Kids enjoy free April admission at Old Sturbridge Village

STURBRIDGE — As spring arrives in New England, Old Sturbridge Village invites families to celebrate the season with a special offer: kids receive free general daytime admission throughout April (April 1–30). During this month-long offer, up to two children, age 17 or younger, will be admitted free with each adult full-price general daytime admission ticket.

With warmer weather, children eager to get outside, and the nation approaching its 250th anniversary, it's the perfect time to step into New England's largest living history museum.

Visitors will experience life in early New England through hands-on activities, outdoor games, masterful storytelling, and encounters with heriitage-breed farm animals, including playful lambs, cows, and the hardworking oxen that once powered local farms.

The Village will also feature farmers preparing fields for planting, potters shaping clay, blacksmiths forging tools, households cooking over open hearths, and costumed interpreters sharing stories from the Revolutionary era and the nation's early years.

During April vacation weeks (April 15 -19 and April 22 - 26, 2026), families can take part in Family Field Days, a series of 19th-century-inspired games, competitions, and feats of skill, including tug-of-war, jump rope challenges, scavenger hunts, and "trap, bat, and ball" (baseball, 1830s style).

"It's been an especially long winter, and I think families are ready to get outside again," said Jim Donahue, President and CEO of Old Sturbridge Village. "With kids visiting free in April, it's a great chance for families to come out, enjoy the fresh air, and spend a day exploring the Village."

SCHOTT supports Southbridge scholars

SOUTHBRIDGE — Whoever said it is never too early to start thinking about your future wasn't lying. This is the second year that a local Southbridge business, SCHOTT, has sponsored our eighth-grade students to explore beyond the walls of Southbridge Middle School. This year, the company has generously donated funding so that our students can experience Boston and begin thinking about their futures!

In a time that budgets are tight across the Commonwealth and beyond, gas prices are rising, and life seems like it's a bill, Schott's generosity allows Southbridge Middle School's oldest students to have a unique, fun, long, and adventurous trip into the city that otherwise would not be possible.

On our first stop, the eighth graders will be dipping their toes in an immersive tour of the Boston Museum of Science. As groups travel through the museum, they will practice the skills they have learned from their STEM-based classes in a hands-on approach. Students have the opportunity to look at water systems in Boston, space exploration, and discover scientific innovations over time. Not only will students use their scientific minds, but they will also travel across Boston to become historians. The next stop on the trip brings us to a tour of the State House. Scholars will bring their knowledge of civics to life as they witness the important work of our state representatives, and have a Q & A session with one of our own representatives. To end our Boston experience, students are invited to Boston University, where they will prepare for and see themselves on a real-life college campus. They will rotate through four engaging sessions that help them feel like they are already college students.

This year's trip builds on last year's foundation. The team at Southbridge is partnering with Senator Fattman and Representative Marsi's office to make the tour of the State House more tailored to a Middle School audience from Southbridge, instead of having the students do the normal tourist statehouse tour. Similarly, through networked connections, the college campus trip will build on last year's self-guided tour of a different state university.

Last year's students reported the best part of the experience was running in between the rain drops on the common to see the Martin Luther King Jr. statue.

Looking ahead to this year's trip, eighth grade student Destiny said "I am excited to explore new things and learn more about the history of my state. We are able to experience something other middle school students can't always do," and her friend Steven added, "I can't wait to see how a real college runs! We will see what our futures could look like."

One thing the team at Southbridge believes is that you never know if you don't ask, and that's how this annual field trip and the partnership between the school and Schott came to be. Reaching out and asking for money isn't easy, but you never know if you don't ask. The worst that happens is someone says no. The best that could happen – in the case of Schott Manufacturing – is they said yes and made this experience possible for the Class of 2030!

Masonic Lodge of Instruction class has huge turnout

BY BRO. JIMMY FALZONE
MAJOR GENERAL SALEM
TOWNE LODGE
SOUTHBRIDGE

SOUTHBRIDGE — On Thursday March 26, the 24th Masonic District Lodge of Instruction (L.O.I.) class was held at the Major General Salem Towne Lodge (MGSTL), Webster apartments (the Webster Lodge building).

Brother Paul Hanson spoke about the Scouters Lodge as the evening's guest speaker. The lodge currently consists of both former and current Boy Scout members. To join this exclusive Masonic Lodge, you must have met specific criteria and achievements as a Boy Scout. You must be a recipient of the Eagle Scout, or a recipient of the Daniel Carter Bearded Masonic Scouters Award, a Silver Beaver, Silver Antelope or Silver Buffalo Award recipient. Currently, most of their meetings and degree work are conducted outdoors weather permitting, and the Lodge officers have been granted permanent dispensation (permission) to wear their Scout uniforms during these Lodge meetings. When permitted following these outdoor meetings, gathering by the firepit to share camaraderie, toast marshmallows, and eat smores the reminiscing about experiences as a Boy Scout is genuinely rewarding.

The L.O.I. classes are given every month at one of the six lodges in the 24th Masonic District. This is where new candidates are provided with information about Freemasonry, accompanied by a guest speaker who discusses topics related to fraternity and other relevant subjects. Major General Salem Towne Masonic Lodge had the highest attendance of the six District Lodges. These brethren wanted the Traveling Chainmail Armor Attendance Apron that travels within the 24th District monthly L.O.I. classes. The Traveling Chainmail Armor Attendance Apron is a tradition that began in 2010. The lodge with the most brethren in attendance gets to bring this beautiful Chainmail Armor Attendance Apron back to their lodge home and the bragging rights until the next L.O.I. monthly class. For further details about the fraternity of Freemasonry, please visit our website at www.massfreemasonry.org. There, you can learn more about our organization and locate a lodge near you.

Four stages of raising confident, money-smart kids

Opening doors beyond the classroom

For many eighth-grade students, the future still feels far away. High school is on the horizon, college can seem abstract, and careers are often little more than ideas. That is why experiences outside the classroom can matter so much at exactly this age. When students are given the chance to see what lies ahead, the future begins to feel real.

This spring, Southbridge Middle School students will once again have that opportunity thanks to the continued support of SCHOTT. The company's sponsorship of a Boston field trip is more than a generous gesture. It is an investment in young people at a moment when encouragement and exposure can shape the direction of their lives.

The itinerary itself speaks volumes about what thoughtful partnerships between schools and local employers can accomplish. A visit to the Museum of Science connects classroom learning with real-world discovery. A stop at the State House turns civics lessons into something students can see and experience firsthand. Time on a college campus offers something perhaps even more powerful: the chance for students to picture themselves there someday.

Experiences like these do not always happen on their own. Transportation costs rise. School budgets are tight. Families face competing financial pressures. Without outside support, opportunities that broaden horizons can quietly disappear. That reality makes community partnerships especially meaningful in towns like Southbridge, where educators are always looking for ways to expand what is possible for their students.

Equally important is the message such support sends. When a local employer steps forward to help students explore science, government, and higher education, it tells young people that their futures matter right now. It shows them that businesses in their own community believe in their potential.

There is also something encouraging about the way this trip continues to grow. The collaboration with Sen. Ryan Fattman's office and Rep. John Marsi's office to tailor a State House experience specifically for Southbridge students reflects careful attention to making the visit meaningful rather than routine. Building on last year's success with a more structured college campus experience shows that the program is not standing still. It is improving each year.

Students themselves understand what is at stake. Their excitement about seeing a working college campus or learning more about the history of Massachusetts reminds us how powerful these moments can be. For some, it may be the first time they imagine a path that leads beyond familiar surroundings. For others, it may strengthen interests already taking shape.

Small communities have always depended on partnerships like this. Schools prepare young people. Businesses help support opportunities. Local leaders open doors to civic life. When those efforts come together, students benefit in ways that extend well beyond a single day's trip.

Sometimes, the most important step is simply asking. In this case, that request led to a lasting connection between a school and a local employer that continues to benefit each new class of students. That is something worth recognizing and celebrating.

Opportunities do not always arrive on their own. But when communities work together to create them, they can change how young people see themselves and the paths ahead. And that is an investment that pays dividends for everyone.

Good financial habits are a little like brushing your teeth. When you learn them early, they become second nature, and you carry them with you for life. And while money can feel complicated, especially today, the foundation starts simply.

Parents can begin the conversation with very young children, and young adults can build on those basics as they take on more responsibility. Step by step, these habits create confidence that helps build long term financial security and a more fulfilling life.

The following are the four key stages of financial growth.

Stage 1: For very young children, the goal is to make money feel simple and manageable. A great place to start is with three jars labeled "Spend," "Save" and "Share." When kids can see their money grow or shrink, the idea starts to make sense. Saving also introduces them to goal setting, and working toward paying for a small toy or outing teaches patience. Most important, you're helping your children see money as a tool they can understand easily and use with confidence.

Stage 2: If you have tweens (children roughly nine to 12 years old), they're usually ready for slightly bigger financial ideas. This is a great time for them to earn money through chores or small jobs, helping them see the connection between effort and reward and building a sense of ownership. Conversations about needs versus wants also to become more meaningful, because kids are now making real choices with money, they earned themselves. Your tween may be ready for a simple savings account to watch their savings grow, or a reloadable cash card for spending.

Stage 3: By the time teens reach high school or young adulthood, budgeting becomes essential. This doesn't need

to be overly strict or complicated. A simple system that helps them track deposits and withdrawals can make all the difference. Whether they use an app, a paper notebook or a spreadsheet, the real goal is awareness. Teenagers also benefit from learning how credit works. Understanding how to build a healthy credit score and how to use credit wisely protects them from costly mistakes in later life.

Stage 4: Then come the early working years, when habits shift from learning to building. One of the smartest steps at this stage is paying yourself first. Automatic transfers to savings or retirement accounts help establish stability without extra effort. Even small retirement contributions matter more than most people realize, because time allows compounding to do the heavy lifting. This is also when young adults can start organizing their money into different buckets for rent, automobile payments, emergencies, retirement, and everyday spending. These habits help lay the groundwork for financial freedom down the road.

Throughout every stage, the theme is confidence. Each small success creates a sense of control, and each good habit makes the next one easier. Over time, these habits turn into a lifetime of financial security and fulfillment. When you start strong and stay consistent, money becomes a tool that helps your children support the lives they want.

Easter morning on Main Street

Easter has always felt a little different from the other holidays that come around each year. It does not arrive with the deep certainty of Christmas, when the calendar and the weather seem to agree with each other. Easter comes when it is ready, sometimes in snow flurries, sometimes in warm sunshine, and often right in the middle of that muddy, hopeful stretch we call early spring here in Massachusetts.

When I was younger, I used to think Easter was mostly about new shoes and stiff collars. My mother believed strongly that everyone ought to look their best that morning, and she was not alone. If you stood outside almost any church in town back then, you would see a line of families stepping carefully across damp grass, children holding woven baskets and fathers brushing lint from jackets they had not worn since the year before.

Even now, I still notice those small details on Easter Sunday. The parking lots fill earlier than usual. The bells seem to ring a little longer. People who have not seen one another since winter's first snowfall stop to talk in the sunshine as if they had been waiting all season for that chance.

There is something comforting about that rhythm. In many of our towns, Easter also means the return of activity on the common. Before long, there will be egg hunts organized by local volunteers, bright plastic eggs scattered across grass that only weeks ago was hidden under snowbanks. Parents stand along the edges with coffee cups in their hands, calling out reminders not to run too fast, while the youngest children move carefully as if each egg might be a small treasure.

Those moments matter more than we sometimes admit. They remind us that spring is not only a change in temperature. It is a change in spirit. After months of early sunsets and quiet evenings, people begin opening their doors again. Neighbors wave from across driveways. Someone starts raking leaves that should have been gone last November. Someone else sets a chair on the porch for the first time in months.

Easter seems to arrive right when we need that reminder most. Over the years, I have also come to appreciate the quieter side of the holiday. Not every Easter is crowded or busy. Some are spent around a kitchen table with only a few voices. Some pass with a short walk after church and a long conversation later in the afternoon. And some are marked simply by noticing the first real warmth in the air and being thankful for it.

There is a steadiness in that kind of celebration.

In small towns like ours, holidays have a way of carrying memories forward. The same churches still open their doors. The same streets lead to the same town halls. The same families return to the same pews, sometimes with new generations sitting where their grandparents once did. Even when things change, there is a sense that the day itself still knows its way around town.

I think that is why Easter continues to feel important, even for people who mark it quietly. It is not only a religious observance or a children's holiday with colored eggs and chocolate rabbits. It is a signal that winter is finally loosening its grip and that our communities are waking up again together.

By the time evening settles in on Easter Sunday, the sun usually lingers a little longer than it did the week before. That extra light feels like a promise of what is ahead. Gardens will soon be planted. Ball fields will fill again. Windows will stay open later into the evening.

And just like that, another New England spring has begun along Main Street.

Eastern student Cristal Hernandez of Southbridge performs in "Three Sisters"

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. — Eastern's Department of Communication, Film, and Theatre captivated audiences with its production of "Three Sisters," written by Russian playwright Anton Chekhov and directed by Rachel Jett, from March 5-8 in the Delmonte Bernstein Studio Theatre. The production followed the story of four siblings at a war-torn military outpost.

Among the production's contributors was Cristal Hernandez of Southbridge, a junior majoring in Communication, Film, & Theatre. Hernandez served as hair and makeup designer in the play.

Olga Prorozov (Kylie Nigretti '28) navigates the trials of managing her family amidst the turbulent love lives of her younger sisters, Irina (Shyaina Poole '29), and Masha (Zolei Burgos '26), the latter of whom is cheating on her husband Kulygin (Isaiah Gaspard '29).

The lives of the titular sisters inspired their actresses to be introspective through the lens of their characters.

The sisters' weak-willed brother Andrei (Isaiah Longmire '29) fares no better in his shallow marriage to the cruel Natasha (Jessie Dupont '29) who among other petty deeds attempts to throw out the siblings' loyal servant Anfisa (Samantha Mallory '29).

The play connects the lives of the sisters with those of several hapless members of the Russian Army, including Masha's illicit lover Lieutenant Colonel Vershinin (Colby Groves '27), hot-headed Solyony (Colin Gilligan '29), and easy-going sub-lieutenants Rode (Declan Harris '29) and Fedotik (Allison Thebeau '27). Additional turmoil comes from the drunken exploits of army doctor Chebutykin (Sean Jolly '28) and lovelorn lieutenant Tuzenbach (Lucas Poole '28).

The play proved to be a welcoming first-time theatre experience for much of the cast.

Sturbridge Affordable Housing Trust seeks input through survey

STURBRIDGE — The Sturbridge Affordable Housing Trust (SAHT) is leading the development of a new Housing Production Plan (HPP) to update its 2021-2026 Housing Production Plan and guide the Town's future housing strategy. The updated HPP will include current data and analysis on demographic trends and housing conditions, identify priority housing needs, and recommend strategies to address them.

Community engagement is a central part of this process. The SAHT will offer multiple opportunities for residents to share input on local housing challenges, goals, and priorities. As part of this effort, the SAHT is conducting a Community Housing Survey to gather additional feedback. The survey is designed to be brief and easy to complete, taking only a few minutes of your time.

To participate in the survey, visit the town Web site, sturbridge.gov, and click the link under the News tab on the main page.

P.E.O. Chapters R and AA join forces to revive beloved "Chocolate Sunday" fundraiser

CHARLTON — After a hiatus of several years, a cherished local tradition is making a decadent return. Sheila Ansley of P.E.O. Chapter R recently announced that the organization's signature "Chocolate Sunday" is officially back on the calendar, thanks to a dynamic new partnership with Chapter AA.

The fundraiser—an afternoon dedicated to sampling gourmet chocolate treats, coffee, and tea—was previously sidelined due to the intensive labor required for a single small group to manage. However, after Chapter R reached out to their sisters in Chapter AA, the two groups agreed to a joint venture. By splitting the workload, the chapters have found a sustainable way to bring the sweetness back to Charlton.

Event details
 • Date: Sunday, May 17
 • Time: 2 p.m.
 • Location: The Performing Arts Center at The Overlook, Charlton

• Mission: All proceeds support the P.E.O. Sisterhood's mission of providing life-changing educational opportunities and scholarships for women.

• Contacts: Sheila Ansley 508-434-2649 or Elizabeth Pacek 508-829-4504
 A season of sisterhood: Chapter R's Active Winter

The revival of Chocolate Sunday comes on the heels of a busy winter for Chapter R. Despite a string of "historically biting" temperatures, members remained dedicated to their cultural and social calendar.

In December, members braved one of the coldest nights of the year to tour the "Winter Reimagined" display at Tower Hill Botanic Garden. While the air was frigid, the spectacular light installations proved well worth the chill.

The momentum continued into January with two standout events:

• Musical excellence: Members attended a moving organ concert performed by Amanda Mole, daughter of Jackie Mole. The performance offered a warm, soaring reprieve from the January frost.

• Founders Day: The group honored the P.E.O. Sisterhood's 1869 roots at the Founders Day Program. Members "toughed out" the New England cold to enjoy a commemorative meal and program honoring the seven women who started the organization over 150 years ago.

Looking ahead to spring
 As the frost thaws, Chapter R is looking forward to milder weather and continued community engagement.

For over a century and a half, the P.E.O. Sisterhood has focused on the intersection of friendship and philanthropy. Through various grants and STAR scholarships, they continue to help women reach their educational goals, one "Chocolate Sunday" at a time.

Ecumenical Easter Sunrise Service at Old Sturbridge Village

STURBRIDGE — The annual Ecumenical Easter Sunrise Service will be held at Old Sturbridge Village on April 5 at 6 a.m. The service is open to the public.

According to The Federated Church of Sturbridge and Fiskdale's pastor, the Rev. David W. Cote, seven local faith communities will gather at the original Baptist Meetinghouse located at the end of the Common at Old Sturbridge Village.

Also participating in this year's service are the faith communities from Bethlehem Lutheran Church (Sturbridge), St. Anne/St. Patrick Catholic Church (Fiskdale), Brookfield Congregational Church (Brookfield), Elm Street Congregational Church (Southbridge), Holy Trinity Church (Southbridge), and St. Joseph Church (Charlton).

"The sunrise service is a simple but meaningful way to begin Easter," said Cote. "I believe that this Sunrise Service is a representation of Christ's love for us all. We come together as one body, as the sun rises to celebrate the hope that Easter brings. All are welcome to join us."

Those planning to attend should enter the Village through the security gate at the top of the parking lot and proceed to the Meetinghouse on the Common. Attendees are encouraged to dress appropriately for the weather.

Food and drink are not permitted, except for bottled water. Old Sturbridge Village will not be open for touring during the event and restrooms will not be available. Guests are asked to leave the Village directly following the service.

Build a house, build a garage, build an addition with help from Tantasqua students

FISKDALE — The Tantasqua Regional School Committee will be accepting applications for projects to be built during the 2026-2027 school year. The purpose of these projects is to provide practical work experiences for the carpentry students of Tantasqua's Technical Division. Since there is no charge for student labor, qualified applicants realize substantial savings. Additional savings can result if Tantasqua's electrical students install any necessary wiring.

Applications and design plans will be accepted for the construction of a single story house, garage, addition, or similar project. One or more projects may be selected. Applicant must reside in the Tantasqua School District.

All applications should be submitted directly to the Superintendent's Office by May 15.

For further information please call the Technical Division at 508-347-3045, ext. 0915 or access our Web site at <http://www.tantasqua.org/technical/forms.htm>.

George & Davis welcomes new attorney

STURBRIDGE — George & Davis, a general practice law firm in Sturbridge, welcomes Kaylee Olander as associate attorney focusing on family law and divorce.

“Kaylee is a strong negotiator who can obtain positive outcomes for clients looking to settle case and a powerful advocate for cases that go to trial,” said Attorney Karen Davis, who oversees the firm’s family law division. “She is smart, hardworking and a very good listener.”

A Sturbridge native, Olander graduated magna cum laude from the Norwich University Corps of Cadets in Vermont before earning a law degree at Campbell Law School in North Carolina.

Attorney Olander understands firsthand the issues families face. During her time at Campbell Law School, she served as an intern at a family law firm and was President of Law Students Against Domestic Violence. She was also a student attorney with the Richardson Family Education Law Clinic, where she represented special education students through the IEP processes.

“I am drawn to the opportunity to make a difference in people’s lives, helping them to find clarity and support through some of their most stressful

At Norwich University, she trained and supervised hundreds of fellow students. She was Vice President of the Pre-Law society, the 2021 Criminal Justice Presidential Fellow, and co-captain of the field hockey team.

She joins a firm that has served the local community for more than fifty years. In addition to family law, George & Davis offers mediation, bankruptcy, estate planning, probate, real estate and business law.

Charlton Lions Club & Overlook Tree Advisory Committee join forces

CHARLTON — The Charlton Lions Club and The Overlook Independent Living Tree Advisory Committee will join forces in April to improve their town. The two groups will host a booth at Charlton's Earth Fest, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., on Saturday, April 25 on the Charlton Town Common where they'll give away 100 sweet-gum trees. As they do each year, the Lions will also participate in the town's roadside cleanup effort, which starts at 8 a.m. and the trees will be available at that time.

Each small sweet-gum tree will come with instructions for planting and caring for it as it grows. Sweetgums (Liquidambar styraciflua) are large, decorative deciduous trees native to eastern North America. Their star-shaped leaves turn red and gold in the fall. The baby trees will be given to the first 100 Charlton residents who commit to planting and caring for the trees on their property. The trees will be donated by Bartlett Tree Experts.

The Overlook Tree Advisory Committee is comprised of residents and staff of the Independent Living community as well as representatives of Bartlett Tree Experts and Babe's Landscape & Construction. The Committee's mission is to advise on ways to protect and maintain the trees on The Overlook Campus and to educate the community about trees and the importance of trees to our environment and well-being. Through the work of the Committee, The Overlook was recently named a Tree Healthcare Campus by the Arbor Day Foundation.

One focus of Lions Clubs International is protecting the environment to create healthier communities and a more sustainable world. The worldwide service organization encourages planting and caring for trees to contribute to cleaner air as part of their mission.

Fr. Salvator Musande, Pastor of Saint Anne – Saint Patrick Parish, said, "This is an opportunity for Christians from different denominations in our town to join together in prayer as disciples of Jesus Christ."

The Stations of the Cross, or Via Crucis, is a Catholic devotion that helps us remember and reflect on Jesus' passion and death. The devotion consists of 14 stations, each showing a specific moment from Jesus' journey to Calvary. Each station focuses on key moments such as Jesus carrying the cross, meeting His mother, falling along the way, being crucified, and finally being laid in the tomb, helping participants follow Him in prayer and contemplation. Traditionally displayed in churches as images or sculptures, the Stations guide believers in prayer, meditation, and reflection.

and was later adapted so people could take the spiritual journey in their local church. Walking the Stations of the Cross allows Catholics to enter into Christ's suffering, deepen their faith, and grow in gratitude for God's love and mercy.

"The Way of the Cross invites us to walk with Jesus in His suffering and to reflect on His deep love for us," said Musande. "I encourage everyone to come and experience this time of prayer, reflection, and hope as we prepare our hearts for Easter."

St. Anne St. Patrick Parish is an active parish community. It offers daily Mass for worship, religious education, and community ministries. It welcomes visitors to St. Anne Shrine, the new Memorial for the Unborn, the Hall of Saints, the Russian Icon Exhibit, the Votive Chapel, the Generations Statue, and the Angel of Hope Monument. The Daily Rosary is recited at 3 p.m. in the St. Patrick Chapel, and weekend Masses are celebrated in its outdoor pavilion in the summer. Its religious gift shop is open every day from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m.

Southbridge Historical Society to examine Publick House's role in WWII

SOUTHBRIDGE — The Southbridge Historical Society will meet Wednesday, April 8 at 7 p.m. in the Ruth Wells Center for the Arts, 111 Main St.

Our program for the evening is "When War Came to the Public House."

Local historian and author Wally Hersee will present a fascinating illustrated talk on the little-known role the Publick House played during World War II. In 1941 — weeks before Pearl Harbor — the property became home to the Sturbridge Defense

Center, where soldiers and civilians were trained in guerrilla warfare and homeland defense. The presentation includes rare photographs, original documents, and a restored 1941 motion picture of the dedication ceremony, offering a remarkable glimpse into this unique chapter of local history.

Hersee, a photographer and amateur historian, lives in Sturbridge with his wife, Mary. He writes for the Sturbridge Historical Society on their Facebook page.

This meeting is free and open to the public.
