainable. By building a strong foundation, we are setting the stage for meaningful progress that will benefit the entire community for years to come.

Q: What does the future hold for you and your business?

A: As a soon-to-be nonprofit, charitable organization, we foresee the ability to create opportunities for more community engagement in fundraising to support expansion and improvements to Alton's recreational activities, programming, and community play spaces.

Q: What is one piece of advice you wish you had as a new business member?

A: Do your research and be prepared! Success often comes from the right combination of preparation and opportunity. Take the time to understand the community's needs, build relationships, and establish a solid foundation before you begin. As the saying goes, "Luck is when preparation meets opportunity." The effort you put in upfront will pay off in the long run.

Q: How can people who want to learn more about you or your business get in touch with you?

A: We'd love to connect with you! We are currently conducting a community-wide feasibility study that will help inform our next steps for a successful fundraising effort for playground renovations at Jones Field. We'd greatly appreciate your input. No computer? No problem! The Gilman Library is ready to assist.

section on sewage disposal requirements that it also needs to meet the standards of the NH Department of Environmental Services. The section on restrictions will also be revised to strike the words "mobile" home and "travel trailer" to the terms "manufactured" home and "recreational vehicle."

"This amendment is being proposed to separate the two uses into their own sections, therefore, making the distinction between the two uses more defined," reads the rationale.

Amendment 5 would add wording to the section on "Restrictions Governing Use" requiring that only one of the residential uses listed in the ordinance would be allowed per lot. The rationale is that this will be done to make the ordinance more consistent with other zoning districts.

Amendment 6 would add a new "Conditions" section adding 14 different conditions that could be required for the approval for special exceptions and variances. All the conditions can be found in the proposed amendment.

that read "Cross Traffic Does Not Stop" by the existing stop signs. The selectmen unanimously approved a motion to implement all three of these recommendations.

The town and the Department of Transportation discussed different options throughout 2024. In December of 2024, Town Administrator Scott Dunn reported to the selectmen that town officials and the DOT had been working on a plan to increase the safety at that intersection that would go into place in early 2025.

The Gilford Police Department advised motorists of the coming changes in a Facebook post on Dec. 26, 2024.

The town has already put a flashing red light at the stop sign at the Hoyt Road and Gunstock Hill Road intersection. Gilford Police said in the post they are aware that the light occasionally malfunctions, and work is being done to address that.

The words "Stop Ahead" were also painted on the road.

The DOT has a phased action plan for that intersection that is expected to start in January and continue through the spring.

Phase 1 will be to reduce the speed limit at that intersection from 55 miles per hour to 45.

Phase 2 scheduled for some time this spring will be to restripe the road to get rid of one of the lanes so that are will only be one lane.

"These changes aim to improve traffic flow and enhance safety in this busy area," read the GPD's post. "Please drive with caution and be mindful of the upcoming changes."

for what needs to be done at the park. The process will assess the safety and accessibility of all the existing playground equipment and determine if upgrades need to be made or the playground needs to be reconstructed. The project also proposes to add fitness stations for people of all ages so adults can utilize the area.

A budget estimate from December over the project cost at around $304,158. The Friends group aims to raise all the funds without adding any tax burden. As of December, the project had raised $1,071 from fundraising events and $1,000 in pledges, dropping the amount to be fundraised to $302,087.

"Consequently, Friends of Alton, NH Parks & Recreation is requesting your help with our Feasibility Study to ensure a successful fundraising effort," read the summary. "This phase of our work will help us determine philanthropic interest and capacity, the area's financial environment, and the importance that our community places on this project. We are fortunate to have a professional fundraiser on our committee and the assistance of a pro bono fundraising firm to guide us through this process and help us determine the viability of this fundraising initiative."

Friends of Alton Parks and Rec have put up a community survey to get residents' views on their favorite recreation activities, what recreation facilities they use in town, ranking different priorities identified in the mini executive summary, views on the town's economic condition to sustain a $300,000 fundraising effort, and other questions.

The survey can be found at <https://www.alton.nh.gov/press-release/friends-parks-and-recreation-committee-survey>. The Gilman Library can also assist people who do not have home computer access.

What to know about seasonal affective disorder (SAD)

There's much to look forward to when winter begins. Outdoor enthusiasts may relish a return to the slopes to ski or snowboard each winter, while others praise the crisp fresh air and lack of insects as more conducive to activities like hiking.

Winter indeed has plenty to offer, but some people find that less daylight has an adverse effect on their mood. The National Institutes of Mental Health notes that shifts in mood and behavior that align with changes in the seasons could be indicative of seasonal affective disorder, also known as SAD.

What is SAD?

Johns Hopkins Medicine characterizes SAD as a form of depression in which individuals' mood and behavior changes when the seasons change. The NIMH notes SAD is sometimes referred to as the "winter blues."

Is SAD exclusive to winter?

Though SAD can affect people at any time of year, the NIMH reports that most cases of SAD start to affect people in late fall or early winter before symptoms begin to subside during the spring and summer. Johns Hopkins Medicine notes researchers believe the shorter days and thus fewer hours of daylight that occur each winter set off a chemical change in the brain that leads to a person experiencing symptoms of depression.

What are the symptoms of SAD?

The NIMH points out that, since SAD is a type of depression, symptoms of the condition include those associated with depression. Such symptoms include:

- A persistent sad, anxious or "empty" mood most of the day. This occurs every day for at least two weeks.
- Feelings of hopelessness or pessimism
- Feelings of irritability, frustration or restlessness
- Feelings of guilt, worthlessness or helplessness
- Loss of interest or pleasure in hobbies and activities
- Loss of energy or feelings of fatigue.

Some also feel as if they have slowed down.

- Difficulty concentrating, remembering or making decisions
- Changes in sleep or appetite or unplanned weight changes
- Physical aches or pains, headaches, cramps, or digestive problems that have no explanation and do not subside even after treatment
- Suicidal thoughts or attempts or thoughts about death

It's important to note that the above are symptoms of depression that people with

SAD may experience. Additional symptoms of winter-pattern SAD include:

- Hypersomnia, or oversleeping
- Overeating that leads to weight gain.

The NIMH notes people with SAD may have a particular craving for carbohydrates.

How is SAD treated?

People who suspect they have SAD are urged to speak with their physicians. Various treatments, including light therapy, psychotherapy or antidepressant medications, can help to treat SAD. Individuals may also be prescribed vitamin D supplements.

Can I prevent SAD?

The NIMH notes that since SAD is tied to seasonal changes, people can take steps in an effort to prevent it. Starting treatments prior to a change in seasons may help.

Many people experience difficulty when fall transitions to winter, and such troubles may be attributable to SAD. More information about SAD is available at www.nimh.nih.gov.

Bryant then introduced key members of her staff including , Director of the Family Resource Center, Allyssa Tandy and VP of Community Services, Erin Pet-tengill. All three are Leadership graduates themselves while Bryant is currently on the Leadership Board of Directors. Their presentations were co-ordinated by Class of 2023 alumna, Cierra Pinkney.

Next up was Shau-na Foster, Executive Director of New Begin-nings, who explained the mission to protect individuals and fam-ilies from violence and abuse. Following her was Susan Young, who spoke to a major problem, especially for seniors....Medicare fraud. as a teenage sexual assault victim by a stranger. Ms. Pain-chaud spoke about her professional and personal experiences as a survivor and her healing journey over the past 30 years. She served more than 20 years in the military as Federal Agent/Criminal Investigator and after she retired in 2017, she has spoken publicly about her story as a Consultant/Motivational Speaker in effort to empower and inspire others and raise awareness, edu-cation, and prevention on sexual assault. Ms. Painchaud then intro-duced her husband as the next speaker. Det. Sgt. Adam Painchaud

The class then got to tour the SWAT ve-hicle with the officers. Following that, Ser-geant Eric Bredbury, the Prosecutor of the Gilford Police Depart-ment concluded the Social Issues Day. His presentation spoke to the role of the Prose-cutor in the justice sys-tem bridging law en-forcement with court requirements.
