Muster Day returns this weekend at Old Sturbridge Village

STURBRIDGE — Old Sturbridge Village is hosting their annual Muster Day this coming Saturday, Sept. 5. This year, they are adding a 250th twist to their programming.

Old Sturbridge Village will be reenacting the militia musters that occurred in 19th-century America. These musters were a grand spectacle, with townspeople coming out to view visiting militia companies in their uniforms. Old Sturbridge Village is inviting visitors to come and cheer on their favorite militia company.

To honor those who fought in the American Revolution, the Village will be recreating a military wake and funeral for Captain Simeon Fiske, a veteran of the American Revolution. Visitors will also be able to talk to members of volunteer militia companies to learn how the militia of the early 19th century connected directly back to the American Revolution.

Guests will be able to watch musket and cannon firing demonstrations, lis-

CHARLTON — The Charlton Police Department will give residents an opportunity to meet local first responders and learn more about several specialized police units during its upcoming Barks, Badges & Boots community event.

The free, family-oriented event will be held Saturday, Sept. 12, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at St. Joseph’s Church, 10 H Putnam Rd. in Charlton.

Detectives, motorcycle officers and members of the 911 communications team will also participate, offering residents a broader look at the people and specialized services involved in local public safety.

In addition to the public safety displays and activities, free ice cream will be available from Suzy Qu’s ice cream truck.

The Charlton Police Department is encouraging families and other community members to stop by, meet their first responders and enjoy the afternoon.

Explore the legacy of the Declaration of Independence with Southbridge Historical Society

SOUTHBRIDGE — The Southbridge Historical Society will meet on Wednesday, Sept. 9 at the Ruth Wells Center for the Arts, 111 Main St., at 7 p.m.

Continuing with our theme for the 2026 Semiquincentennial, Roger Desrosiers of Millbury will present “The Importance of the Declaration of Independence, Then and Now.”

Desrosiers’ talk will center on three areas:

1. Why was the Declaration of Independence necessary?
2. What’s in the Declaration?
3. What was its legacy then, and since then? In other words, why do we celebrate a document written 250 years ago, and how has it influenced not only our country, but the world?

Desrosiers spent most of his 32-year career at Millbury High School teaching American History and Government. In 1987, he introduced a civics program called “We the People,” and later became the Massachusetts state coordinator for this program from 2006 through today. In 2015, he created a nonprofit called the Massachusetts Center for Civic Education, which supports the We The People program and the Project Citizen program.

Desrosiers has also served Millbury on several committees, and was co-chair of the Millbury Bicentennial in 2013, and is a lifetime member of the Millbury Historical Society.

This free program is open to the public.

Master Mason Degree ceremony held at Old Sturbridge Village

BY BRO. JIMMY FALZONE
MAJOR GENERAL SALEM TOWNE LODGE
SOUTHBRIDGE

STURBRIDGE — On Thursday evening, Aug. 20, Major General Salem Towne Lodge (MGSTL), together with the Colonial Craftsman Club Masonic Degree Team of Massachusetts, held a 3rd Degree ceremony on the common at Old Sturbridge Village (OSV).

The parking area near OSV’s bright blue Security and First Aid building was filled with cars bearing license plates from across New England, reflecting the strong turnout for this special event commemorating the 250th anniversary of the founding of our nation. A security attendant directed Master Masons to the main OSV common area. Although the evening was warm, cloudy, and muggy, with scattered showers, the weather did not discourage Master Masons from attending and participating in the degree. Brethren from across New England, along with representatives from the Grand Masonic Lodge in Boston, gathered to take part in and witness this historic ceremony. MGSTL members and volunteers conducted the special 3rd Degree in front of the Salem Towne House, where Master Masons met 230 years ago.

The Salem Towne House was built in 1796 in Charlton for the Towne family, who were prominent members of the community. It was moved to Old Sturbridge Village in 1952. General Salem Towne was active in local affairs, and both he and his son, Salem Towne, Jr., were Master Masons. A dedicated Mason, General Towne later brought honor to his hometown through his skill and knowledge.

from Masonic genealogy, Masonic meetings were held in the Towne family home from about 1796 to 1804, drawing Master Masons from surrounding communities.

MGSTL members and volunteers set up part of the OSV common in front of the Salem Towne House with tiki torches, illuminating the area and recreating the atmosphere experienced by Master Masons of that period. MGSTL also provided pop-up tents for shelter in the event of heavy rain. As part of the special degree, cannoneers from the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts Noble Train Artillery fired a Revolutionary War-era cannon, accompanied by a musket volley from the Sons of the American Revolution musket team. Before the 3rd Degree work began, dinner was served at the nearby

Shepherd Hill students hosting Tackle the Stigma 5K to promote mental health awareness

Shepherd Hill students hosting Tackle the Stigma 5K to promote mental health awareness

CHARLTON — The Shepherd Hill Regional High School cheerleading program, in partnership with the Dudley-Charlton Regional School District community, is inviting residents to lace up their running shoes and help break down barriers surrounding mental health during the annual Tackle the Stigma 5K and 2.5K Walk/Run on Saturday, Sept. 27. The event will begin at 10 a.m. at the Shepherd Hill football field and is designed to raise awareness about mental health and mental wellness while encouraging open conversations throughout the local community.

Organizers hope participants of all ages will come together to demonstrate support for those facing mental health challenges and reinforce the message that no one has to struggle alone.

"This event is very important to us as we work to raise awareness about mental health and mental wellness throughout our local community," organizers said in announcing the event.

The walk and run carries the theme, "Run toward awareness, stand up for support, and tackle the stigma one mile at a time," reflecting its focus on education, compassion and community involvement.

Mental health advocates continue to emphasize the importance of reducing the stigma surrounding anxiety, depression and other mental health conditions, which can often prevent individuals from seeking help. Community events such as Tackle the Stigma aim to create a welcoming environment where conversations about mental wellness are encouraged and support resources are highlighted.

In addition to providing an opportunity for exercise and community engagement, the event serves as a reminder that mental health is an important part of overall well-being. Organizers hope the day will inspire participants to check in with friends, family members and neighbors while promoting a culture of understanding and acceptance.

The Shepherd Hill cheerleaders have made mental health awareness a priority, using the event to unite students, families, educators and community members around a common cause. By bringing together participants from across Dudley, Charlton and surrounding communities, they hope to build momentum for ongoing conversations that extend well beyond race day.

Whether participants choose the full 5-kilometer course or the shorter 2.5-kilometer walk/run, organizers say every step represents a commitment to supporting mental wellness and reminding those who may be struggling that help is available.

Building trust beyond an emergency call

Most interactions with police officers and other first responders happen when something has gone wrong.

Someone has been involved in an accident. A family needs help. A crime has occurred. An alarm has sounded. Someone calls 911 because there is an emergency and assistance is needed immediately.

That makes events such as the Charlton Police Department’s upcoming Barks, Badges & Boots gathering particularly valuable.

The Sept. 12 event at St. Joseph’s Church gives residents an opportunity to meet the people behind local public safety services without an emergency providing the introduction. Families can meet members of the department’s K9 unit, drone team, detective unit, motorcycle unit and 911 communications team while getting a better understanding of what each does for the community.

That type of familiarity matters. For children especially, meeting a police officer in a relaxed environment can help establish an important connection. Instead of a uniform representing something unfamiliar or intimidating, there is a person behind it. A child can ask questions, see equipment up close and perhaps meet a police dog while learning that first responders are people they can approach when they need help.

Adults can benefit from the same opportunity. Modern police departments perform considerably more varied work than many residents encounter during their daily lives. Specialized units, communications personnel and new technology all play roles in responding to emergencies, investigating incidents and protecting the public.

The inclusion of the 911 communications team is particularly worthwhile. Dispatchers are often the first people residents encounter during an emergency, even though they may never see the person on the other end of the telephone. Their ability to gather information, calm callers and coordinate the appropriate response is an essential part of the public safety system.

Likewise, opportunities to learn about tools such as police drones can help residents better understand how technology is being incorporated into emergency response and law enforcement.

Community policing is sometimes discussed as though it were a complicated philosophy. At its foundation, however, much of it comes down to relationships.

Residents should know the people who serve their community, and police officers should have opportunities to interact with residents outside of traffic stops, investigations and emergencies.

Those relationships cannot be created by a single afternoon event, of course. Trust develops over time and depends upon professionalism, accountability, communication and consistent service. But informal gatherings can contribute to that process by creating opportunities for conversations that otherwise might never occur.

There is also something distinctly appropriate about making such an event family-oriented.

Public safety is a community responsibility, and introducing younger residents to the people who provide those services can foster greater understanding of how a town works. A child who comes primarily to see the K9 unit or enjoy some free ice cream may leave knowing a little more about the people who answer emergency calls in Charlton. That is a worthwhile outcome.

Barks, Badges & Boots will offer plenty of equipment to examine and specialized units to learn about. There will also be free ice cream, which rarely hurts attendance at a community gathering.

But the most important part of the afternoon will probably be considerably simpler: residents and first responders having conversations, asking questions and getting to know one another.

Strong communities are built through those small connections. Sometimes, they can begin with a badge, a police dog and an ice cream cone.

Letter submission policy

Letters to the Editor must include the author’s name, address, and a daytime phone number for purposes of verification in order to be considered for publication. Only the author’s name and the town in which they reside will be published. Letters submitted without all of the required information will not be accepted.

It is the sole prerogative of the Editor to determine whether a submission satisfies our requirements and decency standards, and any submission may be rejected at any time for any reason he or she might deem appropriate.

OPINION

How can you plan for incapacity?

We all hope to enjoy long, healthy lives, retaining the ability to think clearly and make our own decisions. But life doesn’t always work out that way — which is why you need to prepare for a potential incapacity that could affect your independence and possibly create financial problems for your family.

- So, in thinking about incapacity planning, you may want to consider the following arrangements:
- Health care power of attorney – When you establish a health care power of attorney, you name someone, such as a spouse or adult child, to make medical decisions on your behalf, should you become incapable of making them on your own due to disability or illness. These decisions include choosing doctors, treatments, and care facilities.
 - Financial power of attorney – With a financial power of attorney, you designate someone to assume a variety of duties for you in case you become incapacitated. These tasks include investing, selling property, paying bills and debts, collecting Social Security benefits, and adding or changing insurance policies.

When establishing a health care or financial power of attorney, you may need to decide whether it’s “durable” or “springing.” A durable power of attorney typically takes effect immediately after you sign it, have it notarized and witnessed. So, the person you’ve chosen to have power of attorney — sometimes called an “agent” — can act on your behalf whenever you choose. On the other hand, you could select a power of attorney that “springs” into effect only when you become incapacitated — hence, the “springing” designation.

One issue affecting a springing power of attorney involves the speed with which it can be enacted. Generally,

FINANCIAL

it won’t go into effect until a licensed physician declares in writing that the person granting the power of attorney is indeed incapacitated. This could cause a problem if your chosen agent needs to act quickly on your behalf. It’s because of this potential delay that a durable power of attorney is often favored over a springing power of attorney. However, everyone’s circumstances are different, so if you have a choice between a durable or springing power of attorney, you may want to consult with an estate-planning professional for guidance.

Apart from the health care and financial powers of attorney, you may also want to consider one other incapacity-related legal document — a living will. When you establish a living will, you describe the steps you would or wouldn’t want taken to keep you alive, along with other medical decisions, including pain management and organ donation. Obviously, the decision to create a living will is highly personal, involving your feelings about self-sufficiency and the circumstances that define the quality of life you wish to have. But the mere fact of having a living will can relieve your loved ones of having to make potentially agonizing decisions.

Planning for an incapacity may not be the most pleasant task — but it’s an important one. Of course, you may never become incapacitated at all, but by making the proper arrangements, you can make things easier for yourself and your family — just in case.

The disappearing art of knowing how to get there

I have reached the age when I occasionally give directions that are completely useless to anyone under 40.

“Go down past where the old hardware store used to be, take a right at the building that was the bank, and if you get to the old gas station, you’ve gone too far.”

Perfectly clear. At least to me.

The problem is that the hardware store has been gone for 15 years, the bank became a dentist’s office and the gas station is now an empty lot. This is how directions used to work in small towns. Nobody needed a street address. You needed landmarks. Turn by the white church. Go past the cemetery. Take the second left after the school. If you see the pond, you missed it.

Some directions required an advanced understanding of local history. “Take the road behind Johnson’s.” Johnson’s had closed in 1987, but everybody still called the building Johnson’s because nobody could remember what had replaced it.

Today, of course, we have GPS. You type an address into your phone and a pleasant voice tells you exactly where to go. Usually.

I have developed a complicated relationship with this woman. I appreciate her assistance, but I question some of her decisions. She occasionally attempts to send me down roads that no sensible Massachusetts resident would voluntarily travel. I have looked at certain suggested turns and thought, “You clearly aren’t from around here.”

There are roads in New England that technically qualify as roads but should not be treated as such. They might appear on a map as perfectly reasonable shortcuts. What the map does not explain is that the pavement ends halfway through, there is a bridge that looks as though Calvin Coolidge personally inspected it, and the final mile is wide enough for approximately three-quarters of a Subaru.

A local knows better. The GPS does not.

What fascinates me most is how quickly I have surrendered my own sense of direction. There are places I have driven to several times, yet I could not find them again without my phone. That bothers me.

Years ago, if I drove somewhere once, I paid attention. I remembered the turns. I noticed the landmarks. I built a little map in my head. Now I follow the blue line. Turn left in 500 feet. Turn right at the light. Continue for 2.3 miles. I obey without learning anything.

Sometimes, I wonder what would happen if the satellites disappeared tomorrow. I suspect millions of Americans would simply remain wherever they happened to be. There would be people stranded at supermarkets three miles from their houses.

“Do you know how to get home?”

“No, but I think I live northeast of here.”

My generation likes to complain that younger people cannot get anywhere without GPS, but we should probably be careful with that accusation. We are becoming equally dependent. The difference is that we remember when getting lost was part of going somewhere. You could make a wrong turn and drive five miles before admitting something wasn’t right.

This inevitably led to one person in the car saying, “I thought you knew where you were going.” That sentence has probably ended more pleasant Sunday drives than flat tires. Naturally, nobody wanted to stop and ask for directions. That would have required admitting defeat. Instead, we drove around confidently while having absolutely no idea where we were. Eventually, you found a convenience store, a police station or somebody standing beside a mailbox. The directions you received might include three roads that had changed names, a barn that had burned down and somebody named Earl. Yet somehow, you got there.

I don’t want to give up GPS. It is one of those inventions that is undeniably useful, and I have no desire to return to unfolding a road map across the steering wheel while traveling 55 miles per hour. But every once in a while, when I am heading somewhere familiar, I leave the phone alone. I make myself remember. Past the church. Left at the common. Over the little bridge. Right where the old store used to be.

Somewhere along the way, I usually realize that I still know where I am. And I rather like that feeling.

Plant with Purpose, design with nature: Native plant garden design with Southbridge Garden Club

SOUTHBRIDGE — The Southbridge Garden Club is delighted to host Nikki Howell of Lady Fern Farm for a special presentation on Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 1:30 p.m. at the Jacob Edwards Library in Southbridge.

In her talk, "Plant with Purpose, Design with Nature," Howell will explore how to cultivate beautiful, resilient landscapes that support local pollinators and restore vital ecosystems. Attendees will be introduced to the core principles of ecological garden design, including native plant selection, structural layering, and site-specific planning—skills applicable to home gardens, community spaces, and large-scale restoration projects alike.

Lady Fern Farm is a woman-owned nursery dedicated to cultivating Northeast native plants and offering enriching educational workshops. Howell, the owner and founder, brings a wealth of experience to the field with a degree in Sustainable Agriculture and years spent farming in the landscapes of Tuscany and Long Island. After returning to Worcester, she turned her passion for organic gardening into a mission to preserve biodiversity. Her work at Lady Fern Farm champions the ecological resilience of native species, emphasizing their co-evolution with local wildlife and their essential role in our environment.

The Southbridge Garden Club is a regional organization that welcomes members from across the local community. The Club meets monthly for horticultural programs, garden tours, and seasonal events, including its popular annual Plant Sale in May and Holiday Greens Sale in December. Their mission is "to share an interest in horticulture and to expand our knowledge of gardening for our mutual benefit and that of our local communities."

This program is free and open to the public, though registration is required. To reserve your spot, please visit jacobedwardslibrary.org or call the library at 508-764-5426.

Wales Community Pantry announces first-ever fundraising golf tournament

FISKDALE — The Wales Community Pantry today announced its first annual fundraising golf tournament, inviting the community to swing for a cause that hits close to home. The event will take place on Saturday, Oct. 3, with a 9 a.m. start at Hemlock Ridge Golf Course in Fiskdale.

This is more than a day on the course. It is a chance to stand with neighbors and families who face the stress of not knowing whether there will be enough food for dinner. Or breakfast. In just the past two years, the number of people the pantry serves has roughly tripled. Hundreds of families across Brimfield, Holland, Wales, and more than 20 surrounding communities now rely on the pantry for nutritious food provided with dignity. The pantry also sends weekend food home with 85 elementary students through its Backpack Program and delivers to more than 40 homebound neighbors.

In the immediate area there are no grocery stores and limited public transportation, making the pantry a critical lifeline. Rising costs of food, housing, and healthcare continue to push more households to seek help. The tournament will feature food, prizes, and the chance to make a tangible difference.

“Golf is fun, but this day is about something bigger,” said Dave Sweeney, Executive Director of the Wales Community Pantry. “Every player, sponsor, and volunteer helps us keep food on the shelves for families who need it. We’re grateful for the community’s support and excited to grow this event into an annual tradition.”

Annual members show on display at Ruth Wells Center

SOUTHBRIDGE — We are very excited to present our annual members show at the Ruth Wells Center in September for the Arts,

BUILDING

Bullard Tavern and enjoyed by those in attendance.

The degree included several unusual and memorable elements, including a wagon and cemetery scene. The walk to the cemetery was eerie yet exciting, with tiki torches providing the only light along the cart road. The final portion of the degree was completed inside the nearby Meeting House. With its soaring steeple, large front pillars, traditional pews, echoing acoustics, and creaking floorboards, the building captured the feel of an old New England meeting house and helped transport attendees back in time. One Master Mason called it one of the most memorable

St. Anne – St. Patrick Parish introduces family-friendly schedule for 2026–2027 Faith Formation program

FISKDALE — St. Anne–St. Patrick Parish is making it easier for families to participate in both Faith Formation and Sunday Mass with a newly redesigned class schedule for the 2026–2027 program year. By intentionally centering its Faith Formation schedule around the 10:00 a.m. Sunday Mass, the parish hopes families can more easily worship together while also having more time back in their Sundays.

“At St. Anne – St. Patrick Parish, we want to remove obstacles that make it difficult for families to practice their faith together,” said Fr. Salvator Musande, Pastor of St. Anne – St. Patrick Parish. “Our new schedule allows children to grow in their knowledge and understanding of the Catholic Faith while making Sunday Mass something families can attend together. We warmly invite both returning and new families to join us.”

Registration is now open for Faith Formation for students in Kindergarten through Grade 11. Families are encouraged to register online by September 6, 2026, which will help with class planning, although registration will remain open after that date.

The new class schedule is:

- Grades K–6: Sundays, 8:45–9:45 a.m., before the 10 a.m. Mass.
- Grades 7–11: Sundays, 11:15 a.m.–12:30 p.m., after the 10 a.m. Mass.

Faith Formation provides children and teens with age-appropriate instruction in the Catholic Faith, Sacred Scripture, Prayer, Christian living, and preparation for the Sacraments. Online registration is the preferred registration method and is available on the parish website. A paper registration form is also available for families who need one.

For more information or to register, visit www.StAnneStPatrickParish.com or call 508-347-9353.

St. Anne St. Patrick Parish & Shrine is an active parish community serving the Sturbridge area and beyond, offering daily Masses, religious education, and community ministries. The shrine grounds welcome thousands of visitors each year and feature St. Anne Shrine, Stations of the Cross and Crucifix, Hall of Saints, Russian Icon Exhibit, Generations Statue, Angel of Hope Monument, Memorial for the Unborn, Votive

Chapels, weekend Masses celebrated in the outdoor pavilion during the summer, and a religious gift shop open daily from 10 a.m. – 5 p.m.

Health Foundation of Central Massachusetts names new Director of Strategic Initiatives

WORCESTER — The Health Foundation of Central Massachusetts has announced the appointment of Courtney Pelley as the organization’s first director of strategic initiatives.

In this role, Pelley will support the organization’s advocacy, capacity building, communications, and community engagement activities, building on The Health Foundation’s position as a trusted leader on issues affecting the health and wellbeing of Central Massachusetts residents.

“Courtney has spent her career working to advance health equity and address social determinants of health, which are core to The Health Foundation’s mission to improve health in the region,” said Amie Shei, president and CEO of The Health Foundation of Central Massachusetts. “Her expertise will be invaluable as we leverage our full suite of philanthropic tools to respond to critical health challenges and implement a new strategic plan aimed at deepening our impact.”

Pelley previously served as senior vice president of external affairs at the Edward M. Kennedy Community Health Center where she supported board governance and led strategic partnerships, government relations, and advocacy efforts. She served as an administrative fellow in the Mass General Brigham system, where she worked closely with the Center for Community Health and Health Equity at Brigham and Women’s Hospital, and is also a Teach for America alumna.

“Born in Worcester and raised in Leicester, I am proud to call Central Massachusetts home,” said Pelley. “It is an honor to join The Health Foundation team and a privilege to contribute to its mission. I look forward to working alongside our partners and communities to strengthen connections, navigate evolving needs, and advance special initiatives that create meaningful, lasting impact across the region.”

Pelley earned a Bachelor’s degree in neuroscience from Wellesley College and a master’s degree in interpreting and translation studies with a focus in intercultural services in health care from Wake Forest University. She was the recipient of Worcester Academy’s Young Alumni Award in 2019 and was named one of the Worcester Business Journal’s 40 Under Forty in 2018.

United Way of Central Massachusetts supports Girls on the Run Worcester County

WORCESTER — Girls on the Run Worcester County is pleased to be the recipient of a grant from the United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative. This grant aligns with the United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative mission of addressing violence in the lives of middle school age girls.

Girls on the Run Worcester County inspires girls to be joyful, healthy, and confident through an evidence-based curriculum that creatively integrates running. The afterschool program teaches girls healthy habits and critical life skills such as positive self-talk, teamwork, and navigating big emotions. Volunteer coaches undergo training to effectively create welcoming environments, support individual growth, and deliver lessons that help girls improve competence, confidence, caring, character, and connection.

Each eight-week season culminates with a team-led Community Impact Project and celebratory 5K event. The end-of-season Girls on the Run 5K provides participants with a tangible sense of confidence that comes through accomplishment and a framework for setting and achieving life goals.

“Girls on the Run Worcester County is incredibly grateful to the United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative for this generous investment in our girls and our mission. This partnership allows us to create spaces where girls can build confidence, form meaningful connections, discover their strengths, and develop the skills they need to navigate life with courage and resilience. We are proud to partner with an organization that shares our belief in the power and potential of every girl,” said Karen Spencer, Executive Director, Girls on the Run Worcester County.

United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative is dedicated to igniting positive change for adolescent girls (ages nine to 15) through philanthropy, women’s leadership, and advocacy. By supporting Girls on the Run Worcester County, the United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative will directly impact girls by helping Girls on the Run Worcester County provide scholarships and high-quality programming for girls who may otherwise be unable to participate due to financial barriers. This funding ensures that more girls have access to a safe, supportive environment where they build confidence, strengthen social and emotional skills, and discover the power of believing in themselves. Together, the non-profit and the United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative are excited to continue empowering the lives of young girls throughout Worcester County.

“The United Way of Central Massachusetts Women’s Initiative is proud to partner with Girls on the Run in creating opportunities for girls to build meaningful relationships, connect with positive role models, and develop skills that will serve them throughout their lives. Their work reflects our shared commitment to helping girls across Central Massachusetts thrive,” said Anabelle Santiago, Manager, Women’s Initiative United Way of Central Massachusetts.

Since, 2014, Girls on the Run Worcester County has served and inspired thousands of girls to cross the 5K finish line. In a recent end-of-season survey, caregivers and coaches alike confirmed the power of the program. Ninety-six percent of parents/caregivers agree that Girls on the Run was a valuable experience for their child, and 95 percent of coaches felt that they were making a difference in participants’ lives.

Additionally, a third-party study that surveyed coaches and program site hosts showed that Girls on the Run (GOTR) supports a positive school climate. Of the current teacher coaches surveyed, 99% said that GOTR supports their school climate by encouraging physical activity and health among students and by fostering an environment where students’ thoughts, feelings, and ideas are valued. Ninety-five percent of current program site hosts said GOTR supports their school climate by supporting mental health by building students’ social-emotional capacities and by fostering feelings of connectedness among students.

To learn more about the organization’s mission or how to get involved, please visit www.gotr-worc.org.

About Girls on the Run Worcester County
Girls on the Run Worcester County creates and offers empowering after-school programs designed for girls in grades 3 to 8. The non-profit helps participants build confidence, increase physical activity, and develop life skills like managing emotions, resolving conflicts, and forming friendships. With the support of trained coaches, team members activate their limitless potential through a blend of physical activities and engaging lessons. The research-based curriculum explores topics relevant to eight- to 13-year-old girls, such as expressing empathy and standing up for oneself and others. The program includes a Community Impact Project and culminates with a celebratory 5K. Discover more at www.gotr-worc.org.

A DREAM YEARS IN THE MAKING!

The dream of a new Bobcat Park is finally coming to life! Trinity Catholic Academy recently celebrated the groundbreaking of our new playground—a project made possible through the incredible generosity, dedication, and support of our TCA community. We are so grateful to everyone who has donated, volunteered, spread the word, and believed in this longtime dream. What began as an idea has grown into a project that will bring countless years of play, laughter, and memories to our students.

Key to the City awarded to QCC employee Rocky Knight

WORCESTER — Rocky Knight, a business leader, nonprofit founder and advocate for youth education, was presented with the Key to the City of Worcester during a ceremony held Thursday, Aug. 27 at Quinsigamond Community College in recognition of her commitment to empowering and educating communities locally and abroad.

The honor continues a Worcester tradition that began in 1924 under Mayor Michael O'Hara and has been maintained by successive administrations. Mayor Joseph Petty presented Knight with the city's symbolic honor in recognition of her leadership, community service and educational impact.

"Rocky's energy and commitment can be felt across every corner of Worcester," said Petty. "Through her educational initiatives and her steadfast support for our small business community, she has continually opened doors for students and aspiring entrepreneurs alike. Presenting Rocky Knight with the Key to the City is our way of saying thank you for her extraordinary leadership and heart for our community."

Knight is the founder of the For One Child Foundation, a nonprofit that has impacted over 1,500 students across Massachusetts and rural Jamaica through educational resources and infrastructure development.

Through the foundation, Knight also runs the SATE program, a weeklong summer camp focused on science, art, technology and entrepreneurship. The program equips teenagers with skills in business planning, marketing, artificial intelligence awareness and public speaking. Program leaders said many students arrive shy and reserved but leave the camp with newfound confidence and leadership skills.

"I believe business and education can build community, solve problems, create opportunities and leave something behind," Knight said. "This is a community story. Everyone in this room, this key to the city has your fingerprints on it too."

In addition to her nonprofit work, Knight is the director of the Auxilium Center for Entrepreneurship at QCC, which provides mentoring and resources to students who are launching or growing a business. She has also served as Director of the CWE-Central MA Women's Business Center and Founder/CEO of Own Your Legacy Ventures LLC, an organization that helps entrepreneurs establish sustainable businesses through branding, consulting and strategic planning.

QCC President Dr. Luis Pedraja praised Knight's commitment to service and community development.

"Rocky brings so much energy to everything she does," Pedraja said. "Her entrepreneurial spirit has served the community for so long and we are fortunate that she now brings that spirit to our students through the Auxilium Center at QCC."

Knight was nominated by Maria Lawson, a teacher, clinician, and advocate who serves on the board of the For One Child Foundation. Lawson described Knight as a tireless community leader whose presence can be felt throughout Worcester.

"Seeing how far she's come is an inspiration to us all," Lawson said. "She constantly lifts up others, and this community is blessed to have her. She's a powerhouse."

Her commitment to community empowerment has earned her numerous accolades, including the Worcester Business Journal's 40 Under 40 Award (2024), Worcester Magazine's Woman to Watch (2025) and recognition as a Massachusetts Commonwealth Heroine (2025).
