Parish hosting talent show for orphanage

Next month, people from St John Paul II Parish are hoping the them keep helping young people there. They're calling it the Sending All Our Love talent show, a mixed-entertainment fundraiser for the Fraternitie des Jeunes, a boys' orphanage in Les Cayes, Haiti. On Feb. 11 from 1-9 p.m., they're showcasing a slate of snacks and other things at LaSalle Hall.

According LaFleche, the parish started funding the Fraternitie in 1995 and sent its first group to visit in 2000. He wasn't in that group, but joined the second trip in 2001.

but he's gone several times since, he said. He's now chair of the parish's Haiti Committee. Every time he's gone, he feels the conditions have gotten worse.

"Haiti's the most impoverished country in our hemisphere, and the problem is that, if you send money down, things are so bad [the middlemen] take care of themselves first ... and it never gets [to its intended recipients]," he said. "The circle has gotten tighter and tighter [for them]."

Run directly by the Missionary Oblates of St Mary Immaculate, the orphanage presently houses 16 boys and is led by Rev Fred Charpentier, originally from Woonsocket. LaFleche said it looks "like a prison," with concrete walls, but that's "for their security, not to keep them in."

"Our participation enables them to get an education where they probably would not, and gives them a chance at a functioning existence," he added, noting some of the boys from there have gone on to be businessmen, cops, and have families. "Without us, these kids would be on the streets."

Those attending the talent show should expect music, some from experienced performers (like Jim O'Brien of the Island Castaways and others), some from young people; a couple comedy skits; members of the Trinity Catholic choir and cheerleaders; and a clarinet/ sax duo, among others. Mass. activists promote nuclear ban treaty

BY GUS STEEVES

REGION — Last Sunday, the world saw an anniversary that mostly passed unheralded because the US government hasn't recognized it yet.

That date was the first anniversary of the fact the United Nations treaty banning all nuclear weapons and anything related to their production became international law. Honduras, the 50th nation to ratify it, did so Jan 22, 2022. Since then, a few dozen others have followed suit, but the list does not include any of the nine countries currently possessing nuclear weapons.

Some efforts do exist in Congress and the US public to push our government in this direction. One in the last session was H. Res 1185 by US Rep Jim McGovern calling on the president to "embrace the goals and provisions of the treaty" and the government and people to "lead a global effort to prevent nuclear war" by doing several things, including renouncing first use, ending the president's ability to launch an attack by himself, taking weapons off "hair-trigger alert," canceling the ongoing arsenal modernization plan, and "actively pursuing a verifiable agreement among nuclear-armed states to mutually eliminate their nuclear arse-

Other such bills included Rep Eleanor Norton's "Warheads to Windmills" bill, which demands shifting the funds from "the technology of extinction to other pressing needs," including climate, health care, housing, education and peace. (Norton was also a cosponsor or McGovern's bill, as was Rep Richard Neal.) Mass US Sen Ed Markey also proposed the "Smarter Approach to Nuclear Expenditures (SANE) Act, which would cancel or reduce nuclear weapons programs over the next decade," according to that bill's press release.

Bills for this year's session are now being filed and given numbers.

As Vicki Elson of Nuclear Ban US, one of the organizations behind the treaty's expansion, said "People are tired of messing around with partisan solutions. ... I don't think we have the time to spend on other measures" beyond a massive public push to get governments to abolish the Bomb.

Elson was one of several speakers at an online forum Sunday sponsored by the US Green Party headlined by Massachusetts resident and former Green presidential candidate Jill Stein. Stein recalled "growing up with 'duck and cover" and urged humanity to "get off that countdown [to doomsday]."

Stein noted that while many people are familiar with Hiroshima and Nagasaki, today's warheads are "several hundred times" more powerful and vastly more numerous. The US and Russia have about 2,450 operational warheads between them and more than 5,000 in storage, and she speculated they're targeting 10 or more on each major city in the other nation.

If used, she noted, "distance [from a target] should not be the comfort people once thought." As several fairly recent studies have shown, the fallout, postwar agricultural destruction leading to mass starvation, long term ecological destruction of nuclear winter and numerous toxins, and other after-effects of nuclear war will kill billions.

As fellow speaker Haig Hovaness stated, "Those living away from major cities will probably be worse off. They'll witness the disintegration of civilization."

"We need to pull back from these preconditions that are supercharging the nuclear threat," Stein said, pointing specifically to US policy of "full spectrum dominance," years of "dismantling treaties," pushing for expanding the arsenal, and NATO expansion into Eastern Europe (including the $115 billion so far allocated to the Ukraine War).

Regarding full-spectrum dominance, she described it as "appropriate for the bully in the school yard, but not appropriate for an interdependent world" with many global issues to solve. Regarding the treaties, she mentioned several that have been broken and the Non-Proliferation Treaty, which is still in force, but essentially being ignored. It calls on nuclear weapons states to "work to eliminate our weapons," but the US is dedicating $2 trillion over 30 years to updating and modernizing them instead, and the world has already spent more than $10 trillion on nukes since 1945, she said.

As a way to encourage public support for the Nuclear Ban Treaty, Veterans for Peace (VFP) is sailing around the US this year in its "Golden Rule Peace Boat," a renovated sailboat first taken to the Marshall Islands in protest of nuclear testing there from 1947-58. It's currently moving northward along the Florida coast, with plans to reach New England in May and June. Among its planned stops are Groton Naval Base, June 8-11; Providence, June 11-13; New Bedford, June 13-15; Plymouth, June 15-18; and Boston, June 18-21.

VFP's Helen Jaccard described the trip as "a big speaking tour by water," where the stops are aimed at eliminating funding for nukes and shifting it "to things that are life-affirming."

Cornerstone Bank commits $25,000 to Anna Maria College's 'Build Up, Rise High' campaign

WORCESTER — Cornerstone Bank, a community bank with 10 locations throughout Central Massachusetts, has committed $25,000 to Anna Maria College in Paxton for its "Build Up, Rise High" campaign. The funds will support the construction of an academic building dedicated to public safety and mental health, as well as the creation of an on-campus baseball and multi-purpose field. Cornerstone Bank will contribute $5,000 per year for five years as part of this endeavor.

"We're proud to support this vibrant, longstanding, local institution of higher learning," said Cornerstone Bank CEO Todd Tallman. "Anna Maria's plans will not only benefit its students but will also go a long way in serving our community, especially since so many alumni remain in Worcester County working in roles where they serve local populations."

The $12.5-million initiative includes construction of a new, 21,000-square-foot academic building with learning and observation spaces for research and teaching. It will be used by students entering high-demand fields—such as mental health, criminal justice, social work, and addiction and recovery—which are the most pressing priorities identified in a recent population-based assessment in the greater Worcester area. The building will also provide conference and lecture areas for students and the broader community.

"At Anna Maria, we have always been proud to prepare students with the career-ready skills they need to confidently enter the workforce and contribute to their communities," said Mary Lou Retelle, president of Anna Maria College. "Enhanced facilities will support our students' academic goals, helping them to acquire the skills, technical knowledge and compassion to make a real difference in the community and help us continue to attract top-notch faculty and field practitioners."

The "Build Up, Rise High" campaign will also fulfill a longstanding institutional promise to construct the first baseball and multi-purpose field on campus. This will help raise the college's profile amongst its competition in the NCAA Division III. This campaign will also make the school a more attractive choice for incoming students, improve scheduling and attendance of on-campus events and provide a richer experience for students and the surrounding community.

Beaver ponds "super important for biodiversity"

A screenshot of one of Mike Callahan's "beaver deceiving" flow devices in action.

BY GUS STEEVES CORRESPONDENT

REGION — If beavers aren't in a marsh near you, Beaver Institute founder Mike Callahan thinks they probably will be in the near future and is "working to promote coexistence."

Speaking to a recent Mass. Association of Conservation Commissions "lunch and learn," he said he still sees there can be conflicts between them and humans. but from an ecological point of view, beavers are critical for a whole host of reasons. Instead of trapping them, he strongly advocates four non-lethal ways of preventing their work from flooding roads and properties.

Beaver ponds are "super important for biodiversity" – "just as important for our native species as coral reefs and rainforests are for their native species," he said. They "really help with all those things" we're now seeing as impacts of climate change, by slowing down floods and wildfires, trapping toxins from fires, and serving as "oases of diversity" that promote recovery afterward.

The latter has been afactor in endangered species, too. Callahan noted Oregon is trying to create such ponds to provide places for coho salmon hatcheries. Although some people rip out beaver dams thinking they're impediments to salmon travel, they actually help the species (and others).

In New England, beavers "are pretty much in all the habitats they can be" now. That wasn't true in the 1930s, when the state started reintroduction programs, but since then, the mammals have found their way everywhere. In part, that's because any given pond will only be home to related beavers; strangers will get attacked. Even when it has multiple lodges, there's just one breeding female present, with the others being her kits or mate.

The conflict issues come largely from human development in floodplains clashing with the beavers' innate inclination to try to dam the sound of running water. That's where Callahan's emphasis on flow-control devices comes in; to him, they're the real long-term solution to suc conflicts.

There are four types: a flexible pond leveler for use through existing beaver dams and three for manmade features: a culvert fence, fence/pipe system and diversion dams. To the non-expert, they all look similar and use the same concept - distract the beaver from damming where the actual flow is by making them think its elsewhere, making damming difficult, or preventing them from reaching it. All of them work to keep the beaver pond intact, but prevent it from overflowing to damage nearby property.

The most common sites of problems are culverts. "That looks to beavers like a dam with a hole in it," he said. "They want to fix it." The cheapest and easiest method to address that is the fourth one, which local DPWs can build and maintain themselves. Callahan said it encourages the beavers to build their dam outside the culvert by forcing them to carry any material overland to get to the culvert itself. They generally don't like to do that, but "about one out of five times, you'll get a smarter than average beaver" who will.

Callahan said he'll only use trapping as "a last resort," in about a quarter of his cases. There are some situations where the other methods don't work or don't fit, such as in canals, drainage ditches and places needing high flow. In such places "we're going to be chasing them forever and I had to recommend trapping," he said. (The catch with that, though, is that if the place is good for beavers, new ones typically occupy it within a year or two, he noted.)

Often, beaver experts get called to address reservoirs, but Callahan said there's "not great science to trap" in such places. Not only do the beavers return, the claim they're disease threats isn't strong. Yes, he said, beavers can carry Giardia, which can cause treatable gastrointestinal illness in humans. But several other species do, too, including some that fly, like herons. Animals typically get it from humans via flooding septic systems or improperly-disposed campsite waste, and about a third of humans carry it without symptoms anyway, he said. Beavers are not a vector for rabies.

Callahan also noted the mosquito-spraying issue, saying beaver ponds are not good mosquito habitat. They're too deep; that fact usually means the insects' larvae have too many predators. Such insects favor shallow spots, including tires, slow streams, and gut-

"It's a common concern, but from my experience, doesn't need to be," he said.

QCC, Summit Campus offer neurodivergent students pathway to successful future

WORCESTER — Like many college freshmen, when Lauren Young enrolled at Quinsigamond Community College she wasn't sure about her professional goals, but knew she wanted to start a higher education journey. Young is a resident at Summit Campus, a residential community in Worcester for local college students with autism and other related diagnoses and like all residents there, identifies as neurodivergent. Young said the new experience of starting college was anxiety-inducing, but she found QCC to be a supportive environment and has embraced the challenge to become a successful student.

According to Summit Campus Director of Residence Life Nikki Koppel, living away from home for the first time, coupled with adjusting to college-level coursework, required the Summit Campus team to develop a strategic and intentional approach to Young's programming. QCC's Student Accessibility Services also provided guidance and facilitation to help Young access QCC's resources, such as its writing and math centers.

The math and English tutoring helped a lot. In English, I was expecting a B or even a C, but I ended up being surprised with an A," Young said.

After getting comfortable with college life,

Lauren could focus on exploring her academic and professional interests. It became clear that she was a visual and kinesthetic learner, with an affinity for cooking.

'In 2020, my mother started asking me to help with the cooking and I said, 'Absolutely!' This created a spark of inspiration," Young said. "(QCC Professor of Hospitality and Recreation Management) Pat Hutchinson and (QCC HRM Program Food Service Lab Site Supervisor) Matt Sullivan have been really helpful. They are so understanding if I need more time or accommodations. I also loved being in a commercial kitchen for the first time. I worked hard my first year, but now that I'm into something I'm passionate about, the hard work is just part of Encouraged by Summit and her SAS coordinator, Young said she has fully embraced life at QCC. She works out at the college's fitness center and joined the Gaming Club where she can meet with other people who enjoy one of her favorite video games, "Pokemon Violet." Young also mentioned that the size of the campus is perfect when you don't have a car, and while it was scary at first, she now uses the WRTA bus system to get around.

'Student Accessibility Services at QCC has a history and tradition of partnering with agencies throughout Central Massachusetts, and our relationship with Summit Campus is our newest collaboration. Summit Campus provides an experience for community college students that is unique to this region – a living environment with their peers where they can learn and be challenged.

We are fortunate to have Summit Campus close by. I hope the opportunity for students with autism to attend college and be independent, while key support is accessible when needed, will grow across the state. Summit Campus is a huge win for these students, QCC and the city," said QCC Director Student Accessibility Services Kristie Proctor.

"Summit is phenomenal and so is QCC," Young said, adding, "I've seen so much diversity here and everyone is really supportive. If something isn't work-

"Lauren is a true Summit Campus and QCC success story. She exemplifies our core belief that with the right supports, individuals can not only achieve their goals but exceed expectations. We are so proud of Young is on track to receive her certificate this May. She said she would like to continue going to school for more credentials or possibly jump right into employment so she can prepare to live on her own.

Southbridge Receiver/Superintendent meets with teachers to discuss district's future growth

Receiver/Superintendent Jeffrey A. Villar met with 14 teachers over lunch last Friday.

SOUTHBRIDGE — Southbridge Public Schools Receiver/ Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey A. Villar met with Advanced Teachers and Distinguished Early Career Educators recently to discuss the future of the district and ideas for growth.

Villar met with 14 teachers over lunch on Friday, Jan. 13 at Southbridge Middle High School. The group had an in-depth discussion on how best to serve students, as well as ways that the district can build upon a positive culture for all students, staff and community members, and increase staff retention.

The District is committed to working on the improvement areas discussed at the meeting, including increasing communication of initiatives and progress happening within specific schools and across the entire district, providing teachers with increased opportunities to participate in decision-making, and building upon the successful teacher induction program to provide support for teachers who are hired midyear.

'Hearing from our staff is extremely important to us. We value their opinions, feedback and time, and truly look forward to implementing their ideas as we all work toward Southbridge Public Schools' continued growth," Villar said.

The Distinguished Early Career Educator is a designation given to teachers who are in their first three years of teaching in the district and have achieved an exceptional level of growth within their profession. Advanced teachers are educators that have demonstrated outstanding instructional skills, a positive attitude, collaboration with peers, and a commitment to personal growth and student success. Teachers who receive these designations are identified by their building principal.

Draft of PD HVAC Upgrades nearly complete

BY JASON BLEAU CORRESPONDENT

CHARLTON — While the exact results of the study have yet to be presented, a recent review of the Charlton Police Department HVAC system has provided some cost estimates for the town to consider as officials seek to upgrade the existing facility.

Throughout the pandemic years, the town of Charlton has worked to assess and renovate specific aspects of the Charlton Police Department's headquarters on Masonic Home Road. This has included upgrading the roof and assessing the condition of the HVAC system. In the latter half of 2022 the town partnered with engineering consultants Tighe & Bond to draft and develop plans to improve the HVAC system. During the Board of Selectmen's first meeting of 2023 in early January, Town Administrator Andrew Golas provided a brief update that included a potential price tag for replacing the system.

"It's a 30-year-old system and kind of cobbled together with improvements over time," said Golas. "Tighe & Bond is evaluating three probable approaches to > upgrading the system. After review and discussion of the preliminary report the opinion of probable cost of the recommended upgrade will likely be in the range of $900,000."

Golas didn't specify what the three potential approaches were or how prices might change depending on the direction the town chooses to proceed. However, he explained that one possibility could include added costs. There is the consideration that the upgrades could trigger required ADA compliance upgrades and the installation of a sprinkler system which could include a yet-to-be-determined price of their own. Golas said estimates indicate these added costs could drive the price up 'threefold" if they are required.

The town is currently awaiting the final report from Tighe & Bond which will provide more specific details on pricing options for Charlton. The firm is expected to present its findings to the Board of Selectmen once they have completed their review, which is expected to include several alternative options for the town to consider.

Southbridge students to participate in senior internship education project

SOUTHBRIDGE — Superintendent/Receiver Jeffrey Villar is pleased to announce that 12 Southbridge students will participate in the High School Senior Internship Education Project run by MassHire.

The program's goal is to support the growth of the teacher pipeline in Massachusetts by providing students interested in a career in education with real-life experience working in an educational setting. The program also aims to increase diversity so that the future educator population is reflective of students in the state.

Starting this month, students will intern eight hours each week over the course of 23 weeks in the district's morning or afternoon tutoring programs or the 21st Century Program, an enrichment program that focuses on building English Language Arts and social-emotional learning skills. Students are paid through the program.

Students will interact with students, learn how to explain lessons by co-teaching with veteran teachers, supervise small groups of students and more.

"This is a fantastic opportunity for high school students with an interest in the educational sector to get hands-on, meaningful experience working with students. I know our student interns are looking forward to getting started on this project," Villar said.

ond item regarding actions/decisions/ minutes of meetings had a bit more to it. Golas said the recommendations changed or eliminated certain titles and bodies in the town hall.

"The bylaw advisory committee I don't believe is a standing committee anymore. The town accountant/finance services coordinator is now a finance director so we're making that change. EMS coordinator is no longer a separate appointed position," said Golas.
Selectmen approved these changes easily as well.

The next change involved agenda posting and sought to bring the town more in line with modern requirements in the wake of the COVID pandemic and the rise of online and remote meetings.

"When this was originally posted this was back before the town had adopted the online posting of meeting policy so I'm just updating it," said Golas.

The updates were approved by selectmen and ensure the town is in line with open meeting laws.

The final two items involved one policy being completely removed and a second being solidified as was written. The first was an air conditioner policy which, now that the town hall doesn't use removable air conditioners, was removed entirely. The second was an anti-idling policy with selectmen voted to reaffirm as it is required to comply with the Massachuetts Department of Energy Resources regulations as Charlton is a "green community."

member of her school community.

"Abbi Hill is a dynamic young woman who I'm convinced will be a welcome addition to college campuses of her choice," Lamarche said. "Abbi is an established Shepherd Hill student who consistently and continuously exhibits her potential for everything she wants to be. Abbi sets goals for herself and is determined to succeed. She has mature work ethic and is committed to meet all levels of achievement - Abbi is the top ranked student in the Class of 2023, but uniquely she is empowered to challenge life norms her aptitude.'

Lamarche called Hill as "capable academic scholar" complimenting her achievements in Advanced Placement studies in numerous subjects as well as recognition for her accomplishments as a Spanish language and mathematics student and a member of the National Honor Society. He concluded by noting that Hill has gone above and beyond as a cheerleading captain to help challenge the stereotypes of the sports and received recognition beyond the school as an all-star.

The Shepherd Hill Principals award was presented by Principal Darren C. Elwell, his first time honoring a student since he joined the district last summer. Elwell named Jacob Brodeur as the 2023 recipient commenting on his astounding 4.38 GPA and Brodeur's commitment to his community beyond the walls of Shepherd Hill.

"In addition to an impressive list of honors classes, Jacob has availed himself of a variety of rigorous Advanced Placement courses at Shepherd Hill Jacob is not averse to challenge," said Elwell later commenting of Brodeur's accomplishments beyond academics. "In the community, Jacob's work ethic and character are on full display through his involvement in the National Honor Society. As the current president of the Shepherd Hill Chapter, most recently Jacob spearheaded efforts to raise more than $3,000 as part of the annual Thanksgiving Food Drive providing more than 50 meals for local families and organizations. In addition. Jacob worked with his National Honor Society peers to collect toys for children in need in the local communities prior to the holidays and yet, somehow, Jacob still has some time left in his schedule to work toward the completion of his Eagle Scout project at the local YMCA."

Winter travel through the years

The first big storm of the season has come and gone, leaving us with anywhere from three to 12 inches of snow, depending on where you are. As with most things, we like to think about how our ancestors handled certain situations. It was during a snowy drive last winter that this writer became grateful for studded snow tires and heat. That experience prompted thoughts about how those who came before us dealt with travel during snowstorms. During the winter of 1717, a storm dumped four feet of snow, creating snowdrifts of up to 25 feet. Passing through the snow-covered roads was too much for a postman who traded his horse for a pair of snowshoes. Objects similar to skis were attached to carriages as a means of winter transportation. Streets had to be passable for wood and food deliveries. When the roads were not passable townspeople would gather together in large groups and dig out a path. The snow was placed into the back of a horse-drawn cart by gangs of men and driven to the closest river to be dumped. Salt was also used on streets, but many people complained because it ruined their shoes and clothes. Fast forward to 1840, when the first snowplow patent came to be. It wasn't until 1862 that the first snowplow was put into use. The plow was attached to a cart and pulled by a team of hors-Soon after, many cities began to use the horse-drawn snowplow. Typically, the use of the horse-drawn plow was only used to clear main streets, leaving side streets and sidewalks snowed in by large piles often blocking entrances to businesses. Many business owners actually brought lawsuits against the plowing companies as a result because their customers could not gain access to the storefronts. The solution to that conundrum, was the hiring of snow shovelers to accompany the plow. The blizzard of 1888, however, was too much for the "mod-ernized" plow, leaving many people trapped inside their homes. This emergency was the catalyst cities needed to begin coming up with a better plan for snow removal. One idea was to stay on top of the storm as it started, instead of waiting for it to end. Different men driving the plows were assigned to certain neighborhoods as well. The invention of the automobile brought with it a crutch and a new possibility as far as snow removal went. The crutch being that an entirely new method needed to be engineered and put into use. In New York, in 1913 a dump truck could be seen on city streets. Seven years later the first snow loader, came on to the scene. It had a big scoop with a conveyor belt. The snow would go into the scoop via the belt, then dumped into the back of the truck. From there, off to the river it went. It wasn't until 1959 when the weather was able to be predicted more accurately, allowing towns and cities to better prepare for any incoming storms. Reading old diaries of our New England ancestors gives the perfect window as to what it was like to experience a bitter cold winter, prior to modern practices. A shining example is the quote below from literary critic Van Wyck Brooks. "All praise to winter, then, was Henry's feeling. Let others have their sultry luxuries. How full of creative genius was the air in which these snow-crystals were generated. He could hardly have marveled more if real stars had fallen and lodged on his coat. What a world to live in, where myriads of these little discs, so beautiful to the most prying eye, were whirled down on every traveler's coat, on the restless squirrel's fur and on the far-stretching fields and forests, the wooded dells and mountain-tops, --these glorious spangles, the sweepings of heaven's floor.' — The Flowering of New England, 1815-1865

From slave to hero

In 1748, James Armistead was born into the world, and his life was far from ordinary. James was born into slavery, belonging to the Armistead family, a well-established and prominent family in Virginia who owned a vast plantation and many different businesses. Little did they know, this enslaved man would become one of the greatest Positively American heroes ever. Amidst the darkness of slavery, James learned to read and write, unlike many of his fellow enslaved people. James's ability to read and write was invaluable as the Revolutionary War was heating up and would prove to be the key that unlocked his path to freedom.

By 1781, the colonies were amid a fierce war for independence against England.

The British, led by the infamous Lord Cornwallis and his army of redcoats, were making devastating raids and attacks on the Continental Army and their cities. Under the command of General George Washington, the colonies fought bravely alongside their French allies, but it seemed as though victory was slipping from their grasp.

To turn the tide of the war, Washington sent the Marquis De Lafayette from France to reinforce the Continental Army's position in Virginia. Lafayette, a seasoned military leader, knew that the Continental Army alone was no match for British forces; he had to think outside the box.

Although enslaved people weren't allowed to fight, Lafayette recruited James; he was determined to utilize every advantage and was eager to learn more about the enemy's plans.

Together they devised a plan to infiltrate the British camp and gather vital information from within. James knew the stakes were high and was willing to take the risk.

James posed as a runaway slave and offered his services to Cornwallis, desperate for a chance to serve the British army, and Cornwallis believed him.

Day after day, as he served dinner to Lord Cornwallis and his generals, he gained their trust and listened in on their secret plans. With every word, he memorized their strategies, studied their maps, and learned their procedures. He was like a fly on the wall, unnoticed but always present, always listening.

Cornwallis and his generals had no idea that the servant before them was not just an enslaved man but a spy working for the Continental army.

As the war was getting closer to the climax, The Battle of Yorktown, every piece of information James gathered was crucial for the Patriots to win. He was determined to help win the war and secure his freedom.

He provided the Marquis with detailed information about the location and strength of British troops, their supply lines, and plans for escape or reinforcement. Armed with this information,

The Marquis launched a bloody siege against the British army in Yorktown. The siege lasted for several weeks, as the Continental Army and the French allies bombarded the British positions with artillery.

The Patriots could anticipate the British's every move and turn the tide of the battle. Defeated, Cornwallis surrendered, and the Battle of Yorktown was over.

James's bravery and dedication to the cause of freedom for himself and our nation played a vital role in the defeat of the British.

This victory may have never been possible without James's bravery and dedication as a double agent. His actions as a spy during the war were instrumental in securing freedom for the colonies and served as a powerful example of resistance against slavery and oppression.

He defied the notion that enslaved people were merely passive victims and showed that they, too, could actively fight for their liberation.

Some believe that James and the Marquis kept in touch. Fifty years later, when The Marquis was on a rockstar tour of American Cities, almost 100,000 showed up to see him; James was there and was embraced by the Marquis as a hero while the crowds roared with approval. James took the last name Lafayette in honor of his relationship with the Marquis de Lafayette.

James Armistead Lafayette's story remained largely unknown for many decades. It was in the 20th century that historians began to acknowledge his role in the war and his significance as a symbol of courage, determination, and resilience.

Although he's no longer here, I wish to say to James, "Thank you for your service.

Can you reduce the Medicare surcharge?

FINANCIAL Focus

TREVOR NIELSEN

Before you turn 65, you'll want to become familiar with Medicare's rules and features. And if you're a high earner, you'll want to be especially aware of the Medicare premium surcharge because, over time, it can add up to some significant dollars.

The premium surcharge — known as the income related monthly adjustment amount, or IRMAA — is assessed on premiums for Medicare Parts B and D, and generally is based on an individual's modified adjusted gross income (MAGI) of two years ago. So, the IRMAA for 2023 would be based on one's MAGI from 2021.

For someone who's married and files taxes jointly, and whose MAGI for 2021 was $194,000 or less, the Part B premium for 2023 will be $164.90 per month, and the Part D premium will be whatever amount is charged by their Medicare plan. But if their 2021 MAGI was between $194,000 and $246,000, they'll pay $230.80 (a surcharge of $65.90) for Part B and an additional $12.20 for Part D. And the IRMAA rises at different income levels, reaching a maximum of $560.50 (a surcharge of $395.60) for Part B and an additional $76.40 for Part D for a MAGI of $750,000 or more.

If you're unprepared for the IRMAA, it can be an unpleasant surprise. So, if you've still got a few years until you enroll in Medicare, you may want to look for ways to control your MAGI and possibly limit the surcharge.

Here are a few suggestions:

Contribute to a Health Savings Account (HSA). If you have access to a Health Savings Account (HSA), your contributions will reduce your taxable income, helping you on the IRMAA issue. Furthermore, any investment growth within your HSA is tax free, as are withdrawals for qualified medical expenses, which can include Medicare premiums, deductibles and copays.

Contribute to a Roth IRA. Roth IRA withdrawals are tax free, provided you don't start taking them until you're 59 and a half and you've had your account at least five years. These tax-free withdrawals can enable you to avoid taking taxable withdrawals from other accounts, which may help you avoid an increase in your IRMAA.

Consider a Roth IRA conversion. You could convert some, or perhaps all, the assets of a traditional IRA into a Roth IRA. But you'll need to consider the impact of taxes — any deductible contributions to your traditional IRA and the earnings generated by these contributions will be fully taxable the year of the conversion, so you'll want to have funds outside your IRA available to pay these taxes. Also, timing is important to be on the safe side, you might want to complete the Roth conversion three or more years before you enroll in Medicare, so the conversion and the likely increase in your MAGI won't increase the IRMAA. Manage your withdrawal rate -Taking large withdrawals from your retirement accounts can bump up your MAGI bracket and your IRMAA. So, as you near retirement, you'll want to establish a sustainable withdrawal rate one that provides you the income you need but without going overboard.

While these moves could potentially help you control the Medicare surcharge, they still must make sense for your overall financial strategy. It's obviously desirable to keep the surcharge as low as you can — but it's even more important to take the steps necessary to reach your financial goals.

Grow a beautiful indoor succulent garden

It's no surprise that succulents, including cacti, are popular. These easycare houseplants come in a variety of colors, shapes, and sizes making them perfect for any home. All you need is a lot of light and benign neglect to raise healthy and beautiful succulents. Place the plants near an unobstructed south-, west- or east-facing window.

Don't let a lack of light stop you from enjoying these beautiful plants in your home. You'll find many attractive options for displaying your plants while providing the light they need. A single desktop LED plant light, attractive plant light shelves and carts, and furniture-grade light gardens allow you to grow these sun-lovers anywhere in your home.

Grow these plants in cacti and succulent potting mix. These fast-draining mixes help reduce the risk of overwatering which can lead to root rot. Further reduce this risk by using containers with drainage holes that are only slightly larger than the succulents' root system. Growing them in too large of a container that retains moisture longer can result in root rot, decline, and even the death of your plants.

Water thoroughly whenever the top inch or two of soil is dry. Some gardeners check the soil moisture at the drain hole to ensure it is dry and the plants need to be watered. Always pour off any excess water that collects in the saucer.

Avoid water collecting in the rosette of leaves or the cluster of prickly stems that can lead to crown rot. Use a watering can like the Haws Indoor Watering Can which has a long narrow spout that allows you to reach under the plants to water just the soil.

Make slight adjustments in your watering regime and growing environment as the seasons change. Adapting to changing conditions will keep your plants healthy and looking their best vear-round.

Find a cool, sunny, draft-free location for your cacti and succulents in the fall and winter. Maximize the amount of light the plants receive by moving them to the sunniest, usually south-facing, window in your home. Water thorough-

Many people are happy with this winter's almost snowless season, but Ice fishing anglers are not happy about the absence of safe ice to fish on. The long range forecast is not looking good for ice fishing locally, but a couple of anglers packed their gear and

The Mass, bear season ended with 223 bear being harvested during the three season hunt. Most bear were harvested in the western part of the state. It seems a bit low from the previous few years. The results of the 2021 deer season in Mass. pertaining to the Covid testing done at local stations, showed that 28 percent of the deer tested positive. The results of the 2022 deer harvest in Mass, has not been released as of this writing, but should be available any day now. There sure was a lot of big bucks taken this year.

Local clubs are planning their wild game suppers. A few clubs will not be having a game supper this year, but the Whitinsville Fish & Game club announced Feb. 18 for this year's big day. Only a few club founders remain, as most have passed on, but are remembered by the new members every day they hunt & fish on the property, or they trap shoot, use the pistol range, archery range etc.! The founders of most Rod & Gun clubs had the vision to acquire open space and develop it by building Club houses, trout ponds, ranges, that in today's world would almost be impossible. Back in the '50's and '60's, numerous opportunities to buy open space for back taxes, and could be bought for $1,000 per 100 acres or more. The Whitinsville Fish & Game club and the Blackstone valley Beagle Club land were a couple of clubs that purchased acreage for back taxes. Today, these two clubs are enjoying their property and all of the hunting and fishing activities that were left for future generations. Every time new members join one of these clubs, they should remember all of the hard work that was done by previous members.

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club also had members that had the foresight to buy land and build a clubhouse and all of the things that sportsmen need to have. There is little or no land

Annual Cold/Flu Review

It's flu season and time for the annual cold/flu facts column. Read on to review symptom checkers to ID your ailment, along with some natural and proactive methods you can employ to increase your odds of staying healthy this season.

TAKE THE HINT KAREN TRAINOR

Cold or Flu? You know you're sick, but not sure how sick. Is it a common cold or the dreaded flu? Symptoms can be similar at the beginning of the infection. Since colds and flu are often treated differently, it's important to identify the illness.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), a cold is a milder respiratory ailment that has symptoms that last a few days; the flu can last weeks and result in such serious health problems as pneumonia. While a stuffy nose and aches and pains are symptoms typically present in both colds and flu a temperature reading can often differentiate the two. A common cold rarely causes a temperature to reach over 101 degrees. Also, body aches are much more common with the flu virus.

Cold Symptoms: Symptoms usually begin with sore throat, runny nose followed by congestion and cough. Mucus may become thicker and darker. A slight fever is possible. Cold symptoms usually last for about a week. During the first three days that you have cold symptoms, you are contagious.

Flu Symptoms: Flu symptoms usually come on quicker than cold symptoms are typically more severe. They can include a sore throat, (sometimes hacking) cough, congestion, accompanied by headache, fatigue, chills and fever 102 to 104 degrees. Most symptoms improve in about five days, but fatigue can linger on for a week or more. The flu virus can be contagious from the day before the onset of the virus up to a week

How Colds & Flu are spread: Cold and flu viruses are spread when an infected person releases germs in the air via coughing, sneezing and close contact. Cold and flu viruses can live for hours on surfaces such as telephones, desks, door knobs, etc.

The flu is highly contagious as an infected person can spread flu germs a day before symptoms appear and can remain contagious for up to a week later. Studies show children with the flu virus can be contagious for over a week after onset. A person with a cold or flu is most contagious the first three days of infection, when the virus is most concentrated in nasal secretions. To prevent spreading the flu virus to co-workers and the public in general, the CDC recommends that people with flu stay home for 24 hours after their fever breaks.

Home Remedies: The following remedies are effective "first step" treatments to cold and flu. Symptoms that last more than a few days or become severe should be checked by a physician.

*A hot bath can be a powerful cold chaser and in Chinese medicine very hot baths are used to "sweat" out a cold at its earliest stages. To kick up the detox power of a bath, add a few drops of eucalyptus, rosemary or thyme essential oils to the water.

Note: Check with your doctor before taking a hot bath if you are pregnant, diabetic, have heart disease or other complications.

*Giving colds a two step punch with a double dose of ginger and lemon can relieve cold and flu symptoms. Adding ginger and lemon to a hot cup of tea not only soothes the throat, but ginger's antimicrobial properties and lemon's vitamin C help fight the bug. To break up mucus, add a pinch of cayenne pepper to the hot tea.

Or try this recipe from Food Network to relieve cold and flu ailments: Combine in a mug: the juice of half a lemon, a quarter size piece of fresh ginger, two teaspoons of honey, and 3/4 cup of boiling water. Allow to steep for at least three minutes. Add dark rum if desired.

* It's true that chicken broth can offer cold and flu sufferers relief, but did you know it's the bone broth from the homemade brew that provides much of the healing power? Broth made from boiling bones (for about 12 hours for maximum benefit) offers magnesium, sulfur, phosphorus and other trace minerals that are easily absorbable not always readily available.

Whether you like it hot or cold, a compress applied to sinuses can relieve congestion quickly. A freeze pack (or bag of frozen vegetables) works as a cold pack on the sinus area to decrease symptoms. Or, heat up a wet facecloth in the microwave (not to hot) and apply across the bridge of the nose for similar relief.

*While there's no cure for the common cold some ods appear to reduce susceptibility to catching or at least reduce the severity of the symptoms. Foods containing beta-carotene, vitamin C, and zinc have shown to have immune repairing and boosting properties. Research suggests that zinc (which is in many over the counter products to prevent colds) can work to reduce the duration and severity of a cold. But it is only effective if it's started early, at the very first signs of illness.

Weathering storms, winning quarters enough for Warriors to defeat Leicester

Tantasqua's Kelsie Wotton takes and makes a 3-pointer.

STURBRIDGE — To the Leicester High girls' varsity basketball team's credit, they continued to go on runs and cut into Tantasqua Regional's lead. But, to the Warriors' credit, they never let the Wolverines' runs get too large and always maintained their aforementioned advantage.

The Warriors won every quarter by a slim margin — 13-10 in the first, 19-16 in the second, 17-15 in the third, 7-5 in the fourth — as they defeated Leicester, 56-46, back on Thursday, Jan.

Tantasqua jumped out to an 8-1 lead, but the Wolverines ended the frame on a 9-5 run to head into the second quarter down by just three.

Then, in the second, after the Warriors scored the first five points, Leicester netted the next seven to make it a onepoint game at 18-17.

The Wolverines were never able to get closer than that, though.

But the game remained entertaining throughout, and the top two performers of the evening

Tantasqua's Gabby Scanlon and Leicester's Sarah O'Connor — put on a show to close out the half. First, with 8 seconds to go, Scanlon (20 points) went coastto-coast for a traditional three-point play. Then, before the buzzer sounded, O'Connor banked in a 3-pointer from well past NBA distance.

Haley heaped plenty of praise on Scanlon, and Barry showed tough love while also being proud of O'Connor's performance.

"Gabby's having a great year. She gets to the free throw line, she makes good passes, she'll get a stop on defense.

She's the one that will get a nice drive to the basket, an and-one, and the bench will get hyped and it kind of picks us back up," Haley said of Scanlon. "She definitely is the leader on the floor."

"Sarah is a pleasure to coach. When she goes off like that, she's fun to watch," Barry said of O'Connor, who poured in a career high 27 points and also grabbed 10 rebounds. "She's accepted my coaching that I can push her as much as possible so that she can be the best player that she can be.'

Tantasqua's slim third and fourth quarter victories ensured that the Warriors won their eighth straight game. They are now 8-1.

'I think the toughest part of our season is definitely ahead of us,' Haley said of the difficult road ahead before postseason play. "We should be there, I don't want to jinx it, and those games will get us ready.' The Wolverines dropped to 2-8, but hope is not lost for Barry. "I think we're better than 2-8. For the first time I put the pressure on the girls and said, 'we've got to win two games next week.' We have to," he said.

Leicester's game with Southbridge High was scheduled for Monday, Jan. 23, but was postponed due to inclement weather. The Wolverines were then set to match up with Oxford High on Wednesday, Jan. 25, after press time.
