Cohen explores nature's free wild restaurant

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — A walk in the woods with Russ Cohen inevitably teaches you something new about the edible wild plants all around us.

Last week, he led a few dozen Walktober walkers up the trail in Plympton Forest to talk about around 20 of the 44 edible plants he knows of growing there.

The first of those was not one most of us would look at and say "That looks tasty" — burdock. The biennial plant's best known for its spiky second-year burrs that attach to everything as you pass; Cohen noted "the guy who invented Velcro got the idea from this."

But, at the end of its first year, you can dig up its roots, wash, slice and boil them for about 15 minutes to get something tasting "like a starchy artichoke." That might take some work; he noted "very likely, your pa-tiency is going to give out before the root does."

For the second year, the cylindrical flower stalks are also edible. He said to peel off the outer layer then slice and boil them about six minutes; they can be used in ways similar to artichoke hearts.

Burdock's common, but even more common are roses, of various types. All of them have edible hips (the red fruit forming after the pollinated flower falls off), but those vary hugely in size. The largest are on the su-

Charlton police consider leasing some vehicles

BY JASON BLEAU
CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON — The Charlton Police Department is seeking to change its approach to purchasing new vehicles by embracing a hybrid plan that includes leasing as opposed to purchasing every vehicle outright.

Police Chief Daniel Dowd approached the Finance Committee in September about utilizing annually allocated monies for police vehicle purchasing to lease some vehicles with the plan to purchase at the end of the lease agreements while also still purchasing a certain number of patrol vehicles at the same time. Dowd recommended leasing the administrative vehicles which would allow for adding more cars in a shorter amount of time.

"Typically, you get a 36,000-mile warranty. I put it on patrol, it's run 24-7 and I don't get a year out of the warranty. It doesn't make sense to lease patrol cars because of that, you might as well buy them. What I like about (leasing administrative vehicles) at the end of three or four years is you simply buy the car for a dollar, so those cars still have value — It's not like a typical lease where you're only allowed to put so many miles on it. That's not the case. It's basically financing it," said the chief.

The budget for replacing police vehicles can range from more than $240,000 to more than $250,000. The chief's proposal allows the town to add five vehicles instead of the normal three by using part of that money for leasing and purchase two more vehicles each of the next two years respectively within the normal purchasing budget.

"You're not saving anything, you're just giving me more cars up front," said the Chief.

This approach is not unique to Charlton. Several departments in the commonwealth use a hybrid approach of leasing some vehicles while purchasing patrol cars while other departments lease all their vehicles. Town finance officials confirmed they would be working with the town's attorney to clarify language of how this may change the motion during the annual fall town meeting.

The Board of Selectmen approved the warrant articles for town meeting on Oct. 1 which includes

Donated car helps Southbridge woman move forward

SOUTHBRIDGE — With the average price of a used car currently around $31,000, many people are unable to afford even the most modest of vehicles. For Emilsy Mata from Southbridge, these high prices have pumped the brakes on her ability to get around safely and reliably. Thankfully, a generous donor presented her with a life-changing gift that will put her on the road to self-sufficiency — a donated car.

Mata was awarded a 2013 Toyota Camry from the car-donation nonprofit Good News Garage. The Burlington-based organization was founded in 1996 as one of the nation's first charitable car donation programs. Over the last 28 years, it has helped car donors give nearly 6,000 vehicles to neighbors in need.

Upon being handed the keys to her donated Camry, Mata said, "Thank you for donating me a great vehicle. Your support is going to help me get to appointments, work and school. I will always be grateful."

According to Good News Garage, post-pandemic

16th Annual Brimfield Auto Show returns to Auction Acres

BRIMFIELD — The Brimfield Auto show returns to the grounds of Auction Acres 35 Main Street Brimfield on Saturday, Oct. 12 (rain date Oct. 13). Registration for those entering their cars for judging is $15 and begins at 8 a.m. The gates are open 10 a.m. — 3 p.m. Admission is $ 5, free for seniors, military veterans & children under 13.

It is the 16th annual show and continues to be one of the largest in New England. The venue of Auction Acres combined with the Brimfield Winery offers a great atmosphere to enjoy the beautiful fall day on a holiday weekend.

With the inclusion of several more years and makes of cars being shown, the judges deemed it time to add a few categories. Judge Joe Ballou shared "For this year, we will have three categories for foreign cars including "Class U" for all years of Asian cars, "Class V" for European and British cars up to 1974, and "Class W" for European and British cars from 1975 to the present."

There is also a new memorial trophy, the "William Bessett Jr. Memorial." It will be awarded to the judge's favorite car of the show. Billy was a regular participant of the Brimfield Auto Show until he passed away on Sept. 9 last year at the age of 60. Billy's greatest passion was classic cars and bringing them back to their original glory or chopping and molding them into "hotrods."

Bruce Marshall of 97.7 FM, the Valley's

Classic Hits, widely known for hosting car cruises, will be emceeding the event, and playing music throughout the day. Several food trucks will be on site serving a variety of options to satisfy every taste bud.

Rusty and Kate Corriveau, owners of Auction Acres & The Brimfield Winery are frequent hosts to events that support local community organizations. They both have local roots, growing up in Brimfield and Wales, and have a deep understanding of the local community and feel it is important to give back and support the community who shaped them and now supports them in their business endeavors.

UnderGround Wednesdays continue with the zombie flick that started it all SOUTHBRIDGE — The Shawna Foundation Presents UnderGround Wednesday with a Screening of the zombie movie that started it all.

“Night of the Living Dead” (1968) was a low budget horror movie that defined what the flesh eating modern zombie looked like from then on.

Shot in black and white with radical political themes of racism that are still relevant today. George either forgot to do a copyright or did the paperwork wrong, so the film ended up in public domain, which made it the darling of the midnight movie craze. We may not know it otherwise.

But we do know it! And it is the night before Halloween! There is no better way to usher in that holiday. For the living and the dead!

The screening starts at 7 p.m. at starlite, 39 Hamilton St. in Southbridge.

The event is free and brought to you in part with the

Flamenco Boston to perform at Jacob Edwards Library

SOUTHBRIDGE — In celebration of Hispanic Heritage Month, Flamenco Boston will perform at the Jacob Edwards Library on Oct. 10 at 6:30 p.m. with special guest dancer, Aylin Bayaz, from Barcelona.

Flamenco Boston will bring an authentic flamenco experience, filled with fiery footwork and emotional songs, showcasing the wide emotional range that this art form has to offer. Experience the various styles, or palos, of flamenco from the Cuban-influenced Guajiras to the folkloric dance of Sevilla. Flamenco is an eclectic art form originating from the cultural melting pot that was in Andalusia, blending the influences of the Spaniards, Moors, Sephardic Jews, Indians, and Gitanos.

This program is supported in part by a grant from the Southbridge Cultural Council, a local agency which is supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency/

DA hosts discussion on grief, finding support after overdose death

SHREWSBURY — With a goal to support all families experiencing the loss of a loved one to an overdose, Worcester County District Attorney Joseph D. Early, Jr. hosted an event last Wednesday focused on grief and how to find support.

The event featured a panel discussion with Deb Dowd-Foley, a long-time peer grief support group facilitator; Cheryl A. Juaire, founder and president of Team Sharing, Inc. a parent-support non-profit, and Dennis Bates, CEO of Washburn House.

"Each life lost to overdose creates a void of grief felt by the family, friends, and loved ones left behind," said Early. "We want all those experiencing this grief to know they are not alone, and we want to help them find the support they need through the grieving process."

The panelists discussed their own personal stories of loss and grief, as well as talked through the options for people to find support locally.

Before forming Team Sharing, Juaire talked about grieving the loss of her first son, Corey at the age of 23, to overdose alone for three years before later meeting with a small group of six mothers who had also lost children to addiction.

"I finally realized I am normal. I finally realized I am going to be okay. It was lifechanging," Juaire said.

She also said the group rallied for her when she lost her second son, Sean, to overdose 10 years later.

"This community is how I survived the loss," she added.

Dowd-Foley agreed that participating in support groups was what helped her work through her grief after losing her 27-year-old son Brian to an overdose.

"I can't emphasize enough the importance of finding the support of people who understand what you are going through," Dowd-Foley said. "There was guilt and shame that added to the grief...All the whys. Why didn't I hear him come in? Why didn't I save him?"

She said that finding support, whether it be a grief counselor, Facebook groups, or peer support groups, was a huge help in grief. She also advocated for people to practice self-care, including journaling and meditation, and said doing what's right for you is important through the grief process.

"The courage of these parents who come here and say this is what's really going on, I commend them. That is how we're going to end the stigma," said Bates. "The beauty of what we have here is community. The people here who've been hurt the most are also the ones who can help the most."

Grief support services referenced at the meeting included: Support After a Death by Overdose (SADO.D.), which can be found at sadod.org; The Sun Will Rise Foundation, which can be found at the-sun-will-rise.org; and Team Sharing, Inc., which can be found at teamsharing-inc.org.

Early has been passionately committed to addressing the poly-substance use crisis, as well as trauma and mental health. In 2015, he formed the Central Mass. Opioid Task Force, which he renamed last year the Prevention and Support Network. There are more than 700 members in the network.

Local youth performers to appear in "The Nutcracker" at Hanover Theatre

WORCESTER — Quaboag students Samantha Carr and Violet Atwood, Tantasqua's Eiley Kennedy, Grace Moiles, and Olivia Merrick, West Brookfield's Lilian Benkert and Aspen-Rose Marshall along with Trottier School students McDowell and Schiavo, will take the stage at The Hanover Theatre and Conservatory for the Performing Arts in "The Nutcracker," generously sponsored by Berkshire Bank, from Nov. 29 – Dec. 1.

Featuring live music from The Hanover Theatre Nutcracker Orchestra conducted by Eric Culver; this production of "The Nutcracker" will enchant you with dazzling lighting and scenery by Broadway designers, brilliant dancing and vibrant costumes.

Tickets are on sale now for Nov. 29 at 2 and 7 p.m.; Nov. 30 at 2 and 7 p.m.; and Dec. 1 at 1 p.m.

"The Nutcracker" is a two-act ballet by Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky first performed in Russia in December 1892 and based on the stories of E.T.A. Hoffmann and Alexandre Dumas. The story revolves around Clara, a young girl who receives a nutcracker doll as a Christmas gift and then enters a fantastical world where the Nutcracker and other characters come to life.

"This is my 16th year as artistic director of 'The Nutcracker' at The Hanover Theatre and Conservatory for the Performing Arts. I genuinely love working with all the dancers to put on a magical performance in front of our central Massachusetts community. I remember auditioning as a little girl for the Boston Ballet and the Pittsburgh Ballet at the Worcester Auditorium. It was a priceless opportunity, and I still think of that time every year we begin rehearsals for 'The Nutcracker' at The Hanover Theatre," shared Jennifer Agbay.

Tickets to "The Nutcracker" range from $39 to $59 depending on seat location, performance and availability. Discounts are available for Broadway subscribers. Please contact the box office at 877-571-7469 or visit TheHanoverTheatre.org for more information.

Discounts are also available for groups of 10 or more. To learn more about group rates call 508-471-1689 or email groupsales@thehanovertheatre.org.

About The Hanover Theatre and Conservatory for the Performing Arts

Since opening in 2008, The Hanover Theatre has entertained more than two million guests with Broadway musicals, comedy headliners, music, dance and more. POLLSTAR consistently ranks The Hanover Theatre as one of the top theatres in the world. The award-winning historic theatre continues to establish its place as a world-class center for the performing arts, a venue for local cultural and civic organizations and a catalyst for the revitalization of downtown Worcester. The Hanover Theatre's facilities at 551 Main Street house function spaces, offices and The Hanover Theatre Conservatory.

The Hanover Theatre Conservatory (THTC) provides performance opportunities, classes, and individual instruction in theatre, dance and technical theatre and design to more than 600 young people and adults from across central Massachusetts each year. Established in 2016, the conservatory cultivates individual attention, ignites creativity and inspires confidence through arts education led by outstanding teaching artists. The state-of-the-art facility includes classrooms, rehearsal and teaching studios, and tech and costume labs for advanced education in stage craft and design. Students receive access to master classes with national touring artists and gain professional experience from performance opportunities with The Hanover Theatre Repertory (THTRep) and on The Hanover Theatre's world-class stage. THTC believes in access to arts education for all and provides financial aid for those in need. Many conservatory students have continued their pursuit of the arts at institutions such as Emerson College, Boston University, NYU, Boston Conservatory at Berklee, Berklee College of Music, Hofstra University, Hartt School at the University of Hartford, Marymount Manhattan College, Syracuse University and more.

Worcester Center for Performing Arts is a registered not-for-profit 501(c)(3) organization, which owns and operates The Hanover Theatre and Conservatory for the Performing Arts (THTR) and, on behalf of the Worcester Cultural Coalition (WCC), manages Worcester's Brick-Box Theater at the Jean McDonough Arts Center (JMAC). All donations are tax deductible to the fullest extent allowed by law.

Country Bank, Worcester Red Sox unite for 2024 Police Vs. Fire Baseball Classic

WORCESTER — Country Bank, a full-service financial institution serving Central and Western Massachusetts, and the Worcester Red Sox Foundation recently held the third annual, “POLICE VS. FIRE BASEBALL CLASSIC,” presented by the WooSox Foundation and Country Bank on Monday, Sept. 16, at Polar Park. A $15,000 donation was made to the Worcester Fire Department Memorials Care Fund, a Worcester-based nonprofit that supports the perpetual care and maintenance of fallen firefighter memorials throughout the city and their families. “At Country Bank, we are deeply honored to support our community’s police officers and firefighters through events like the Police vs. Fire Baseball Classic,” said Mary McGovern, President and CEO at Country Bank. “These brave men and women selflessly serve and protect, and it is a privilege to contribute to the care and maintenance of memorials that honor those who have made the ultimate sacrifice. Our commitment to this cause reflects our ongoing dedication to strengthening the communities we serve and supporting the heroes who safeguard them.” “As this annual tradition grows, we find that the poignant ceremony and competitive baseball game are emerging points of pride in our community,” said WooSox President Dr. Charles Steinberg. “We give wholehearted thanks to Country Bank for continuing their outstanding community service. Our police and firefighters have found an extraordinary way to remember those who have made the ultimate sacrifice, and then to honor their memory with a fiercely competitive, marvelously entertaining performance of our national pastime. Our community is unique in the central role played by these frontline heroes.”

Boating safety always wins

REGION — US Coast Guard Auxiliary Tri-State Flotilla, Massachusetts held Vessel Safety Check stations at Wallum Lake, Douglas State Forest and Memorial Beach, Webster boat ramps in June; also, at various locations during 2024. All types of watercrafts are checked by qualified, volunteer examiners to see if they meet federal and state equipment regulations. Boaters are informed of concerns or any potential problems by consent, with no citations, or reports to any law enforcement agencies. Passing the check is rewarded by getting a VSC decal for the year. Some inland waters require boats to be examined and it could also result in a discount on boat insurance. Examiners are few around the local inland waters and not readily available, so getting the exam is a win.

For the second, and final year, as an incentive to get more boats examined, we again decided to request some great rewards from local safe boating supporters for a drawing on September 24. Local establishments were more than generous in their support with nine certificates valued at $400 rewarded to boat owners getting a VSC, and our flotilla examiners performing over 100 VSCs in this year’s program.

Andrius Mingela of Webster received a certificate from Hazard Marine in Oxford; Joseph Houde of Mendon and Anthony Rodriguez of Worcester both won certificates from Lakeview Marine in Webster; Melissa Philbrook of Uxbridge and Michael Smart from Cumberland RI both received gift cards from Indian Ranch in Webster; Hassan Elmaola of Worcester won a certificate from Waterfront Mary’s Restaurant on Webster Lake; Scott Foster of Whitinsville won a certificate from Bistro Eighty Ates Restaurant in Webster; Christopher O’Neil of Uxbridge won a gift card for Saloon No. 6 Bar & Eatery in Webster. Michael Pietrowicz of Dudley, a lucky boater also winning in last year’s drawing, will enjoy a certificate from Point Breeze Restaurant on Webster Lake.

You can still participate in this program to make sure that your vessel is safe on the water by going to <http://www.vesselsafetycheck.org/> and click on GET YOUR SAFETY CHECK to locate an examiner and request a VSC. Make sure that you check out our Facebook.com/ 61565626541391 or our website <https://wow.uscgaux.info/content.php?unit=013-10-02>

Notice to paddlers

Canoes, Kayaks, and Paddleboards are considered vessels by law in the US and require lifejackets and a sound producing device, a whistle, onboard always. Children 12 and under on any vessel must always wear a lifejacket. Between Sept. 15 and May 15, anyone on a canoe, kayak or paddleboard must wear a lifejacket at all times in Massachusetts; in Rhode Island lifejackets are now required worn all year on those vessels.

per-spiny rugosa roses, which are “very red and soft.” Those need to be cut in half and scraped to remove seeds and the irritating hairs inside, but are very rich in vitamin C. They can be used in tea, jellies and rose butter.

In our area, though, you're more likely to see the white-flowered multiflora roses, which are extremely invasive. Their rose hips are tiny, red “Tic-Tacs” that ripen in November: Cohen said you can just pop them in your mouth and nibble them while walking, but make sure you spit the seeds in a baggie to avoid spreading the plant.

In general regarding berries, he observed, “I don't know of any berry that's tasty and poisonous that grows around here,” so if it tastes bad, spit it out.

His tour stopped at a couple other berries: autumn olive, wild grapes, blackberry, barberry and white baneberry. The latter highlights Cohen's point – it's very toxic (it's also notably white and eyeball-like; one of the few other white berries is that of poison ivy, also toxic).

Like several things he discussed, autumn olive is invasive; “it might be the most numerous plant in the Last Green Valley,” he said.

Gus Steeves

Cohen before a small American chestnut, which he noted is actually more than 100 years old because it regenerates from the same roots. It used to be a major species of the US forest.

But it's also “a wonderfully edible plant” – namely its red berries with distinctive silvery spots when ripe (those also give it the name “silverberry”). That silvery appearance is also notable on the underside of its leaves; Cohen said highway departments “planted a whole bunch of them” on roadsides, and it spread easily; the plant is also a nitrogen-fixer.

Regarding barberry, Cohen noted you'll find two species in our forests – a naturalized European or “common” species and the invasive Japanese variety. The Japanese type is distinguishable by having each berry attached separately, while the common version droops “in clusters of a dozen” – he noted “Japan is one country, but Europe is many.” It's not toxic, but “not yummy,” while Cohen said he feels the common barberry “makes among the best jellies there is,” in part because it doesn't need pectin. He noted he also accidentally discovered it “makes great wine.” the common barberry grows to six or seven feet tall; the Japanese one is shorter.

Almost everyone knows the other two – grapes and blackberries. Blackberries and their kin (raspberries, dewberries, etc.) are in the rose family, and “all the fruits in all these species are edible,” and they have various medicinal uses. Red raspberry leaves, for example, are noted for making a “female tea” that helps with period cramps (they're high in iron), while blackberry is used for constipation and diarrhea, he said. Most of them are brambles (quite spiny), although some cultivated versions don't have them. Dewberry is “basically a blackberry that sprawls along the ground.”

He said grapes ripen right around Sept. 8 and exist in many varieties; the most notable one is usually fox grape, which people often smell before seeing. He described that as “really yummy straight into your mouth right from the vine.” Another type, riverside grape, has a “musky” flavor; but its leaves are the best for making stuffed grape leaves, although any will work. They're best picked young; “after Fathers' Day, they're tough to use,” he noted.

Grapes can often be found near wild hazelnuts, which is where Cohen found them. Our area has two native types, common and beach hazelnut, but there are hundreds of species globally; the former's nut “looks like a little head of cabbage.” When ripe, the nut falls out of that husk, or the whole husk falls off the tree; he recommended picking them before that happens around Sept. 8. They'll grow in sun or shade, but you're more likely to find nuts in the sun because that's “a scary place for squirrels and chipmunks to be.”

Similar habitats still harbor struggling American chestnuts, which are “usually diminutive” today. He noted he occasionally finds one that “has escaped the blight long enough to produce burrs,” the spiky nut-holding balls, but most don't. (Usually, that happens around 25 feet tall in good sun; if they flower; watch them for nuts later.)

The chestnut blight, which came here around 1900 from Japan, wiped out almost all American chestnuts. Today, their bark starts to split around age 15, and that lets the blight in and kills them. But the species grows back from the roots, so the ones we see now are actually at least 100 years old, Cohen said.

A non-nut tree that's edible – well, actually, drinkable – is the birch. All types, if larger than eight inches in diameter, can be tapped for the very watery sap just after the maples stop flowing. The liquid “looks and tastes like molasses” once boiled off, “but you can drink it straight out of the tree,” he said. Two types – yellow and grey – smell like wintergreen if scratched; their inner bark contains methyl salicylate, the precursor to aspirin.

Three much lower-growing edibles are sweet fern, sweet cicily (anise root) and spicebush. The misnamed sweet fern (which is a low bush, not a fern, but its leaves look like tiny fern fronds) was used by the colonists for tea, but it also has at least two medicinal uses. Cohen said he could vouch for its effectiveness as an insect repellent – “it's not DEET, but it does reduce the severity of attacks” – but wasn't sure of its use as a topical rub to counteract poison ivy.

Sweet cicily's edible part is the root and immature, green seeds (not the older black ones); it's in the carrot family and smells like licorice or anise. But this one's related to some highly toxic plants, namely poison hemlock, he noted.

Spicebush was also an early American tea substitute. It's berries look like Japanese barberries; when dried, they'll keep for years and can be ground to use as a savory spice. Deer don't like it, but birds do, “so leave lots on the plant so birds get what they need,” Cohen said.

Why fall is the best season of all

Fall in New England is something else. It's the kind of season that makes you stop and take it all in—the crisp air, the explosion of colors, and the cozy feel of it all. After a busy summer, it's the perfect shift into a slower, more connected way of life.

There's just a lot to love about a New England fall. The trees light up with reds, oranges, and yellows, creating landscapes that look straight out of a postcard. And it's not just the scenery, it's the traditions, too. Fall is when small towns come alive with festivals, harvest fairs, porch concerts, and outdoor markets. It's an invitation to gather with neighbors, whether around a bonfire, at a farm stand, or during a weekend spent raking leaves and chatting over cider.

Fall in New England also has that perfect balance. The days are cool but not too cold, just right for a hike, a stroll through town, or picking apples in a local orchard. As the leaves change, they remind us that nothing stays the same forever, and that's okay. This season encourages us to embrace change while appreciating everything we've got right now.

It's also a time for reflection. With winter coming, fall feels like a last big celebration of the year before things quiet down. It's a chance to be thankful for what we have and to focus on what really matters, time spent with family, friends, and neighbors.

So, while the pumpkins, apple picking, and Halloween costumes are fun, the real magic of a New England fall is how it brings people together. It's about enjoying what's around us, building connections, and making the most of this cozy season before the snow flies. That's what makes fall in New England so special.

Of transformers and Guardsmen

BY GUS STEEVES

Just in case you still thought the US isn't run by greedy psychopaths, our government recently sent dozens of transformers to Ukraine just as we need hundreds in the states devastated by Hurricane Helene.

According to a recent tweet by Ambassador Bridget Brink, USAID provided "50 voltage transformers, 9 current transformers, and 80 isolators" for Kharkov's energy grid. Obviously, this shipment was planned before Helene roared through, but there have been warnings for a long time that the US doesn't have enough transformers in case of emergency, and they'd take months to replace (mostly from overseas).

They should have stayed here, and I have to wonder who profited from that transaction. It sure wasn't us.

Another story noted FEMA just got $100 million for Helene recovery work, which is nowhere near enough. We have massive fires, more hurricanes (Milton is ramping up to flatten Florida as I write this), blizzards and other things damaging roads, bridges and community facilities that have needed repair for years. But Washington keeps sending billions to Israel and Ukraine to continue destruction there. We need that money here!

Also related to Helene, I saw the following at one of my favorite websites, Naked Capitalism, Oct 6 (<https://www.nakedcapitalism.com/2024/10/links-10-6-2024.html>):

"Report from the field (KLG):

"I drove cross country yesterday, a week after Hurricane Helene, on GA19 between Lumber City and Dublin. About 50 miles through utter devastation. No power; the traffic signals were dark and every intersection was a 4-way stop. Power and phone lines down. At least 20% of houses had major damage from wind or falling trees. ...

"... I have heard that FEMA is basically absent and that the state of Georgia is not much better. After previous storms the Georgia National Guard was out in force the next day. They must have been on another road. I counted utility maintenance trucks from at least 15 companies around the Southeastern United States. Those linemen are local heroes. Otherwise these very rural people have been mostly ignored, or so it seems."

That last paragraph sparked a Web search, which immediately found this:

<https://www.nationalguard.mil/News/Article-View/Article/3297441/georgia-guard-embarks-on-1st-stage-of-overseas-deployment/> and, closer to home, this: <https://www.westernmassnews.com/2024/01/23/hundreds-army-national-guard-members-deploy-middle-east/>

The first line for Georgia says what the underlying problem is – a "two-decade history of continuous global engagement." If they're overseas, they aren't "on another road," or at least not with enough people to do things effectively. I bet that's true of the Guards from most states, including ours, which is in the Middle East this year. Other Guard units are scattered all over the globe.

How many of them see the news from home, see where they are now, and know quite well they should be home helping our people, but they can't because of greedy warmongers?

I strongly support "global engagement" in the civilian and diplomatic senses. We must always keep talking to other nations and sharing ideas with them, especially our supposed "enemies." But our government's warmongering is undermining diplomacy at the same time it torpedoes our ability to fix anything at home, and the need will only rise with climate change. It's time to bring all of our Guard and regular troops home.

One step toward sanity is the Defend the Guard Act, which would require a formal, Congressional declaration of war to deploy the National Guard overseas. Some states (mostly conservative ones) have passed it, some are still considering it, and I've asked Rep Marsi to introduce it here. Here's a story about it in NH: <https://responsibletatecraft.org/new-hampshire-defend-the-guard/> and a page on the concept itself: <https://www.lp.org/defend-the-guard/>.

Use fresh herbs to flavor holiday meals

MYERS

Grow, harvest and season your holiday meals with fresh herbs grown indoors in a windowsill garden. Add to the experience by using potted herbs and a few holiday adornments to dress up the table. You and your family will enjoy snipping a few fresh herbal sprigs to season your meal to your own taste.

Include herbs your family likes, those that complement your menu and are easy to grow indoors like basil, oregano, parsley, chives, thyme, and sage. Purchase plants so they will be ready to harvest for the holidays. Many garden centers now carry herb plants year-round; some grocery stores sell them in their produce department.

Grow plants in individual containers or plant several in one larger decorative pot. Select a container with drainage holes and one that complements your table setting. Use a quality, well-draining potting mix when transplanting herbs into another container.

Place a saucer or tray under pots with drainage holes to protect your furniture. Or double pot plants when using a decorative container that lacks drainage holes. Plant herbs in a smaller pot with drainage holes or set several pots in a larger container. Place pebbles in the bottom of the decorative pot. This elevates the inner pots above any excess water that collects in the bottom of the decorative pot, helping avoid root rot and the need to empty the water in the saucer.

Grow herbs that complement your family's favorite recipes and are easy to grow indoors.

Dress up any meal by creating an edible centerpiece with your herb plants. Set them on a decorative placemat to protect the tabletop and add a few seasonal items to complete your display.

Grow herbs in a sunny window such as an unobstructed south-, east-, or west-facing window when they are not decorating the table. Consider adding artificial lights if sunlight is limited

Do you need to fear retirement?

NIELSEN

If you're planning to retire in a few years, are you looking forward to it? Or are you somewhat apprehensive? Are you asking yourself: "What sort of retirement can I afford?"

It's a good question — because the answer can make a big difference in your ability to enjoy life as a retiree.

And retirement can indeed be enjoyable, exciting and fun. Consider this from a recent survey by Edward Jones and AgeWave: A majority of respondents said retirement should be looked at as a whole new chapter of life, and not just a time for rest and relaxation. In other words, people are viewing retirement as a chance for new experiences and new opportunities, rather than a time to simply wind down. But if you're going to make the most of your retirement — which could last two or even three decades — you need to be financially prepared.

This preparation can involve many steps, but here are some of the key ones:

Decide what your retirement lifestyle will look like. How you choose to spend your retirement years can make a big difference in the financial resources you'll need. For example, if you plan on traveling the world, you might need more income than if you were to stay close to home and pursue your hobbies. If you can envision your retirement lifestyle and estimate how much money you'll need to support it, you can help reduce some of the uncertainties you might face once you do retire.

Review your income sources. During retirement, you'll likely need to draw on all your income sources, so it's a good idea to know what you'll have available, such as your IRA, 401(k) and other investment accounts. You'll also need to decide when to take Social Security — if you wait until your full retirement age (probably between 66 and 67), you'll get much larger monthly benefits than if you started taking them at 62. And here's another variable: earned income. Even if you've retired from your career, you might, if you desire, use your acquired skills in a consulting or part-time position. The more you can earn, the less you may have to withdraw from your investment accounts and the better position you'll be in to delay taking Social Security.

Consider adjusting your investment portfolio. For most of your working years, you may have invested mostly for growth — to increase your assets as much as possible. But growth-oriented investments are also, by nature, riskier, so when you retire, you should review your portfolio to determine whether you need to move it toward a more conservative position. Also, more conservative investments may provide more current income in the form of interest payments. However, even in retirement, you may need some investments with growth potential if you want to keep ahead of inflation.

Retirement is certainly a major milestone in your life — and adjusting to it can take some time. But there will be much less to fear — and much more to enjoy — if you've done what you can to prepare yourself financially.

It's Pumpkin Season!

Although we think of pumpkins as a vegetable, it is officially classified as a fruit since it grows from a flower and has seeds. Pumpkins contain 90% water, and they float!

Pumpkins are very popular this time of year and consumer demand for pumpkins remains high, with last year's U.S. pumpkin production up to 15.97 cwt (hundredweight), almost double the amount produced just three years earlier! It's no wonder people love pumpkins – not only are they an autumn decorating staple, pumpkins have many virtues beyond their aesthetics: they are delicious, are a rich source of both fiber and vitamin A and naturally low in calories. Best of all pumpkins are very versatile, which have made them the spotlight of many Autumn feasts via pumpkin soups, casseroles and hearty pies.

Read on for a roundup of pumpkin tips, tricks and ideas:

Keep in mind when choosing pumpkins that the variety you select should fit your need. For example, if you desire a pumpkin for pie, a medium sugar pumpkin, which is typically small and sweet with a dark orange color, is the best choice. For carving, look for well rounded pumpkins that have good color with stem intact. Pumpkins earmarked as Jack-O-Lanterns are usually larger and contain too many strings and seeds to be practical for pie making. Choosing a proper pumpkin for your table is important. Pumpkins should be mature and firm, with taut skin and a nice orange hue. Select pumpkins that feel solid and are heavy for their size. If still growing on the vine, look for stems that are solidly attached to the pumpkin. A general rule to test for maturity is to scratch the skin slightly with a fingernail. A mature pumpkin will resist scratching.

Preserving and Preparing Pumpkins: Pumpkins can be successfully stored for up to six months, as long as conditions are favorable. Storage temperature should not exceed 50 degrees and should be stored in a dry, frost free environment.

Whole pumpkins keep better if picked leaving two inches of the stem on the fruit. Dry them in the sun for a few days before storing. For safety's sake, wipe pumpkins down with a common disinfectant such as Lysol before storing. Whole pumpkins should not be allowed to touch each other in storage. And be sure to keep an eye out for rot spots that may form. Any pumpkins that are found to be decaying should be promptly removed from the storage area.

If you want to store pumpkins beyond several months, you will need to preserve them. Several methods of preserving pumpkins are used. Freezing cooked, pureed pumpkin is a favored way to preserve the taste and texture of pumpkin. Sugar or pie pumpkins are ideal candidates for freezing as the pulp is thicker and firmer. To easily prepare a pumpkin for pureeing, simply place the whole fruit in the microwave for about a minute or so to soften the skin. This will make the pumpkin much easier to peel. Cut the pumpkin in large slices, peel the skin and remove the strings and seeds. Then cut the slices into smaller pieces. Boil the pumpkin pieces until tender, then mash or process the pumpkin pulp until it forms a smooth, thick puree.

Those who are considering home canning pumpkin should be advised pumpkin puree cannot be canned due to its thickness, and although some people successfully can chunked slices of the pulp, it is safer to avoid the risk altogether.

Pumpkin can also be dried, which was a favored method of the colonists. Drying pumpkin must be done carefully in order to kill all the germs that would make it spoil. Here's how to do it the old fashioned way: Split the pumpkin in half and remove the seeds. Remove the skin and cut the fruit into thin slices. Steam for about six minutes. Spread on a tray and dry in the sun (it will take at least two days, and it will take about two days. If flies are a problem, cover with netting. Pumpkin needs to be dried in hot sun so that it dries quickly before it spoils.

Or, you can dry pumpkin quicker and easier in the oven or microwave; here's how to do it in the microwave, which is the fastest method:

Arrange thin slices on a microwave safe tray or glass pie plate. You must leave space between the slices so air can circulate around them. Cook on high for 15 to 20 minutes. Check the pumpkin; if it is not crispy; cook again for five minutes, and continue until the dried slices are crunchy. Allow to cool before storing.

Did you know that dried pumpkin can also be made into a flour, which can be used just as you would all purpose flour in cooking and baking? To do, simply pulverize the dry pumpkin in a food processor.

Perfect Pumpkin Seeds: Many Halloween traditions include gathering the seeds from a carved Jack-O-Lantern to toast in a warm oven. The snack is both healthy and delicious, and the addition of spices gives the humble treat a flavorful punch. Plus, roasting up a batch of pumpkin seeds is not only an annual treat, it's a great way to use up every bit of the vegetable:

To properly toast pumpkin seeds, remove all pulp and clean strings from the seeds. Place seeds in a bowl and stir in melted butter or olive oil and salt to coat the seeds. Spread seeds on a cookie sheet and bake in a 275 degree oven for about an hour or until the seeds are golden brown and crisp. Avoid overcooking as seeds can become hard and tough.

Prefer crisper seeds? Prior to toasting boil the seeds in salted water for about ten minutes, drain and prepare for roasting. Pumpkin seeds:

Pumpkin Sprouts: Pumpkin seeds can even be sprouted to use on sandwiches and in salads. Pumpkin seeds are a healthy snack as they are over 30 percent protein and are high in and oil-sol-

Please don't sell me things

BY CHRISTOPHER J. MALLON
SVP, PROGRAM MANAGER
THE CAPSTONE PLANNING GROUP

Several years ago, I was in the market for a new car and decided to visit a few car dealerships to explore my options. While I wasn't sure exactly what vehicle I wanted, I did know it would need a third row given my growing family and three young children. As I walked the first car lot a salesman noticed me looking at an SUV, and he eagerly approached to offer his assistance. "What's it going to take for me to sell you this car today?" he asked. I cringed. "I don't want you to sell me anything, but I do have some questions about the vehicle," I replied.

I don't know about you, but I don't want to be "sold" anything. Ask me what I am looking for, what options I value, what is important to me, and what questions I have. Educate me on features. Be transparent about pricing and list the pros and cons of various choices. You can even give me your opinion. Ultimately, I want information so that I can make my own decision. And this approach applies to more than just car shopping.

When it comes to the financial service industry, too many advisors try to "sell" things before understanding their prospective client's needs. Instead of building a relationship based on trust and value, their tactics focus on products or pricing. Are products and pricing important? Yes, but that's not where the conversation should start.

The primary role of a professional financial advisor is to understand each client's unique situation. He or she should understand your savings, cashflow, income, expenses, social security, and risk tolerance. Together you should prioritize your short and long-term goals such as retirement, downsizing your home, funding a child's college tuition, or leaving a legacy for your family. Only after those discussions have occurred should product recommendations be given.

Often, the best financial advisors approach their practice like a doctor. Would a doctor prescribe a treatment or medicine before performing a series of tests? Not likely. They'll ask you questions, conduct physicals, check blood pressure, order lab work, and any multitude of other items. They'll present their findings and explain the pros and cons of various treatment plans. And ultimately, the patient will choose which route they want to take.

It is for reasons like these that an ongoing personal relationship with your financial advisor is so important. While the emergence of discount online investment firms may appeal to some, they typically lack this major ingredient -- a genuine client-advisor relationship. To shift your focus away from this issue, online investment firms focus on low pricing. Or, if your account gets large enough, an advisor (from their revolving door of employees) may try to sell you something.

The goal of a financial advisor is to identify client needs, not to sell things. Advisors should approach their job as educators and provide information. They help their clients make informed decisions. They craft financial plans and offer recommendations based on their analysis and findings. That is where the true value of a financial advisor is found -- not in products or price.

Blood rain

While I focus on the positive, I'm a fan of the Strange, Dark, and Mysterious. Who doesn't love a good mystery? I'm dedicating a series to some unsettling tales for this year's spooky season. There's no better way to start than with the chilling phenomenon of blood rains, documented by the legendary Charles Fort.

Fort once wrote, "There have been red rains that, in the Middle Ages, were called 'rains of blood.' Such rains terrified many persons and were so unsettling to large populations that Science has sought to prove that 'rains of blood' do not exist."

Scientists have documented red rains caused by sand and dust particles from the Sahara Desert. When strong winds sweep the desert, red sands mix with rain clouds, creating a reddish downpour. This phenomenon, known as "blood rain," is fairly common and has been analyzed to show high iron oxide concentrations, giving it a rusty hue. But what

POSITIVELY

Charles Fort documented is far stranger. We're not talking about dusty rain, but actual blood-like rains—thicker, darker, and containing organic matter that defies simple explanations.

One of the most unsettling accounts of red rain comes from Fort's research on an incident in France on October 16 and 17, 1846. During this period, a vivid, crimson rain fell across several towns, staining the streets, rooftops, and fields in a disturbing shade of red. Locals were terrified, describing it as if the sky itself were bleeding.

Scientific journals of the time, such as Comptes Rendus, noted that the rain was so vividly colored that it looked more like fresh blood than mud or dust.

Two separate chemical analyses were conducted to determine the nature of the strange rain. One scientist reported the presence of "blood-like corpuscles" in the samples, while another confirmed that up to 35 percent of the rain's composition was made up of organic matter—substances usually associated with living organisms. This appeared to be no ordinary storm.

Despite these findings, it was dismissed as a natural event, attributing it to dust swept up from the earth.

Was it really blood? If so, where did it come from? No birds or other animals were found dead in the area, and no other plausible sources of organic material were identified. And eerily, this wouldn't be the last time such rains were reported in Europe, leaving a question mark that lingers to this day.

Take the terrifying incident on May 15, 1890, in Messignadi, Calabria, Italy. According to Professor Luigi Palazzo, head of the Italian Meteorological Bureau, something the color of fresh blood fell from the sky over this small town.

Naturally, the locals were horrified. Supposedly, this wasn't just a light drizzle—it soaked their homes, fields, and streets in thick, crimson droplets. Samples

Cornerstone Bank announces retirement of EVP, Chief Information Officer Thomas Dufresne

WORCESTER — Cornerstone Bank, a community bank with locations throughout Central Massachusetts, announces the upcoming retirement of Executive Vice President, Chief Information Officer Thomas Dufresne.

Thomas Dufresne

“Tom has led the way to ensuring our customers have easy access for all their banking needs, using cutting-edge technology in a way that’s always user-friendly,” said Todd Tallman, CEO of Cornerstone Bank. “We appreciate his many years of dedication and hard work and wish him the very best as he embarks on the next chapter of his life.”

Dufresne, who lives in Worcester, began his career at Cornerstone 27 years ago, a pivot from his early years working in the insurance industry.

“I wrote the first web page the Bank had,” he said, adding that he is proud to have been part of the growth “that now has Cornerstone poised to move adeptly into the future.”

Throughout his career, Dufresne was an integral part of the Bank’s technological evolution. This includes major initiatives such as implementing, managing and troubleshooting a full Voice over Internet Protocol (VoIP), which allows voice calls using a broadband Internet connection instead of an analog phone line. He was also responsible for authoring IT policies, auditing internal systems and developing IT instructional programs, in addition to branch implementation and Enterprise Risk Management.

Dufresne also said that during his tenure, the Bank made it a priority to ensure customer information is secure.

“Finding quicker, better, faster ways to do business allows us to provide better services for our customers,” he said.

An avid outdoor explorer, Dufresne plans to spend his new-found free time diving into the tranquility of nature, travelling across the country in a small camper with his wife. “I want to relax and be were quickly collected and sent to the public health laboratories in Rome for analysis. The result? It was confirmed to be blood. Human? Animal? The scientists couldn't say.

What could cause blood to fall from the sky?

As documented in Popular Science News, the official explanation was that a flock of migratory birds—quails or swallows—had been caught and torn apart by a violent windstorm high above the town.

But here's where the story gets even stranger: Not a single feather was found. No bird remains were recovered, and no witness recalled seeing birds struggling in the sky. It was as if the blood had appeared in the clouds, only to rain down on the terrified townspeople.

This eerie event should have been a one-time occurrence, but Fort's records show that blood rained again in the same town months later.

Twice, in the same location—each time with no sign of birds, storms, or any logical explanation.

Could some unknown atmospheric phenomenon cause these bloody downpours, or are they evidence of something much darker?

Whatever the cause, the tale of the blood rains remains one of the most disturbing and unexplainable mysteries in Fort's work. So, the next time you find yourself caught in a storm and notice something red in the raindrops—don't assume it's mud or dust. Look closer. You might be witnessing something that has terrified and baffled people for centuries: blood from the sky.

OBITUARIES

Mary F. Eastman, 88

Sturbridge: Mary F. (Welch) Eastman, 88, of Westwood Dr., passed away on Saturday, Oct. 5th, in her home surrounded by family, after a short illness.

She leaves her husband of 65 years, Ralph A. Eastman; her daughter, Nancy E. Eastman of Sturbridge; a sister, Ellen L. Goodrow of Agawam; nephew, John Pulawski of Southbridge; nieces, Ellen Pulawski and her husband Jean of Woodstock, CT and Ann Proulx and her husband Michael of Webster; a life time friend, Marey Carey of Southbridge and several cousins. She was predeceased by her sister Patricia A. Pulawski and her husband Albert and brother in law Edward Goodrow. She was born in Southbridge the daughter of the late Francis and Loretta (Corish) Welch.

Mary was passionate about her family. She met the love of her life while working as a flight attendant for Mohawk Airlines in the 1950s. Together they raised their loving daughter, Nancy. They travelled and vacationed as a unit, loving especially the Outer Banks with friends and winters in St Augustine, FL. Mary was an avid quilter, seamstress, golfer, gardener. She also had a twinkle in her eye and mischievous spirit. Her kind and giving heart will be sorely missed by all who knew her.

Her funeral will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 15th, from the Daniel T.

Morrill Funeral Home, 130 Hamilton St., Southbridge, with a Mass at 11:00am in St. Mary's Church of the St. John Paul II Parish, 263 Hamilton St., Southbridge. Burial will follow in West Ridge Cemetery, Charlton. A Calling hour in the funeral home will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 15th, from 9:30 to 10:30am, prior to Mass.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to a charity of their choice.

The Daniel T. Morrill Funeral Home, 130 Hamilton St., Southbridge, is directing arrangements.

and the plants have leggy stems and pale leaves. Keep the lights about six to 12 inches above the tops of the plants and leave them on for six to eight hours if supplementing the natural light. Leave them on for 14 hours a day, if this is the only light source. Set the plants on a reflective surface to help shine light back up into the bottom of the plants.

Avoid drafts of hot and cold air and water thoroughly as needed. Some herbs like basil, oregano, parsley, and marjoram like soil to be slightly moist but not soggy while chives, thyme, and sage like it a bit drier.

Grow basil to dress up a pizza, salad, or soup with a few leaves. Add some oregano to season any tomato-based dishes such as pizza and pasta. Use fresh thyme to flavor cheese, eggs, tomatoes, and lentils.

Chives' mild onion flavor is great on potatoes, but consider adding it to soups, dips, seafood dishes, and omelets. Just snip a few leaves and cut them into smaller pieces before adding them to your dish.

Parsley is high in Vitamin C, and is often added to soups, pasta, salads, and dressings. Harvest a sprig at the end of the meal to freshen your breath.

Add several pairs of snips and let everyone add their favorite herbal seasonings to their meal. You may need to show your guests how to harvest and use the herbs to get them started. Let them know that harvesting the herbs encourages new growth for future use.

Make this year's holiday meals memorable. Invite your guest to enjoy the fresh flavor and fun of seasoning their meals right at the table.

To sprout pumpkin seeds, place the seeds in a glass jar (Mason jars are ideal) and cover with water just to cover. Secure a piece of cheesecloth over the top with a rubber band. Soak seeds overnight. The next day, drain the water out and place the jar in dark area that is room temperature. Rinse the seeds in the jar at least four times a day. After a few days, you should see the seeds sprouting. Rinse them again and place the jar in the sun for a day or so until tiny leaves form. They are now ready to use as a tasty garnish or salad addition.

Pumpkin Hummus: Pureed sugar pumpkin adds just the right flavor to this hummus. To do:

Mix together in a food processor until smooth: two cups pureed sugar pumpkin; one 15 oz can of garbanzo (chi chi) beans; one tablespoon tahini, two teaspoons vegetable oil; one teaspoon cumin; one teaspoon salt; one eighth teaspoon cayenne pepper; one crushed garlic clove, and three tablespoons of water.

Adjust thickness by adding a little water if it is too thick. Makes two cups. Serve with pita bread or crackers.

Hi! My name is Alexander and I love to be busy!

Alex is a silly and funny young boy. He loves to swim and play at the local playgrounds. He has friends at school and typically can meet children on the playground and engage with them in a meaningful way. During down-time, Alex enjoys watching TV; however, he is always eager to join others in new activities. Alex's social worker describes him as being very sweet and helpful. Alex attends church and religious activities multiple times per week. Alex would prefer his pre-adoptive family support him in maintaining these connections.

Can I Adopt?

If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ+ singles and couples. As an adoptive parent, you won't have to pay any fees, adoption from foster care is completely free in Massachusetts.

The process to adopt a child from foster care includes training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you. These steps will help match you with a child or sibling group that your family will fit well with.

To learn more about adoption from foster care visit www.mareinc.org. Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) can give you guidance and information on the adoption process. Reach out today to find out all the ways you can help children and teens in foster care.

Trinity supports breast cancer awareness!

Trinity hosted their 14th annual Breast Cancer Awareness fundraiser on Oct. 1. Students were invited to get "PINKED" by having pink hair extensions or pink hair spray. Finally, Lisa's Hair Salon donated their time and products, allowing Trinity to donate 100 percent of the proceeds. TCA raised $700 which will be given to the Harrington Cancer Center in Southbridge. Together, we can certainly make a difference! Courtesy photos

WORCESTER — According to Robin Fitch High, Administrator at Lutheran Rehabilitation & Skilled Care Center, “it is our pleasure to welcome Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy students and faculty.”

High said, “Several of our employees graduated from Bay Path!”

The facility located at 26 Harvard St., Worcester, indeed employs several LPN graduates of Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy. Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN Academy Director met with High recently and was given a full facility tour. Bolandrina also met with Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy alumni

Meghan Reidy, LPN (of Leicester) Nursing Supervisor and Khamphan Houatchanthara, LPN (of Southbridge) Charge Nurse. Full-time faculty Nicholas McElroy, BSN, RN facilitated the contract signing between Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy and Lutheran Rehabilitation & Skilled Care Center as a clinical site for the academic year 2024-2025. He will serve as the clinical facilitator and is the liaison between the Lutheran Rehabilitation & Skilled Care Center and Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy. He will assist nursing students with any questions they may have and evaluate students’ performance and effort.

“The expertise and passion for teaching of Professor McElroy will undoubtedly enrich our academic community and inspire our students to new heights,” said

Bolandrina. “Together with the leadership at Lutheran Rehab, we will continue to foster a safe learning environment that values collaboration, innovation, and academic excellence.”

Clinicals can be scary, however, they are an essential part of learning in nursing. Along with classroom learning clinical experiences are important because it is where student nurses get direct experience. Nursing education is divided into three major components: didactic, simulation lab, and clinicals.

Didactic: In-classroom lectures that provide a fundamental layer of knowledge for students to apply in the clinical setting.

laboratory: Skills and simulation laboratory is where students practice various skills and tasks they need, in a safe, non-risk environment before touching real patients.

Clinicals: Hands-on, clinical facility-site, “in-the-field” portion of nursing school.

At Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy, nursing students complete 546 clinical hours. Clinicals are designed to provide nursing students with direct experience in the healthcare setting. It allows students to work on practical skills that are needed to succeed at the bedside. Bolandrina added, “I look forward to seeing a successful clinical coordination with the Lutheran Rehabilitation & Skilled Care Center and beyond.”

Bay Path alumna on volunteering

CHARLTON — Edgine Pierre-Paul, LPN of Dudley exclaimed, “thank you for giving me the opportunity to volunteer.” A dedicated LPN (Licensed Practical Nurse) with 5+ experience in delivering quality care to patients in Sub-acute and long-term unit, Pierre-Paul is eager to utilize her knowledge and skills to provide exceptional care, and by returning to Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy, she aims to inspire the PN Class of 2025.

Pierre-Paul has native or bilingual proficiency in English, French, and Haitian Creole plus a professional working proficiency in Spanish. The 2019 graduate of Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy includes general studies: healthcare from Quinsigamond Community College in her academic background. The multi-lingual Bay Path LPN provides direct care, emotional, psychosocial, and mental health support to her clients at Brookside Rehabilitation and Healthcare Center in Webster since 2019.

In an email to Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN, Academy Director, Pierre-Paul stated, “my reason for volunteering is very simple. I figured it would be helpful to the students to meet someone who has been through the program. I’ve learned enough in 5 years to offer my skills and some knowledge.”

Pierre-Paul’s clinical experience as a nursing student at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy included clinical observations at the Harrington Wound Care Center in Charlton. Wound care management is one among many of Pierre-Paul’s skills which includes but not limited to Tracheostomy care & management, Intravenous care & management, pain management, and post-surgical care. Aside from multi-lingual proficiency and skills competency, Pierre-Paul cares from the heart. Pierre-Paul added, “we need more nurses out there, so it was really great to see so many students. I gave a few words of encouragement to the students. I have also heard that volunteering allows nurses to practice and improve their communication and interpersonal skills.”

While at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy, Pierre-Paul was an active member of the UNICEF Club, attended SafeTALK, and the Innovation Summit at Northeastern University in Boston. She was a district champion for SkillsUSA in Practical Nursing earning a Silver Medal. Pierre-Paul was also a nominee for the Clinical Excellence Award.

Bay Path Academy Director, Executive Assistant learn about simulation and moulage

SPRINGFIELD — Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy Director, Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN of Athol, (formerly of Dudley) and Executive Assistant to the Academy Director, Donna Pope, LPN of Southbridge represented Bay Path at the recently concluded Springfield College Mini-Sun Event sponsored by Laerdal. The event was held at the Health Sciences Center of Springfield College, Springfield, Friday, Oct. 4.

Dr. Doherty of the Massachusetts General Hospital Institute of Health Professions discussed advancing interprofessional collaboration through simulation-based learning. Other speakers included Dr. Gladys Fernandez of Baystate Medical Center on using quality and patient safety data to develop simulation programming, Dr. Chris Scott of Springfield Technical Community College on integration simulation, lessons learned from accreditation, and debriefing with video by Katie Maxie-Brock, RN, a SIMCapture Ed specialist. Participants had the opportunity to work with moulage firsthand led by Jorge Yarzebski of UMass Chan Medical School Icels Program,

Pope, a graduate of Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy, Class of 2017, felt encouraged with the training. Pope was with the STDH Program at Center of Hope Foundation in Southbridge prior to joining Bay Path as the executive assistant to the Academy Director. She briefly worked as a Flu Clinic Nurse at Maxim Healthcare in Worcester. While a student at Bay Path, Pope was inducted to the National Technical Honor Society. She represented Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy at SkillsUSA District competition earning a Gold Medal and at State competition earning a Bronze Medal both for Health Knowledge Bowl. Pope is Mental Health First Aid Certified and volunteered for multiple events at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy such as the Admissions Panel Interview, Blood Pressure Clinics, and mentorship. She also volunteers for the Baptist Haiti Mission.
