Charlton girl sells crafts to benefit families in need

BY JASON BLEAU CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON — The holiday season is a time of giving and generosity as much as it is a celebration of all we hold dear. For some, those elements of Christmas are intertwined, and they use this time of year to help those less fortunate enjoy the blessing they, themselves, appreciate every day.

That mentality is what drives a young 11-year-old girl from Charlton, Claire Albuquerque. For the last three years Claire has created her own Christmas ornaments, selling them at craft fairs and other events to raise money to provide gifts for children through Spencer Toys for Kids. Claire and her mother Marcy adopt a family each year providing the gifts on each child's list to help families that don't have enough disposable income to provide the traditional Christmas. Claire said she realized just how blessed she was in life and decided to try to give back and bring some love to those in need.

"I just like being creative and I decided to start this because I wanted to do something good. Sometimes there's not really that much hope in Bergeron joined the district in October of 2021, and immediately saw the need for improvements on many levels. One program that kicked off in 2022 was the addition of three therapeutic classrooms which he said have quickly

"Expected exactly what I saw"

HEALTH DIRECTOR TALKS ABOUT HIS FIRST MONTHS

ON THE JOB

BY GUS STEEVES CORRESPONDEN

SOUTHBRIDGE — Now that he's been in Town Hall's easternmost office for a couple months, Health Director Daniel Wasiuk says he "expected exactly what I saw" when he took over job.

Specifically, he said he expected "the hot challenges of the community" to be housing, blight and various nuisances, things he'd seen during his research into Southbridge earlier this year. But he credits the "great team" he works with for making them "not unmanageable."

That doesn't mean it's not a lot of work. In fact, while he said the job description made him think he'd just be health director, the inspections side of things "takes up a lot of time."

"I've never seen a busier building department than he said. Wilbraham this one," resident Wasiuk has held health roles in four communities - Westhampton (on the Board of Health), Montague, EasthamptonandNorthampton (all as health director or inspector). According to Google, the first two are smaller than Southbridge, Easthampton about the same, and Northampton is quite a bit larger.

He credits Building Inspector Mike Julian for his proficiency in identifying and pursuing various issues around the community. Julian is presently juggling the complex state testing process to get certified as a Building Commissioner, a role Wasiuk's predecessor Andv Pelletier also held.

To Wasiuk, the department has more than enough work to warrant separating it into two departments again. (They were separate until about 10 years ago.) But whether that happens or not, he feels the workload really requires finding some way to fund "increased hours and additional people," since most department members "multitask, but it can lead to inefficiency."

As it is now, he noted, his staff is "always playing catchup" with the high volume of walk-in permits and other concerns that come their way. He described them as "doing a great job now," but he's concerned about how sustainable that is, noting "I hate to burn out people." On the other hand, he said he feels the department gets "a lot of community support," so he's generally "very optimistic."

On the public health side, he'd like to have a department comprising himself, a fulltime administrator, a housing/nuisance inspector and a parttime food safety/pool/etc person. He also sees more ability to do disease surveillance with a public health nurse who is local. At present, Southbridge shares one based in Sutton with multiple communities. Having one locally, he said, would help enable more health clinics and better outreach, as well as giving him the chance to "strengthen programs here" that address blight and work with property owners. In the long term, Wasiuk sees working on communicable disease prevention and policy as a key issue, with a lot of lessons coming out of Covid-19's three years "where it was very challenging."

'We always know there will be [another] one," he said. " That was really a wakeup call. Everybody I knew in Western Mass was scrambling with limited support. It could have been made easier if the health departments collectively dedicated more time to policies and procedures regarding pandemics.'

Beyond that, an issue is Southbridge's track record of high asthma, teen pregnancy, and various pollution-related concerns, with Wasiuk noting he still needs to do some research into those areas "to narrow it down."

On the building side, Wasiuk sees a need for Julian, a fulltime administrator and a second inspector. (The town has CDBG grant funding for one, but hasn't been able to fill the role for more than a year.)

A key part of the job as he sees it is public education, and he said he's "always been a big fan of using the media" to share health concerns. To him, that means multiple media, and he wants to expand the department's internet outreach. One thing that jumped out to him coming to Southbridge was that "more people watch the weekly meetings" here than in his previous communities, so he hopes to use that as a key avenue to reach people.

"I'm very fortunate to have an opportunity to continue my public health career her in Southbridge," he said. Seeing the staff's "energy and passion" when he interviewed "really supported my decision and made my decision for me."

On the personal level, the 51-year-old Wasiuk describes himself as an "outdoor enthusiast" - a fan of mountain biking, skiing and hiking, He said he was "excited just to find out about [Southbridge's] trails," noting he loves the feeling of discovery in new places. He's a single father of an 11-year-old daughter, and has a UMass science degree and background in food safety.

CDBG hearing looks at housing, recreation

BY GUS STEEVES CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE — Having taken citizen comments from a hearing a few weeks ago, Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) Coordinator Peg Dean tried round two last week. Although the whole plan was once again up for grabs, this time, discussion focused mostly on the part that was only grazed last time plans to work on recreational land.

Before the forum got to that, though, Dean said the state had approved the prior hearing's desire to use housing rehab funds for low-income people all over town, rather than just in the most needy census tract area. But the town still needs to define how it will prioritize using that money, with Dean suggesting it could be either first-come-first-served or by special need. Either way, she added, "it can be daunting [to applicants] because they need all financial data to apply."

Housing rehab is limited to $35,000 per project ($45,000 if it includes lead abatement), and must address safety or structural issues in houses built before 1978, she said. "They have to improve the condition of the home. It's not for aesthetics."

Such projects are funded by a forgivable 15-year loan, and the state encourages towns to set an age limit beyond which it's treated as a true grant. She said such loans are forgiven a certain amount annually, as long as the applicant or a direct family member still owns it. If they sell it or turn it into a commercial use, they pay off whatever remains of the loan.

Responding to a question from Councilor Jasmin Rivas, Dean said the town can require it to be owner-occupied, but also need to consider "Are we penalizing the tenants inside.? ... I have no problem with that. Anything we can do to encourage home ownership [is good]."

The intent, Dean added, is to discourage people from fixing up such properties, then just "flipping" them for a fast profit.

Councilor Mike Marketti said he knows of one senior who got caught by the sale aspect. When her husband died, she couldn't afford to maintain the home and had to sell it, thus ended up paying off some of the loan. To Rivas, that points to a need to "really message so they leave the house to someone in the family." (It could also be addressed by setting the age limit above.)

After that was addressed, Recreation Director Mike Brunelle summarized three proposals for using CDBG funds on recreation issues: redoing drainage at West Street's soccer and other fields, drainage and resurfacing at Morris Street field; and updating the town-wide Open Space and Recreation Plan. In general, he said, "drainage is a huge issue" in several places, as are fences and various other features.

Evelyn Velez observed that several fields have gates that an ambulance can't enter if a player gets hurt. A few people recalled that McMahon used to have tennis courts and would like to see them return, with Marketti noting those at West Street "are a necessity." To him, McMahon "has been neglected for years and years."

The general concensus was to seek funding for the OSRP update, which can look at all town parks and related lands

"in context." Dean said she'll get quotes for what that will cost for the grant application, and wants to avoid what happened with McCann Field There the town used CDBG funds several years ago to get a specific plan that identified $3 million in needs, but has not been able to fund many of them.

The grant is due March 3, and this year's funding round actually covers two fiscal years, so Southbridge is eligible for $1.35 million. Dean said the program has three objectives: assisting people of low-moderate income, addressing slum and blight, and fixing "urgent [problems], which is rarely ever allowed."

She noted she's still trying to determine of the state will allow Southbridge to treat both housing rehab and code compliance as one project. It has in previous years, but is now saying otherwise, and may require the town to fund its health inspector and/or code enforcement officer with other money. (At present, the code enforcement post is vacant; that person is essentially an assistant building inspector.)

Dean said she intends to clarify such issues and hold a third hearing to get comments on the final proposal before submitting it to the Town Council and state for approval

About the book: Alice Wright marries American Bennett Van Cleve, hoping to escape her life in England. But Kentucky quickly proves equally claustrophobic, especially living alongside her father-in-law. So when a call goes out for a team of women to deliver books as part of Eleanor Roosevelt's new traveling library, Alice signs on enthusiastically. The leader is Margery a self-sufficient woman and they will be joined by three other singular women who become known as the Packhorse Librarians of Kentucky. What happens to them--and to the men they love--becomes an unforgettable drama of loyalty, justice, humanity, and passion. These heroic women refuse to be cowed by men or by convention. And though they face all kinds of dangers in a landscape that is at times breathtakingly beautiful, at others brutal, they're committed to their job: bringing books to people who have never had any, arming them with facts that will change their lives. Based on a true story rooted in America's past, The Giver of Stars is unparalleled in its scope and epic in its storytelling. Funny, heartbreaking, and enthralling, it is destined to become a modern classic--a richly rewarding novel of women's friendship, of true love, and of what happens when we reach beyond our grasp for the great beyond.

Charlton selectmen revisit ARPA priorities

BY JASON BLEAU CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON The Charlton Board of Selectmen continues to ponder how to best use the remainder of ARPA (American Rescue Plan Act) money at their disposal with several board members seeking ways to prioritize money to help with larger initiatives in the pipeline.

Town Administrator Andrew Golas provided an update on Charlton's ARPA money in November after assessing the town's annual capital plan. Golas revealed that with numerous smaller capital projects set to be funded with the ARPA money Charlton has $578.908 remaining in the coffers to be used before Dec. 31, 2024. In recent months the town has explored utilizing ARPA funds for a variety of capital improvement initiatives. However, at the November Board of Selectmen meeting several selectmen pondered reexamining the town's priorities to focus on larger scale must-have projects rather than smaller initiatives that the taxpayers could bare if they chose.

Selectmen David Singer and

Bill Borowski were the driving voices behind this concept. Borowski, who called himself a contrarian on the matter, said he would like to see the ARPA money used on fewer more expensive projects to offset the cost to taxpayers for required enhancements.

"I think we're spending too much money out of this that is not going to the school roofs or the soon to be potential fire substation," said Borowski, who noted that the middle school roofs, which were recently approved during a ballot election, are now a required investment by both Charlton and Dudley. "I think a lot of this other stuff, even though it's important, is, I don't even want to call it discretionary, but I would rather see this go up to different votes and knowing that we have to do the roofs at this point to put as much money as we can towards that."

Golas confirmed that the roofs were a viable use of the money. Borowski eventually voiced his opinion that $1.5 million in ARPA funds should be saved for these larger projects. Selectman Singer agreed that the town could use the ARPA money to its advantage to solve current required upgrades while some smaller projects wait to see if the taxpayers are willing to support them on their own.

"We have an opportunity here to save some of these funds to apply toward expenses that are going to be non-optional to try to reduce any impact, hit, or effect on our taxpayers. Anything extra on here, the town meeting voters can say we want to, by taxa-tion, pay for this," said Singer. "This (money) still can be used to prevent us or lower what we would have to ask the taxpayers for to cover things that are not options."

While Selectman Borowski was prepared to make a motion to commit $1.5 million in ARPA money to the school roofs alone, selectmen decided not to act on the recommendation. Instead, they did instruct the Town Administrator to reevaluate the ARPA plan, complimenting him on his work so far but acknowledging that they believe the funding might be better prioritized on more immediate, large-scale needs. Golas said he planned to bring an updated plan to the board during their Dec. 13 meeting

BEYOND THE PEWS REV. JOHN H.D. LUCY

I know a lot of parents, Christian and not, debate whether they should teach kids about Santa Claus. If you're a kid reading this, put down the newspaper and go ask your parents.

So, I love Santa Claus. I really do. Perhaps precisely because many would expect me and other pastors to denounce Santa in the name of the true meaning of Christmas. But I think Jolly Ole Saint Nick encapsulates the true meaning of Christmas. His name points to the reason.

The tradition of Santa Claus, as you may know, stems back to a real person, St. Nicholas, of whom any number of traditions and legends have been told. Which are true and which aren't doesn't matter to me, they all have the same basic moral: giving up personal wealth to give to those who have nothing, or are in desperate need of joy. Some recent movies and books, like "Klaus" (my favorite) and "The Christmas Chronicles," which my seminary friends and I read aloud to each other, help us remember the true foundation. St. Nick wanted to give to destitute kids and other joyless persons what he could, often making the gifts himself, and dropping off the gifts unannounced. That sounds like Christmas to me.

It is also true that some of us have morphed the Santa tradition into a magical myth to excite kids who already have plenty. Tim Allen's "Santa Clause" movies, which I grew up on, prove the point: the family had money aplenty, the issue was how Santa could get to every house in one night, and no mention of God anywhere.

Yet that doesn't need to be the case. Along with a number of other churches in town and the surrounding area, CCUMC contributed in dropping off hundreds of Operation Christmas Child boxes to Greenville Baptist Church this year. Those boxes will go to kids around the world in need of Christmas joy, kids who otherwise might not have received anything. That's Santa Claus, in the name of God.

The wise men in Matthew's gospel

bring Jesus gifts, for he himself is a gift of joy. Gift giving, especially to those in need, is baked into Christmas. If we lose Santa Claus, St. Nick, and just go to worship Christmas Eve focused on ourselves, then that too would be missing the true meaning of Christmas. We need Santa to remind ourselves that the gift of Christ is not just for those of us who already believe, who already have, but is perhaps most of all to those who don't have.

Let's commit this Christmas to celebrate the season because of Christ so that we can teach the purpose of Santa Claus to our kids, teach them what Christmas is really about. Maybe one day they'll ask to be Santa Claus for others.

Holiday traditions

Did you ever wonder where the tradition of the Christmas stocking came from, or why traditional Christmas colors are red, green, and gold or why Kentucky Fried Chicken in Japan is so busy on Christmas? There are endless myths and fables surrounding the Christmas holiday, but there are even more interesting facts. While researchingChristmas, and digging deep, we found a plethora of fun and thought-provoking facts worth sharing with our readers. The first one notes that early images of St. Nicholas depict him as a strict disciplinarian rather than the overweight, jolly man in the red suit we see today. Way back when, a common Christmas eve tradition was to tell scary ghost stories by the fire, boo! In 1914, during the First World War, a truce between the United Kingdom and Germany was held. They decorat-ed their shelters for the holiday and exchanged gifts and even played a game of football with each other. When a child drops a letter in

When a child drops a letter in the mail to Santa in America, the mail is sent to Santa Claus, Ind. Thanks to the province of Nova Scotia, who since 1918 have been sending the city of Boston an enormous Christmas tree as a thank you for supporting them during the Halifax explosion. Pope Julius I, bishop of Rome, proclaimed December 25 as the official day to celebrate the birth of Jesus in A.D. 350. For the past 40 years, people in Japan eat Kentucky Fried Chicken for Christmas dinner and must make their orders two months in advance.

British illustrator John Horsley invented Callcott the card in 1843. Christmas first In England from 1649-1660, Puritan head of state Oliver Cromwell outlawed Christmas celebrations and carols. The first artificial Christmas trees were made in Germany out of dyed goose feathers, (we're still trying to picture this one). X is the Greek letter "chi," which is an abbreviation for the word "Christ" in Greek hence the abbre-viation X-mas being used so often. Several European countries thought that goodandevilspiritswereactiveduringthe Twelve Days of Christmas. These 'spirits' then became known as Santa's elves. Have you ever wondered what a 'Yule' log actually is? We have as well. It is a large log that is burned during the Twelve Days of Christmas as a symbol of health, fertility, luck and is said to ward off evil spirits. In Bolivia, there is a celebration called the 'Mass of the Rooster' that takes place on Christmas Eve. Some folks bring roosters to the mass to symbolize the thought that a rooster was the first animal to announce the birth of Jesus. In 2010, the Columbian government hung lights on jungle trees. When the FARC guerrillas sauntered by, the trees lit up and released banners asking the terrorists to lay down their weapons. As a result, 331 guerrillas peacefully re-entered into the community. Here's an interesting one, the 'Bicycle' card company created playing cards during WWII that revealed an escape route for POWs in Germany. In the song "The Twelve Days of Christmas," the verse referring to "true love" is a reference to God. A "partridge in a pear tree" represents Christ and the "two turtledoves" represent the Old and New Testaments. Did you ever wonder why the colors red, green, and gold are affiliated with Aloe vera plants grow best in sunny windows away from cold drafts.

Growing easy-care aloe vera, nature's burn ointment

Grow your own burn ointment by adding Aloe vera to your indoor plant collection. This succulent has been used for centuries to treat superficial burns, cuts, sunburns, and more.

The gel inside the leaves is the medicinal part of the plant. Just cut away the outer part of the leaf and use just the gel on the problem areas. Make sure to remove the latex plant sap located between the outer layer (skin) of the leaf and the gel that can cause skin irritation. It is always best to test a small area of your skin first.

You may have read about Aloe vera being used in beverages and desserts. Properly prepare the aloe before consuming. Make sure to remove the latex and use only the gel to avoid cramps, diarrhea, and stomach upset. Keep Aloe vera plants out of the reach of children, cats, and dogs.

Plant Aloe vera in a container with avoiding waterlogged soil. Watering too often or allowing the pot to sit in excess water can lead to root rot and the death of the plant. You will need to water less often in winter when days are shorter, light intensity is lower and plant growth is limited.

Keep plants away from cold drafts and temperatures below 50 degrees

ENTS Fahrenheit that can damage the plants. Northern gardeners may need to move the plants back a bit from the window in winter as outside temperatures drop.

Clean leaves occasionally with a damp rag. This removes any dust that may collect on the leaves and helps reduce the risk of insect pests such as mealy bugs and aphids. These plants are sensitive to many chemicals so check the label and test a leaf before treating the whole plant if additional treatment is needed.

COLA is sweet for Social Security recipients

If you receive Social Security, you've probably already heard that your checks in 2023 will be bigger – considerably bigger, in fact. How can you make the best use of this extra money?

Here's what's happening: For 2023, there's an 8.7 percent cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) for Social Security benefits – the largest increase in 40 years. Also, the monthly Medicare Part B premiums are declining next year, to $164.90/month from $170.10/month, which will also modestly boost Social Security checks for those enrolled in Part B, as these premiums are automatically deducted.

Of course, the sizable COLA is due to the high inflation of 2022, as _______ the Social Security Administration uses a formula based on increases in the

Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W). So, it's certainly possible that you will need some, or perhaps all, of your larger checks to pay for the increased cost of goods

NIELSON and services. But if your cash flow is already relatively strong, you might want to consider these suggestions for using your bigger checks: Reduce withdrawals from your investment portfolio. When you're retired, you will likely need to withdraw a certain amount from your portfolio each year to meet your expenses. A boost in your Social Security may enable you to withdraw less, at least for a year. This can be particularly advantageous when the markets are down, as you'd like to avoid, as much as possible, selling investments and withdrawing the money when investment prices are low. And the fewer investments you need to sell, the longer your portfolio may last during your retirement years.

Help build your cash reserves. When you're retired, it's a good idea to maintain about a year's worth of the amount you'll spend from your portfolio in cash, while also keeping three months' of your spending needs in an emergency fund, with the money kept in a liquid, low-risk account. Your higher Social Security checks could help you build these cash reserves. (Also, it's helpful to keep another three to five years' worth of spending from your portfolio in short-term, fixed-income investments, which now, due to higher interest rates, offer better income opportunities.) Contribute to a 529 plan. You could use some of your extra Social Security money to contribute to a tax-advantaged 529 education savings plan for your grandchildren or other family members.

Consider using a clay pot that allows the soil to thoroughly dry between watering and prevent larger often top-heavy plants from tipping over. Use a pot as wide as it is deep whenever possible to accommodate the spreading nature of this plant.

Cover the drainage hole with a coffee filter or piece of paper towel. This prevents the potting mix from leaking out the drainage holes after planting. Use a well-drained cacti and succulent potting mix.

Grow this plant in a sunny window along with your other cacti and succulents. South and unobstructed east or west-facing windows are usually the best. Set it under artificial lights if a brightly lit location is not available.

Water thoroughly whenever the top third of the soil is dry. Avoid applying water over the center of the plant where it can collect between the leaves and lead to rot. Pour off excess water that collects in the saucer.

Prevent early death of your plant by

Watch for small plants to form at the base of the original plant. You can use these offsets, often called plantlets or pups, to start new plants to grow or share with others. Use a sharp knife to separate the small plants, roots and all, from the parent plant. Repot the offsets in small containers just an inch or two larger than the remaining root system.

Enjoy the beauty and medicinal benefits of this easy-care plant. Then consider gifting a few to your favorite gardeners and cooks.

Learning as you go

When my father, his publisher, and I set out to build a Web platform for independent filmmakers, I didn't know what I was getting myself into. Immediately, I was required to learn to do things I had never done before.

It was the first time I managed a startup. My background before this was almost strictly in the arts.

The thoughts ran through my head, "I've never built a web platform before, I don't have the qualifications, and I don't know how to code!"

I voiced my concern to my father, and he enthusiastically replied, "You don't need to know exactly what you're doing in order to start doing it. Just Google what you don't know, and we'll get it done."

Before I could argue, I realized he was right. There was too much to learn, too much to do; I'd have to learn as I went.

I chuckled to him, "as long as I don't have to learn to write computer code, we'll get it done." At this point in my life, the only thing I knew how to do on a computer was to send an email. He said, "Don't worry, we will hire someone to code; you won't have to learn that."

The biggest hurdle we needed to overcome was fundraising. To raise the money we needed, we felt it was best to write a white paper for investors describing the type of online platform we wanted to build, what kind of problems it would solve, and our customer base.

There was only one problem; I'd never written a white paper before. As I contemplated what to do, I remembered my dad's advice and thought, "I'll find the answers along the way."

I sat down at the computer and started typing while also googling how to write a white paper. After much work, I developed a top-notch investor white paper with my dad and his publisher's help.

There were seemingly infinite things I needed to learn how to do; financial projections, a pitch deck, a business model, a go-to-market strategy, and much more.

Google became my best friend.

Contribute to charitable organizations. You might want to use some of your Social Security money to expand your charitable giving. Your generosity will help worthy groups and possibly bring you some tax benefits, too.

While it's nice to have these possible options in 2023, you can't count on future COLA increases being as large. The jump in inflation in 2022 was due to several unusual factors, including pandemic-related government spending, supply shortages and the Russian invasion of Ukraine. It's quite possible, perhaps even likely, that inflation will subside in 2023, which, in turn, would mean a smaller COLA bump in 2024.

Nonetheless, while you might not want to include large annual COLA increases as part of your long-term financial strategy, you may well choose to take advantage, in some of the ways described above, of the bigger Social Security checks you'll receive in 2023. When opportunity knocks, you may want to open the door.

Shotgun season opens

The opening of the shotgun deer season in Mass. had a low turnout of hunters locally, although the Douglas state forest had cars lined up on Route 16 on Monday and this past Saturday. Some impressive bucks were weighed in at the Webster check station last week, and had 113 deer checked in at Webster as of this past Saturday. Listening to deer stories from hunters this year make you laugh, and some almost make you cry from laughter. My son, Ralph, Jr., harvested a nice eight pointer after sitting in his tree stand in Uxbridge for only five minutes. It seems the deer may have followed him to his tree stand and watched him climb into it. He barely had time to sit down before he spotted the big buck, and dropped him with a single shot from his shotgun. Another hunter harvested a nice buck while ground hunting. The eight pointer walked right into his path, and never spotted him. He dropped the buck right in his tracks.

Listening to hunters that missed deer because of a gun malfunction, or a scope that for some reason had moved, had you laugh as they told their stories, with most excuses totally outrageous. Of course, could it have been the shooter making a bad shot?

When the shotgun season ends Dec. 10, deer hunters will have one last chance to harvest some venison for the freezer during the primitive arms season which opens Dec. 12 and runs through to Dec. 31. A little bit of snow is sure to bring the deer harvest up before the season ends. There have been reports of multiple deer spotted close to homes during the shotgun season. Hopefully, they will split up and go looking for better feeding areas, but do not plan on them leaving. With the acorn crop very spotty this year, deer will continue to feed on grass, and when the snow covers the grass they will start to feed on many ornamental bushes that homeowners have paid substantial sums of money to plant. Fruit trees can also become a meal for deer, with farmers suffering the most damage. Residents should not be feeding deer just to watch them in their backyards. It is sure nice to watch deer in your backyard during the winter months, but it could also cost you big money when they start to feed on your bushes and trees.

With the Christmas season just around the corner, many friends and family members are often undecided what to get the sportsmen for Christmas. The best thing is a gift card at their favorite sporting goods store; cash is also the best way to go.

Soup, whether it's simple or fancy, is steeped in memories, and many a long, cold New England winter has been cheered by bowls of soup that warm both body and soul. While fast food and quick fix suppers often win out over slow simmering stews and soups for busy weeknight meals, soups still have a place in today's suppertime scramble. Soups are not only deliciously filling, they're typically made with fresh, healthy ingredients. Add in the money saving factor, the convenience of one pot cooking and the opportunity for unbridled culinary creativeness, and it's easy to see why America is rekindling its love affair with soups and stews.

Read on for a dose of inspiration to cook up a pot of soup this season!

Heirloom Soups: A generation or so ago soup suppers were not uncommon. Many of these diverse dishes reflected the ethnic background of the family at the dinner table. A hearty bowl of Pasta Fagioli and crusty bread was a familiar supper in Italian neighborhoods, as Jewish families enjoyed chicken matzo ball soup with braided challah, and those of French Canadian decent baked Johnny cake to go with a pot of green pea soup. Today, many of these family recipes have been passed down to new generations. While the recipes may be tweaked by enthusiastic TikTok inspired cooks, the tradition of preparing a soup supper, whether it's made from chicken or beans, remains the same. As most cooks will attest, something magical happens when a big pot of water begins filling up with ingredients. Kids stop their homework to peek into the pot; spouses sneak in for a quick taste; and like the classic French fable "Stone Soup," a dash of this and a handful of that contributed particularly relevant to soups, simply due to the many chopping and cutting tasks required for soup and stew preparation. "Spiritual cooking" has become a buzz word in the culinary world as mindfulness and love, as well as chanting and prayer are being integrated into cooking chores in the belief it will heighten both flavor and awareness.

Tip: Make it a habit to de-stress before cooking, take a few deep breaths, smile and think positive thoughts as you prep and cook in the kitchen.

Food for Thought - Fun Soup Facts:

*The earliest evidence of humans eating soup was 6000 BC. The main ingredient was hippopotamus.

*The ladies of the French court of Louis XI subsisted mainly on soup because they believed that chewing would cause them to develop facial wrinkles.

*The story goes that in the late 1700s, French royal chefs created a clear broth (called consommé) because the king wanted to see his reflection in his bowl.

*Soup is a breakfast food in Japan. The day is often started with a bowl of fish broth with rice.

*There is an old Yiddish saying, "Troubles are easier to take with soup than without.'

*Frank Sinatra's contracts often specified that chicken and rice soup be in his dressing room prior to performances.

*Andy Warhol said he painted soup cans because he had soup for lunch every day for 20 years.

I make this at least once a month, because it is super easy and always delicious!

Side note: Once you make this, you many never buy tomato soup in a can again.

Ingredients: One medium onion; one stick of butter; two 28 ounce cans of diced, crushed, or whole tomatoes; half can of water; spices: salt; pepper; turmeric and cayenne (optional).

Directions: In a medium pan, melt the butter with an onion cut into quarters. When butter melts, add two cans of tomatoes and some water if it looks like it needs thinning. Cook until it starts to boil, then simmer slowly for 40 minutes, stirring occasionally. Using an immersion blender, puree the soup to desired consistency. Add salt, pepper, and turmeric and cayenne to taste.

A few months later, when all was running smoothly and according to plan, we lost our developer! Quickly, I realized that I was going to have to learn to code.

In many ways, this was my worst nightmare. Still, after enrolling, I daydreamed that after graduation, I'd be an expert computer programmer, knowing everything there was to know about computer languages.

On my first day of school, I was surprised to learn that instead of teaching me everything there was to know about writing code, they would teach me just enough so that I knew how to teach myself.

The field of computer programming is so vast that my school's only objective was to teach me enough so that I knew how to find the answers I needed on my own. In other words, they wanted me to start coding, even though I didn't know everything I needed to know.

Using Google efficiently is a core job skill in computer programming, but it's not just for programmers. With the internet, we all can learn as we go, looking up whatever we need to know at a Christmas? Green is a symbol of life and rebirth, red symbolizes the blood of Christ and gold is a symbol of light, wealth, and royalty. Christmas trees are grown for roughly 15 years before they are purchased. In Poland spider webs are a common decoration for trees because a spider, according to legend, wove a blanket for baby Jesus. In 1836, Alabama was the first state in the country to officially recognize Christmas. Mistletoe is considered sacred to the Druids because it produces fruit and remains green throughout the winter. The Druids never let the plant hit the ground and believed that it was a cure for infertility and warded off evil spirits. Environmentalist Teddy Roosevelt banned Christmas trees from the White House in Apples were 1901. the first Christmas tree decorations.

Why do we hang stockings by the chimney with care? Apparently, there were three sisters who were too poor to afford a marriage dowry and were bound to end up on the streets. Bishop Saint Nicholas filled their stockings with gold coins, and their lives were forever changed. We hope you enjoyed these fun Christmas facts and hope that you have a happy holiday season filled with endless laughter and memories to last a lifetime.

Bay Path returns to championship form, wins State Vocational title

Bay Path players can't contain their excitement in the final seconds of the Minutemen's 28-20 win against Monty Tech in the State Vocational Large School Championship game.

DUDLEY — The always proud Bay Path Regional football program is synonymous with winning. But the recent past has brought with it some mediocre seasons. That was until now, as the Minutemen captured the State Vocational Large School Championship on Thursday, Dec. 1 at Shepherd Hill Regional's Carmignani Field. The eight-team bracket saw Bay Path earn the No. 3 seed. The Minutemen then defeated No. 6 Greater New Bedford (47-21) and No. 7 Northeast Regional (28-6) — last year's champion and runner up — to set up the final against No. 4 Monty Tech. And, against the Bulldogs, the offensive line was superb. The hard-nosed linemen allowed for Bay Path to run for a staggering 366 yards which led to a 28-20 victory. "Bay Path's always been a winning program and it's good to see our kids get back to that. They're winners again. It hasn't been acceptable for us," head coach Cody Giampa said of the recent past on Muggett Hill. "This is the level this program should be at."

on downs and the offense needed two plays to score. Following a 72-yard gain by Kaiden Brochu, Casey Gallagher punched the ball into the end zone from 2 yards out. Quarterback Anthony Catino, who doubles as the place kicker, added the extra point.

Another defensive stop turned in by

Regarding the immense amount of rushing yards, Giampa put it simply.

"We're a physical team and we run the ball hard," he said. "They just want to run the ball, play aggressive defense, hurt people and win football games. The fact that they're doing that, it's awesome."

On the defensive front, stopping Monty Tech in general, and the Quinn brothers in particular — quarterback Logan and fullback Ryan — played a huge role in the victory.

"They've scored 40 points in almost every game they've played. They have really good players and the Quinn brothers are both unbelievable," said Giampa, and the Minutemen knew that first hand after defeating the Bulldogs back on Sept. 30 in a shootout, 43-36.

Bay Path jumped out to a 7-0 lead early when the defense forced a turnover the Minutemen led to a 14-0 lead midway through the second quarter. There, Gallagher added his second touchdown of the game, this one from 3 yards and Catino added another extra point.

Logan Quinn had a 4-yard rushing score next to trim Monty Tech's deficit down to 14-6. But, with the Bulldogs trying to tie the score later in the quarter, Jonathan Nussey picked Logan Quinn off for the lone turnover of the contest. That led to Bay Path points 22 seconds before halftime, with Catino executing a 2-yard QB keeper into the end zone. Gallagher added the two-point rush and the Minutemen led 22-6.

After a scoreless third quarter, Monty Tech pulled themselves to within 10 points, 22-12, when Ryan Quinn scored from a yard out with 5:43 remaining.

Once again, showing their toughness and desire to become champions, Bay Path needed less than a minute to put another touchdown on the board. Brochu took an end-around to the right and scampered 61 yards to pay dirt, extending the lead to 28-12.

The Bulldogs made things interesting when Logan Quinn scored on a 3-yard touchdown and Ryan Quinn tacked on the two-point rush with 2:32 remaining, but the Minutemen finished it off when Brochu ran for nine yards and a first down in the final minute, hurdling over a defender in the process. With Monty Tech (9-4) out of timeouts, the game was essentially over.

"My coaches said that all we needed was a first down to win and I was willing to put my body out there for my team because I love all these kids, they're like family to me," said Brochu.

Brochu (15 carries, 210 yards) and Gallagher (20 carries, 137 yards) were the workhorses that gained the yards, with linemen like center Georgios Pirperis providing the blocking.

"In the beginning of the season we were a little sloppy and every game we got better and better," said Pirperis. "Those kids were running. They hit the hole really hard."

Giampa was proud of the work both Brochu and Gallagher put in.

"Both of those kids have been animals for us all season," he said. "Brochu is one of the best players in the state. I would challenge anybody to find a better player than him. He just knows football, he's aggressive, he's physical and he's had close to 2,000 yards as a sophomore this year."

In regard to Gallagher, Giampa added, "Gallagher is a Bay Path football player. He's tough, he's hard-working, he's a welder, so he welds all week and then he comes to practice. He's not looking to juke people out, he's looking to run through people."

Bay Path, which finished 8-5, has won the State Vocational Championship for the first time since 2008. They also captured the Central Mass. Division 6 Super Bowl in 2011.

"I'm happy that we're the people to break it. I'm super, super excited. Playing football in December, it's the best feeling," said Pirperis.

"It means everything to the program," added Brochu. "Hopefully we can continue it going on next year and even the years after," added Brochu.

"These kids are champions. For a long time, putting on a Bay Path uniform meant you were going to be a winner and a champion, and we kind of got off of that a little before I came here," Giampa, the third-year head coach, concluded.

The Quinebaug Quartet was founded by four New England based freelance musicians who spend much of their summers playing weddings. During one wedding in the summer of 2021, the four musicians discovered that they were a particularly fun and cohesive combination. They made the decision to continue playing together and the Quinebaug Quartet was born! Each player brings decades of experience playing solo, chamber, orchestral, church and operatic works throughout New England.

Laura Gulley plays both modern and historical violin and viola. She is a member of the Rhode Island Philharmonic and Boston Baroque and plays in the Proteus Quartet in residence at Rhode Island College. She teaches Suzuki violin, viola and chamber music at the Music School of the Rhode Island Philharmonic. Gulley has traveled, toured, and recorded with several baroque and Renaissance music ensembles and contemporary music groups. She loves playing music for operas and for theater productions, recording strings and sound effects for songwriters, and performing music for dancers.

Violist Susan Kirchhausen is a graduate of Florida State University who went on to earn her master's degree in music education from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst. Operating out of her Worcester studio, Kirchhausen has been a private music teacher in central Massachusetts since 1996. In addition to her busy teaching schedule, she maintains an active performance schedule as a freelance violist throughout New England and beyond. Before making her home in Worcester, Susan made her way up the East Coast playing with the Disney All-American College Orchestra and the Tallahassee, Greensboro, and Savannah Symphony Orchestras. She has worked with such artists as Ray Charles, The Moody Blues, Dave Brubeck, and Rosemary Clooney.

Aaron Packard is a violinist who teaches at the Joy of Music Program in Worcester, and at the Groton School in Groton. Performing music of many genres and periods, he is an avid improviser and proponent of new music, having worked closely with many contemporary composers such as Ellen Lindquist, Elizabeth Adams, Ted Hearne, Henryk Strindberg, and John Luther Adams to find and experiment with new sound ideas. He is a founding member of the Hartford-based Cuatro Puntos Ensemble (cuatropuntos.org), with whom he can be heard on many recordings on the Arkadash and Métier labels. He is also a member of the New England Repertory Orchestra, the Massachusetts Symphony Orchestra, and the Worcester Symphony Orchestra.

Eleanor Blake is a cello soloist, orchestral player, chamber musician and teacher. Currently a member of The Claflin Hill Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, Philharmonic Plymouth Orchestra and The Cape Symphony, Blake has plaved under the baton of international conductors like James Levine, Bernard Haitink, and Raphael Frühbeck De Burgos, and has worked with international soloists like 'cellist Yo-Yo Ma, soprano Renée Fleming, and violinist Joshua Bell. cifically coming in just to have lunch. For the last couple years, that has been impossible, since the Red Baron Diner closed. Last week, Josh's Place filled the gap, formally opening to the public by giving away cookies and egg muffin sandwiches.

"It's great to have alternatives for people who come and go at the airport," said Town Manager Michael McCall, who noted he'd "worked a lot" with Josh Letendre, the diner's new owner. It took jumping "a few hurdles" to get here, including having to advertise the diner's availability a few times before Letendre jumped on it. (The property is owned by the town.)

Letendre said he's been in the restaurant business 25 years, including three in Boston. "Born and raised in Sturbridge," he liked this diner because of the beautiful view and its history, he added.

"I've done everything from mom and pop spots to fine dining, pretty much every style," he said. "I'm willing to bring back a good family dining spot for the community."

Airport Manager Ron Plouffe said this diner was actually built in 1958 in New Jersey, and is the only remaining one (of five) of this model. Years ago, his predecessor Charles Latour found it for sale in Pennsylvania, bought it and moved it here. Previously, he'd run a small diner tucked into the inside corner of the old quonset hut, which was wiped out by the 2011 tornado.

"The diner is vital to this operation," he said.

As far as Plouffe knows, Southbridge is one of the few general aviation airports in Massachusetts that has such an amenity, and it draw pilots from everywhere. A couple times a year, he gets a visitor who flies in from San Diego, takes a trip down to Treehouse Brewery, and flies home with a planeload of beer. Even more often, he'll get calls from a New England pilots group who flies in to meet, from around the region, sometimes to have a cookout. "Pilots love the fort they can

"Pilots love the fact they can just park their plane and go to the diner," he said.

"We're looking forward to a great relationship with Josh here at the airport," said Airport Commission Chair Rick Clemence. "I enjoy having more business in town."

Gus Steeves can be reached at gus.steeves2@gmail.com.

As people file inside, the diner quickly becomes a cozy place, welcome for its shelter from the cold wind. Town Manager Michael McCall and Councilor Jasmin Rivas face the camera.

become an asset with potential to grow into a powerful tool for students who could have otherwise been left behind.

"We're keeping the numbers of students in those classrooms very low," Bergeron said of the classrooms. "To start building a program while servicing students is a daunting task, so I want to thank all the staff that are involved in those three classrooms. It is a lot of work, and it is difficult work, but in the end those children are really going to benefit. We are continuing to support the staff in building those programs and I'm just really excited to see where they go. They've already had a significant impact on the lives of children that otherwise wouldn't be able to go here.'

Upon his arrival last fall, Bergeron said one of the biggest issues was problems with compliance. He said the number of compliance issues was "unacceptable" but everyone has worked over the past year to improve and bring the program to new heights. Still, Bergeron said compliance supervision remains a priority to make sure the program doesn't go "backwards."

Other enhancements on Bergeron's list included the finalizing of guidance documents for staff, working with DESE on tier focused monitoring and updated policies and procedures, and the addition of new staff and programs to helping with reading and writing capabilities. The department has also embraced new technology in the form of Teachdown, an ILC curriculum support hardware now installed in all classrooms. Bergeron also stressed the importance of refocusing on special education educators and interventionists and supporters first, something he feels got lost in years past. "With the black and white teach

"With the black and white teaching model that was in place here for a few years some of those interventions weren't attended to as closely as they needed to be," Bergeron admitted.

With these new programs in place Bergeron said he hopes to see the special education department continue to grow and admitted there are several areas where they can work to improve. Among those are transportation admitting that he has heard the complaints from several parents. Caseload and resource allocation, data cleanup, flexibility, professional and support program development, and continued compliance monitoring were all areas Bergeron told school officials he'd like to continue to work and build on in the months and years to come.

the world and I just want to spread love," said Claire. "One day, I just decided I wanted to help someone. I feel really lucky to have everything I have and to get my presents on Christmas and have so many people who love and care for me. Some kids don't get that, so I think it's very important that kids have that growing up. It's very important to feel loved, especially around the holidays."

Claire's mother, Marcy, said her daughter's cause began when she decided to forgo making Christmas wishes while visiting Santa. Instead, she asked Santa to give her gifts to those less fortunate. Marcy said from that day on Claire had embraced the spirit of giving around the holidays.

'She recognized that there are so many people in her life that love her and are so generous. She felt like she didn't need as much from Santa," said Marcy. "It's inspiring and I get emotional about it. She's very mature, very loving, and very kind,"

Last year, Claire raised around $1,000 to help her assigned family. She says she doesn't set a goal for each year, but that she often raised enough to buy everything on the lists as well as some additional toys to donate to Toys for Tots. She appreciates the support she receives every year and calls it proof that "people are still good."

"I'm still growing up, so I don't really know what it's like not to get everything that I have," Claire said. "I think it's important to recognize that not everyone is as fortunate. If you didn't have what you have, you'd probably be a different person. It's good to feel loved, and not everyone gets to feel that."
