Golden Eagles upset Huskies, move on to title game

Gilford football to face Laconia in Saturday's championship

BY JOSHUA SPAULDING
Sports Editor

SWANZEY — Against the undefeated top seed in Division III, the Gilford football team didn't seem too fazed.

When the Monadnock Huskies scored in the first quarter to take a 6-0 lead, the Gilford football team didn't seem to be fazed.

And in the end it was the Golden Eagles who left the top-seeded Huskies stunned on their home field, picking up the 26-13 semifinal win to advance to the finals against neighboring Laconia this coming Saturday afternoon.

And that's something that Gilford coach Brandt O'Hara is looking forward

could write a better story," the Golden Eagle mentor said of the championship matchup. "For us, we went down there and lost by one point in an awesome game."

"Heading there, at their place, on their field, I can't imagine what it means for both towns and I'm looking forward to that on Saturday," he continued. "It's going to be awesome."

As for the semifinal game in Swanze, the Huskies scored on a one-yard run in the first quarter and the two-point conversion failed, giving the hosts the 6-0 lead after one.

The Golden Eagles came back in the second quarter, with Lukas Diaz breaking through for a 90-yard touchdown run on the second play of the second quarter, capping off a drive that started at the one and tying the game at six. The Huskies threatened late in the first half, but the Gilford defense made a stand at the goal line to keep the game tied at six at halftime.

The Huskies had a couple other chances in the first, as a touchdown pass was dropped with 2:05 to go in the first half and also had an 18-yard pass called back on an ineligible player downfield at the end of the half.

Mark Uicker connected with Henry Sleeper for a three-yard touchdown pass on fourth and goal to cap frame.

Uicker connected with Lucas Raleigh for a 20-yard fourth down touchdown pass with 7:50 to go in the game and Bryce Carroll converted the extra point for the 26-13 lead after a 51-yard drive. Uicker had a huge quarterback sneak on fourth down at the 26 that kept the drive alive.

Monadnock got the ball back but Raleigh came up with a big interception to keep the Huskies off the board and Gilford held tight for the 26-13 win to move on to the championship game.

Uicker finished 10 for 17 for 148 yards and two touchdowns, Diaz ran 12 times for 112 yards and a touchdown and caught two passes for 31 yards, Butler had 16 rushes for 62 yards and a touchdown, Raleigh had three catches for 51 yards and a touchdown as well as an interception, Sleeper had a pair of catches for 18 yards and a touchdown, Emmett Hughes had a pair of catches for 34 yards and also registered two defensive sacks for a loss of 15 yards.

After the Huskies moved the ball well on their first few drives, the Golden Eagles adjusted and O'Hara credited his team for making that adjustment.

Lakes Region Technology Center students explore healthcare careers at Portsmouth Regional Hospital

PORTSMOUTH — Students from the Lakes Region Technology Center's Health Science program recently attended the Portsmouth Regional Hospital Career Expo, where they had the opportunity to explore a wide variety of healthcare professions through interactive and hands-on learning experiences.

Throughout the day, students engaged directly with healthcare professionals representing fields such as nursing, laboratory science, emergency medicine, radiology, and physical therapy. They participated in a range of activities that provided real-world insight into the diverse career paths available within the healthcare industry.

Two students were in-

terviewed by WMUR, and several others were featured as they demonstrated skills and participated in career exploration stations. The event not only allowed students to gain valuable exposure to different medical careers but also to practice professionalism and communication skills in a real-world setting.

Health Science instructor Cheryl Krivitsky said the experience was both educational and inspiring for her students.

"This event helps our students see the many opportunities available in healthcare and encourages them to pursue careers where they can make a difference," Krivitsky said.

With grateful hearts and plates that soar.
Rotary gathers at Pearson Road,
At five-fifteen their meeting's owed.
A social moment, warm and bright,
Before November says goodnight.

Unique places for holiday shopping

Although the holiday season is a relatively brief period, it still can consume months of time in regard to preparation, shopping and hosting. According to a SWNS Digital survey of 2,000 adults in the United States, the average American spends six weeks preparing for the holiday season. Five weeks are devoted to planning presents, meals and other essentials, while an entire week is just for decorating.

Shopping for presents can consume a lot of time, especially for those who aren't quite sure what to get. Thinking outside of the typical retail box may help with inspiration, and shoppers may encounter smaller crowds and find better deals. Here are some unique places to shop to grab great holiday gifts.

Pharmacies: While you're picking up your prescription or medicine cabinet essentials, take a spin around the store to see what else might be available. Typically, pharmacies have entire aisles dedicated to seasonal merchandise, so you might be able to find holiday decorations, gift wrap, candles, pampering items, and even food-related items and gift baskets.

Farmer's market: Farmer's markets pop up in towns on set days of the week. Although plenty of farm-related produce and plants are available, these markets also attract many other small businesses. You can find craftsmen, jewelry makers, niche food sellers, and so much more.

School (or church) bazaar: In an effort to raise funds for the PTA or other organizations, schools and churches often host holiday fairs and bazaars right before the holidays. Area businesses rent table space and set up booths with an array of different products for sale. This is a great spot to grab interesting finds all under one roof. Plus, you're supporting the local community in the process.

Home improvement retailer: Plenty of people will appreciate practical gifts that they can use in and around the home. A visit to a hardware store or home improvement retailer offers up aisles of essentials for the do-it-yourselfer. While new shelving for the garage or a set of flashlights may not be the most glamorous gifts, these items can come in handy.

Craft store: Cater to recipients' favorite hobbies by ensuring they'll be flush with plenty of supplies. Craft stores have a bevy of items for every interest imaginable. They're also surprisingly good places to grab deals on picture frames, housewares, food-making supplies, and decorative items.

Specialty food store: Head to small specialty food stores to load up on unique items larger supermarkets might not carry. Ethnic markets may have flavorful and interesting ingredients to group together in a food basket that makes an ideal gift for transplants missing the flavors of home.

Before a person logs on to the internet for online shopping or heads to the nearest strip mall, he or she can explore various unique places to shop for holiday gifts.

PETS OF THE WEEK

Meet Simi!

Simi is the total package — handsome, loyal, and full of energy! This athletic boy loves to run, jump, and show off his playful spirit, so a home that can give him plenty of exercise and adventure is a must. Whether it's a long walk, a backyard sprint, or a good game of fetch, Simi is always ready to move.

Once his zoomies are out of the way, though, he's all about snuggles.

True to his velcro-dog nature, Simi loves nothing more than being right by your side, soaking up all the love he can get. When he gets excited, he proudly picks up his favorite toy to show it off — and yes, he insists his harness goes around both him and his toy. Simi would prefer to be the only dog in the home without other pets- he loves to chase and hunt smaller animals for fun.

A man knows what he wants, after all!

Simi always looks dashing in his signature bandana and is ready to steal hearts (and maybe a few squeaky toys) wherever he goes. If you're looking for a loyal best friend with energy, style, and endless affection, Simi is your guy.

Support Meredith Food Pantry at Nov. 26 Songwriter Round-Up

MEREDITH — Spend your Thanksgiving Eve at the next Songwriter Round-Up and you'll be helping to support the efforts of the Meredith Food Pantry. As we enter into a time of year in which we celebrate each other with Holiday meals and gifts, let's also remember those who are less fortunate in our community.

At the Nov. 26 Songwriter Round-Up show one-half of all ticket sales and tips will be donated to the Meredith Food Pantry. This gifting is being done through the generosity of the three singer-songwriters who will performing their original compositions on the stage of "The Loft" at Hermit Woods Winery. In addition, show attendees who bring a canned good for donation to the Food Pantry will be entered into a drawing to win a pair of tickets to any upcoming Songwriter Round-Up show. These shows are made possible through the partnership between Katie Dobbins Music (Gilford) and Hermit Woods Winery & Eatery (Meredith) which has brought the monthly music series Songwriter Round-Up to the Lakes Region. Held in the region's premier listening room, The Loft located on the second floor of the Winery, this series has been giving audience members a chance to experience the original music of talented singer-songwriters from the New England area and beyond. At each show three artists share their songs and stories in a unique in-the-round style performance. Held on the last Wednesday of each month, this intimate series features two different songwriters each month alongside host performer Katie Dobbins.

The next Songwriter Round-Up show takes place on Wednesday, Nov. 26, featuring the Lakes Region's own Katie Dobbins, a singer-songwriter who delivers her artistry with beautiful vocal tones wrapped in guitar and piano melodies, Mike Morris, a singer-songwriter from New Hampshire with a highly creative spirit that he pours into in a genre he describes as "freestyle Folk," and Dane Anderson, a New Hampshire singer-songwriter who delivers honest, heartfelt lyrics that reveal truths gleaned from life experiences and seafaring adventures. All of these artists bring their own unique life-lyrics, melodies, and styles to the stage. This promises to be an evening of great original music and dynamic entertainment that you won't want to miss. Learn more about each of these artists on the Hermit Woods Winery Web site.

A complimentary wine tasting will begin at 5:30 p.m., the Loft opens at 6 p.m. for seating & dinner orders, and music starts at 7 p.m. Patrons can further enhance their evening by selecting from a menu of tasty items available from Chef Kaylon Sweet of Sweet Mercy's Kitchen. Tickets can be purchased in advance at hermitwoodswinery.com/the-loft or in-person at the Winery.

Wolfeboro Friends of Music presents Lúnasa

WOLFEBORO — Wolfeboro Friends of Music continues its 90th Anniversary Season with an Irish Winter Solstice celebration featuring supergroup Lúnasa Friday, Dec. 12 at 7 p.m.

Named for an ancient Celtic harvest festival in honour of the Irish god Lugh, Lúnasa was formed in 1997 from members of some of the greatest Irish groups of the previous decade, an early review from Folk Roots magazine describing the band as an "Irish music dream team." From the start, the band's complex arrangements and unique sound reshaped the boundaries of traditional music and energized audiences the world over. Critical acclaim followed, MOJO magazine named the band "the new gods of Irish music," adding that "nobody since the Bothies has wielded such a thrilling rhythmic underlay." Billboard raved that "anybody who listens can't help but find them contagious."

Having since sold more than a quarter of a million records and performed more than 2,500 shows across 36 countries, Lunasa has won multiple awards and become one of the most influential bands in the history of traditional music. Collaborations with singers Natalie Merchant, Mary-Chapin Carpenter, and Tim O'Brien and high-profile concerts at The Hollywood Bowl, New York's Carnegie Hall, Glastonbury Festival and Bercy Arena Paris helped broaden the band's audience and cement it place at the forefront of contemporary Irish music.

This is the fourth of nine concert performances comprising the current WFOM season running through June, 90 years of artistic excellence in service to New Hampshire's Lakes Region, Mount Washington Valley and beyond!

Season sponsors make Wolfeboro Friends of Music possible: Diana and Greg Jonas, Paul Zimmerman, Susan and James Scarborough, John Sandeen,

The Kalled Gallery, Bradley's Hardware, Carroll County Landscape, and YFI Custom Homes

Tickets are available for $39.50 at the exciting new website: www.wfriendsofmusic.org; Or by email at: info@wfriendsofmusic.org, and at the door on the day of the concert.

High School students with ID will be admitted free of charge. Children accompanied by an adult ticket purchaser will be admitted free of charge.

Kind folks,
cold winters

As the first chill of winter begins to touch our lake-country towns, it’s a good moment to reflect on the quiet strength of community in places like our little corner of New Hampshire. These are towns where the seasons shape our rhythms: summer tourists fade, the lake slows, and we turn inward — to each other, our neighborhoods, the routines we often take for granted.

We know the coming months bring work: snow removal, road maintenance, heating bills and the well-being of our neighbors, especially the seniors who call our region home. In towns of modest size, the budget sheets matter deeply. The local transfer station, the school bus routes, the library heating system — all touch everyday life more intimately than in a metropolis. And people notice. They care. They ask questions: “Will our property taxes go up? Can we maintain services? Are our schools ready for the winter storm if it hits?”

That’s healthy. It speaks of civic engagement. It speaks of people who live here year-round, who are invested in place, and who recognize that warm-weather livelihoods don’t pay all the bills. It’s a season for thoughtful planning, not just seasonal optimism. And it’s a time when the value of connection shows up: neighbors checking on one another if they haven’t seen each other for a week; volunteer boots turning out for the fire department; a concerned parent at the school board meeting speaking up for children’s safety.

In each of our towns, there is a sole proprietor, a volunteer fire chap lain, a retired teacher who still uses her voice at town hall. These people anchor us. They often ask for nothing more than acknowledgement — and perhaps the chance to pass their experience on to the next generation. It’s not glamorous, but it is vital.

Soon enough we will trade the lure of lake days for the solace of a fireplace, the hush of snowfall, the early twilight. And in that shift there is opportunity. Opportunity to build community in the slower season: a potluck at the seniors’ center, a book club at the public library, a snowshoe outing with the conservation commission. That matters. We discover each other again. We remember what we actually share — not just taxes, town halls and school budgets — but roads we travel, sunsets over the water, the same grocery aisles, the same mailboxes, the same concern for our children and elders.

So as winter approaches — quietly, steadily — let us not see it as a withdrawal from vitality. Let us see it as a different rhythm, one that invites us to lean in. Let us use the colder months to strengthen ties, to ask the hard questions of governance, to speak up when it matters, and to support each other when resources are limited. Because when the storms arrive — and they will — we’ll be stronger if we were connected before the first flake fell.

Local leadership, year-round citizens and newcomers alike: this is our moment. The lakes may freeze. The sidewalks may close. But the community endures. And in that endurance lies our true winter-warmth.

The Careers in Education students at Lakes Region Technology Center, under the direction of Patti Edson, participated in the Educators Rising statewide book collection. For three weeks our students joined nine other schools and collected just over 9,000 books. LETTERS FROM EDWIN

Lopper Man

After getting side-tracked in every which way today, I found myself with some available time to spare. I remembered the other day when I spent a good portion of the afternoon lopping countless small trees and bushes that were just too out of the way to get to with the lawnmower that there were lots more that needed cutting.

I actually have a machine made just for this kind of thing. It's not one of those wimpy stringy thingies. It has an actual blade that can actually do some damage. When it was new it worked wonderful, but then it became hard to start. I found out that this ecological misadventure of adding ethanol to gasoline causes the fuel lines in such machines to deteriorate. I replaced my fuel lines and good Lord, it worked again for a couple more years. I just haven't had the patience to deal with it. It sits in the shack awaiting my attention if I ever find the motivation.

Loppers are sometimes actually better as they don't inadvertently damage the trees next to where you're trying to cut. So I started on the other side of the woodshed than I worked the other day and attacked all the small saplings and raspberry plants I came across. Saplings because they're much easier to deal with before they turn into big trees, and raspberries because if you've ever tried working around, or walking through a raspberry patch, you'd understand that God wasn't fooling around when he told Adam about the thorns and brambles that he would be encountering.

If you can keep them under control, they're not so overbearing. When I first started my quest to get rid of them in my yard, I would mow them in the fall. Then the next spring they'd be growing up bigger and badder than the year before. Then I discovered that I needed to mow them before they fruited their berries, in the spring. Then they wouldn't be reseeding themselves, and we know from reading the parable about the sower, that they'll reproduce a thousandfold. Everything growing on the planet lives under the commandment to “be fruitful and multiply.” That's universal.

My problem is that I've been very lax lately with my yearly household chores and lots of things have taken advantage of that. But as usual, once I get going, I just keep going until I have to stop. My back had been complaining for a while. I really need loppers with much longer handles. If I could only stand up straight and not need to bend over for every snip, I'd be much happier. My right wrist isn't terribly pleased with all my efforts either, but none of us are getting any younger, are we? Even though I was curling up like a snail, I kept reaching down to snip everything I saw as I headed back to the shack.

If I had a well defined yard, I'd definitely be better off. Once again, I found myself heading off into the woods on one of my ski trails that was too constricted for the tractor, and even a tough job for the lawn mower. Sometimes doing things by hand is the best way. It was definitely in need as I haven't gotten to trim it in years. The raspberry bushes were huge and reach out to rip your legs as you attempt to ski through them. I managed to widen it up nicely, now we just need some snow.

I can see you all cringing, “No, not snow.” The thermometer doesn't say it's time yet, but it certainly feels cold enough to me. I think it was 2011 that we had 18 inches on Oct. 30. I popped a hernia scooping all that heavy wet slop. I just felt something had happened. Took over a decade to figure that one out. And for what it's worth, it was pretty poor skiing that day too. But it was historic.

Maybe it's time to start wearing my long johns? It's always a wonderful feeling of added warmth when I do. I always wait too long to switch over to my lined work pants, fluffy bed quilt, and winter coats and hats in the wintertime. Those cloths that have been packed away all summer, it's time to be getting them all out. Heavier socks went on today. Flannel shirts are already the norm.

Holiday Gift & Shopping Guide

Budget-frendly holiday shopping tips

Holiday shopping and entertaining involve a whirlwind of activity to round out the end of the year. The holiday season also tends to be an expensive time of year. According to Capital One Shopping, the average spending for holiday travel, gifts and entertainment expenses is $1,638. The National Retail Federation says American consumers spend an average of $997.73 on gifts and other holiday items each Christmas.

For some people, adding an additional $1,000 to their November or December budgets can be challenging, and many individuals seek budget-friendly solutions for their holiday celebrations. The following guidelines can help corral spending this year.

Set a budget

It's impossible to keep a budget if one is never established in the first place. Determine how much you can comfortably spend on gifts, travel and entertaining, as well as any other holiday expenses. Once the number is calculated, divvy up spending accordingly.

Plan your list

Make a list of everyone you need to purchase gifts for, along with gift ideas and estimated costs. Set a dollar amount for each individual, particularly if you will not be spending the same amount on each person. Having numbers in black and white, and comparing them to what you have allocated for gifts, will enable you to see whether you are overspending or on budget.

Shop early

Begin holiday shopping as early as possible, even months before the holidays arrive. Such an approach enables you to take advantage of sales as they come up. Also, you will not fall victim to impulse buys or last-minute purchases because you are under a time crunch.

Track spending

Utilize whatever method works for you to keep apprised of spending. It may be jotting down numbers on a piece of paper or using a budgeting app on a smartphone. Having a clear idea of what you have spent and any dollars remaining will help you keep your overall spending in line with your budgeted amount.

Get coupons

Signing up for stores' loyalty programs can enable you to receive members-only coupons or digital codes to your phone or email. Compare the discounted final price with other stores' offers to make sure that you are getting the best deals. Browser extensions also can search automatically for coupons and apply them to the checkout when online shopping.

Use credit cards wisely

Credit cards come with various perks, many of which are points or cash back accumulated with each purchase. Utilize a card that works best for your needs, whether it's to get airline miles or score extra spending money for a particular retailer. Only charge what you can pay in full when the bill arrives; otherwise, the benefits may be negated by high interest rates.

Holiday spending can derail financial plans for those who do not establish a firm budget and commit to spending wisely towards the end of the year.

ing a little bit for us to wake up.
“There were little schematic things that we did in between, but not enough for me to say that was the end all be all, I think the kids just matched the intensity after that first drive,” the Golden Eagle coach continued.

He also praised his team’s offense for keeping the Huskies off balance all day.

“We’re lucky to have some of the skill that we have and the height, but we have some good hard-nosed runners that do a good job between the tackles,” O’Hara mentioned. “We were trying to keep that balance to stay true to who we are, but we had to take advantage of what they were giving us.”

Gilford will play in the Division III championship at Laconia High School on Saturday, Nov. 22, at 1 p.m.

Book reading and signing at The Country Bookseller

WOLFEBORO — Storyteller, educator, and award-winning author, Michael J. Caduto is coming to The Country Bookseller just in time for the holidays for a reading and signing from his new book Friday, Nov. 28 from 1-3 p.m.

Caduto has authored more than 20 books that have been published in numerous languages, and have sold more than 1.2 million copies worldwide.

In his latest picture book, “Enchanted Night Before Christmas,” we meet the Sherman family, who may not have much, but they care deeply for one another and extend their generosity to others. They create gingerbread cookies as holiday gifts, lovingly decorating them for family and friends. One magical Christmas Eve, while the family sleeps, an extraordinary event occurs that transforms their holiday and their lives forever.

Inspired by a genuine rural tradition from the foothills of the Green Mountains, “Enchanted Night Before Christmas” is a timeless fantasy that reminds us that the most meaningful gifts are those we share with others. It also features a delightful gingerbread spice cookie recipe from King Arthur Baking Company.

The Country Bookseller is located at 23A North Main St., Wolfeboro, and can be reached at (603)569-6030.

Michael Patrick Seward, 53

Michael Patrick Seward, age 53 of Alton, NH, passed away unexpectedly at home on November 9, 2025. He was born on February 29, 1972, in Danvers, MA, to Thomas and Carole (Witten) Seward. Michael grew up in Lynn, MA, and graduated from Lynn Vocational and Technical Institute. He went on to attend classes at North Shore Community College and Salem State College. He spent his career working in grocery stores and in beverage sales. He was proud to have become one of the youngest managers in the entire Star Market chain at age 23. He earned the Circle of Excellence award from the Pepsi Bottling Group for exceeding sale expectations five years in a row. Eighteen years ago, he started working for New Hampshire Distributors. Michael took great pride in his work and advanced to the position of Sales Manager covering the territory from Seabrook to North Conway. Locally he became known as “The Bud Guy.”

Michael was a doting son, husband, father and grandfather. He had a knack for anticipating the needs of others and fulfilling those needs without hesitation. He proudly honored his father’s military service by maintaining a membership with the Sons of the American Legion. He enjoyed the outdoors, boating, snowmobiling, the Red Sox, and Patriots. He found peace using his zero-turn and brush hog while caring for the household grounds. An American muscle car enthusiast, he dreamed of owning a 1970 Chevelle SS. A great friend to many, he was thoughtful and generous with his time. His quick wit made trading barbs with friends effortless. He wove lines from his favorite movies, especially The Departed, into his daily conversations.

He is survived by his mother, Carole Seward, of Alton, brothers Brian Seward (wife Sherry), of Lynn, MA, and Tommy Seward, of Alton. Michael is also survived by his wife of 17 years Stacey Seward, his children, Nicholas Sackos (wife Tabitha), of Wolfeboro, Joseph Lundy (wife Karen) of Alton, and Stephanie Lundy (fiancé Evan Lagrant) of Alton. Michael was the adoring grandfather, affectionately known as “Pa,” to Landon and Maxwell Sackos, Sadie Lagrant, Jack Lundy, and was looking forward to the arrival of another sweet granddaughter in early December. Michael was known in the family to be somewhat of a “dog whisperer” and over his lifetime enjoyed companionship of his dogs, Blackie, Cody and Rosco. He always had treats and pup cups ready to go for his grand-dogs, Caesar, Nova, and Goose.

Michael is also survived by many loving aunts, uncles, and cousins. He was especially close to his cousin Timothy Witten (more like a brother), cousin Lori Dawidowicz (more like a sister), and cousin Jillian Witten (more like a daughter).

In 2024, as a leap-year baby, Michael and his grandson, Landon, jointly celebrated their 13th birthdays. Michael will be remembered by all as a wonderful man whose first priority was his family. He will be watching as his beautiful family continues to grow.

Please join us for a memorial service on Friday, November 21, 2025, at 12:00 noon at Peaslee Funeral Home, 24 Central Street, Farmington, NH, with a celebration of life to follow at the Alton American Legion Post 72, 164 Wolfeboro Highway, Alton, NH. In lieu of flowers please make a donation to the American Humane Society Pups4Patriots program.

HOSPITAL

Health Science program at the Lakes Region Technology Center is made possible through strong partnerships with local healthcare organizations, including Huggins Hospital, Wolfeboro Bay Center, Taylor Community, Mountain View Community, Silva Family Dentistry, and Action EMS. These partnerships provide students with valuable clinical experiences, mentorship, and opportunities to connect classroom learning with real-world patient care.

The Lakes Region Technology Center’s Health Science program prepares students for future careers in healthcare by combining classroom instruction with hands-on clinical and community experiences. Events like the Portsmouth Regional Hospital Career Expo strengthen the connection between education and the healthcare community while inspiring the next generation of healthcare professionals.

Join the community in giving the gift of life

ALTON — Every two seconds, someone in the U.S. needs blood. The Wolfeboro Lions Club encourages the community to help save lives by participating in a local blood drive on Thursday, Nov. 20, from 12:30 to 5 p.m. at Saint Katharine Drexel Church, 40 Hidden Springs Rd., Alton.

The blood drive is open to everyone in the community. Donations are critical to hospital patients in our neighborhoods and across the nation, including accident and burn victims, heart surgery and organ transplant patients, and those receiving treatment for leukemia, cancer, or sickle cell disease.

Appointments are encouraged but walk-ins are welcome. To make an appointment or learn more, download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit RedCrossBlood.org, or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). Donors are encouraged to complete a RapidPass® online health history questionnaire at RedCrossBlood.org/rapidpass to help speed up the donation process. A blood donor card, driver’s license, or two other forms of identification are required at check-in.

Eligible donors must generally be in good health, weigh at least 110 pounds, and be 17 years of age in most states (16 with parental consent where allowed). High school students and other donors 18 and older are also welcome.

Join your community and give the gift of life — every donation can help save up to three lives.

Ames Farm Inn named NHLRA Boutique Lodging Property of the Year

GILFORD — Ames Farm Inn, a beloved family-run lakeside retreat on the shores of Lake Winnepesaukee, has been named the 2025 Boutique Lodging Property of the Year by the New Hampshire Lodging & Restaurant Association (NHLRA). The award recognizes Ames Farm Inn’s enduring commitment to hospitality, authenticity, and family tradition spanning more than 130 years.

Founded in 1890, Ames Farm Inn has welcomed generation after generation of families to the lake. Today, under the leadership of the fourth and fifth generations of the Ames family, the inn continues to embody the timeless spirit of Lake Winnepesaukee—where guests return each summer to relax, reconnect, and make lasting memories.

“We’re honored to receive this recognition from the NHLRA,” said Peggy Ames, co-owner of Ames Farm Inn. “Our family is deeply grateful to our dedicated staff and to the generations of amazing guests who return each summer to unplug, enjoy the lake, and spend meaningful time together. This award is a celebration of everyone who has

The NHLRA’s annual awards celebrate excellence in New Hampshire’s hospitality industry, recognizing properties that demonstrate exceptional service, innovation, and community impact.

As the Ames family looks ahead, their mission remains rooted in what has defined the property for more than a century: family, tradition, and preserving a simpler time of lakeside vacationing—unhurried, unplugged, and centered on time well spent together.

Prospect Mountain hosts fall sports awards

Alton, Barnstead students also honored at annual ceremony

Taylor Greenwood was named the Female Fall Athlete of the Year and was presented the award by Athletics Director James Christie.

ALTON — Prospect Mountain High School wrapped up the fall sports season and invited athletes from Alton Central School and Barnstead Elementary School to join in on the fun on Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Athletics Director James Christie welcomed everyone and went through a review of the season for all of the schools and had a few highlights to point out to the assembled crowd in the high school auditorium.

The first standout he brought up was the Barnstead Elementary boys' cross country team, which finished first in every regular season race and then ran to second place in the state championships.

The second standout was the Alton Central boys' soccer A team, which finished the regular season at 17-0-1 and went on to win the Lakes Region championship at

And the final standout was varsity boys' soccer coach Cory Halvorsen, who reached the 100 varsity wins plateau during the regular season.

Christie also thanked the Student Athlete Leadership Team (SALT) that helped to lead activities throughout the entire season and also thanked the Prospect Mountain Booster Club, which has continued to grow throughout the years and this year sponsored media day pictures, packed food for teams taking long road trips, sold concessions at games and generally contributed to the atmosphere of the fall sports season.

Christie also read letters from all of the season's coaches, recapping the season that each team had.

The Alton Central and Barnstead Elementary coaches also selected one athlete from each team to receive the Prospect Award. Christie also presented the NHIAA Sportsmanship Award to athletes from each of the high school teams. Multiple requests to get the full list of award winners were not successful as of deadline. If we receive these lists moving forward, we will publish the complete list.

The Timber Wolf Student Athlete award was up next and Christie presented the Male Student Athlete Award to Charlie Yeaton and the Female Student Athlete Award was presented to Jenna Sykes.

The final award of the ceremony was the Fall Athlete of the Year. The Male Athlete of the Year was presented to Knyte Neathery and the Female Athlete of the Year was presented to Taylor Greenwood.

PSU women’s lacrosse hosting youth, high school clinics Dec. 7

PLYMOUTH — Plymouth State University women’s lacrosse head coach Becky Dale announced that the program will host a position-specific skills clinic for youth and high school players in December.

The clinic is scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 7, at the Bank of New Hampshire Field House in ALLWell North.

Youth Session (grades 5-8) will take place from 9 to 11 a.m. and the high school session (grades 9-12) will take place from noon to 2 p.m.

Each session will focus on position-specific instruction, with skills and drills tailored to draw specialists, midfielders, attackers, defenders and goalies. Participants should select their position during registration and bring appropriate lacrosse equipment and indoor sneakers.

Check-in opens 30 minutes prior to each session.

The youth session fee is $30 per player, while the high school session costs $50 per player. To help expedite check-in, participants are asked to bring printed, signed waivers.

Online registration is required for all Plymouth State Athletics camps and clinics. Registration and waiver links are available at athletics.plymouth.edu/camps.

Community holiday concert at Congregational Church of North Barnstead Dec. 6

BARNSTEAD — All are welcome to the third annual holiday concert at the Congregational Church of North Barnstead, UCC (504 North Barnstead Rd.) with Maine music luminaries Joyce Andersen & Harvey Reid. They have been making music professionally for their entire lives; both toured extensively across the country and abroad, earning a long list of awards and recognition for their distinctive and deeply-rooted Americana music.

This will mark the 25th consecutive year that they have presented their unique Christmas show. Drawing on their long experience playing folk, country, bluegrass, blues, Celtic and even some classical music, they ride their musical sleigh effortlessly across genres, and centuries from banjos to blues to Beethoven, from elves to Elvis, from wise men and camels to Willie Nelson and reindeer.

This is truly a don't miss event! Bring your kids, your neighbors, and invite friends as we create community and start traditions in a magical space with shared live music, sure to leave you with the joy and hope of the season. You will not be disappointed. See you on Saturday, Dec. 6 at 4 p.m. Tickets, by donation, available at the door (or call 603-776-1820). Suggested donation is $20 per person or $35 for the family.

Alton Garden Club delves into terrariums

ALTON — The October meeting of Alton Garden Club was held in Michelle Hanley's barn, which she had expertly decorated for Halloween with a Pirates of the Caribbean theme. Once again, creativity was on display everywhere, amazing our attendees who enjoyed viewing the various rooms, especially one that included a cardboard pirate ship and another showing a plank awaiting someone's walk into the sea. Thank you to Michelle for hosting this fun Halloween event!

This month's speaker, Diane Norton, showed us how easy it is to make terrariums that can be filled with tropical plants or succulents. She was assisted by Roberta Mank, and they explained that the first step was finding glass containers by checking swap shops, yard sales or second-hand stores. Once purchased and cleaned, small pebbles, sand or crushed shells should be placed in the bottom for drainage. Next, charcoal should be added to purify any accumulating water, followed by a layer of wet sphagnum moss. Potting soil, specific for the type of plant you will be using, is next. Then it's time to add small plants, taking into consideration their anticipated growth. The final touch could be decorations, such as tiny pumpkins, fake flowers or even little gnome figurines added for color. Several lovely terrariums made by Norton and Mank were given as gifts to a few lucky attendees. Peggy McKinney thanked them for the presentation, and members then enjoyed a few minutes of socialization with fall beverages and tasty treats provided by this month's Hostess Committee.

This was the end of our presentation schedule for the year, with our November luncheon the final meeting for 2025. During that time, we will elect officers and participate in our annual collection for the Alton Food Pantry and Mrs. Santa Fund. During winter months we will complete program scheduling for 2026, which is now in progress and promises to be a season of high interest to all with a love of gardening. We wish all of our neighbors a winter of health, comfort and renewal!

Kingswood National Honor Society welcomes new members

WOLFEBORO — The Kingswood Chapter of the National Honor Society (NHS) inducted 21 new members on Nov. 13 at Kingswood Regional High School. The 2025 inductees include Lexi Baker, Graham Burke, Kayla Cegielski, Kelsie Davis, Jacob Dubuc, Sophia Dupell, Laura Fernandes, Tiana Fowler, Adelle Harrington, Anna Johnson, Adaline King, Caroline Kinzmaier, Kiernan Kolodner, Cassidy Libby, Megan Nicol, Ewan Nicoll, Alexis Olkkola, Zachary Pickle, Dean Richards, Ryan Santerre, and Reid

Swinerton. NHS member Oliver Noel kicked off the induction with a warm welcome and then led attendees through the Pledge of Allegiance. Following the pledge, NHS members Cooper McCourt, Brady Moulton, Michael House, and Bryce Sandlin expanded upon each of the four NHS pillars. Principal Paul Famulari led the inductees through a recitation of the NHS Pledge, welcomed each inductee by name and presented their membership card and pin. Thomas Benker then closed the ceremony with some thoughtful words about the organization. The Kingswood Chapter of the NHS, now 40 members strong, is active in our community. Members run a Saturday morning mentorship program known as Kingswood and Kids. They read and reenact stories for students at all the elementary schools through the Kingswood Reads program. Additionally, members support the community by raising money for local charities and facilitating events at the high school.
