Oxford High School Class of 2026 celebrates graduation

OXFORD — Family members, friends, faculty, staff, and community members gathered on the Oxford High School football field Friday evening to celebrate the graduation of the Oxford High School Class of 2026. With warm temperatures, a gentle breeze, and the sun slowly setting in the background, the evening provided the perfect setting to honor the accomplishments of the graduating class. The ceremony began promptly at 6 p.m. as graduates made their way onto the field to the traditional processional, “Pomp and Circumstance,” performed by the Oxford High School Band under the direction of Chris Rubenacker. The colors were proudly presented by the NJROTC, followed by a moving rendition of “The Star-Spangled Banner” performed by the Oxford High School Chorus, directed by Bradley Sampson. Class President and Salutatorian Gwen

Gustafson welcomed attendees with a thoughtful and heartfelt address. Reflecting on her years in Oxford Public Schools, Gustafson shared lessons she learned along the way and encouraged her classmates to slow down, live in the present, and cherish the small moments that often become life’s most meaningful memories. Senior speaker Ethan White followed with a powerful message. Turn To GRADUATION page A9

DUDLEY — Dudley Conservation Land Trust (DCLT) celebrated its new headquarters at the historic Perron House during its open board meeting today, toasting the property and the Perron family’s generosity in making the conservation possible.

The barn roof has already been replaced thanks to funding from the Janet Malser Humanities Trust, and sill replacement is scheduled for fall with support from both the Janet Malser Humanities Trust and Preservation Massachusetts on behalf of the 1772 Foundation.

DCLT also announced the successful acquisition of the 21-acre Kulisa-Tierney Preserve and significant progress on its $1 million capital campaign. The outdoor event attracted around 35 attendees, along with two dogs, on a beautiful sunny day. ## All Saints Academy sends off Class of 2026

WEBSTER — All Saints Academy proudly celebrated the graduation of its eighth-grade Class of 2026 during a special Mass and ceremony attended by students, families, faculty, staff, and members of the parish community.

The Mass was celebrated by Fr. Lucas LaRoche, who encouraged graduates to continue living their faith as they embrace new opportunities and challenges ahead.

The ceremony marked a significant milestone as students completed their years at All Saints Academy and prepared to begin the next chapter of their educational journeys. It was also a meaningful opportunity to reflect on their academic achievements, personal growth, and the many faith-filled experiences that shaped their time at the school.

As Mrs. Ellen Tagg, Assistant Head of School, announced the graduates, diplomas were presented by Head of School Mrs. Joan Matys, Fr. Lucas LaRoche of Sacred Heart of Jesus Church, Fr. Javier of St. Louis Church, and eighth-grade homeroom teacher Mrs. Ann Scheffler. Graduates included Noah Beaudette, Kallie Fales, Samantha Gardner, Maggie Keegan, Dominic Kistner, Caleb Latino, Gianna Monticelli, Benjamin Mukuha, Connor Shelburne, and Alanna Yelu-Attigah.

Following the presentation of diplomas, school leaders recognized the graduates for their hard work, dedication, leadership, and commitment to living out the values of the Catholic faith. During their time at All Saints Academy,

PET of the WEEK

MEET Colby

If you're looking for a puppy who can make you smile without even trying, Colby might be your perfect match. This sweet, playful boy loves making new friends and approaches life with a happy-go-lucky attitude. Colby recently spent the day at our Fore Paws Golf Tournament at Hopkinton Country Club, where he charmed everyone he met. Between collecting cuddles, watching all the activity around him, and taking breaks for puppy naps, he showed us just how adaptable and easygoing he can be. He took all the excitement in stride and was simply happy to be part of the fun. As with any puppy, Colby is looking for a family committed to helping him grow into the wonderful adult dog he's meant to be through positive training, socialization, and lots of adventures together. If you're ready to welcome a puppy into your home and watch him grow, learn, and blossom into a devoted companion, Colby would love to be part of your family.

The legacy they leave behind

Oxford High School's Class of 2026 graduated beneath a warm June sky, but the most important part of the evening was not the weather, the speeches, or even the diplomas. It was the reminder that a successful graduating class leaves behind something more valuable than academic records or championship banners. It leaves a legacy.

Throughout the commencement ceremony, the messages delivered by students and school leaders returned to themes that matter far beyond high school: gratitude, compassion, humility, community, and living fully in the present. Those are not lessons measured by standardized tests or grade point averages. They are the qualities that define character and shape the future of a town.

Class President and Salutatorian Gwen Gustafson encouraged her classmates to appreciate life's small moments. Senior speaker Ethan White challenged his fellow graduates to support one another and choose understanding over judgment. Valedictorian Cassidy Burke reflected on gratitude and the responsibility of leaving things better than they were found. Together, their messages painted a picture of a class that understood success is not simply about individual achievement. It is about how we treat others and the impact we leave behind.

That perspective deserves recognition. In every community, there is a tendency to measure success through statistics. We celebrate college acceptances, scholarships earned, athletic victories, and academic awards. Those accomplishments are certainly worthy of praise. Yet years from now, most graduates will not be remembered primarily for their class rank or test scores. They will be remembered for the kindness they showed, the friendships they built, the challenges they overcame, and the ways they contributed to the lives of others.

Oxford's graduates appear to understand that truth.

The ceremony itself reflected the strong connections that define a community-centered school system. The presentation of diplomas by parents serving on the School Committee and by school employees presenting diplomas to their own children offered powerful reminders that education is not simply a profession. It is a partnership among families, educators, students, and the broader community.

The "Tradition of the Rose" reinforced that message by recognizing the countless sacrifices made by parents, grandparents, teachers, coaches, and mentors along the way. No graduate reaches commencement alone. Behind every diploma is a network of people who offered encouragement, guidance, patience, and support.

Those relationships are among the greatest strengths of communities like Oxford.

As graduates move on to colleges, military service, careers, apprenticeships, and countless other paths, they will carry more than academic knowledge with them. They will carry the values instilled during their years in Oxford Public Schools. The lessons of perseverance learned during difficult moments. The friendships formed in classrooms, on athletic fields, and through extracurricular activities. The understanding that success is not only about personal advancement but also about lifting others along the way.

Communities often wonder what kind of future lies ahead. The answer can often be found sitting on a football field during graduation season.

If the speeches delivered by the Class of 2026 are any indication, Oxford's future remains bright. This class leaves behind a reputation for leadership, compassion, perseverance, and service. Those qualities will continue to benefit the community long after the caps have been tossed and the diplomas framed.

Graduation marks an ending, but it also marks a beginning. The legacy of the Class of 2026 now becomes part of Oxford's story, while the graduates begin writing the next chapters of their own.

That is something worth celebrating.

A handshake, a hammer, and a few quiet lessons

Father's Day arrives every year with a familiar collection of neckties, coffee mugs and backyard cookouts. Those are fine traditions, but as I get older, I find myself thinking less about the gifts and more about the men who shaped us, often without realizing they were doing it.

My father was not much of a talker.

LANTERNS
MAIN STREET
By CHARLES

That seems to be a common trait among fathers of a certain generation. They could spend an entire afternoon working beside you and say fewer than a dozen words. Yet somehow, years later, you realize they taught you more during those silent hours than many people could teach in a semester-long class.

My father believed that if a job was worth doing, it was worth doing correctly. He did not need a motivational poster on the wall to remind him. He simply got up every morning and went to work.

As a kid, I didn't always appreciate that philosophy. In fact, I spent a fair amount of time wishing he would hurry up. Whether it was fixing a lawn mower, painting a fence, or repairing something around the house, I wanted the shortest route between broken and fixed. He wanted it done right.

At the time, it seemed unnecessarily slow.

Today, I catch myself doing the exact same thing.

I hear his voice every time I reach for a shortcut. Measure twice. Check your work. Clean up after yourself. Leave things better than you found them.

Funny how those lessons settle in when you're not paying attention.

Fatherhood itself has changed quite a bit over the years. Today's dads seem more comfortable expressing emotions and spending time with their children in ways previous generations often didn't. That's a good thing. Yet many of the fundamentals remain unchanged.

Children are still watching.

They notice how their fathers treat their mothers. They notice whether promises are kept. They notice how a father responds when things go wrong. They notice whether he shows kindness to strangers and respect to neighbors.

Most of all, they notice consistency.

A father does not need to be perfect. No father ever has been. But children remember the man who shows up. They remember the one sitting in the bleachers on a rainy afternoon. They remember the one helping with homework after a long workday. They remember the one who drives across town when the car won't start or answers the phone at 10 p.m. because a son or daughter needs advice.

The older I get, the more I appreciate those ordinary acts.

My own children are adults now. One is away building her future. The other lives nearby and is creating a life of his own. Fatherhood changes as children grow. You spend years teaching them to become independent, and then one day you realize they actually listened.

That can be both rewarding and a little unsettling.

These days, conversations are less about curfews and homework and more about careers, relationships and life decisions. The role changes, but the responsibility never completely disappears. A father never stops being a father. The worries simply evolve.

On Father's Day, many of us will celebrate with our families. Some will be remembering fathers who are no longer here. Others may be thinking about grandfathers, stepfathers, uncles, coaches, teachers or neighbors who stepped into that role when it was needed.

They all matter.

The truth is that some of the most important fathers in a community are not necessarily related by blood. They are the men who volunteer to coach Little League, teach Scout skills, mentor young people or quietly lend a hand when someone needs guidance. Every town in Massachusetts has a few of those men. They rarely seek recognition, but their influence stretches farther than they know.

This Father's Day, perhaps the best gift we can give is a little gratitude.

A phone call. A visit. A handshake. A simple thank-you.

And if your father is still around, maybe ask him a few questions. Ask about his first job. Ask about his childhood. Ask what worried him when he was your age.

One day you'll be glad you did.

The older I get, the more I understand that fathers rarely leave their greatest legacy in bank accounts or buildings. They leave it in habits, values and lessons that quietly travel from one generation to the next.

Sometimes, all it takes is a handshake, a hammer, and a few quiet lessons.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Promotion of "Hallmark" families is Orwellian

To the Editor:

I have to agree with Richard Clark ("Goodbye, Hallmark" letter June 12) about the ungainliness of the New York State Legislature's new gender-neutral terms for parents. There is, however, nothing "Orwellian" about substituting "non-gestating parent" for "father" and "gestating parent" for "mother."

What is Orwellian is the attitude that the only way to characterize modern families is by the «Hallmark» concept of mother, father, son and daughter, as it existed in, well, 1984.

In today's world, many families comprise two mothers or two fathers or people of ambiguous gender or trans-gender, who may or may not be spouses, who may be parenting children, who might not have been conceived in the conventional manner and who themselves might identify with a gender other than the one they were born with. Acknowledging their differences does not prevent anyone from celebrating Mother's Day and Father's Day or using those traditional terms in our families or anywhere else for that matter.

Meanwhile, people who form unconventional families work just as hard, pay taxes and contribute immensely to their communities. They all deserve the recognition, respect and benefits that society has long bestowed on those Hallmark Families - and perhaps, more poetic terminology in the New York State Legislature.

ALL SAINTS

students not only grew academically but also developed qualities of kindness, compassion, service, and respect for others.

The ceremony continued with special recognition of students who exemplified excellence in academics, leadership, service, and character.

The Bishop Daniel P. Reilly Book Award, established by the Catholic schools of the Diocese of Worcester, is presented annually to a student who best exemplifies the bishop's motto, "In Kindness and in Truth," while demonstrating duty, honor, sacrifice, and accomplishment within the school community. This year's recipient, Alanna Yelu-Attigah, was recognized for her enthusiasm for learning and her commitment to serving her school, church, and community.

The Pearson Memorial

Scholarship honors the memory of Deborah Pearson and her dedication to enhancing the quality of life and education of students. Awarded to an outstanding eighth-grade student continuing at a private secondary school, the scholarship recognizes achievement and a commitment to excellence. This year's recipient was Kallie Fales.

The All Saints Academy Award recognizes students who demonstrate outstanding effort, responsibility, honesty, maturity, positive peer relationships, service, and dedication to the school community. This year's recipients, Samantha Gardner and Connor Shelburne, were honored for their commitment to the mission and values of All Saints Academy.

Throughout their years together, the Class of 2026 shared many meaningful experiences, including classroom learning, school activities, service opportunities, prayer, and celebrations. Faculty members noted the strong bonds of friendship formed among classmates and the support they offered one another through both successes and challenges.

A heartfelt portion of the ceremony was dedicated to the families who supported the graduates throughout their journey. Members of the class shared personal messages of gratitude, thanking parents, grandparents, siblings, and loved ones for their sacrifices, encouragement, and unwavering support. Their reflections highlighted the essential role families played in helping them grow both academically and personally.

The school also expressed its deep appreciation to the parents, families, teachers, staff, and parish community whose guidance and encouragement helped shape the students into confident, faith-filled young adults.

Each graduate then received a special keepsake - a St. Francis prayer coin and prayer card - as a reminder of their connection to God, the beauty of creation, and their responsibility to care for others and the world around them. Students were encouraged to be "bridge-builders" who listen, include others, and lead with kindness and integrity, echoing Pope Leo XIV's call to "build bridges where the world raises up boundaries."

As they move on to high school, these graduates leave All Saints Academy with a strong foundation of faith, knowledge, and character. The school community wishes them continued success and God's blessings as they pursue their dreams, embrace new opportunities, and serve as peacemakers in the spirit of St. Francis.

Congratulations to the Class of 2026 and its award recipients. Their accomplishments reflect not only their hard work, perseverance, and faith, but also the steadfast support of the families, teachers, and community members who have accompanied them along the way.

Antos Farm and the Perron House.

DCLT's $1 million capital campaign to support its headquarters and replenish the endowment has raised $435,000, aided by local businesses and families. An updated website will launch soon, enhancing community engagement and offering a free hat or T-shirt to new monthly donors contributing $15 or more through Sept. 1.

"These milestones reflect the strength of community support and a shared commitment to conserving land in Dudley and Oxford," said Liza Moran, DCLT President. "We are grateful to the donors, volunteers, partners, and neighbors who helped make today's announcements possible."

In her address, Mrs. Matys reflected on the Franciscan Jubilee Year, commemorating 800 years since the passing of St. Francis of Assisi, and encouraged students to follow his example by living with humility, courage, and a deep love for God's creation.

She reminded graduates that true peace is not simply a feeling but a way of life.

Quoting Pope Leo XIV, she shared, "Peace is not a formula of courtesy, but the certain proclamation of Christ's victory over death." She challenged students to become peacemakers in their communities by making choices rooted in kindness, compassion, and faith.

Chaffee Elementary offers Kindergarteners summer learning backpacks

Courtesy Tara Koziak, Chaffee's Principal, and Dendra Bodreau, Kindergarten Lead Teacher, show off the new summer learning backpacks.

OXFORD — Chaffee Elementary School is preparing to welcome its newest scholars as it hosts its annual Kindergarten screening program from June 14–17. Families of children who will turn five years old before Sept. 1 are invited to participate in the screening process, an important first step in preparing students for a successful start to their educational journey.

This year, Oxford Public Schools is adding an exciting new component to the Kindergarten screening experience. Every incoming kindergarten student will receive a mini-backpack filled with school supplies and learning materials designed to support summer learning and help ease the transition into school this fall.

The backpacks include a variety of age-appropriate supplies such as a whiteboard and marker, crayons, scissors, playdough, math games, activity packets, and other educational resources. Families will also find games and activities they can enjoy together throughout the summer, helping children build important academic and social skills while having fun.

The initiative was launched through the efforts of Chaffee Elementary Principal Tara Koziak, who worked closely with the school's PTO to help fund the backpacks and supplies.

"We wanted to provide families with tools they can use at home to help children feel excited and confident about starting Kindergarten," said Koziak. "Learning can happen through play, and these resources will help make that possible all summer long."

A special thank you goes to Amy Winkleman for her help assembling the backpacks and preparing the materials for distribution. Appreciation is also extended to the Chaffee Kindergarten team, whose dedication and hard work make the screening process a positive and welcoming experience for families.

As the school year comes to a close, Chaffee Elementary looks forward to meeting its newest students and helping them begin their educational journey.

School leaders hope the backpacks will inspire plenty of "playing school" throughout the summer and build excitement for the first day of Kindergarten. Oxford Public Schools wishes all incoming kindergarteners a summer filled with learning, exploration, and fun as they prepare for an exciting year ahead.

Park Avenue Faculty Spotlight

WEBSTER — Each year, Park Avenue is filled with remarkable student learning—made possible by the dedication, creativity, support, and, most importantly, the hope carried by the extraordinary staff in our school community. This week, we are proud to highlight two more exceptional members of our PAE team: Leslie Pietz and Kyle Kreidler, Physical Education Teachers. Together, they help create a positive, active, and engaging environment for students while demonstrating an unwavering commitment to the Park Avenue community.

Leslie Pietz, Physical Education Teacher, is a fantastic educator who brings organization, creativity, and passion to everything she does. She is a wonderful planner who thoughtfully designs lessons and activities that keep students engaged while helping them develop important skills and confidence. She is constantly looking for ways to bring out the very best in her students, encouraging them to challenge themselves and reach their full potential. Leslie pours her heart, energy, and effort into Park Avenue and is always focused on creating meaningful experiences for children.

As one colleague shared, "Leslie is someone we can always count on. Her preparation, positivity, and commitment to students make her a true leader, and the kids absolutely love being in her class."

Thank you, Leslie, for your dedication.

Kyle Kreidler, Physical Education Teacher, may be new to Park Avenue this year, but you would never know it. He has quickly become an important part of our school community through his enthusiasm, positivity, and ability to connect with students. He brings a tremendous amount of fun and energy to his classes, creating an environment where students are excited to participate and learn. He has embraced the Park Avenue community from day one and consistently gives his all to support students and staff. His ability to build relationships with children in such a short time has been remarkable.

As one colleague noted, "Kyle has fit right into our school family. The students love his energy and sense of fun, and he has a special way of making every child feel included and excited to participate."

Thank you, Kyle, for your dedication. We would also be remiss if we did not recognize Leslie and Kyle for their tremendous efforts in planning and facilitating Park Avenue's annual Field Day. This special event is one of the highlights of the school year for our students and requires countless hours of preparation, organization, and teamwork. Through their hard work and dedication, Leslie and Kyle create a fun, safe, and memorable experience for every child at Park Avenue. Their commitment to making Field Day a success reflects the care they have for our students and the pride they take in our school community. Thank you both for helping create memories that our students will cherish for years to come.

erful message about compassion and community. White challenged his fellow graduates to support their neighbors rather than judge them and urged everyone to remain mindful of the people around them as they move forward into the next chapter of their lives.

The final student address was delivered by Valedictorian Cassidy Burke. Speaking about gratitude and humility, Burke reflected on the impact the Class of 2026 has had on Oxford High School and the greater community. She reminded her classmates that through their actions, leadership, and relationships, they have left both their school and community better than they found them. Oxford High School Principal Rebecca Czernicki then addressed the graduating class. Noting that she began her journey at Oxford High School alongside the students when they entered as freshmen, she reflected on the remarkable growth she had witnessed over the past four years. Czernicki praised the graduates for the positive impact they have made on the school community and expressed her gratitude and pride in knowing that each graduate was prepared for future success.

Class Advisor Emily Reimer continued the ceremony by reading the beloved "Tradition of the Rose," a meaningful Oxford High School graduation tradition that celebrates the support and sacrifices of loved ones throughout a student's educational journey.

Superintendent of Schools Michael Lucas offered his congratulations and best wishes to the graduates before formally certifying the Class of 2026.

The highlight of the evening followed as members of the School Committee, Principal Czernicki, and Superintendent Lucas congratulated each graduate individually. As names were announced by Dean of Students PJ Boggio, graduates proudly crossed the stage to receive their diplomas and celebrate the culmination of years of hard work and dedication.

Adding a special personal touch to the ceremony, two graduates who were children of School Committee members had the unique opportunity to receive their diplomas directly from their parents. In addition, two Oxford Public Schools staff members were invited to the stage to present diplomas to their graduating children, creating unforgettable moments for families and attendees alike.

As the final diploma was awarded and the Class of 2026 was officially declared graduates, excitement filled the air. The ceremony concluded with the traditional tossing of graduation caps, followed by embraces, photographs, and celebrations shared among family members, friends, teachers, and classmates.

The Oxford High School Class of 2026 leaves behind a legacy of leadership, compassion, perseverance, and community spirit. As they embark on new journeys, they carry with them the lessons, memories, and relationships forged during their time in Oxford Public Schools.

Congratulations to the Oxford High School Class of 2026.

On June 21, we celebrate the opening of Zion Lutheran Church's outdoor chapel at a 10 a.m. joint service with the Church of Reconciliation. Comfortable seats with backs face a handmade pine cross and an altar shaded over by towering oaks and pines. You are welcome to bring a lawn chair if you prefer. Come for the service presided over by Pastor Michael Bastian and stay for coffee hour to enjoy homemade baked goods and friendly conversation. We are always pleased to greet families with children...even when they are noisy. There is always a special "children's moment" just for them at every service. Here, at 70 Main St., Oxford. All are welcome.

Seniors received BBQ boxed lunches, goodie bags, raffle prizes, and giveaways while enjoying music and greetings from Sheriff Evangelidis, members of the Sheriff's Office, volunteers, and dozens of community partners.

"The Senior Picnic continues to be one of our most anticipated community events, and this year's turnout and attendee enthusiasm were outstanding," said Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis. "It was a pleasure to spend time with seniors from across Worcester County, share conversations, and celebrate the many contributions they have made to our communities." Evangelidis emphasized that it is the dedicated group of volunteers who make this event possible year after year.
