Rebirth of Roseland Park and golf course vision of trustees

BY RON CODERRE
SPECIAL TO THE VILLAGER

WOODSTOCK — Nearly 150 years ago, on July 4, 1876, Roseland Park was dedicated by Henry Chandler Bowen, the person who fulfilled his dream of providing open space for the people of Woodstock and surrounding communities in Connecticut and Massachusetts. In 1896, 20 years after the opening of the Park, Bowen’s son, Clarence W. Bowen and Judge George C. Holt teed off in the first golf match at Roseland Golf Club.

Due to Henry Chandler Bowen’s foresight the Roseland Park and Golf Course Board of Trustees, under the leadership of President Martha Beckwith and Vice President John Rauh, is developing short term and long-term strategic plans as part of a rebirth of the Woodstock landmark and treasure. Plans are underway with a review and modifications to the by-laws that will reflect the needs and requirements of the 21st century. Long range planning needs include continued improvements to the barn and house on the property, construction of an equipment storage facility, upgrades to the boathouse and adjoining deck and a relocated main entrance to better meet the traffic patterns of today’s automobiles.

Volunteers have been working on the golf course in widening and clearing fairways, removal of trees, and a new bridge on the second hole to safely accommodate golf carts. In the long term, golfers can anticipate playing on improved greens and new tee boxes, as well as improvements and modifications to the clubhouse.

“The goal of our Board is to insure the long-term viability of the park and golf course. We want to re-create the park and golf course for the enjoyment of the public, as Henry Chandler Bowen envisioned it. By instilling vitality and pride in the facility, the people and the families of the greater Woodstock area will continue to enjoy the amenities,” said President Beckwith.

Mrs. Beckwith has long been involved in her community of Woodstock, serving on the Board of Trustees for eight years and serving on the Board and Foundation of The Woodstock Academy. Beckwith, who is married to Pastor Bob Beckwith of the South Woodstock Baptist Church, is a 1980 graduate of the Academy and a 1984 graduate of the University of Connecticut.

Board Vice President John Rauh, a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and 36-year owner of Cableworks in Putnam until its sale in 2020, shares Mrs. Beckwith’s enthusiasm for the future of Roseland Park and Golf Course.

“Since moving to Northeastern Connecticut in 1978, I’ve been fortunate to serve on the Board of The Woodstock Academy, the Pomfret Board of Education and the Northeastern Connecticut Chamber of Commerce and for the past 20 years as a member and former president of the Park and Golf Course Board,” said Rauh.

“I’m excited to serve with this energetic group of Trustees. Our goal is to maintain the facilities as privately run for public use, through every season of the year. By improving the overall look and usability of the park and golf course, we can continue to provide a quality and safe environment for citizens of all ages,” concluded Rauh.

Both Beckwith and Rauh noted they look forward to unveiling the Board’s strategic plan as Roseland Park and Golf Course look forward to a rebirth of the facilities and property. It all began with the vision and dedication of Henry Chandler Bowen. People like Beckwith and Rauh along with members of the Board are striving to bring the legendary Bowen’s dream to reality in the 21st century.

“Nuts” opens June 2 at Bradley Playhouse

PUTNAM — The Theatre of Northeastern Connecticut at the Bradley Playhouse is proud to present “Nuts.” This tense legal drama has been called the best courtroom melodrama since “Witness for the Prosecution” and “The Caine Mutiny Court Martial.” The show opens June 2, and runs for two weekends.

Performances are June 2, 3, 9, and 10 at 7:30 p.m. and June 4 and 11 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $23 for adults and $20 for seniors, students, veterans and first responders. Please note, this show runs for two weekends, not three. Due to content and language, Nuts is recommended for mature audiences.

“Nuts” was written in 1979 by Tom Topor, who drew upon his years of experience as a journalist covering New York City police stations, hospitals, and psychiatric wards. In 1987, it was made into a motion picture starring Barbra Streisand and Richard Dreyfuss.

Claudia Draper is a strong-willed, high class call girl indicted for manslaughter after killing a client in self-defense. Her mother and stepfather attempt to have her declared mentally incompetent, which would prevent a trial and cause her to be institutionalized. But is she really “nuts,” and can she convince the judge?

The TNECT production of “Nuts” is directed by William Corriveau. Tara Golson stars as Claudia Draper. D. Robert Corriveau appears as Aaron Levinsky, her attorney, and Jonathan Demers is the District Attorney, Franklin MacMillan. Psychiatrist Dr.

Herbert Rosenthal is played by Jim Douglas. Preston Arnold and Tonya Leigh Brock portray Claudia’s parents, Arthur and Rose Kirk. The cast is completed by Roy Simmons as Judge Murdoch, Adam Leidemer as Harry Haggerty, and Brittany-Paige Kimlingen as The Recorder.

The Bradley Playhouse is located at 30 Front St. (Route 44) in Putnam. All seats are reserved. Reservations may be made with a major credit card online at www.thebradleyplayhouse.org or by calling 860-928-7887. Tickets may be purchased at the theater box office, either before the performance, or at the door if available. Purchasing your tickets ahead of time is always a good idea.

Putnam budget meets with voter approval

BY JASON BLEAU
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

PUTNAM — Putnam voters approved all items during the annual town meeting on May 10, including both the general government and education spending plans for Fiscal Year 2024.

The two budgets were the highlight items during the quick town meeting that lasted less than half an hour and saw just over 60 voters in attendance. The first item of the night was comprised of several different spending plans: the general government plan, EMS funding, library funding, and funding for school resource officers and school safety officers for the Putnam schools. The general government budget, which included bonded indebtedness, totals $9.3 million, an increase of $903,776, or over 10.5 percent on the current year. The library spending plan totals $429,228, an increase of just under 3 percent, the EMD plan totals $288,400, a 3 percent increase, and the police spending for the SSO and SRO, a new item in the budget, totals $280,000. These items combined create a $10.3 million general government spending plan that passed by a ballot vote of 53 to 9 according to the town meeting minutes.

The education spending plan was the second item addressed during the annual town meeting. The $20.3 million budget represented an increase of $950,000, a little less than 5 percent, over the current year. The budget passed by a slightly larger margin of 55 to 5. The combined general government and education budgets will bring a 1.1 mil increase to local property taxes while $900,000 of the budget will be covered using surplus funds.

The remainder of the annual town meeting involved simple votes of approval from the taxpayers. Those present approved the five-year capital improvement plan, which runs through the fiscal year ending June 2028, as well as the Capital Non-Recurring Fund budget which totals $422,000.

Open house at Woodstock’s Ferncroft Wildlife Rescue June 4

WOODSTOCK — Ferncroft Wildlife Rescue is opening its doors to the public on Sunday, June 4, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and its resident opossums will be ready to meet and greet you. Ferncroft is located at 661 Route 171 in Woodstock. A donation of $10 per person age nine and over is suggested. Pre-registration is required because of limited parking space.

Bella, Mango, and Sherman are educational ambassadors for Ferncroft and help Pam and Bill Lefferts, founders of the rescue, teach about opossums and other backyard wildlife. All three of the opossums have injuries that would keep them from surviving in the wild. Take the opportunity to tour the clinic and rehabilitation pens. Also, see orphaned baby opossums (joeys) that will be cared for at Ferncroft until they are ready to be released, which is always the hoped for outcome for an animal. Learn what it takes to become a licensed wildlife rehabilitator and operate a rescue.

At 11 a.m., Horizon Wings Raptor Rehabilitation and Education (Ashford) will present a birds of prey (eagles, hawks, owls) program.
At noon, Riverside Reptiles Education

Center (Enfield) will show its animals, which include a Burmese python and an American alligator.

At 1 p.m., Ferncroft Wildlife Rescue will present “All About Opossums.”

Representatives of The Connecticut Audubon Society Center at Pomfret and rangers from The Last Green Valley will have information tables.

Pam’s children’s book, From Couch to Pouch: Why Lavender the Opossum Lives in a House will be available for a donation to the rescue.

There are three ways to register: email leftfertswh@msn.com or go to <https://www.paypal.me/FerncroftWildlifeRes> or venmo.com/u/Pam-Lefferts

Pets must be left at home.

More information about Ferncroft Wildlife Rescue, the open house, and upcoming programs can be found on Ferncroft’s Facebook page.

24th Masonic District tradition strong!

PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICER
QUINEBAUG MASONIC LODGE

CHARLTON — On Saturday, May 20, the 24th Masonic District held its Annual Masonic Widows and Veterans Luncheon at the Overlook Masonic Home facilities in Charlton.

This event has been going on for over a decade. Chairmen Brother Dean Moss, and committee members bro. Steve Dragon were very happy to see all the attendees that came out for this very special tradition to honor our Masonic veterans and their widows. Fifty-one people attended, including many of the Overlook facility residents, to honor these Masonic veterans and their widow’s luncheon. There was entertainment by Clyde Wheatley who played his saxophone and played mostly jazz from the ‘30s to ‘40s era. His music brought back many memories for those who attended this event.

Prior to entering the hall veterans and widows registered for the event. Widows were handed a Masonic pin and a pamphlet “Our Tribute to you honoring the loss of your loved one.” Presented at this event was a 50-year Masonic Veterans Service Medal to bro. John Merz who is affiliated with the Rose of Sharon Lodge located at the Overlook in Charlton. At the main dining hall entrance the ladies were given a red rose from Leslie Cape of the Clara Barton Chapter No. 63 of The Eastern Star.

Prior to the meal the Color Guard entered the dining hall. The flag bearer, a Vietnam veteran Chief Petty Officer bro. Larry Olson walked proudly holding the flag high. Behind him was our 24th District Deputy Grand Master Brother Jonathan Neitz and Chairmen bro. Dean Moss. The color guard stopped, and the Pledge of Allegiance was said by all. The Chairman of this event, bro. Dean Moss spoke and thanked everyone for attending this event. He quoted and said to me he looked forward to this event because “The best thing we can give our widows and veterans is our time”. These are veterans who served our country when we needed them the most and risked their lives so we could have a better life. They have served their country with honor and distinction and the widows supported them and believed in what they were fighting for. Eastford announces plans for Memorial Day parade

EASTFORD — On May 29, Eastford’s Memorial Day Parade starts at 9:30 a.m. at the Eastford Elementary School. The Eastford Color Guard will lead the parade followed by Eastford Veterans, community and youth groups, and the Eastford Independent Fire Company. The East Woodstock Cornet Band will provide the music. Community members are invited to participate in the parade.

Immediately following the parade, a Memorial Day Ceremony will take place at Eastford’s Veteran’s Memorial. The ceremony includes an invocation, the recognition of an Eastford Veteran, the laying of a memorial wreath, a Military Salute, and musical presentations by the Eastford Singers, the East Woodstock Coronet Band, and Eastford Elementary School Students.

Preceding the parade, Memorial Day services will take place at the General Lyon Cemetery at 8:30 a.m. and the Grove Cemetery at 9 a.m. In the event of rain, the parade will be cancelled and the Memorial Day Ceremony will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the school. All are welcome to attend.

Woodstock schools team up with WE COMPETE to collect sneakers for reuse and recycling

WOODSTOCK — The Woodstock Middle School (WMS) and Woodstock Elementary School (WES) have partnered with WE COMPETE, a local student run charity, to collect sneakers for reuse and recycling. The partnership between the Woodstock Schools and WE COMPETE aims to help those in need of footwear locally and globally as well as reduce the negative environmental impact of unwanted shoes in landfills. Student Council facilitator, Angelica Jackson invited Julia Coyle, WE COMPETE's founder and a junior at The Woodstock Academy, to present the details of the program with WMS Student Council members last week. "I am very impressed by the student's interest in making a difference, and the impact that has both in their community and globally," said Julia Coyle. Why it matters Due to generous sneaker donations received at both school locations WE COMPETE will be able to offer more athletic shoes to those in need. Proceeds help support the reuse/recycle program, athletic opportunities for students, and is a positive step toward a future of zero carbon and zero waste. Key details WE COMPETE's Sneakers for Students program provides the newer sneakers collected to local students in need of footwear. Remaining wearable sneakers go to developing countries where footwear is desperately needed. Globally, more than 600 million people don't even own a pair of shoes

The worn out sneakers WE COMPETE collects are used for artificial athletic fields, courts, tracks, playgrounds and to pad the underside of flooring. In the United States, at least 200 million pairs of shoes and sneakers end up in landfills each year and shoes in landfills can take 30 to 40 years to decompose. The collection boxes at The Woodstock Middle School and Woodstock Elementary School will be in place for the duration of the school year. Please join in making a difference locally, globally and environmentally by donating your pre-owned sneakers to their sneaker drive. More drop-off locations can be found by visiting: we-compete.org. For more information, please get in touch with WE COMPETE at: info@we-compete.org.

Woodstock resident Harold Wotton completes intensive research project

WORCESTER, Mass. — Harold Wotton, a member of the class of 2024 majoring in Mechanical Engineering at Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI), was a member of a student team that recently completed an intense research project titled TRUE Robotics STEM Education. At WPI, all undergraduates are required to complete a research-driven, professional-level project that applies science and technology that addresses an important societal need or issue. About two-thirds of students complete a project at one of the university's 50-plus off-campus project centers, which are located around the world. A signature element of the innovative undergraduate experience at WPI, the project-based curriculum offers students the opportunity to apply their scientific and technical knowledge to develop thoughtful solutions to real problems that affect the quality of people's lives and make a difference before they graduate. "The WPI project-based curriculum's focus on global studies brings students out of the classroom and their comfort zones and into the global community to apply their knowledge and to solve problems," said Professor Kent Rissmiller, professor of Integrative & Global Studies and associate dean of The Global School. "Students are immersed in all aspects of a different culture, from the way people live and work to the values they hold to the foods they eat - all valuable perspectives for surviving and thriving in today's global marketplace. They also learn the meaning and magic of teamwork; make a real and meaningful difference in their host community; and gain a competitive edge for any resume, or graduate or professional school application." About Worcester Polytechnic Institute WPI, a global leader in project-based learning, is a distinctive, top-tier technological university founded in 1865 on the principle that students learn most effectively by applying the theory learned in the classroom to the practice of solving real-world problems. Recognized by the National Academy of Engineering with the 2016 Bernard M. Gordon Prize for Innovation in Engineering and Technology Education, WPI's pioneering project-based curriculum engages undergraduates in solving important scientific, technological, and societal problems throughout their education and at more than 50 project centers around the world. WPI offers more than 70 bachelor's, master's, and doctoral degree programs across 18 academic departments in science, engineering, technology, business, the social sciences, and the humanities and arts. Worcester Polytechnic Institute announces Spring 2023 Dean's List

WORCESTER, Mass. — A total of 2,054 undergraduate students achieved the criteria required for WPI's spring 2023 Dean's List. The criteria for the WPI Dean's List differs from that of most other universities as WPI does not compute a grade point average (GPA). Instead, WPI defines the Dean's List by the amount of work completed at the A level in courses and projects. "WPI's academic programs are rigorous and require a level of independence beyond what is required in traditional courses. WPI students work on open-ended problems for communities around the world. The problems are important and the impact is real" said Professor Arthur C. Heinricher. "Some of this nation's best and brightest students come to WPI to study engineering and science and business and the humanities. Those named to the Dean's List have excelled in all of their work, and we are exceptionally proud of these outstanding students." The following students were on the Dean's List for Spring 2023: Benjaminh Brodeur of Putnam, class of 2024, majoring in Mathematical Sciences Garrett McMerriman of Putnam, class of 2023, majoring in Data Science Brooke Peloquin of Putnam, class of 2025, majoring in Mechanical Engineering Connor Quinn of Woodstock, class of 2025, majoring in Electrical and Computer Engineering About Worcester Polytechnic Institute WPI, a global leader in project-based learning, is a distinctive, top-tier technological university founded in 1865 on the principle that students learn most effectively by applying the theory learned in the classroom to the practice of solving real-world problems. Killingly girls' lacrosse team improved as 2023 season progressed

NORWICH FREE ACADEMY SPOILS KILLINGLY BID TO QUALIFY FOR POSTSEASON

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

KILLINGLY — Getting better as the season went along.

Looking back on Killingly High School's recently completed girls' lacrosse season, the above statement can certainly serve as a theme to the year. Killingly began the season 1-5, hit its stride in the middle of the year, going 5-2 — a stretch that included a three-game winning streak — before dropping the final three games of the season to finish 6-10 overall and 0-8 in Eastern Connecticut Conference (ECC) Division II play.

In its regular-season finale, which ended up being its season finale, Killingly hosted Norwich Free Academy (NFA) on Thursday, May 18. Killingly knew going into the game a win would earn the team a berth in the state tournament. Unfortunately, the Wildcats had too much firepower, winning the game, 12-4.

"I reminded the girls after the game that even though we knew we needed a win against NFA to make states, our main goal this year was to improve every day and that's exactly what we did," Killingly coach Derek Ponciano said. "Before the season we were moved up into the toughest division in the ECC, where we had to face Stonington, Waterford, Bacon and Montville."

The Wildcats (6-10), who employed a possession-based offense, jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first three minutes, 36 seconds into the game on goals by Molly Page (who scored seven times in the game). Killingly cut the NFA lead to 2-1 on a left-to-right shot just inside the far post by Emily Lamparelli with 20:52 remaining in the first half. Killingly trailed NFA, 6-1, at halftime.

Killingly cut the NFA lead to 6-3 in the first 8:16 of the second half on Lamparelli's second goal of the game, and a goal Laura Farquhar. The Wildcats, however, scored five straight goals to take a commanding 11-3 lead with 9:32 remaining.

A goal by Molly Crabtree with 7:15 to go closed out the Killingly scoring, and Page then scored the final goal of the game 45 seconds later to account for the 12-4 final score.

Ponciano was disappointed by the loss to NFA, but thrilled with how hard his players worked throughout the season.

"These girls really stepped up this year," Ponciano said. "I am very proud of them."

Courtesy

Prior to its final game of the season (vs. Norwich Free Academy on Thursday, May 18), the Killingly High School girls' lacrosse program took time to honor four seniors for their service as either a manager or a player. Those honored were, from left, Salena Thongsouvanh, Talia Noury, Aila Gutierrez and Alexis Rainey.

Lamparelli was Killingly's leading scorer, finishing the season with 48 goals and nine assists. She was followed in the scoring column by Farquhar (17 goals, 5 assists), Riley Ritchotte (15 goals), Morgan Blanchard (12 goals), Illyana Malarkey and Selina Metzermacher (10 goals each), and Crabtree and Aila Gutierrez (nine goals each).

"Emily was our No. 1 offensive option; she had a really nice season," Ponciano said. "When you look at the scores of a lot of our games it says one thing, but when you watch the way we play offense it shows something completely different."

"I have a good group of girls who hustle for the entire game. They know who to give it to in scoring situations," Ponciano continued. "I don't have any selfish girls on this team. They're all willing to spread the ball around in an effort to spread the scoring around. For us to be successful we need to have a balanced scoring attack and I think we had that this season."

Defensively, Killingly improved as the season progressed. Leading the way on defense were Crabtree (32 caused turnovers), Farquhar (30 caused turnovers) and Gutierrez (22 caused turnovers).

"Defense has been my focus and a point of emphasis since I started coaching lacrosse," said Ponciano, whose defensive unit, in addition to Crabtree, Farquhar, and Gutierrez includes Sydney Crabtree (Molly's twin sister), Lila Beaudreault, Raigan Leveillee and Ella Dunn. "We had a defensive plan last year and we brought it into this year and, I think, improved upon it."

"This year we added a lot of different defensive sets as the season progressed," Ponciano continued. "We have a really strong defense. I think all our defensive players are very consistent and forced a lot of turnovers."

While Ponciano was pleased with the in-season development of all his players, he was especially impressed by the progress Molly Crabtree made.

"Molly was a defender for us last year. Her skill set really improved this year, so we gave her the freedom to play attack as well," Ponciano said. "When that happens we have a specific rotation where a player will drop back for her on defense, which allows her to get into the offensive flow of the game."

"Molly is very good in tight spots," Ponciano continued. "She knows how to get around players using her agility. Her basketball experience helps her because she comes to lacrosse already used to operating in congested areas. She plays defense but when she sees offensive opportunities she moves up. Molly didn't score for us last year, but this year she finished with nine goals."

Of the 19 players on this year's roster 17 will return next year, including three sophomore and three freshmen.

"The whole plan was to improve this year so we can have those freshmen as sophomores make a bigger impact next year," Ponciano said. "That's kind of hard to believe because they played so well this year, but I think they're going to have a huge year for us next year as well. I don't believe we'll make huge improvements next year, I know we will."

Managing the heat of hot peppers

Roulette peppers have the citrusy flavor of habaneros but not the heat.

Don't worry if the rest of your family does not appreciate the spicy heat your favorite hot peppers add to entrees, beverages and desserts. Proper pepper selection, care and preparation can help you turn down the heat as needed.

Hot peppers' spicy heat is measured in Scoville Heat Units named for Wilbur Scoville. The level of heat was originally determined by a panel of individual tasters. Chili peppers were ground and added to a sugar-water solution. The solution was continually diluted until the panelist found the solution no longer burned their mouth. Each pepper was assigned a number based on the amount of sugar-water solution needed to reach that point. Today a more accurate less subjective high-performance liquid chromatography method can be used for measuring the pungency of hot peppers.

Poblano and Siracha rate between 1,000 to 2,500, jalapenos up to 8,000, cayenne can peak at 50,000, habaneros up to 350,000 and one of the hottest, the ghost pepper, at as much as 2,200,000 units. If you like the citrusy flavor of habaneros but not the heat, try the All-America Selections winner Roulette. Ornamental peppers are edible as well as pretty. Most rate anywhere from 10,000 to 50,000 Scoville units. Chilly Chili ornamental pepper produces an abundance of attractive yellow, orange and red upright fruit on 10 to 12 inch plants. As the name suggests, they have almost no heat. Mix with flowers for decorative displays in containers and garden beds.

Peppers grow and produce best when day temperatures are 70 to 80 degrees, and night temperatures are 60 to 70 degrees Fahrenheit. Cold, heat and drought are the most common cause of blossom drop, misshapen fruit, and a poor harvest.

Use a hand pruner or garden snips to harvest peppers without damaging the plants. Harvest most hot peppers when fully mature and red for the strongest flavor. Green chili and jalapeno peppers are harvested when green. And some like jalapeno, habanero and Anaheim, are hot whether harvested when green or red. When your summer is filled with long hot days hot peppers tend to be even hotter.

MELINDA MYERS

Avoid hot surprises when cooking by labeling hot peppers when growing, harvesting and storing them. Many sweet and hot pepper varieties look similar and confusing the two could be unpleasant. Just keep a glass of milk handy in case you need to neutralize the sting.

Turn down the heat, if needed or desired, when preparing your favorite recipes. Since most of the capsaicin, which gives hot peppers their heat, is in the white membrane that houses the seeds, just remove this and the seeds if you want the flavor with less heat.

Wear rubber gloves and avoid touching your face and eyes when working with hot peppers as they can burn. Wash your hands, utensils and cutting boards when finished. Turn a portion of your pepper harvest into pickled peppers for the hot pickle fans in the family to enjoy throughout the winter. The key to success and safety is using a tested recipe that contains the right amount of ingredients and processing it properly. Check University or other vetted sources for safe recipes and processing guidelines. Try some of these strategies and mention the many health benefits to encourage reluctant eaters to try hot peppers. Although hot peppers and spicy food can add to the pain and irritation of ulcers, they do not cause them contrary to some of the hot pepper myths. They do, however, provide gastric relief, kill cancer cells, prevent sinus infection, reduce inflammation, and even burn fat. Over time you may be able to turn up the heat on your favorite recipes for all to enjoy.

Roseland Cottage open house June 3

WOODSTOCK — Free tours of Roseland Cottage, 556 Route 169, Woodstock, will be offered on June 3, in celebration of Historic New England's Open House day. Tours are offered on the hour, from 11 a.m.-4 p.m., with the last tour starting at 3 p.m.

Known locally as The Pink House, National Historic Landmark Roseland Cottage is one of the finest remaining examples of the Gothic Revival style which was popular in the 1840s, when Roseland was built. It served as the summer home of prominent 19th-century businessman and abolitionist Henry Chandler Bowen and his wife Lucy Tappan, who entertained many luminaries at Roseland, including four US Presidents. The picturesque landscape includes the original boxwood parterre garden, which is planted with over 5000 annuals each spring, an icehouse, aviary, carriage barn, and, remarkably, the nation's oldest surviving indoor bowling alley. The Pink House is as beautiful inside as out, with elaborate wall coverings, heavily patterned carpets, stained glass, and furnishings in the Gothic Revival style that date back to the construction of the house in 1846.

Roseland Cottage will be open in 2023 from June 1 to Oct. 15, Thursday through Sunday, 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Tours are always free for Woodstock residents and Historic New England members and for all visitors on June 3. Please call 860 928-4074 for more information, or to arrange group tours.

The Power of open-mindedness

In a world marked by increasing divisions and intolerance, the importance of open-mindedness cannot be overstated. Open-mindedness is not just a desirable quality; it is an essential attribute for both individuals and societies to grow. The willingness to explore new ideas, perspectives, and possibilities is the driving force behind growth, understanding, and peaceful coexistence.

At its core, open-mindedness stands in stark contrast to narrow-mindedness. While the latter shuts out differing opinions and clings stubbornly to preconceived notions, the former opens the floodgates to intellectual advancement. Open-minded individuals recognize the limitations of their knowledge and actively seek to broaden their horizons by engaging with diverse ideas and perspectives. They understand that the world is intricate, and that truth can be found in unexpected places.

An open mind liberates us from the constraints of our own biases and prejudices. It allows us to go beyond the echo chambers of our social circles, where our beliefs are constantly reinforced and seldom challenged. Open-mindedness compels us to question our assumptions, critically evaluate information, and consider alternative viewpoints. This willingness to embrace differing perspectives brings forth empathy, compassion, and a deeper understanding of the human condition.

In today's interconnected world, open-mindedness is more crucial than ever. The rapid advancement of technology has brought individuals from diverse cultures and backgrounds, into closer proximity. Without open-mindedness, these encounters may result in misunderstanding, conflict, and the erosion of society. However, approaching these encounters with open minds allows us to discover commonalities, bridge gaps, and foster mutual understanding.

Open-mindedness also serves as a catalyst for progress. History has shown that many of humanity's greatest discoveries were made by individuals who dared to challenge prevailing wisdom and conventional thinking. By embracing new ideas, open-minded individuals pave the way for creativity, problem-solving, and the advancement of society. It is through open-mindedness that novel solutions emerge, technologies are grown, and uncharted possibilities come to fruition.

Open-mindedness does not imply blind acceptance or the abandonment of critical thinking. Striking a balance between open-mindedness and healthy skepticism is crucial. Open-mindedness does not suggest that all ideas are equally valid or that we should unquestioningly embrace every viewpoint. Instead, it means being willing to entertain diverse perspectives, objectively evaluate them, and draw well-informed conclusions.

In a time when polarization threatens to tear us apart, cultivating open-mindedness should be our collective goal. It requires us to engage in respectful dialogue, even with those whose views we vehemently disagree with. Open-mindedness is not a sign of weakness or indecisiveness; it is a strength that allows us to build bridges and find common ground.

As individuals, we should challenge ourselves to examine our beliefs, confront our biases, and remain receptive to new ideas. We should actively seek out perspectives that differ from our own and engage in meaningful conversations that expand our understanding. We should include ourselves in environments that encourage open-mindedness, where the free exchange of ideas is valued and respected.

Open-mindedness necessitates humility, intellectual curiosity, and a commitment to lifelong learning. By embracing open-mindedness, we expose ourselves to the vast landscape of human knowledge and experience, paving the way for progress, unity, and a brighter, well connected future.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Replacing the F-Word

To the Editor:
Nancy Weiss's column "Replacing the F-Word" hit a nerve. I too am repulsed by the foul language littering TV series such as "The Diplomat," "Shrinking," "Citadel," "Succession"...in fact, just about all newer shows. Writers are nonsensically inserting the F-word into everyday, non-emotionally charged sentences and conversations: "The sun is f-ing shining."
Stupid. There is a screenwriters strike going on. Let them go. The gratuitous use of the F-word is indeed like litter along the side of a road, and its inane, throwaway usage ranks worse than the dumb sentence-littering of the word 'like.' (Not long ago, 'basically' was the common word litter.)

I have retreated to re-watching movies from 'back in the day.'
Thank you, Nancy.

JUDY DOYLE
DANIELSON

A house divided

To the Editor:
As I write this letter, I sit in amazed horror as my country—the wealthiest nation in the history of the world—is on the brink of defaulting on payment of our bills. Why? Because our Congressional leaders have decided to connect payment of past debt incurred with negotiations for future budget allocations. Of course, a budget is only a prediction of what will need to be paid in the future. Theoretically, it may cost more or it may cost less. At least, that is how I figure my own expenses every month. I estimate. And I usually estimate on the high side.

The administration has put forth a detailed line-by-line estimate of future costs to run our government and meet our financial obligations. The Speaker of the House has presented no such concrete document. Instead, the position of the leader of the government branch responsible for paying our bills is to issue demands for percentages and caps on future payments. Notice, I am not using the word "spending." Some of our national budget is spending—like the Pentagon budget, much of which is for upgrading weapons, aircraft, submarines, our nuclear arsenal, etc. But also for buying new weapons systems, sometimes to supply the world with more war-fighting capacity. In my mind, those purchases are "spending."

We also financially invest in our country. In my view, that includes infrastructure; education; help for people who need food, housing, healthcare—including mental health care; and those of us who invested, along with our employers, in Social Security and Medicare. Those investments stand to yield a healthier, safer population who are more likely to live in harmony than a population at war with itself to find enough to eat or a safe place to live. Isn't that why gated communities gained popularity among those who can afford to live there: protection from their fellow humans who do not have what they need for their families?

In the South Killingly community I grew up in over 60 years ago, there was not great material wealth, mostly small subsistence farms. We shared with each other. My grandfather grew strawberries and sold them along Route 6 from a roadside stand. Our family had chickens. We traded eggs for the milk from cows our neighbor had. We cared what happened to each other and faced tragedies and problems together. I know those days are long gone, but I will never forget what is possible when people decide to live in harmony. That is my standard for human interaction. And that is why I have watched with increasing horror as I see family members and friends turn on each other because of what people who do not know us, and whom we will never meet, gain political power by creating "enemies" among us.

During the last administration, close to $7.8 trillion was added to the national debt, much of which was due to reduction of tax obligations for corporations and for the wealthiest among us. These reductions were put in place before COVID attacked us. Congress, while dominated by the opposing political party, raised the debt ceiling three times without opposition. So we can see what is possible. And for those of us who pay our bills, we can see what is necessary. There are strong arguments for restoring the previous tax obligations and for raising or eliminating the cap on social security payroll deductions. (If you earn more than $160,000 in 2023, the remainder of your income is not subject to Social Security deductions.)

So, what can one little person do to move us all toward better possibilities? Listen. Help each other. Use the facts of a situation rather than what you heard someone else say. Discern the difference between opinion and "news." Don't discard someone from your life because of their political party, religion, economic status, ethnic heritage or skin color. Make friends with people you are not supposed to have as friends. Challenge stereotypes. I know readers can think of other possibilities to bring us back together in spite of disagreements.

Our political landscape is a reflection of our voters' choices. Register and vote. Now is not the time to be a witness, it is time to be involved in the restoration of civility and respect for each other. I pray that by the time this letter is printed, an intelligent and human resolution of debt payment will have taken place.

The political leaders who are now challenging the history of the United States as reliably responsible to make payment of our debt have pointed out that among their party's history is one of our greatest presidents: Abraham Lincoln. Let's remember that it was President Lincoln, during time of our greatest domestic crisis, who quoted from the gospel of Matthew: "a house divided against itself will not stand." It is past time for us to make the moves toward restoring our tragically divided house. I think we can do it. I also think we must.

Respectfully,

CLAUDIA ALLEN
THOMPSON

Late bloomers

Do good things come to those who wait? I don't know; I guess it all depends! Growing up, they said my age group belonged to the microwave generation—impatient, wanting everything 'popcorn quick.' That made it especially hard when I couldn't accomplish my dreams instantly.

ber those early practices where the promise of a tootsie roll at the end of each lap was my only motivation to keep going. However, as I paddled through the years, my love for the sport took root, growing with me from Junior high to College.

I wasn't always the fastest, and to soften the blow of losing a race, my dad often told me, "You're a late bloomer, Toby." Giving me hope that one day, I would attain the victory.

A late bloomer is a phrase he used to describe a person who fulfills their potential later than expected; they often have talents that aren't visible to others initially.

My dedication was unwavering as I continued, but my speed in the pool could have been more impressive, particularly towards the end of high school and into College. I wasn't the slowest, but my gold medal was often out of reach. I often took solace in the fact that "I'm a late bloomer." Just like my dad said.

In the lull between high school and College, I stumbled upon triathlons. This thrilling combination of endurance sports had my heart racing even before I hit the starting line. I knew I was no longer a late bloomer and was delighted to win first place in my age group!

My victory could have been more impressive after discovering I was the only one racing in my age group, winning by default. It turned out I was still a late bloomer.

When I finally let go of the notion that I was going to be a professional swimmer, it initially felt like an admission of defeat, but it was really a recalibration of direction.

While I could feel my ego taking a hit, always in the back of my mind, I heard my dad's voice, "It's okay, Toby, you're just a late bloomer." A course change isn't about

The pickleball phenomenon

NANCY WEISS

Bring on the games of summer. From the crack of a bat at Fenway to the Little League field down the street, summer is filled with a variety of games.

For years, a friend and I tried to play golf. Every summer we signed up for lessons, bought new golf shoes and reveled in the charms of various golf pros. I tried to change my swing, keep my head down, my eye on the ball, and much more. I failed, but I may try again. Now, a new game has come to our region, and it is leaving other games in the dust.

My husband, a better than average natural athlete, can seemingly pick up any ball, bat, racquet, paddle or club and play any game quite well after a few tries. His first response to pickleball, the phenomenon that is sweeping the country, was tepid. He might not have said it openly, but he thought it was a game for old people, too slow, characterized by odd rules and bizarre scoring methods. He tried it and didn't like it. When friends began to play at the Hale YMCA, he changed his mind. Now he is a pickleball player and he loves the game.

The first time I played pickleball was at Owen Bell Park in Dayville. I hadn't been in the park since my girls were little and I was impressed with all the equipment and game areas. A friend invited me to play. She was an early enthusiast for the game and has recruited many others. Pickle ball holds an important place for her and it is fun as well as healthy. Later she directed me to a lovely group in Ashford, who also gave lessons. I am nearly as lame at pickle ball as golf.

By now, everyone knows the story. Pickleball was created by three dads who were trying to amuse a group of kids on Bainbridge Island. The cobbled together a game from stuff they had and combined tennis, badminton, and ping-pong. Retirees in Florida and other vacation spots took to the game and eventually it got to the northeast and our little corner. Family friends with four boys developed a game they called kabadwhiff from the remains of Kadima rackets, badminton nets and Whiffle balls. It is played only in our area and Maine. No court is needed just a flat lawn.

On Feb. 24, the Boston Globe ran a funny article: "When a loved one contacts Pickleball Derangement Syndrome." The gist is that people get so involved, they want to play all the time. The soft popping noise of the ball can make neighbors crazy but the social nature of the game is what we really need. It isn't as hierarchical as tennis, has no dress code and there is plenty of time to chat with other players between matches, which take a mere 10 to 15 minutes. No wonder it is the fastest growing sport in our history.

I've got a long white skirt for croquet games, leather gloves for golf, goggles for swimming, a sturdy cornhole game set, a frisbee, and two pickleball racquets that came with an inexpensive set. My sport is walking, merely putting one foot in front of the other, which I find very satisfying, but there is something remarkable about pickleball. It gives us the chance to talk with each other again in an easy, friendly manner. A game with a vocabulary that includes the words – dinking for softly bouncing the ball and Erne- a flying leap, has to be good. Just stay out of the "kitchen."

Decision on student loan forgiveness expected next month: What to know now

The movement to forgive a portion of the skyrocketing student loan debt started over a decade ago, but it's accelerated quickly in the last year with President Biden's student loan forgiveness plan, which may or may not move forward in the months to come.

That plan, which would forgive up to $20,000 in student loan debt per borrower, depending on certain factors, was rolled out last fall and then was stalled by pending legal action.

Here's a brief timeline of events regarding the plan and a look at when borrowers might expect to have an answer as to whether or not some of their debt will be forgiven or not.

January 2021

President Joe Biden is inaugurated and begins working toward his campaign promise to "forgive all undergraduate tuition-related federal student debt from two- and four-year public colleges and universities and private HBCUs and MSIs for debt-holders earning up to $125,000."1

August 2022

President Biden announces that he would cancel $10,000 per borrower and $20,000 for Pell Grant recipients. The loan forgiveness was limited to Americans earning under $125,000 per year, or $250,000 for married couples. The relief was also capped at the amount of a borrower's outstanding eligible debt.2,3,4

September 2022

Six states (Nebraska, Missouri, Arkansas, Iowa, Kansas, and South Carolina) sue President Biden and the Department of Education, claiming that Congress never approved massive student loan cancellation and that the Biden Administration and the US Education Department misused their emergency authority. They argued that the administration improperly used the HEROES Act, a 2003 law that "vests the Secretary of Education with expansive authority to alleviate the hardship that federal student loan recipients may suffer as a result of national emergencies."5,6

For the next month or so, various other parties sued the Department of Education and President Biden, including the Brown County Taxpayers Association in Wisconsin, college graduates Myra Brown and Alexander Taylor, and the Cato Institute.

October 2022

On Oct. 17, 2022, student loan forgiveness applications opened, despite rising legal challenges. Also in October, the Supreme Court dismissed the six states' lawsuit, saying it lacked standing. Shortly after, the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis gave an emergency order temporarily blocking the forgiveness plan after the six states appealed the decision.7,8

November 2022

Throughout October and November, there were various appeals and dismissals from both sides and on Nov. 11, the Department of Education stopped accepting student loan forgiveness applications. On Nov. 22, the student loan repayment pause was extended to June 2023, or until either the debt relief program is implemented or the litigation is resolved.

Looking Ahead to June – And Beyond

The Supreme Court is widely expected to deliver its decision on the legality of President Biden's student loan forgiveness plan by late June. If the plan is allowed to move forward, the Department of Education will likely reopen the student loan forgiveness website and begin processing applications.

But regardless of whether the plan goes forward or is struck down, the pause on federal student loan payments will be lifted 60 days after the decision is made, or 60 days after June 30, 2023 if the case has not been resolved, whichever comes first. So, if you have outstanding student loans, be sure to begin making those payments once again at that time.

In the meantime, if you would qualify for forgiveness, there's one thing you should definitely not do between now and the expected Supreme Court decision in June, if you can help it. Do not refinance or consolidate your federally-owned student loans. (These include Direct Subsidized Loans, Direct Unsubsidized Loans, Direct PLUS Loans, Direct Consolidation Loans or FFEL Loans owned by the U.S. Department of Education.)

Why? By refinancing or consolidating the loans with a private lender, you will lose the ability to apply for forgiveness should the plan go forward – costing you anywhere between $10,000 and $20,000 in debt that you otherwise wouldn't have had to pay.

You've heard of DAR, but what about the Daughters of Union Veterans?

It's hard to believe that Memorial Day Weekend is almost upon us. I was researching at the Killingly Historical Center recently, and glanced at a binder of Windham County Transcripts from the 1950's. Have you heard of the Daughters of Union Veterans? (A perfect Memorial Day weekend topic!). The Mary A. Livermore Tent No. 18, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, held their meeting Thursday night, April 17, 1958 at their headquarters in the vestry of the Congregational Church with the president, Mrs. Clark, presiding. Fifteen members were in attendance. Mrs. Clark named two committees for the ensuing years as follows: Visiting committee, Ethel Chase and Ada Malo; floral committee, Rachel Dobson and Hazel Davignon. Orders were read by secretary Clara Everett. Plans were made for the Department Convention to be held in New Britain at the Burritt Hotel, on April 28 and 29. Mrs. Cornelius LaPointe, a department aid and also a delegate from the tent will attend. Accompanying her will be Mrs. Shirley Chase, Miss Nina Borden and president Mrs. Alice Clark...After the meeting a penny social was enjoyed. Refreshments of cake, cookies, tea and coffee were served by the hostesses Mrs. Mary Leach and Mrs. Hazel Davignon." (WCT April 24, 1958).

Now recently, I attended a LiR presentation on the DAR, but I had never heard of the above organization. An Internet search was in order. The organization's Web site, www.duvcw.org, listed that it was incorporated Dec. 12, 1885, but was not federally chartered until Dec. 9, 1985. Daughters of Union Veterans was organized on May 30, 1885 by Olive Howard, Harriet Knapp, Eva Merwin, Frank Merwin, and Bertha Martin. The first meeting on June 3, 1885 at the home of Eva Merwin, 419 First Street, SE Massillon, Ohio. (It was originally) incorporated as "The National Alliance of the Daughters of Veterans of the United States of America" on Dec. 12, 1885, in Massillon, Ohio. They were endorsed by The Grand Army of the Republic at the 34th Annual Encampment held in Chicago, Illinois, 1900... The name was changed to Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, 1861 - 1865 at the 54th National Convention held in Des Moines, Iowa 1944.

Local groups, called Tents, were named for Army Nurses who served in the Civil War or any loyal woman of the Civil War era whose patriotic deeds during the years 1861 - 1865 were recorded. If you have an ancestor who fought in the Civil War, you might want to join this organization. Currently, Connecticut seems to have no listed tents. However, if you are interested in joining go to the website and contact the Membership Chairperson to become a Member-at-Large. A key phrase in the articles of Incorporation reminds women to "keep green the memory."

So, who was Mary Livermore, for whom the Danielson Tent was named? An internet search produced a nice biographical sketch. Mary Livermore dedicated herself to women's suffrage, temperance, and Civil War aid.

Born on Dec. 19, 1820, Mary Ashton Rice grew up in Boston with her parents Timothy Rice and Zebiah Ashton. She was educated at the Charlestown Female Seminary until 1836 and stayed on as a teacher of French, Italian, and Latin for two years before she took a governess position for the Henderson family in Virginia. Here she witnessed the extents of plantation slavery. She left Virginia a firm abolitionist in 1842.

While working as a principal at a co-ed school in Duxbury, Massachusetts, Mary Ashton Rice met Reverend Daniel Parker Livermore. The couple married May 6, 1845 and had three children. "Mary Livermore dedicated herself to the temperance movement and charity work. After moving to Chicago in 1857, she founded the Home for Aged Women and the Hospital for Women and Children and became a board member for the Home for the Friendless. Daniel Livermore started the New Covenant, a Universalist publication, with Mary Livermore as his associate editor. Until 1869 she wrote for almost all departments of the paper and often took charge of operations when Daniel Livermore travelled for church business.

"During the U.S. Civil War, Mary Livermore and Jane Hoge ran the Northwest Branch of the Sanitary Commission in Chicago, which coordinated the United States relief effort and supported an overwhelming number of sick and wounded. Livermore organized relief groups, made speeches, wrote reports and news bulletins, and fundraised. She also travelled to the front where she toured hospitals, delivered aid, wrote letters for sick and dying soldiers, and accompanied soldiers leaving the hospital.

To fundraise for the Sanitary Commission, Livermore and Hoge had the idea to hold the first Sanitary Fair. From the opening procession on Oct. 27, 1863, the Fair captivated Chicago and the region. When the Fair ended after two weeks, it raised nearly $90,000. The success of Livermore and Hoge's Sanitary Fair inspired others to be held in Boston, Philadelphia, and New York City. Locally, women were working to provide much-needed supplies for their Civil War soldiers far away from home. The Oct. 30, 1862 issue of the Windham County Transcript in Dear Transcript Letters from Windham County Soldiers During the Civil War 1861-1865 published by the Killingly Historical & Genealogical Society, Inc. reported that the Putnam Soldiers Aid Society sent a box to the Connecticut Soldiers Relief Association in Washington containing "twenty-five new shirts, 6 old shirts, 19 pairs of drawers, 38 towels, 3 dozen handkerchiefs, 9 pairs of pillow cases, 3 sheets, 1 pair pants, 1 piece of fly-netting, 3 cans jelly, 1 bag dried raspberries, 1 bag whortleberries, 1 bag dried apples, 63 pamphlets, 1 cake mutton tallow, 9 pounds of lint, 10 wrappers, 1 pair socks, 21 fans, and a lot of bandages." (p. 202). The Danielsonville Aid Society list contained another assortment: "18 sheets, 10 dressing gowns, 11 pairs drawers, 7 pillow cases, 2 comforters, 34 handkerchiefs, 34 towels, 3 sheets, 2 coats,

1 pair pants, 8 pair stockings, 2 pair slippers, 3 neckties, 8 cups, 3 bags hops, 3 bags whortleberries, dried apples, jellies, 4 bottles wine, 1 paper gelatin, 1 paper corn starch." (p. 202). The May 21, 1863 Windham County Transcript reported that "the Williamsville Soldiers' Aid Society sent a box to the Connecticut Relief Association containing the following articles: 3 dressing gowns 3 feather pillows, 2 husk pillows, 6 pr. Leather slippers, 8 cotton shirts, 3 flannel undershirts, 5 pairs woolen socks, 6 pairs cotton socks, 18 towels, 2 dozen handkerchiefs, 6 papers corn starch, 7 pillow cases, 4 sheets, 4 rolls bandages, 1 bar castile soap, ¼ yard oil silk, 14 lbs. dried apples, 10 ounces sage, ¼ lb. Campher (sic), 6 fine combs, 6 coarse combs" (p.279). (Williamsville is now Rogers). Copies of Dear Transcript are available for sale at the Killingly Historical Center. It contains many letters from local soldiers in the Civil War.

I found several definitions of whortleberries on the internet. They seem to have been similar to blueberries. Vocabulary.com described them as an "erect European blueberry having solitary flowers and blue-black berries." Collins dictionary also referred to them as huckleberries. I grew up with huckleberries, which were much sweeter than today's blueberries.

This Memorial Day weekend take the time to honor those who have served and sacrificed for us. Place a flag, go to a wreath-laying, attend a parade, say a prayer. Remember and say, "Thank you."

accepting failure but acknowledging the many avenues to the finish line.

Not hitting it big in the pool wasn't a failure. Instead, it was life nudging me to look beyond, to find where my natural strengths lay. Sometimes, instead of focusing on 'what might have been,' you must look at 'what could still be.'

A common belief is that shifting goals is akin to giving up. But that's not the whole truth.

Remember, only you know your own heart. Shifting your focus isn't necessarily waving the white flag—it might just be the turn you need toward your real win. Sticking with a lost cause doesn't make you a hero—sometimes, the real bravery is in stepping away from the familiar and venturing into the new.

Being a late bloomer doesn't always mean you'll grow where you originally planted. If life compels you to reroute and venture in a different direction, don't mistake it for failure. Instead, it's a sign that your success is about to blossom—you're just a late bloomer.

It's not about the speed you reach your goals but more about the resilience and determination you develop along the way. Developing the ability to change course when the initial plan doesn't work out and seeking success on a path less traveled.

As a kid, I'd listen to my father's words and feel a comforting sense of validation. Now, those words resonate with even deeper significance. They remind me that it's okay to take my time and that blooming late doesn't mean blooming any less brilliantly.

Don't be quick to deem your ventures as failures if they don't work out as planned. Your goals may shift, and your dreams may evolve, but it's all part of our unique blooming process.

Sometimes, the journey you've embarked upon isn't the one that will ferry you to the shores of success.

Being a late bloomer doesn't necessarily mean you've missed the boat. Sometimes, it means you're getting ready to captain your own ship.

Killingly baseball grabs wins over St. Bernard, Wheeler, Plainfield in final week

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

In what can be best described as an uneven season (think roller-coaster ride), Killingly High School entered postseason play on a three-game winning streak and a 10-10 regular season record. Coach Ben Desaulnier's crew won three games in five days last week defeating St. Bernard (5-4, Friday, May 19), Wheeler (2-1, Wednesday, May 17) and Plainfield (5-3, Monday, May 15). All three games were played at Owen Bell Park.

Hayden Larrow had the biggest hit of the game for Killingly in the win over St. Bernard (16-3), an RBI double in the bottom of the sixth inning that allowed Mason Frazer to score the go-ahead run. Before scoring what would end up being the winning run, Frazer tied the game with a two-run single. Ben Jax picked up the win on the bump, going 6-1/3 innings before being relieved by Lincoln Waterman, who picked up the save.

The win over 11-5 Wheeler was drama-filled as well, Michael Fabiano driving in Waterman to give Killingly a walk-off victory. Landon Manzi kept Killingly in the game until it had a chance to win it, striking out 11 and no surrendering an earned run in a route-going performance. The win over 11-6 Plainfield included the largest margin of victory — two runs — for Killingly during the week, but in no way was it a walk in the park. Starting pitcher Dominik Kubera was dominant for the home team, going 6-2/3 innings, allowing four hits, three runs (all earned), and striking out seven. Ashton Goodwin (two doubles, two RBI) led the offense while Brady Zadora added a pair of singles.

Elsewhere: Woodstock Academy is also heading into the postseason on a roll, going 3-1 last week and finishing the regular season with a 17-3 record.

The Centaurs' only blemish last week was a loss to Ellington (7-5, Friday, May 19). Before that Woodstock defeated Norwich Free Academy (8-1, Thursday, May 18), Coventry (11-6, Wednesday, May 17), and Windham (10-0, Monday, May 15).

In the road win over Norwich Free Academy Kaden Murphy pitched four-plus innings and allowed only two hits to pick up the win while Brady Ericson struck out six of the eight hitters he faced to pick up the save for the Centaurs. Eric Mathewson had a pair of hits against the Wildcats.

Coventry, Maxx Corradi had three hits, including a double, and drove in two runs to lead Woodstock's 12-hit attack. Ericson had a two-run homer for the Centaurs and Keon Lamarche added a three-run triple.

In the win over visiting Windham, pitcher Riley

O'Brien was in command from the outset, allowing three hits while striking out seven in a five-inning, mercy-rule shortened contest. Corradi and Mathewson both drove in two runs for the Centaurs, who took full advantage of seven walks and five Windham errors.

BOYS' LACROSSE

In its final regular-season game Woodstock Academy qualified for the Connecticut Class M Boys' Lacrosse Tournament with a 9-7 victory over St. Bernard-Wheeler, Thursday, May 18, in Uncasville. Zach Gessner had three goals and two assists to lead the 7-9 Centaurs to the win while Henry Wotton added two goals and two assists, and Jared Nielsen scored twice and set another goal up.

BOYS' GOLF

Killingly, the No. 1 ranked boys' golf team in the state, improved to 12-0 with wins over Windham (7-0, Thursday, May 18), Stonington (7-0, Monday, May 15), and East Lyme (6-1, Monday, May 15).

In the win over Windham Cameron Seiffert and Harrison Giambattista each shot 1-under-par 32. Ethan Lackner fired a 1-over 34, and Logan Gagnon carded a 3-over 36 to round out the scoring for Killingly. In the wins over Stonington and East Lyme Seiffert was the medalist with a 1-over 35 while Logan Gagnon shot 37, Matt Card 38 and Ethan Lackner 42.

With the wins over Stonington and East Lyme Killingly clinched its 10th straight ECC Divisional Championship.

Elsewhere:

Woodstock Academy swept a home-and-home series with Tourtellotte, defeating the Tigers 7-0 in a pair of matches played Wednesday, May 17, and Thursday, May 18.

In the May 17 match, held at Raceway Golf Club in Thompson, Davis Simpson and Don Sousa tied for medalist honors, each shooting 4-over par 40. In the May 18 match, held at Thompson's Quinnatisset Country Club, Logan Rawson led Woodstock Academy (6-6) with a three-over par 39 while Don Sousa shot 40, and Davis Simpson 43.

Nicolas Kostacopoulos was low man for Tourtellotte (6-9) both days, firing a pair of 46s.

GIRLS' GOLF

It was a tough day on the course thanks to a stiff breeze and chilly conditions, but Woodstock Academy was able to maintain its focus in a 231-257 win over Suffield. The Centaurs (9-3, 7-2 in ECC matches) also picked up a forfeit victory over Waterford (1-6, 1-7) as the Lancers could not field a full team. Woodstock's Maya Orbezo fired a 44 to take medalist honors.

BOYS' TENNIS

Killingly went 2-1 last week, sandwiching wins around Woodstock Academy (5-2, Friday, May 19) and Lyman (6-1, Monday, May 15) around a loss to Waterford (6-1, Tuesday, May 16).

Singles winners for Killingly (7-7) in the win over Woodstock included Lucas Clayton, Henrick Pawul and Ryan Rattray. The Centaurs (7-5) picked up match points in doubles from Owen Rigney and Tyler Chamberlin, and Quentin Paterson and Ryan Chabot. Singles winners for Killingly in the win over Lyman were Henrik Pawul, Phillip Purcell, and Anthony Purcell. Doubles winners in the match were Jack Owens and Ross Hill, Ivan Tang and Sai Patel, and Colin Ericson and Deven Delaney.

GIRLS' TRACK

Woodstock Academy (4-0) defeated visiting Waterford, 113-37, Wednesday, May 17, behind the performances of Juliet Allard and Magdalena Myslenski, who both won three events. Allard won the 100- and 200-meter races, setting a personal best in the 200. Allard also finished first in the 300-meter hurdles. Myslenski, in the final home meet of her high school career, finished first in the discus, javelin and pole vault. Double winners for Woodstock were Bella Sorrentino, in the 100-meter hurdles and the shot put and Reegan Reynolds in the long and triple jumps.

BOYS' TRACK

Woodstock lost to Waterford, 82-68, Wednesday, May 17, but Jared Eaton had a meet to remember. The senior won the javelin, shot put and discus, setting a personal-best in the discus (137 feet, 4 inches). Carter Saracina won the 100-meter sprint and was second in the 200-meter sprint.
