CHARLTON — The Charlton Board of Selectmen addressed several personnel matters relating to emergency services during a meeting on Jan. 14, including the official pinning of the new fire chief and the announcement of an impending retirement in the police department.

The big moment of the night was the pinning of new Fire Chief Rob Barton who was promoted following the retirement of Ed Knopf at the end of 2024. Barton was joined by a room full of family, friends, and department employees as he was sworn in to lead as chief for the foreseeable future.

“I want to thank the Town Administrator and the Board of Selectmen for this opportunity. I have an incredible support network with my family – the members of the Charlton Fire Department, and the countless friends that have come to support me. It’s been an incredible transition so far, but if it wasn’t for the team that I have an absolute honor and privilege to lead it would be so much more difficult, but Chief Knopf has done an incredible job with the department and I’m fortunate enough to take over and just continue the phenomenal work that he has done,” said Barton.

The meeting also announced from the Charlton Police Department with Lt. Keith Cloutier submitting his intention to retire in July after 30 years of service to the town. The selectmen accepted the notice with regret. Although Lt. Cloutier has plenty of time left with the department, Selectman David Singer made sure to compliment his service and commitment to the community.

“A sincere thank you for lieutenant’s service to the town. Thirty years is a significant achievement and he’s given a lot, and I just hope he knows that everything he gave is very much appreciated,” said Singer.

Selectmen did not announce how they plan to approach filling the vacancy.

The Board of Selectmen also approved new contracts for both Chief Barton and Police Chief Daniel Dowd. The meeting also confirmed the hiring of two new positions for the police department adding a new dispatcher and a traffic controller.

Southbridge receives $8 million for Hamilton Street

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE — The third time’s the charm for Southbridge.

Earlier this month, the town got notice that its third attempt to seek federal RAISE grant funding to repair Hamilton Street was approved, to the tune of $8 million.

“We sent pleading emails in the eleventh hour and kept our expectations low, but to our amazement, were notified two weeks ago,” Economic Development Director Peg Dean said.

This would have been the town’s last chance to apply, and Southbridge was “automatically brought in” to this application round on the basis of previously nearly reaching the goal.

But Hamilton Street isn’t going to happen immediately. It’s one project among several that will reshape downtown over the next few years.

Dean said the first one to be done will be North Street and the side streets along it this summer. Phase one of the River/Crane project (from Hamilton to Dexter-Russell) and the Quinebaug Valley Rail Trail also start this year. (Phase two of River/Crane, from Dexter to Pleasant, is being designed this year for construction next year.)

The massive Transportation Improvement Project (TIP) will start this fall; that entails rearranging Central, Larochelle, Foster and Hook streets and has been in planning for nearly a decade. That project’s slated to take 30 months and begin with water/sewer lines and drainage work. But the work actually stops just south of Larochelle, so the town is also looking into how to complete Central and Foster to Main.

Dean said starting Hamilton has to wait until River/Crane is complete next year because of the drainage work that will affect both streets.

“Hamilton Street will probably finish last of all the projects,” with work probably beginning in three years, she said.

That’s partly because a different TIP project is replacing the two Mill Street bridges, and the town doesn’t want to block off the alternate routes through town at the same time. That work will wait until River/Crane is done, too.

“We’re trying to maintain access to all our businesses during construction,” she added, noting the town also hopes this work – especially the rail trail – inspires people to start new businesses in town. Regarding the rail trail, when that work’s done, it will not include a bridge over the rotary, but “we’ll certainly be keeping our eyes out” for ways to fund one. Once people start using it, she said she expects a stronger public push to add one, but cost

Sturbridge Planning Board OK’s ADU bylaw changes

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — The Planning Board is sending revised zoning bylaws implementing a new state law expanding by-right use of “accessory dwelling units” (ADUs) to the April Town Meeting after unanimously approving them Jan. 13.

According to Planner Jean Bubon, the changes will allow ADUs – commonly termed in-law apartments – in “every district that allows single-family homes.” To qualify, they need to be less than 900 square feet or half of the home’s gross square footage (not just living space), which ever is smaller. They can be within the home if they have a separate entrance or access via a shared hallway, or be built in an accessory structure on the property that is not currently being used for human habitation. Either way, they need their own utilities.

Although state law says they do not have to be occupied by relatives, their use as short-term rentals is “specifically prohibited,” she added.

Additionally, the law still allows towns to require they meet certain other things, such as parking, setback, lot coverage and building code, and to require people seeking them on existing nonconforming lots to get approval from the Zoning Board.

Larger ADUs will still need special permits.

“Nothing we’ve seen or KP Law [the town’s attorney] has seen gives us any indication that what we’ve written won’t be consistent with how [the law] comes out,” Bubon said.

She noted the state doesn’t like bylaws using the phrase “consistent with the character of the neighborhood,” but argued having that “makes a lot of sense for a lot of reasons.”

Regarding the issue of short-term rentals, Bubon said the town has already seen people buying homes for that purpose, and she routinely tracks the web seeking such ads. Also, she noted the revised bylaw shifts enforcement from the selectboard to the building inspector.

Old Sturbridge Village announces new Vice Presidents of External Affairs and Development

STURBRIDGE — Old Sturbridge Village (OSV), New England's largest living history museum, has appointed Kate McEvoy as Vice President of External Affairs and Bridget Baratta as Vice President of Development, the organization announced today. These senior leadership roles further strengthen the museum's efforts to enhance public engagement and expand its philanthropic initiatives.

"As Old Sturbridge Village grows its reach and impact, we are thrilled to expand our leadership to include these new positions to engage more people with the good work of the Village. We are proud to welcome talented leaders like Kate and Bridget to our team," said Jim Donahue, President and CEO of Old Sturbridge Village. "Their leadership will help carry forward the Village's mission to engage, educate, and inspire through history."

As Vice President of External Affairs, McEvoy will play a pivotal role in advancing the museum's mission by leading efforts to build and strengthen relationships with key external stakeholders, including local, regional, and national organizations, governmental agencies, legislators and community leaders. She will spearhead the development of strategic partnerships that support the museum's educational initiatives, broaden its community engagement and amplify its presence in both the public and philanthropic sectors. In addition, McEvoy will oversee the development of comprehensive external communications strategies that will promote the museum's initiatives and programs.

McEvoy brings more than 25 years of expertise in strategic relationship building, market development, and civic engagement. Before joining OSV, McEvoy served as Vice President of Corporate Relations at UMass Memorial Health, where she worked with key stakeholders in the commercially insured healthcare market to increase market share and enhance the organization's visibility. During her tenure, McEvoy led initiatives such as creating direct employer engagement programs, facilitating community partnerships and advancing anchor mission activities.

She also served as Vice President for Central and Western Massachusetts at Harvard Pilgrim Health Care, where she was responsible for the organization's profit-and-loss performance for the regions of Massachusetts outside of metro Boston. This work included strategic planning, market growth and civic engagement. Earlier in her career, she held leadership roles at Fallon Community Health Plan, where she oversaw external affairs including government relations and philanthropic activities. She holds a Bachelor of Arts from Worcester State University.

"Old Sturbridge Village is one of the most celebrated institutions in our nation, both as an academic resource and a revered living history experience," McEvoy said. "I'm thrilled to be joining the team at such an exciting time and look forward to working with our communities to help even more people enjoy all that OSV has to offer."

Bridget Baratta will serve as Vice President of Development, where she will oversee the museum's fundraising and membership efforts, including annual giving, major and capital gifts, and planned giving. Baratta will be responsible for developing and implementing strategies to grow and diversify the museum's donor base, ensuring continued financial support for Old Sturbridge Village's programs and initiatives.

Baratta, a native of South Dartmouth, brings over two decades of nonprofit development experience to Old Sturbridge Village. Most recently, she served as Vice President of Development at the Rhode Island Foundation, where she was responsible for leading the Foundation's development strategy, team and operations, as well as managing a comprehensive portfolio of donors comprising $1.5 billion of charitable assets.

Baratta also held leadership roles at the Society of Four Arts in Palm Beach, Fla. where she spearheaded a $100 million capital campaign, as well as at the Martin County Community Foundation, Palm Beach Zoo & Conversation Society and Oxbridge Academy. She holds a Bachelor of Arts in International Business from George Washington University and a Master of Science in Education Policy & Administration from the University of Pennsylvania.

"I have fond memories of visiting Old Sturbridge Village as a child and I am excited to partner with such an incredible team, devoted members and generous supporters to expand the Village's impact and bring its invaluable programs to even more people," Baratta said.

In their respective roles, McEvoy and Baratta will work closely with President and CEO Jim Donahue, the Executive Leadership team, and Board of Trustees to drive forward Old Sturbridge Village's strategic vision. Their combined expertise in external affairs and development will be instrumental in evolving Old Sturbridge Village's programs and ensuring long-term sustainability.

"Kate and Bridget's appointments reflect our commitment to bringing exceptional leadership to Old Sturbridge Village," said Donahue. "Their talent and experience will help us move forward with continuing our mission as a significant regional educational resource and national leader in living history."

DA's office receives $50,000 to implement Juvenile Diversion program

WORCESTER — The Worcester County District Attorney's Office has received a $50,000 grant to expand its youth diversion program to the residents of Southbridge and Fitchburg, according to Worcester County District Attorney Joseph D. Early, Jr.

The grant from the Executive Office of Public Safety and Security (EOPSS) will allow the office, in collaboration with Choices, Inc., to expand the Early Diversion Worcester (EDW) program, which diverts vulnerable adolescents between the ages of 12 to 18 who might otherwise enter the criminal justice system due to the impact of school suspensions.

"By reaching kids early, we can work to adapt and modify behavior, while hopefully preventing a lifetime of involvement with the criminal justice system," Early said. "This is crime prevention at its best."

The current Early Diversion Program has successfully enrolled and screened 60 youth since its full implementation in February 2024. One parent of a participant shared, "The Choices program is a supportive, accepting environment that has had a huge impact on my son and our family. In just a couple of months, he has made new friends and has found the motivation to strive for his dreams again. We are forever grateful."

Research by Citizens For Juvenile Justice (CFJJ) has shown that youth are twice as likely to be arrested during periods of school suspension or expulsion. In response to this issue, the Healey-Driscoll Administration allocated nearly $200,000 through the Title II Formula Grant Program to support nonprofit organizations, local police, and state agencies working to prevent at-risk youth from entering the juvenile justice system. The funding is designed to improve outcomes for adolescents through community-based organizations that offer essential services and support.

The program offers a pre-arrest diversion model that provides comprehensive, trauma-informed, recovery-oriented, and equity-based behavioral health services to youth and their families. These services will be provided at the Choices program center in Worcester, where participants will receive individualized care.

Voluntary participants in the program will undergo a comprehensive intake and assessment, which will guide the development of a person-centered care plan. This plan will consider the child's current risk status, history, available resources, and the needs of both the child and their family. In addition, participants will have access to daily programming and free transportation to the Choices center in Worcester. It is anticipated that the program will assist 20 to 25 youth through the duration of the grant.

Keeping it
local —why our community matters most

Big stories from far away dominate our feeds, leaving little room for the stories that directly impact our daily lives. But here in New England, we have something special, a culture of pragmatism, resilience, and a commitment to our neighbors that deserves more of our attention than any distant drama.

When you know what’s happening in your town, you can make better decisions, participate in meaningful ways, and strengthen your community. From town meetings and school board decisions to the opening of a new business or a neighbor organizing a food drive, these are the stories that impact our daily lives.

Local news reminds us that what happens right outside our door often affects us far more than what’s unfolding hundreds of miles away. Sure, keeping an eye on national or global events is important, but the real opportunities for change and impact start right here.

Living in New England is a badge of honor. This isn’t an easy place to call home, and we like it that way. The winters are brutal, the terrain is rugged, and the people. We’re straightforward, skeptical of nonsense, and fiercely independent. But beneath that no-nonsense exterior is a deep sense of loyalty and community.

We might argue about who makes the best chowder or complain about tourists clogging the roads in leaf-peeping season, but when someone in our community needs help, we show up.

Social media and national headlines are filled with division and negativity, but we know better. We’ve built a culture where actions matter more than words and where we measure people not by their politics, but by how they treat others.

Ask yourself, how can I make an impact here? Can you volunteer at a local food pantry? Mentor a student? Organize a block party to bring people together? These small, tangible actions might not make national news, but they’ll make a world of difference to the people around you.

At the end of the day, we’re New Englanders. We don’t fall for the fluff or the fearmongering. We know life is about the relationships we build and the community we create. It’s about showing up, speaking truth, and taking care of the people around us.

Letter submission policy

Letters to the Editor must include the author’s name, address, and a daytime phone number for purposes of verification in order to be considered for publication. Only the author’s name and the town in which they reside will be published. Letters submitted without all of the required information will not be accepted.

It is the sole prerogative of the Editor to determine whether a submission satisfies our requirements and decency standards, and any submission may be rejected at any time for any reason he or she might deem appropriate.

Purchases with a purpose

The other day, I was watching television when a commercial for Bombas’ socks came on the air. The voice over said for every pair purchased, a pair will be donated to the homeless, and that some incredibly high number had already been given. Wow, talk about purchase with a purpose!

Now technically, every time we buy something, there is a purpose of one sort or another behind the purchase. Often it is as simple as we’re hungry and find a café to refuel ourselves.

BEYOND
By

the hospitality that CCUMC is noted for. There will also be some awesome give a ways throughout the event.

There is a $3 admission fee, a portion of which will go to ALS Research, and several outreach ministries of the church (Veterans, Inc. of Worcester; St. Luke’s Guesthouse, and Manna Food Pantry of CCUMC).. The event will run from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 74 Stafford St., Charlton City. And, there’s plenty of free parking.

But the “purchases with a purpose” I’m talking about have far broader reach than merely satisfying our immediate desire or need.

Consider more and more organizations – whether large scale enterprises like Bombas Fashions, or small event hosts are devoting a portion of their proceeds to a greater good when customers purchase their products.

Speaking of which, I recently learned about the generous program sponsored by the Stop & Shop at 100 Charlton Road in Sturbridge, Mass. They have a novel way of helping charitable endeavors. Their flower department puts together specially marked flower arrangements, with a portion of the proceeds going to a different outreach program selected each month from within the community.

Stop & Stop calls their floral arrangements “Bloomin’ 4 Good Bouquets.”

For the month of February the “Manna Food Pantry” (open each Saturday 10 a.m. – noon) at Charlton City United Methodist Church (CCUMC) – your ‘good neighbor church’ on 74 Stafford St., will receive a portion of the proceeds from purchases of those Bloomin’ 4 Good Bouquets. Think of it as flowers for food, or flowers to help feed someone hungry.

In February your purchase of a “Bloomin’4 Good Bouquet” will help the CCUMC food pantry feed others.

This is especially timely since February can be a challenging month for some members in our communities who may have to choose between food and heat. So let’s make someone happy for Valentine’s Day with flowers and help feed our vulnerable neighbors in the process. What could be better?!

Also in February, there’s another opportunity to make your dollars count.

Charlton City United Methodist Church is hosting an exciting event on Saturday, Feb. 1 – the Dynamic Cards, Collectibles and Craft Show. Meeting the needs of a growing group of Pokémon and other enthusiasts, this quarterly event which started at CCUMC is a community activity for young and old alike to come together, make new friends, and learn some fun things, too.

And fun it is! Attendance has nearly doubled from the initial event, and there will be about 50 vendors, as well as food, refreshments, and of course

If we look around, we can find lots of opportunities to help others – indirectly through our purchases, and directly through our own giving and volunteerism. And Heaven knows there are lots of needs in the community – truly something for everyone!

We can support enterprises focusing on charitable outreach, purchasing products that twice bless us – filling our need, and helping fill the needs of others.

Consider the New York bakery (Greyston Bakery) that Ben and Jerry’s hired to supply the ice cream giant with brownies. Selected due to two important factors – the brownies are amazing, and the bakery hires anyone who needs a job, no questions asked. The owner has often stated he started the business to help end homelessness. I’ve heard him say (paraphrasing) they don’t hire homeless to make brownies; they make brownies to hire the homeless.

Paul Newman was a leader in this practice when he created the brand Newman’s Own, with the singular purpose of generating revenues that could go to charity.

If we’re going to buy something anyway, why not see who is using their profits for the public good?

But it doesn’t have to be a major corporation to do good works and remind us of the joy in helping others.

Most of us can remember the TV news showcasing a youngster who hosted a lemonade stand trying to raise money for her sick sibling or similar heartwarming stories over the years. And they are worthwhile endeavors we can encourage children and adolescents to attempt or participate in.

According to the book “The Paradox of Generosity,” the authors share compelling study data which reveal how a regular practice of generosity enhances quality of life and provides health benefits.

In an earlier article, I wrote about the Thrift Trail (anyone working on that map yet?) and how through supporting church and other charity sponsored thrift shops we bless lots of folks, including ourselves far more than just obtaining a good product at a reasonable cost.

Whether purchasing flowers for a food pantry this February at Stop & Stop Southbridge, or Newman’s lemonade for charity, or Bombas’ socks for the homeless, or attending the CCUMC collectibles show Feb. 1, we all can try to make purchases for a purpose, as well as keeping an eye out for the needs around us, and helping others in our community.

You can put more into your 401(k)
this year

NIELSEN

Once you retire, you’ll likely need to draw on a variety of financial sources — and one of the most important ones may be your 401(k). And for 2025, you can put even more money into your plan than ever.

You can invest in your 401(k) in one of two ways, depending on your employer’s plan. With a traditional 401(k), you contribute pre-tax dollars, which can lower your taxable income, and your money can grow tax deferred. If you have a Roth 401(k) option, you can contribute after-tax dollars, which aren’t deductible, but your eventual withdrawals will be tax-free if you’ve had your account at least five years and you’re at least 59 and a half.

For either a traditional or Roth 401(k), as well as similar plans such as a 457(b) (for government employees) or a 403(b) (for educators and employees of some nonprofit groups), the contribution limit has increased by $500 for 2025, to $23,500. If you’re 50 or older, you can contribute an additional $7,500, for a total of $31,000. And under the SECURE 2.0 legislation, if you are between 60 and 63, you have a higher catch-up contribution — $11,250, instead of $7,500, for a total of $34,750.

If you can afford to contribute the full amount to your 401(k) or similar plan, consider doing so. Of course, not everyone is in that position. If you’re a younger worker, you may well have other financial obligations, such as paying off student loans. And even if you’ve been in the workforce for a while, you may be putting away money for other things — such as your children’s education — as well as your own retirement. But even if you can’t “max out” on your 401(k), try to contribute at least enough to earn your employer’s matching contribution, if one is offered.

Regardless of how much you contribute to your 401(k), consider these suggestions on managing the money within your plan:

Create a portfolio that fits your risk tolerance. Most 401(k) plans offer up to a dozen investment options, while some plans offer many more. You obviously want to increase your 401(k) balance as much as possible, but that doesn’t necessarily mean putting all your 401(k) dollars into the most aggressive funds available. Instead, consider spreading your 401(k) contributions among a range of investments, which can help you lower your risk level while still giving you opportunities for long-term growth. Everyone’s risk tolerance is different, though, so you’ll want to evaluate yours when constructing your 401(k) portfolio.

Adjust your portfolio as needed. It’s a good idea to review your 401(k)’s investment mix at least once a year to see if it’s performing as you’d hoped. But be patient — one “down” year doesn’t necessarily mean you must make changes. However, as you approach retirement, you may want to lower the risk level of your 401(k) by moving some of your dollars into more conservative vehicles. Still, even when you’re retired and have started drawing money from your 401(k), you might want to keep some growth potential in it to help you stay ahead of inflation.

By contributing what you can afford to your 401(k), and by carefully managing the investments within your plan, you can help maximize the value of this powerful retirement savings vehicle — and give yourself a key asset to help you enjoy your retirement years.

Tips for Painting Perfection!

Are the winter doldrums setting in? Why not perk up your space with a paint project? Since nothing transforms a space quicker or cheaper than paint, it's a natural choice for a mini makeover.

Whether you're painting an entire room or a piece of furniture, the following ideas and techniques can help ensure paint perfection!

Paint is one the easiest, cost effective ways to alter and enhance the spaces you live in. The golden rule to painting walls is that dark colors absorb light, making a room appear smaller, and whites and pastels reflect the light, creating a spacious feel. To expand a small room, paint the walls a color from the cool end of the color wheel. In fact, paint company Sherwin-Williams recommends choosing blue, green or violet hues to make walls appear to recede.

Paint can also be used to visually correct architectural flaws. To widen a long narrow room, use a slightly darker color on the shorter walls and a lighter color on the longer walls. To make a low ceiling appear higher, be sure the ceiling is a lighter color than the walls. A long hallway can be shortened by painting the wall at the end a dark color to bring it closer. And rectangular rooms can instantly appear more symmetric by painting the two short end walls a darker shade.

TAKE THE HINT

**

The proper paint finish can be used to camouflage imperfect walls. For example, Paints that have no sheen, also known as "flat" or "matte" finishes absorb the light. These porous finishes are ideal for hiding flaws in ceilings and walls and are especially appreciated when working with old, plaster surfaces. The downfall is they cannot withstand cleaning and scrubbing so they are not practical for kitchens, bathrooms, children's rooms or other high traffic areas.

Eggshell finish has a slight sheen, similar to that of an eggshell, so it is still somewhat effective at hiding flaws. Its velvety look makes it a popular choice and eggshell finish is a bit more reflective than flat paint so it doesn't show every scuff and can tolerate light cleaning. Satin finish paint is more durable than matte or eggshell finishes. It has a light sheen, and resists moisture, which makes it a popular option for kitchens and bathrooms.

Semi-gloss finishes reflect light and offer a bright, glossy finish which can really add to a room's appeal. Surfaces are easily cleaned, however the shiny finish shows surface imperfections, making it impractical for many applications. Newer trims and moldings are ideal candidates for semi-gloss paint.

A glossy finish provides a high gloss shine, is very durable and easy to clean. The brilliant shine is typically used for small accent areas, as the finish is very reflective and too distracting for most area applications.

Not sure how much paint to buy? Most major paint companies and home centers offer easy to use paint calculators on their websites for precise measuring. Or, to estimate the amount of paint you need in order to cover the walls of a room, multiply the perimeter of the room by the ceiling height to get square feet. Subtract 20 square feet for each door and 15 square feet for each average-sized window in the room. The figure you end up with is a pretty close estimate of the actual wall area. Keep in mind, you can expect one gallon of paint to cover approximately 350 square feet.

Want to know the most efficient order of painting a room? Experts advise painting ceiling, walls, trim, cabinets, and doors.

Quick Tips

For a quick patch job on walls, simply use items on hand: Mix equal parts of starch and salt, with just enough water to make a thick paste. Apply and smooth over cracks or small holes.

When mixing up commercial plaster, you'll reduce lumps if you add the powdered plaster to the water instead of adding water to the plaster.

Sanding is a tedious chore. To reduce sanding on plastered walls, simply go over freshly applied joint compound with a wet paint brush for a smooth finish.

Ensure a smooth surface: Before painting over an old bureau or other piece of furniture, you can easily clean the finish by wiping it down with a lintfree cloth dampened with straight turpentine. This method picks up any stray dust and helps smooth out the surface to prepare it for painting.

When painting new plaster, or other porous surface, paint on a solution of water mixed with PVA glue first. This seals the surface and stops the paint from soaking into the plaster, giving a better finish and making the paint go further!

When painting with a brush, always keep a wet edge as you paint, and work away from that wet edge. If you paint over a dry edge, you will get overlap marks.

Aerosol paint is a popular choice for re-vamping furniture and small accessories, but it can be frustrating when the paint does not dispel evenly. Here's a trick to ensure a finer and more even coat of paint: Simply place the can in warm water several minutes prior to spraying. The higher temperature helps the paint to flow out more easily, and smoothly.

Kid- and pet-friendly indoor gardening

Creating an indoor oasis of greenery can help lift your spirits, reduce stress and improve your overall wellbeing. Challenges arise when growing indoor plants with kids and pets in the house. Keep them safe by selecting pet- and kid-safe plants and pest management strategies.

Increase your indoor gardening success by selecting plants suited to your home's growing conditions and gardening style. If you tend to over-water your plants, grow moisture-loving plants or opt for more drought-tolerant plants if you practice benign neglect. Once you have your list, double-check their people and pet toxicity. Consult with your veterinarian and visit the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) website for a list of pet-safe and toxic plants. Consult with your pediatrician, local botanical garden, and children's hospital for a list of kid-friendly indoor plants.

Keep an ongoing list of all the plants you are growing. Include both common and botanical names for accurate identification. Research the care they need and their toxicity to your pets and youngsters in the home. If you suspect your pet or child has ingested a toxic plant, you'll have the proper plant name when contacting your veterinarian or poison control center.

Display any toxic plants out of the reach of curious kids and pets. This can be challenging if your cat or child is skilled at jumping and climbing. With so many beautiful houseplants, play it safe and avoid those that are toxic or too tempting.

Secure plants against accidental tipping by inquisitive pets and kids with mounting putty. A couple of pieces on the bottom of the pot will help reduce the risk of spilled plants and soil. Invest in pots with wider bases for floor plants or secure several pots together to reduce the risk of tipping.

Cover the soil surface to prevent children and pets from digging. Fiber mulch and plant pot grid covers create a barrier between the soil and those who like to dig.

GARDEN MOMENTS
MELINDA MYERS

Keep those that need brighter light within two feet of the window. Those that prefer lower light can be grown near a north-facing window or up to six feet back or off to the side of an east- or west-facing window.

Regularly groom and wipe dust off the leaves of your indoor plants to help reduce the risk of insect damage. Remove spotted leaves when they appear and adjust your watering. This is often enough to correct fungal disease problems. Enlist children in the ongoing care of your indoor plants. This will help them gain respect for the plants and may instill a love of gardening.

Give kids a hand lens and go on an indoor pest hunt. Children often find bugs more interesting than plants. Have them place yellow sticky traps like Summit's Sticky Traps in various pots to help monitor and trap insect pests.

Always look for kid- and pet-friendly options when intervention is needed. Start with a strong blast of water to dislodge pests like aphids and mites. Follow with an application of a lightweight horticulture oil like Summit's Year-Round Spray Oil. This organic spray controls aphids, mites, immature whiteflies, and all stages of scale and mealybugs.

And if those tiny fruit-fly-like gnats are too annoying to tolerate, consider managing them with a Bacillus thuringiensis israelensis product like Summit's Mosquito

Once you narrow down the list, place your kid- and pet-friendly plants where they will receive the necessary amount of sunlight. An east- or west-facing window provides enough light for most indoor plants.

Southbridge church to close

Friends of Charlton Library holding coffee sale

SOUTHBRIDGE — It is with a heavy heart that First United Methodist Church, located at 449 Main St. in Southbridge, announces that it will close on Jan. 31 after the community meal.

Founded in 1834, the very first preacher was Hezekiah Davis of Dudley who preached every two weeks. In 1835, Frederick P. Tracy was the first pastor appointed to The Circuit of Dudley, Charlton and Southbridge. The church was able to construct in 1843 the main building that you see today and was known as the Methodist Episcopal Church Society. It is the oldest church in Southbridge.

During its heyday, this church was a pillar in the community with a very active women’s group, men’s group, youth groups, Sunday School and a fantastic congregation with many talents supporting the church over the years. The kitchen crew offered amazing dinners in Memorial Hall, serving up to 150 people in multiple seatings. There were rummage sales, Thanksgiving baskets and Christmas gifts for those in need – the church was always buzzing with activity.

Over the last six years, we focused on providing as much help as we could to the underserved in the Southbridge community. Our free community meals cooked in Rosilda’s Kitchen, Carol’s Closet providing free clothing, and opening as a warming station during the cold were the central focus. There were community parties for Halloween, Christmas and Easter; donations of gift baskets, movie night, game night, and so many other activities. A leap forward occurred for inclusivity when we became a Reconciling and Affirming Church in 2023, openly declaring that all are welcome in our church and that our Pastor would perform marriages and baptisms for gay couples. Jesus came for all, not just for some, and he loves ALL no matter how broken, not just some.

The closing service occurred on Jan. 26th at 1:30 p.m. We are grateful to everyone who supported our efforts, and special thanks go to Pastor Sabina Terrades and Reverend Ken Mantler for their leadership in recent years.

Walt Disney

Many people feel they can't have the life they want because of their past limitations or failures.

Maybe your family wasn't there for you, you didn't get the proper education, or you've been fired from multiple jobs or mistreated in relationships.

Many things aren't fair and can cause a chain reaction of events that can take us far off course. Sometimes, we make bad choices and miss out on the life we want, but that doesn't mean it has to stay that way

"All our dreams can come true, if we have the courage to pursue them." – Walt Disney.

But what gives a person the courage to pursue their dreams? One factor is a positive vision of what's possible.

The problem isn't that people lack vision—it's that their vision of the future is often shaped by the failures and limitations of their past. In other words, they do have a vision—but it's a negative one.

One trait of a successful person is they don't allow themselves to be defined by their failures or their present unfavorable circumstances.

Instead, they define themselves by a positive vision of their future.

That seems odd when you think about it. They define themselves by something that hasn't even happened yet.

It's easy to look at a great person and assume they had everything handed to them or that somehow life was much easier on them than it was on you.

I have many fond memories of my parents taking me to Disney World. I've been on the rides,

POSITIVELY

seen the movies, and heard about the man who built it all, Walt Disney. I've driven past the Disney skyscraper in Burbank, Calif., hundreds of times; I've auditioned at Walt Disney Studios dozens of times.

When surrounded by all that accomplishment, it's hard to imagine that Walt ever faced any hardship.

Most don't know that Walt Disney was fired from his job at the Kansas City Star after his newspaper editor told him that he didn't have enough imagination or creativity!

What if Walt Disney allowed himself to be defined by that moment, and for the next 20 years, he wandered from job to job, telling himself, "I'm not creative, I don't have a good enough imagination...."

Instead, imagine Walt

in Kansas City after Laugh-O-Gram failed, sitting alone in his office, staring at empty walls. He had no money, no plan, and no clear way forward. Perhaps he wondered if his editor had been right all along—maybe he didn't have what it takes. It would've been so easy to give up then, to let the weight of failure convince him to settle for less.

But he didn't.

He sold his camera, scraped together enough for a one-way train ticket to Hollywood, and took a leap of faith. That train ride wasn't just a change of scenery—it was a statement of hope.

Walt was choosing to believe in a future that hadn't been written yet, even when his circumstances told him otherwise. The rest is history.

I often wonder how many potentially great people never accomplish their vision because they believe in their failures more than in their dreams. They accept what their present circumstances are telling them instead of what their future vision could create.

If Walt Disney had been one of those people, we'd have missed out on one of the most creative minds of the 20th century.

He wouldn't have created Mickey Mouse, one of the most beloved characters of all time. There'd be no Snow White, no Cinderella, no Fantasia—classics that redefined animation forever.

He wouldn't have built Disneyland, the first-ever theme park of its kind, or Epcot, a visionary concept of a utopian community.

The Disney legacy wouldn't have touched billions of lives through films, theme parks, and innovations that continue to inspire the generations.

Walt Disney refused to let his failures or limitations define his future, so he became one of the most influential people of all time.

Like all great people, he focused on what could be instead of what had been.

We have the same choice—focus on what could be and take the first step toward your vision.

As temperatures drop, Cornerstone Bank is helping families stay safe and warm

WORCESTER — Temperatures are dropping and Cornerstone Bank, a community bank with locations throughout Central Massachusetts, wants to help make sure residents have the tools they need to get through the coldest months. Cornerstone is donating $25,000 toward the Worcester Community Action Council's Emergency Fuel Fund.

"We know the high price of fuel is making it difficult for families to stay warm as winter sets in," said Cornerstone Bank CEO Todd Tallman. "That's why we appreciate the Worcester Community Action Council's work to make sure our neighbors are taken care of."

The Emergency Fuel Fund helps homeowners and renters pay home heating bills and past due balances on utility bills incurred from November through April of each year. Income-eligible residents can apply for aid through the agency's federally funded Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program.

"As a community bank, we are committed to supporting causes that improve the quality of life for those around us," said Tallman. "We hope this donation helps offer some relief to residents facing challenges trying to safely get through the winter."

Charlton to hold town meeting to consider Town Clerk changes

BY JASON BLEAU
CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON — A much-discussed possible change to the Charlton Town Clerk position will go before the public next month thanks to a citizen petition calling for a special town meeting.

The Board of Selectmen considered the option of changing the Town Clerk from an elected to an appointed position in early 2024, but conversations stalling for a time before continuing during several meetings in the fall. The change was recommended by the town's Government Study Review Committee after they examined the town's White Paper Report, which was authored in 2016. The move would make the Town Clerk a hired position rather than an elected post, and officials are hoping that any change would be approved before the clerk's next election cycle. Current Town Clerk Karen LaCroix is expected to retire at the end of her existing term.

In November, LaCroix herself voiced support for the change arguing that many other previously elected positions and department heads have been changed to hired posts with the Town Clerk the only department leader currently decided by an election. She also argued that keeping it an elected post creates uncertainties around job security and qualifications. The proposal has received mixed reactions from the Board of Selectmen with some wanting to explore the change further while others wanted to avoid removing more electing power from the town's voters.

The Board of Selectmen's discussion in November remained inconclusive as to how they would proceed, although they did table the matter until at least the annual town meeting in May of 2025 with the intent of finalizing the finer details of a proposal. The citizens have stepped forward and demanded a meeting sooner.

A petition to hold a special town meeting to consider the change of the Town Clerk's position was submitted with the appropriate number of signatures on Jan. 8. The Board of Selectmen confirmed the document at a meeting on Jan. 14 which requires a special town meeting to be held within 45 of receipt. That meeting has been set for Feb. 18, a time and place still to be determined. The process will require a bylaw change that would need to be approved at a town meeting, ballot vote, and by the state before the 2026 municipal election.

Build a house, build a garage, build an addition

All applications should be submitted directly to the Superintendent’s Office by June 1.

QCC’s Dental Clinic offers free preventative dental services for seniors and veterans

WORCESTER — Quinsigamond Community College’s Dental Hygiene Clinic is continuing to offer free preventative dental services to anyone aged 55 or older, as well as active military members and veterans. The clinic, located at QCC’s West Boylston Street campus, offers dental assessments, teeth cleaning, X-rays and fluoride treatments. For patients who are not in the aforementioned categories, rates are $25 for adults and $20 for children.

“We currently have a relationship with Senior Connection (formerly Central Mass. Agency on Aging) through a grant that gives our senior patients free services in the dental clinic,” said Dental Clinic Operations and Facilities Manager Sheryl Ficorilli.

The grant, which began in January of 2022, has supported over 750 senior patients. The program also provides transportation to and from the dental hygiene clinic.

QCC’s dental hygiene students are required to spend a certain number of hours in direct patient care and the patients from this program provide that valuable interaction.

“This helps our students gain the necessary skills to graduate and become active in the area dental community,” Ficorilli added.

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

has been estimated at $1.8 million.

Regarding the RAISE grant (an acronym meaning Rebuilding American Infrastructure with Sustainability and Equity), Dean said the project will not require a town match because it’s “located in a historically disadvantaged area” as defined by the US Department of Transportation. The funds will allow Southbridge to “install lighting and crosswalks, improve traffic flow, repair and replace sidewalks and improve drainage during this paving project,” she added.

According to the US DOT award letter, it will widen the sidewalks, add a bike lane, install “traffic calming measures,” and remove one side of the on-street parking. It states the funds must be obligated by Sept. 30, 2029 and spent by Sept. 30, 2034.

CHANGES

after the board handled one seeking to convert two existing houses on Rte 20 into a for-profit urgent care facility called Convenient MD. Bubon said the board saw a proposal to create such a facility in a Starbucks about two years ago, but the developer pulled out.

Mike D’Hemecourt of Harborlight Advisors LLC said this will be the firm’s sixth facility, with others in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine.

Most of the hearing heard from Chappell Engineering’s Shaun Kelly, who spoke about his traffic study for the project. It determined that stretch of highway saw about 24,500 cars per day when they tested it in August 2024, with peak flow of about 1,200 in the mornings and 1,800 in the evenings and both directions being “fairly even.”

Under national guidelines, they looked at sight distance needed, finding the minimum is 510-540 feet and “desirable” is 540-640 at 58 mph. The site has 600-650 in both directions, but will need to eliminate some vegetation in front, he said.

Kelly said they’re predicting about 194 trips per day over 24 hours, with peak being 17-19 per hour, or “a car coming every eight minutes.” For safety, they plan to seek Mass DOT approval for an inbound designated left-turn lane that’s about 300 feet long.

When Wally Hersee asked about restricting left-turn departures, Kelly said they didn’t plan to do that, noting the gas station nearby now has 60-95 of them a day. Hersee was concerned about that, saying the nearby New Boston Road intersection has a history of accidents and this site is “not the best place in the world to have that.”

Bubon said DOT currently supports allowing left turns there, but still has to review it in what “can be a lengthy process.” She later predicted the state will erect a median barrier the whole length of that stretch of Route 20, however.

Mock Code team prepares for Scenario 2

CHARLTON — The Practical Nursing Class of 2025 Mock Code Team (MCT) under the guidance and leadership of Professors Cheryl Cahill, Jennifer DeFilippo, and Angela McGrath, are set to prepare and execute the Term 2 Mock Code Scenario.

Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy's MCT and Simulation Training improves response to code events. During cardiac arrests, the quick response of a code team requires cohesiveness, timely defibrillation, and clearly defined roles. It is important for members of the healthcare team to intuitively know their role as part of the response team especially during code situations when seconds count.

"We continue to believe in using simulation training to improve performance," said Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN Academy Director.

"We are blessed to have the continued guidance, experience, and expertise of our PN faculty!"

Courtesy

Bolandrina added. The timely use of defibrillation and empowered, confident nurses result in a positive response to code events. According to the American Heart Association's Get With The Guidelines (GWTG) resuscitation program, time to first shock is one of four achievement metrics. The guidelines state that hospitalized patients exhibiting ventricular fibrillation or pulseless ventricular tachycardia should receive defibrillation within two minutes to improve outcomes.

In 2017, the Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy MCT was formed to improve resuscitation skills and comfort levels for practical nursing students. The MCT meets for a full day of preparation, with members practicing as much as possible. On Mock Code Day, the MCT runs the code scenarios multiple times. The formation of the MCT increased mock code opportunities and participation three times in an academic year. Participation in mock codes increases the comfort level of practical nursing students. An effective code team is one that acts safely, and efficiently, and saves lives. The MCT aims to be proficient with skills and knowledge, effective with communication, and highly organized.
