$62.1 million budget goes to Town Meeting

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — As usual, the key item on this year's Annual Town Meeting warrant for May 13 will be the $62.1 million town budget, which sparked a fairly long discussion at the April 29 selectmen's meeting.

According to Town Administrator Rick Lafond, the total will increase the tax levy about 2.8 percent, in part because of the increase in property values in town.

He spent much of his talk expressing dismay that Webster has "such a large piece of your overall revenue that's not in your control, it's a little concerning." Specifically, he was referring to the fact the town gets a lot ($23 million) of its funding from the state, mostly for the schools; the actual tax levy this year is $32 million. Much of the budget isn't "anything we can do much about" because it funds requirements the state imposes, contractual obligations, insurance and retirement, Lafond noted. That includes an $876,000 increase in "fixed costs," including various assessments and contracts, which exceeds the $800,000 increase in "unrestricted general government aid."

"It's safe to say it's a very, very difficult budgetary year ... and it's going to continue to stay that way," he predicted.

Additionally, Lafond said, there's still uncertainty surrounding cannabis agreements. A court case required a town to pay back some of the previously agreed payment money, so at least one firm in Webster "stopped paying us" and the town hasn't done anything about it yet, pending what the state does, he said.

Despite that, Randy Becker observed, "We've been very fortunate we haven't pitted the town vs the schools," as some towns have. By agreement, Webster splits state aid 70/30 between schools and town; this year's school budget is up 3.2 percent with 30 percent

On May 3, Nico Kavadas, a first baseman for the Woo Sox, joined the students at Park Avenue for some face to face time. Kavadas was able to talk about several hardships throughout his life and relate hardwork and perseverance to his success; the students were able to ask questions at the end. "It was a wonderful event and you could feel the energy in the room," said one of the fourth grade teachers. A huge thank you to Emerson White and her team at The Woo Sox who were able to set this up for the Park Avenue fourth grade students - the students really enjoyed it and they were able to give Kavadas a great parting gift (signed ball from all the fourth grade students).

Dudley officials send PFAS waterline easement proposal to Town Meeting

BY JASON BLEAU
CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — As Dudley prepares to head to its May 20 annual town meeting, one item that will be featured is the mitigation plan for PFAs contamination as town officials seek a waterline easement to provide public drinking water to homes on Eagle Drive.

The Eagle Drive area, also known as Rocky Hill Estates as labeled in a 1989 land survey, has been at the center of Dudley's PFAS contamination issues for several years after the chemical compounds were detected in the ground water monitoring wells of Dudley's closed landfill in 2021. The discovery triggered tests of nearby properties that, over time, determined several homes had been contaminated while local company Gentex Optics was also issued an Immediate Response Action Order by the Department of Environmental Protection as a possible source of contamination. Dudley has been providing fresh drinking water to the effected homes as well as installing several point of entry, or POET, filtration system. Selectmen estimate that remediation has cost around $500,000 to date shared between Dudley and Gentex. However, town officials are seeking a more permanent solution to the problem and have proposed an easement which would authorize the town to install a public water line along Eagle Drive and give those homes the option of hooking into rather than depending on potentially contaminated private wells.

The Board of Selectmen held a public hearing in anticipation of the annual town meeting on April 22 where Selectman Kerry Cyganiewicz explained the town's intent in more detail.

"The permanent solution to the PFAS issue is to provide the impacted residents with a public water line so that treated water can be delivered to the residents' homes. It is a solution that the Department of Environmental Protection is recommending and ultimately going to require to resolve the PFAs issue. Because the homes that are impacted are located on a private road and all but one home on that road has a private well, it will be necessary for the town to obtain an easement to install the water line and bring it to each private home," said Cyganiewicz.

Selectmen made it clear that the town will likely bear the cost of both installation and the ties for the waterline and that utilization of the line will be optional, meaning residents of Eagle Drive would be allowed to continue to use their wells if they chose. The easement would also not affect the private ownership of the road.

Town officials welcomed Licensed Site Professional (LSP) Sean

Healy from Weston & Sampson Engineers who provided a review of the PFAS issue to date and explained more details into the proposed project. His report stated that 59 homes had been sampled and 15 had POET systems installed. As of the April 22 meeting, a new round of sampling was underway, but Weston & Sampson believe they have a bubble radius map set and that no further extension of that testing radius will be necessary, meaning they believe they have found the limit of the impacted homes in the area. A Phase II assessment of the properties is set to begin this year to help establish the precise nature and extent

School Committee confirms 2025 budget request

BY JASON BLEAU
CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY/CHARLTON — The Dudley Charlton Regional School Committee has made its budget proposal official, as both Dudley and Charlton voters prepare for their respective annual town meetings, both on May 20.

In March, the School Committee decided to send a level service budget to both communities proposing a $59.8 million spending plan and a $2.4 million increase over the current year split between the two towns. Charlton subsequently approved a budget for consideration in April while Dudley was set to finalize their spending plan in the first week of May. However, during a meeting of the School Committee on April 24, Superintendent Steve Lamarche revealed that new state numbers had come in allowing the School Committee to propose more accurate estimates and thus a more realistic budget. The result did not change the overall budget number, which remains at $59.8 million, but did provide more precise tax levies for both towns with Charlton's proposed total share at $18.5 million and Dudley's at $12.2 million. That's an increase of $248,088 for Charlton and $1.3 million for Dudley for a total added assessment of $1.5 million between the two towns.

"This does not change the overall budget. We used the most favorable numbers for fiscal year 2025, it therefore does change the assessments," said Lamarche, who explained that district representatives have been working closely with both towns and were patiently waiting for the House of Representatives to set its numbers over the last month to provide clarity as to what the district would receive from the state. "We feel very confident working with our towns that we do have a plan for Fiscal Year 2025 going into Town Meetings."

The School Committee unanimously approved the amended budget which will be included in the spending plans for both towns at their respective May 20 annual town meetings. Both towns need to approve their spending plans for the education budget to be confirmed for Fiscal Year 2025.

The school committee also continued discussions concerning school fees which has been a consistent debate dating back to the fall and winter of 2023. The district's Budget and Finance Subcommittee examined three possible fee increases: pre-school, athletics, and high school student parking. The School Committee decided not to make a motion on athletic fees and parking fees increases but did approve increasing pre-kindergarten and preschool fees by $200 annually.

More funding for PFAS plant focus of special TM warrant

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

WEBSTER — Extra funding for the already-approved PFAS treatment plants and several other capital projects will be a major focus of the Special Town Meeting May 13. As usual, that will lead directly into the Annual Town Meeting that same night (see the companion story on this week's front page).

Town Meeting approved the PFAS project, which aims to build plants at Memorial Beach and Bigelow Road, for $33 million last year, but when the bids were opened, they came in $3 million higher than expected. The actual warrant item calls for $10 million, but that was a "placeholder" drafted before bids were opened.

According to Chair

Earl Gabor, municipal projects in general have been seeing higher costs lately, but "availability of these PFAS treatment columns are getting tighter and tighter." He noted the "construction community sees big [profits] on all these towns that are in this PFAS predicament."

In part, that's because the EPA recently announced they'd be reducing the PFAS quantity allowed in drinking water to just 4 parts per trillion. The EPA standard previously had been 70, and Massachusetts' standard was 20.

That level specifically covers just six of the best-known PFAS chemicals (four in Massachusetts) of a group that numbers in the tens of thousands. PFAS is an acronym meaning "per- and poly-fluoro alkyl substances," a manmade group of compounds which started being used in the 1950s in non-stick coatings (including on cooking pans), flame retardants, waterproofing, floor waxes and fire-fighting foams, among many other uses.

"Approximately 98 percent of Americans have PFAS in their bodies," reports the Silent Spring Institute website. "While their strong chemical bonds make them very effective at repelling water and oil even at high temperatures, these same characteristics also make PFAS extremely persistent, meaning they don't break down. Silent Spring Institute is studying this class of chemicals because some types of PFAS have been linked

Auburn student explores mental health through art and creative expression

REGION — The Massachusetts Association for Mental Health (MAMH) and Massachusetts Health Council (MHC) are pleased to announce the winners of the 2024 “Mental Health Matters: Student Expression Contest” to promote youth mental health. This year’s artists looked inward to explore challenging periods in their lives, the importance of a having a trusted ally, and more themes around mental health and wellness.

Middle school and high school students from across the Commonwealth competed for $2,400 in cash prizes in three art categories: audio/video, artistic still, and creative writing. Seventeen students were awarded prizes for their creative expression of ways they maintain their own mental health, how friends and family help them in each of their lives, and how to support a friend or family member going through a challenging time.

“The Student Expression Contest, now in its fourth year, is showing us that students understand the transformative power of art to communicate growing awareness of their mental health and how to protect it,” said Danna Mauch, PhD, MAMH President & CEO. “Students are processing their own emotions, supporting their peers, and having honest conversations with their parents and caregivers about mental health and well being. They inspire our advocacy and recognition of the vital importance of prioritizing mental and behavioral health supports when and where students need them, and investing in programs in our K-12 schools.”

This year we received over 80 entries from students in sixth through 12th grade. Guest judges included student advocates, staff, and partners of MAMH and MHC, including Omar Irizarry, Director of Cross Agency Initiatives at the Massachusetts Department of Mental Health, and Pam Sager, Executive Director of the Parent/Professional Advocacy League (PPAL). Sample submissions can be found on the MAMH website.

“Every young person who entered this competition did a great job, and it was such a difficult decision to choose the winners,” added MHC’s CEO David Martin. “The students confronted some tough feelings and told some important stories about resilience, support, and access to mental health care. We’re happy to have provided an outlet for them to share what they’ve been through and how they support others.”

Among the winners in this year’s Middle School Artistic Still contest was Lillian Spitz of Auburn, who took third place.

MAMH and MHC have been engaged for more than 100 years in advocacy to increase understanding, eliminate stigma, and improve support for people with mental health needs.

Fashion flashbacks — The timeless appeal of retro trends

In the ever-evolving world of fashion, one thing remains constant: the cyclical nature of trends. From bell-bottoms to neon windbreakers, retro styles from past decades have made a triumphant return to the forefront of fashion, appealing to a new generation of style enthusiasts.

What is it about retro fashion that continues to captivate our imagination? Perhaps it's the allure of bygone eras, where style was synonymous with individuality and self-expression. From the glamorous silhouettes of the 1950s to the rebellious spirit of the 1990s, each decade offers its own unique aesthetic, ripe for reinterpretation in the modern age.

Social media has played a significant role in the resurgence of retro trends, providing a platform for fashion enthusiasts to share their love of vintage-inspired looks and connect with like-minded individuals around the globe.

Beyond the allure of aesthetics lies a deeper appreciation for the sustainability aspect of embracing retro fashion. As the fashion industry grapples with issues of environmental impact and overconsumption, repurposing and reimagining clothing from past decades offers a more eco-conscious alternative to fast fashion. By breathing new life into vintage pieces through upcycling and thrifting, we not only reduce waste but also celebrate the craftsmanship and history of fashion.

The resurgence of retro trends has sparked a renewed sense of creativity and individuality in the way we approach style. From mixing and matching vintage finds with contemporary pieces to putting a modern twist on classic looks, the possibilities are endless. Retro fashion allows us to express our personalities and tell our own unique stories through the clothes we wear, bridging the gap between past and present with each outfit choice.

Whether you're channeling the glamour of Old Hollywood or the laid-back vibes of the '90s grunge scene, remember that style knows no bounds and creativity knows no limits. So, dig into your grandmother's closet, scour thrift stores for hidden gems, and embark on your own fashion flashback journey. The past is calling, and it's time to make it your own.

The two ways

"There are two ways, my soul, my soul, and they are not the same. One leads to everlasting life. One leads to dust and shame. One leads to dust and shame."

This is the first verse in a song that my old friend and co-missionary Peter Gilbert wrote, as he reflected on the ancient Christian writing called "The Didache, or the Teaching of the Twelve Disciples." This early 2nd century writing opens with the line "There are two ways, one of life and one of death, and there is a great difference between the two ways."

Well, what are these two opposite ways of life and death? The way of the world verses the way of Jesus Christ. The way of a society that welcomes an easy, wide path that most people choose to take, a path which leads to self-destruction and death. While the way of our Lord Jesus is quite counter-cultural, it goes against the grain of society. It is the narrow, difficult path that few will follow, yet this path leads to eternal life.

This may sound a bit harsh and extreme, yet we see these opposite ways again and again throughout the life and teachings of Jesus. He contrasts the way of the world with the new way He reveals. We can see this in the Gospel story when Jesus is with His disciples and they are approaching Jerusalem during his final days. Jesus offers a juxtaposition to the two very different ways and worldviews of living.

First, we see Jesus warning his disciples of what is going to happen to Him — "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem; and the Son of man will be delivered to the chief priests and the scribes, and they will condemn him to death, and deliver him to the Gentiles; and they will mock him, and spit upon him, and scourge him, and kill him; and after three days he will rise."

This path of Jesus Christ doesn't seem too appealing. Actually, this talk about betrayal and suffering and a disgraceful death all goes right over the heads of his disciples. They don't understand, or possibly they choose to not hear what he is saying because they aren't interested in talk about suffering and death. They still have a worldly mindset. Thus, right after Jesus talks about His impending death, two of his closest disciples pull Christ aside and ask if each of them can sit, one at his right and the other at his left when He comes into all His glory. The Apostles John and James are interested in worldly position and power. They're not interested in hearing about sacrifice, suffering, and death. They want to focus on worldly glory and fame and power. The ten other disciples all get angry at John and James, but not because they ignored Christ's words about his upcoming Passion. Instead, they're angry because of the presumption of these two brothers to ask for the first seats of honor around Jesus. Maybe the other disciples also wanted that worldly honor and glory.

We see how the disciples reflect our own egocentric desires, desires which the world often promotes — desires to be first, to be in positions of power so we can be comfortable and can be served by others. Yet, Jesus is trying to teach them that living under the reign of God, living according to the Kingdom of Heaven, is all about being counter-cultural. He invites His followers to understand divine love — divine love which is ready to sacrifice oneself for the other, divine love which joyously serves one another as a slave, divine love which willingly takes the last place, not the first place, and divine love which is ready even to offer one's life as a ransom for others.

Do we hear this message of Christ in our own lives, or are we like the disciples who seem to ignore it or choose not to hear it. Their minds, and ours, have been so formed by society's egocentric desires, the deception that says a pursuit for position, power, influence and fame will bring happiness. And yet, Jesus is inviting us to a completely different path of the world.

We hear this when Jesus asks us to forgive one another and reconcile with our enemies, not holding on to any bitterness or anger or hatred toward anyone. We hear this when Jesus reminds us that anyone who wants to come after Him must deny themselves, deny our egocentric desires and carry whatever Cross He gives us in our lives in order to follow Him. We hear this when Jesus asks His followers to take on the role of a slave in serving others, strive not to become the first but accept the humble role of being the last, walking a path of willingly sacrificing for others even to the point of death.

It may not sound like an enticing road, according to our worldly viewpoint, and yet, this is the path that leads to life — an abundant life here and now and an eternal life in the future.

"There are two ways, my soul, my soul, and they are not the same. One leads to everlasting life. One leads to dust and shame. One leads to dust and shame. So, bless the Lord, my soul, my soul, and bless His holy name. And leave the path that leads to death and walk the righteous way. And walk the righteous way."

Sleeping Bag Ministry needs your help

To the Editor:

Due to the generous nature of our community, we would like to let them know once again of the need we have to support our sleeping bag ministry.

The Sleeping Bag Ministry at United Church of Christ, Fed. in Webster ("the Golden Bees") needs help! They are in desperate need of sheets, blankets, bedspreads and comforters so they can continue making sleeping bags as well as ties which are used to secure the sleeping bags. Last year, they made and gave out over 300 sleeping bags. This year they are already closing in on 200 sleeping bags being distributed, which has decimated their supply. Donations can be dropped off at the church, 4 Church Street in Webster, Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. or, if you'd like to learn more about the Golden Bees, you can drop off donations on Monday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. by using the right hand stairs in the courtyard up to Fellowship Hall where the Golden Bees do their work.

People may feel free to call the church at 508-943-0061, Tuesday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., if they have any questions regarding the Sleeping Bag Ministry or this request.

We are grateful for your continued support!

Should life be all work and no play?

Life seems busier than ever, and it's not slowing down. Despite technological advances, our workload doesn't seem to lighten. Business owners might find AI tools helpful, yet often, they handle these tasks themselves instead of hiring additional help. With rising inflation and economic pressures, what was a full-time job for one person has now become just an hour's task a day for many CEOs. As technology simplifies processes, the burden of multiple tasks increasingly falls on just a few shoulders.

While staying busy can be rewarding, the overwhelming pile of tasks can make you feel perpetually behind. Catching up seems possible only with extra help, maybe even an assistant. The expectations placed on many of us often surpass what one person can manage. I might even need a Teslabot to handle my household chores—come on, Elon, I'm drowning in responsibilities here!

What happens when a loved one falls ill? Suddenly, you're forced to reprioritize to take care of them. If it's a severe illness, the time it demands can feel overwhelming. In such situations, lowering your expectations about what you can accomplish becomes necessary.

But should life be all work and no play? The concept of work-life balance is frequently discussed, and for many years, for me it was nonexistent. My life was like a seesaw stuck to the ground, burdened by an overload of work without any relief. Is this truly fulfilling? I guess it depends on what you find fulfilling.

A friend of mine used to watch me exhaust myself and would eventually ask, "Why? What's the point?" To me, the sense of accomplishment was all the fulfillment I needed.

There was a time after my acting career when I didn't need to work and wasn't worried about finances, but I found that period somewhat empty.

But I digress. Let's ask the question again. Should life be all work and no play?

This reminds me of an old U2 T-shirt. It read, "Smell the flowers while you can." Once, as I was walking by, an

Financial freedom: a gift to your family

FINANCIAL FOCUS
DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

Here's a sobering statistic: 72 percent of retirees say one of their biggest fears is becoming a burden on their families, according to a study by Edward Jones and the consulting firm Age Wave. If you are near retirement, how can you prepare yourself to become financially free, so you won't have to depend on grown children or other family members?

Here are a few suggestions to consider:

Keep adding to retirement savings. Today, with a greater awareness of healthy lifestyles, many people are spending two, or even three, decades in an active retirement. To help pay for those years, then, you'll likely need to build your retirement savings as much as possible. So, while you're still working, try to contribute as much as you can afford to your 401(k) or other employer-sponsored retirement plan. If you are in the later stages of your career, possibly close to your peak earning power, you may be able to put in sizable sums every year.

Choose an appropriate withdrawal rate. While it's obviously important to build your retirement savings, it's just as essential to make the money last. Once you retire, you'll want to establish an appropriate withdrawal rate — that is, the amount you can take out each year from your 401(k) and other investments without running the risk of outliving your money. The amount you can safely withdraw each year will depend on a variety of factors, including your age, your account balances, Social Security benefits, inflation, income tax rates and spousal income. In any case, selecting a suitable withdrawal rate can help go a long way toward preserving your financial freedom throughout your retirement.

Think about downsizing. One possible way to boost your savings and add liquidity is to downsize your living arrangements. This may be an attractive option if your children are grown and your current home feels too large. Of course, downsizing is a highly personal decision — if you've lived in your home for many years, have fond memories of raising a family in it and still enjoy the neighborhood, it can certainly be hard to leave. Consequently, you'll need to weigh these emotional factors against the potential financial benefits of moving into a smaller, less expensive space.

Prepare for long-term care costs. If you were ever to need some type of long-term care, such as an extended stay in a nursing home, you could face some sizable expenses, most of which may not be covered by Medicare or a Medicare Advantage plan. And clearly, you would not want to put your grown children in a position where they might feel the need to step in financially. To help avoid this possibility, you may want to consult with a financial professional about addressing these costs through strategies that may be appropriate for your needs.

These aren't the only ideas to consider in helping maintain your financial independence and reducing your potential dependence on your family during your retirement years. But taken together, they can give you a good start — so think about putting them to work.

From tautog to turkeys

Stripers are biting very well up and down the coast, but you need to use the correct bait. The Providence River remained absent from Menhaden last weekend, at least for a couple of local anglers. When they tried trolling umbrella rigs, action picked up, with a pair of anglers landing seven stripers last Saturday. They returned the following day and did even better retaining their two fish in a matter of a couple of hours. If you want to catch stripers, the Providence River is the place to go now!

RALPH TRUE

Wild Turkey hunters are limiting out with their season limit of two birds early this year. There is very little competition by other hunters, making the hunts productive. Tautog fishing remained very good this past week, with reports of some larger fish. Crabs seem to be the top bait again this year, but the trick of cutting crabs in half revealing the inners of the crab is working well. Haddock fishing on the North Shore remains strong!

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club will hold their annual Kids trout fishing derby this Saturday May 11, starting at 8 a.m. Breakfast will be served at 7 a.m.

Planting Pointers

After a long season of browsing through seed catalogs and plot planners, outside planting time is almost here! (I can still hear Dick Lamoreaux's mantra of "no planting until after Memorial Day!" ringing in my ears.) It's no wonder the backyard gardener is dreaming of lush gardens and neatly planted garden rows. While we are still a few weeks away from safely sowing seeds or transplanting seedlings, now is the perfect time to ponder planting strategies for the prospect of sunny days digging in the soil.

The following tips are geared toward helping you get the most out of your early gardening chores.

If you start your seeds indoors in flats, here's an easy way to gauge spacing seeds in large flats:

Cut a piece of one-inch chicken mesh wire the size of the flat. Simply lay it on the soil and plant a seed inside each hole for instant one-inch spacing. For two or three inch spacing, simply skip the correct number of holes.

If you have leftover seeds, you can quickly and easily test their viability by dropping them in a container of water. The good seeds will sink to the bottom, while the bad ones will float.

To up the odds this year's leftover seeds will sprout again next year, store them in the refrigerator in a tightly closed jar with a packet of silica gel. The gel packets can be recycled from vitamin bottles, electronic and shoe boxes, etc.

TAKE THE HINT
KAREN TRAINOR

If you're germinating seeds, don't spend your hard earned money on a plant heat mat. A heating pad can do the job at a fraction of the cost. Just be sure to cover it in plastic to prevent any water spills.

Here's a helpful tip for storing, and sowing, seeds. Simply put seeds in a clean, empty spice, seasoning or Parmesan cheese shaker. If you have tiny seeds, add little cornstarch to keep them from clumping together. When it's time to plant, just shake them evenly over the soil.

Believe it or not, you might want to consider planting a chrysanthemum plant in the vegetable garden this year. The beautiful chrysanthemum is a garden helper as it acts as a handy water gauge. Because the flower wilts before other plants during a dry spell, it's a red flag to tell you to irrigate.

Want more visual impact for cash output in the garden? If you're planting Azaleas, consider the fact that white azaleas bloom longer than any other color of the plant.

Here's an old farmers tip: If you plant your lettuce near tall growing vegetables, the big plants will give off shade, allowing the lettuce to keep its cool and prevent bitter leaves.

Did you know planting pennyroyal in the garden naturally deters mosquitoes? When evening falls, simply break off some leaves and scatter them on the porch or ground where people sit.

If you have backyard pets and flies are a problem, try planting yarrow to deter the collection of flies. Tansy also works to discourage mosquitoes.

Boost the beauty and comfort of your outdoor spaces

Add some comfort and beauty to your outdoor spaces this year. Look for options that fit your lifestyle, budget, and schedule. Even simple changes can make a positive impact on the time you spend relaxing and entertaining on your patio, deck, or other outdoor spaces.

a couple of pots, or a section of fencing rather than a long hedge or length of fencing.

Soften the look of fencing with some wall-mounted planters, a few potted plants or shrubs, and in-ground plantings if space allows. Use a diverse selection of plants when creating a living screen. This provides more seasonal interest and makes it easier to replace that one failed plant in a mature hedge of evergreens like arborvitae.

Water is another way to add a bit of serenity to your space. A wall-mounted fountain, small container of water plants, or container fountain will add noise-blocking sound and a sense of serenity to any space.

To control pesky mosquitoes in water features (or in any standing water), add a mosquito control like Mosquito Dunks and Bits (SummitResponsibleSolutions.com) that contains a naturally occurring bacterium called Bacillus thuringiensis israelensis to the water. This active ingredient kills mosquito larvae, preventing them from transforming into biting adults. Mosquito Bits quickly knock down the mosquito larval population, while the Mosquito Dunks provide 30 days of control. They both are safe for pets, fish, wildlife, and children.

Extend the time you can spend outdoors by adding a heat source for those chilly days and nights and a fan to keep air moving and the space cooler on hot days. Adding a fan also provides some relief from mosquitoes. These weak fliers can't fight the breeze which will keep you out of their reach and much more comfortable.

Include lighting so you can enjoy your outdoor space in the evening. Consider a string of lights overhead, rail lights around the deck, or strategically placed illuminated plant containers. Create a more intimate experience with a few votive candles displayed in unique holders like old punch cups.

Light a few citronella candles for a bit of ambiance and mosquito control when enjoying your outdoor space in the evening. Citronella oil and the scented candles have some mosquito-repelling properties. Scatter lots of candles throughout the space when entertaining. Position the candles within a few feet of yourself and your guests for some short-term relief from these pests.

Start with a list of improvements you want to make. Then get busy researching the various options so you will be ready to boost the comfort and enjoyment of your patio, deck and other outdoor spaces this year.

BARTON ON THE RUN

The second annual "Barton on the Run" Race was held on Thursday, May 2 at Clara Barton Elementary in Oxford. We had 60 runners, four coaches and more than 300 spectators in the crowd to support them. Students ran one, two, or more miles around the school and all participants received a t-shirt and medal. It was the perfect weather for the race. This was a great event for our community as the staff and students not running made signs and cheered on our runners.

Lois Irene Robbie, 97

AUBURN – Lois Irene (Booth) Robbie, 97, longtime Auburn resident, passed away peacefully on Wednesday, May 1, 2024 with her loving family by her side.

She leaves her devoted sons, Wayne A. Robbie and wife Judith, of Sandia Park, New Mexico, and Douglas S. Robbie and wife Cheryl, of Jacksonville, Florida; ten grandchildren; 8 great-grandchildren; a daughter-in-law, Paula Barry and her husband Tim, of Fairhaven; and a dear friend, Karen Girardi, of Milbury. Lois was predeceased by her beloved children, William C. Robbie, Jr. and Diane L. Maddern; her brother, Alfred Royal Booth, Jr.; and their parents, Alfred Royal Booth, Sr. and Martha Irene (Smith) Booth. Lois was the last remaining member of the Booth families who resided on Hilltop Farm.

Lois was born in Elizabeth, New Jersey, raised and educated in Auburn. She was a graduate of Auburn High School, Class of 1945. She went on to attend Colby College (now Colby-Sawyer College) and graduated with a B.S. degree in Medical Technology in 1948. Following graduation, Lois began her clinicals and residency at Boston Medical Center in 1949 during which time she stayed at the Franklin Square Women's House.

In her early career, she worked as a Substitute Teacher at Auburn High School for several years, prior to working as a Hematologist at Fairlawn Hospital. Lois then began working at UMASS Medical Center as one of the original hires when the hospital microbiology lab opened in 1975. She worked diligently as a Microbiologist during a lengthy career: she was influential and at the forefront of identifying the cause of Toxic Shock Syndrome (TSS), as well as discovering and documenting new diseases from Vietnam refugees who were evacuated to the U.S. following the end of the war in 1975. Lois was incredibly talented at her work, and when she went to retire after twenty plus years, the hospital kept her on for two more while they found new hires that were able to match her skill set, finally retiring at age 70.

Lois was a longtime member of the American Society for Clinical Pathology, and was a lifetime member of St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Auburn, now Good Shepherd Church in Oxford.

In her free time, she was an avid skier and gardener. Lois also enjoyed connecting with relatives from Aquidneck Island (Newport, Middletown, Portsmouth), Rhode Island.

In lieu of flowers, memorial donations may be made to Auburn Fire and Rescue Department, 47 Auburn Street, Auburn, MA 01501.

Relatives and friends are invited to visit with the Robbie family from 10:30 to 11:30 AM on Thursday, May 16, 2024 at Good Shepherd Church, 270 Main Street, Oxford, with a service beginning at 11:30 AM. Burial will follow at Hillside Cemetery, Auburn. The Britton-Wallace Funeral Home is honored to be assisting with arrangements. ## POSITIVELY

older gentleman shouted, "Ain't that the truth!" while pointing at my shirt.

"While you can..." The implications of that phrase are vast. What does it mean? Will the flowers vanish one day? Will we no longer be around to enjoy their scent? At this point, nothing would surprise me.

The weight of "while you can" hit home a couple days ago when a dear friend of mine passed away unexpectedly. It's a stark reminder: We never truly know the future.

Finding balance is essential. It doesn't have to be just vegging out on the couch watching reality TV although occasionally that's what is needed. Ultimately, it's going to look different for each of us. It's a personal journey to discover what that balance means.

Reflecting on a quote by Jim Rohn, whom I often cite and had the fortune to meet as a boy, might offer some guidance.

He said, "Something my parents taught me, that they practiced all their life, and now I practice. Don't miss anything. Don't miss the game, don't miss the concert, don't miss the performance, don't miss the show. Don't miss the conversation, don't miss the sermon, don't miss the class...don't miss anything. Go look, see, learn, try, taste. Let that flavor of life be part of your lifestyle."

Why pursue balance? It's about personal enrichment and development, about becoming a person of value. True, thriving in our workplace demands education, hard work, determination, and dedication. But what about beyond the office?

Consider the value added to your life when you're not only accomplished at work but also knowledgeable in the arts, skilled in playing chess, experienced in gardening, or have read the greatest book upon that which western civilization was founded upon. You've set down the path of enriching your whole self, making you a more rounded and insightful individual, and what is that truly worth?

Can we quantify it? No, but consider this: being a cultured individual stimulates fresh thoughts, inspires new actions, and fosters new ways of being and can help you get out of a rut. This not only adds layers of value to your personality, but also introduces a much-needed balance. What's it worth? I'd say it's priceless.

Dreams really do come true

Courtesy

Hannah when she was a young teenager selling snacks, sandwiches, and candy at one of the many movie nights held on the weekends at Quinebaug Masonic Lodge.

BY BRO. JIMMY FALZONE
 QUINEBAUG MASONIC LODGE

SOUTHBRIDGE — Here is a story of a young girl named Hannah Langevin of Oxford, and the love she has for animals that gave her a dream.

Ever since Hannah was a little girl, she knew she had a love for animals. Whenever her family planned a vacation she would research zoos, aquariums, or animal sanctuaries that they could spend a day visiting. She would spend hours using her Fisher Price veterinary set playing doctor with her stuffed animals or even with the family dog. Growing up her family was very involved in Freemasonry. As Hannah got older, she realized the fraternity the Quinebaug Masonic Lodge her father, uncle, and grandfather belongs to does a lot for the community. As a teenage back in 2018, she watched the funeral service of our late President George W. Bush on television. She saw his Therapy Dog Sully laying on the floor in front of the casket and it brought tears to her eyes. Hannah approached her father who is a Master Mason and decided to start a fundraiser by starting a family movie night one day a week and it went on for many months. She sold snacks, candy, sandwiches, etc., at the Quinebaug Masonic lodge in Southbridge to help raise money for the animals. All proceeds went to the nonprofit organization MSPCA.

Before Hannah graduated from Shepherd Hill high school in 2022, she made the commitment to move forward with her dreams and enrolled at the New England Institute of Technology (NEIT) next month and is working at Charles River Labs in Worcester as a research technician and is getting ready for her Veterinary Technologist exam in July. Dreams do come true.

Students accepted for this program. Hannah has had hands on training in many environments from laboratory, clinical experience assisted veterinarians in task like surgery's, administering vaccines and medications, anesthesia, physical examinations and much more. She worked with farm animals on a functional farm has assisted the doctors in many surgeries and was chosen to do her clinicals at the MSPCA-Angell in Jamaica Plain and Waltham where she worked in Radiology, the ICU, the OR and Pharmacy. The school had a pinning ceremony for 9 out of the 25 students who passed the program. Hannah will be graduating from the New England Institute of Technology (NEIT) next month and is working at Charles River Labs in Worcester as a research technician and is getting ready for her Veterinary Technologist exam in July. Dreams do come true.
