Moonlight Program

hosting Child Safety Fair

& Open House April 10

UPTON — The Moonlight Program in Practical Nursing (Post-Secondary) will host a Child Safety Fair and Open House on Thursday, April 10, at Blackstone Valley Regional Vocational Technical High School at 65 Pleasant St. in Upton. The nursing students and staff invite you to join them for a fun, informative evening on safety awareness, followed by the annual Practical Nursing Open House for adults interested in

The Child Safety Fair will run from 3 to 6 p.m. in the cafe annex. Nursing students will provide parents, children, and attending families with information and resources to help keep children safe in and outside the home. They will also offer engaging presentations and demonstrations on bicycles, car/booster seats, fire, backyard/playground, and water safety. The free event includes fun activities to engage children and help them learn about safety. Meet your Upton police/firefighter/EMTs, an interactive vehicle display, and more.

WEST BOYLSTON Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis is pleased to announce the recent round of sergeant promotions at the Worcester County Sheriff's Office.

These new sergeants will assume greater responsibilities at the Worcester County Jail and House Correction. Among those promoted from the rank of officer to sergeant are Grafton's Patrick Germain and Richard Vincuilla, Shrewsbury's Mason Serratore, and Whitinsville's Courtney Powers.

As sergeants, these individuals will be responsible for commanding and supervising the officers and staff under their charge. They will also oversee the care, custody, and control of inmate activities, ensuring the safety of both staff and inmates.

"Promotions at the Worcester County Sheriff's Office are awarded to individuals who demonstrate exceptional merit, a strong work ethic, and unwavering dedication to their duties," stated Evangelidis. "This group has shown themselves to be leaders during Sgt. Richard Vincuilla (left) and Sheriff Lew Evangelidis (right).

their time with the sheriff's office. I look forward to seeing these sergeants take on their new roles, mentor newer staff, and fulfill the sheriff's office mission for the residents of Worcester County."

The Worcester County Jail and House of Correction is responsible for pre-trial detainees and inmates sentenced to two and a half years or less.

The facility can accommodate over 1,000 inmates and is in West Boylston. Additionally, the sheriffs office operates community centers in Fitchburg, Worcester, and Webster.

Come GRAFTON Grafton High School students' artwork at Small Stones Festival of the Arts' exhibit in the Wheelock Historic Reading Room, at the Grafton Public Library, 35 Grafton Common, through March 27. The free exhibit is open during library hours.

Carolyn Kinloch-Winkler, co-chair of the festival and committee member Jen Behymer worked with GHS art teachers Nathan DiPerri and Lisa Kittredge to create the event to celebrate Youth Art Month with the assistance of library director Tom O'Connell. Behymer and Bonnie Fredrico, who are fine art educators, artists and committee members juried the exhibit with the help of Mads Otis, a Massachusetts College of Art student.

Kinloch-Winkler presented ribbons and cash awards. The winning artists included Emma Zaleski, first place for "The Owl," a graphite and white gel pen drawing; Bailey Barnhill, second place for "Holding On!!," a fabric and thread artwork and Tiffany Romero, third place for Nostalgia, a colored pencil and marker drawing.

Juror choice awards were given to Abigail Phoenix for "Boston," a colored pencil, marker and acrylic drawing and Sarah Thackaberry for ".*.+Sparkle+.*.," alcohol marker and plastic beads illustration.

Many people from Grafton and other towns visited the Festival's seventh annual exhibit of juried fine art and photography held in

Local Realtor® rallies community to support troops and veterans with supply drive

FRANKLIN — In a heartfelt effort to give back to those currently serving, or have served, our country, Kellie Dow, a dedicated real estate professional with RE/ MAX Executive, organized a successful drive to collect essential supplies needed. The "Show Your Love" initiative ran from Feb. 1-28, and gathered a generous outpouring of goods from community members eager to show their cal, and academic skills.

Recognizing the sacrifices made by service members, Kellie Dow partnered with Thanks to Yanks to ensure that the items collected, such as hygiene products, non-perishable snacks, coffee, playing cards and more, will be delivered directly to those overseas, and our veterans at home. "The response from

Electric vehicle mandate at issue in local budgeting

BY GUS STEEVES CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE - In the course of this year's prebudget sentation March 4, Town Administrator Robin Grimm brought up an issue that will likely affect all area communities.

Starting with model year 2026 (that is, later this year), the state is requiring many municipal trucks be electric. Her budget seeks to buy a new truck this year for the DPW (plus ambulance) and has others upcoming for future years.

The problem, she and others noted, is that "the technology has not caught with what they're needed for. Towns generally lack the infrastructure run them or store them indoors, and they don't run well in winter.

"The vehicles themselves are not ready to handle the kinds of storms where we're out 45-50 hours (for plow-Grimm ing), said. "You have to take them off the road earlier, and that means you need more trucks."

For though, she's aiming to get in line to buy one of the remaining diesel trucks, and will keep the old one it replaces instead of selling it at auction. said Sturbridge is lucky to have an early Special Town Meeting (the same night as the annual in April), since it might enable the town to get its order in before communities who have to wait for next year's budget to start in July. Finance Director Barbara agreed. Barry saying Mass Municipal Association "is working to get require-(this delayed ment) because of the Robin issues said." So did Finance Committee chair Kevin Smith. who said, "Even though we're mandated to buy them, they don't exist." Another speaker predicted the Legislature will end up delaying the rule.

On Nov MMA'sWeb site noted the state already has delayed it once: it was slated to start last year. It's online written requests at https://www. mma.org/massdep-adjustsemissions-rulesfor-mediumand-heavy-dutytrucks/.

" MassDEP announced that it will exercise enforcement discretion exempt vehicles purchased by state and local agencies for snow plowing, removsnow al, and street sweeping purposes from ACT manufacturer compliance requirements for model years 2025 and 2026," MMA stated. "... State and local government agencies must submit MassDEP to and manufacturers or their authorized dealerships detailing the make, model, model vear, and number of vehicles to be purchased. MassDEP will make a determination as to whether enforcement discretion is allowable for proposed the purchase, and will communicate its decision to the requesting agency and the manufacturer."

same page notes, "In Massachusetts, for model year 2025, the rule requires percent (Zero Emission Vehicle) sales in classes 2b-3, 11 percent in classes 4-8; and 7 percent for tractors classes 7-8." According Wikipedia, "light Class 2b duty" starts at 8501 pounds; Classes 3-6 "medium duty" run from 10,001-26,000 pounds; and Classes 7-8 "heavy duty" are up to 80,000 pounds.

The

Grimm said that issue is just one this year's budget faces. Fiscally, the town is looking at a retirement system hike of 16.7 percent, plus a health insurance hike averaging 16.1 percent over last year's rise (9.9 percent for active employbut more ees. than 20 percent retirees).

The total budincrease get this year about $1.5 million, 45 percent of it "for those uncontrollable costs," she said. General government salaries, by contrast, make 12 percent of the increase, although they're only rising 2 percent.

Grimm said Sturbridge "is not a big enough pool to take the risk of self-insuring," but she wants to look into plan changes and may consider bidding out insurance next year, depending on union negotiations. At the same time, state aid is only rising percent. 0.6 and she noted Sturbridge only gets the minimum for education aid ($100 per pupil). Overall, department requests exceeded income proiections by about $815,000, and required that and Grimm Barry to do some things they said they normally do not want to do to balance the budget. Among them are cutting two part-time eliminatjobs, ing two cruisers (they'll buy one with free cash), buying a bus with free cash, cutting police and fire overtime. She's also seeking to buy ambulance with Ambulance Stabilization funds and free cash, and she noted the fire department is already seeking two major vehicles next year. Some other changes shitted certain costs into revolving funds that had been in the general budget the landfill). Regarding free cash usage, Smith objected, noting that's essentially using it "to pay operating expenses

health department, regarding

budget." Grimm agreed, saying she'd rather have things like cruisers in the budget because they're regular needs. Many towns do use free cash for such purchases, but the amount of free cash varies annually.

added She that part of this year's budgeting issue is the fact it's earlier. The state has "no urgency to have a budget balanced and out to us," and sometimes doesn't even approve one until the fall. (Towns usually base theirs on the Governor's proposal, because it comes out fairly early in January.)

"We're not in distress, iust not in as good a shape as we've been," she said. "... We don't feel good about how we had to do it, but we held the line," noting the actual budget increase is the same as last year's, 3.6 percent.

One concern going forward, though, is that hotel/motel and food taxes have basically been "flat for years" excluding covid, Grimm added. The town has largely built-out its commercial zone and has shown no interest in multiple such areas, so there's "not a lot of places for major commercial/industrial growth" and only a little population growth.

Smith. To "We're getting close to spending more than we earn. This year. we're covering it ... but it seems we're at that tipping point" if costs keep rising. He noted a 3.6 percent budget hike isn't bad, but "we're not getting 3.6 percent increase in revenue." Gus Steeves can be reached at gus.steeves2@ gmail.com.

Notable events that make spring even more fun

Spring is widely considered a season of rejuvenation. The warmer post-winter air that is a hallmark of spring certainly adds an extra hop to the steps of millions of people each year, but a number of notable events also lend a festive feel to this beloved time of year.

St. Patrick's Day: Though the holiday itself occurs on one of the final days winter, Patrick's Day celebrations tend take place throughout the month of March. Many communities host St. Day Patrick's parades after the spring equinox, and celebrations of the patron saint of the Emerald Isle have a reputation for being especially convivial. A St. Patrick's Day celebration at a local Irish pub featuring live music and food that would be at home on any dinner table in Ireland can mark the perfect way to close out winter and usher in spring.

March Madness: Basketball fans get their fix and then some each March, when the 68-team, single-elimi-NCAA nation Tournament tips off. Affectionately known as March Madness, the colbasketball lege tournament that unfolds over three weeks from mid-March to early April features its fair share of buzzer beaters, upsets and, of course, busted brackets. Regional contests ensure that just evervone about across the United States is within driving distance of the exciting, maddening,

· Major League Baseball Opening Day: Another hallmark of early spring, Opening Day of the baseball season embodies the seasonal spirit of rejuvenation. Baseball fans across the globe know that every team has a chance come Opening Day, when millions of fans return to stadiums to see their favorite teams kick off the six-month campaign. Spring flower festivals: Spring festivals flower dot the landscape every year. Many occur between mid-March and mid-April and serve as beautiful, awe-inspiring reminders of the blooms that make spring such a colorful and enjoyable time of year. Kentucky

Derby: The annual "Run for the Roses" is held on the first Saturday in May and attracts more than 100,000 visitors to the race track at Churchill Downs. Often referred to as "The Fastest Two Minutes in Sports," the Kentucky Derby serves as the first leg of the Triple Crown and inspires men to don their best seersucker suits and women to showcase their most elaborate, and typically largest, hats as they sip a mint julep and watch the thrilling race

EDITORIAL This moment will never come again It's easy to rush through the day, to get caught up in schedules, responsibilities, and the endless loop of what's next. But the moment vou are in right now will never happen again. It will pass, just like all the ones before it, and once it's gone, you don't get it back.

We think we have time. But the truth is, life isn't a dress rehearsal. This is it. The way you show up today, the way you treat people, the way you spend your time, it all matters, because every single second is a version of life you'll never live again.

Some moments seem small standing in line at the store, a conversation with a friend, a quiet drive home. But even that matters. Every interaction, every choice, every seemingly unremarkable moment adds up to the story of your life. Are you making it a story you'll be proud of?

It's not about perfection, it's about presence. It's about choosing to be where you are, instead of always looking ahead to where you think you should be. It's about speaking up when something needs to be said, reaching out when someone needs you, and appreciating the good that exists right now even if it's not the moment you expected.

If today were the last time you had this exact moment, how would you show up for it? Would you listen more? Laugh harder? Say the thing you've been holding back? Would you let the small stuff go and focus on what actually matters?

The seconds are already slipping by. Make them count.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Jeers and more jeers

To the Editor:

Tuesday's State of the Union will undoubtedly go down as the worst display of human behavior from the shameless Democrats in history.

First, you have Al Green, the U.S. Representative from Texas's Ninth Congressional District, who isn't even a native of Texas and was born in New Orleans, La. Al Green is attempting to disrupt President Trump's SOTU (State of The Union) address. Green is screaming things like," You have no mandate over Medicare" and yelling that he's in the process of "starting impeachment proceedings" against our newly elected President. Speaker Mike Johnson warned him twice that if he didn't stop, that he would be removed from the chamber, and the rest is history. Al Green has been censured by the Republicans, along with ten Democrats who finally see the light. A group of conservative lawmakers plans to file a measure to strip Congressman Green of his committee assignments. Democrats themselves are downright angry at Green's antics because in their eyes, they wanted all the negative focus to be on Trump, but after this spectacle, there's no going back. Way to go, Al Green.

Democrats refused to validate two mothers who lost their children to illegal immigrants under the Biden Fiasco, and if that's not enough proof that the Democrats are poison, they wouldn't even stand and applaud for a young cancer survivor. This courageous young man who fought off brain cancer wants to be a police officer when he is old enough, and in addition, President Trump made this kid a Secret Service Officer to keep his dream alive. And what did the Democrats do to honor this young man? Nothing. Can any Democrat

tell me why the Democrats have an axe to grind with this child? The Democrats were as stubborn as their mascot the donkey, a.k.a. the mule and this display is going to hurt them for a long time. When President Trump said, "There are only two genders," Democrats booed and waved their pocket signs. When Trump declared that there would be no more reassignment surgeries for underage children, the Democrats booed.

Trump announced that Woke ideologies are over... Democrats booed. Bringing jobs back to America, strengthening our economy, cutting the fat at the federal level, exposing the climate change scam and ditching the ridiculous Green New Deal, and the Paris Accord are top prior-the Democrats just booed.

Well, the SOTU was a complete bust because of the Democrats. Trump was very composed and had quite a few zingers which only seem to further infuriate the Democrats. One of my favorite lines from Trump was, "It turns out that this country doesn't need a new legislature, just a new president!" and the place went wild. Trump even called out Elizabeth Warren, who was agreeing that there should be more money and five more years of war in Ukraine, and Trump retorted, "I thought you'd like that, Pocahontas." President Trump and his Cabinet want peace abroad and to make this country great again and so do millions of people who voted for him. After Trump's term, I am looking forward to voting for JD Vance or any other Republican willing to stick his or her neck out for this country. I love this country, and I am tired of the people who just want to see it burn to the ground. If a Democrat were in the driver's seat right now, what would we be enduring?

I can answer that, but I won't until this gets printed in the Tribune. Until then.

What were Dems thinking?

ities for the Trump administration, but

To the Editor:

This letter may not uniquely describe March 5, but merits writing anyway. Dems were not thinking about upholding 'tradition' or engaging in 'common courtesy.' For those needing a social etiquette primer, it is 'tradition' for a bi-partisan group to escort the President of the United States to the rostrum, welcoming him to Congress. Further, standing and applauding is a 'common courtesy' extended out of respect for the "Office of the President," regardless of occupant's party! None of that occurred. Instead, Dems refused 'escort duty' as others remained seated, stone-faced with hands tightly clasped. Adding insult, Congressman Al Green (D-Texas) rudely heckled the President with shouts and cane-shakes, requiring removal (and later censure). Outside the Chamber's 'political bubble,' do other Democrats take pride in having their party's churlish behavior witnessed worldwide?

Bad behavior persisted while accomplishments of the administration's first weeks were listed. There was no applause; only protesting, placard-wielding, pink-suited Dem ladies. But surely, some items, many supported overwhelmingly by voters, deserved a modicum of hand-smacking! Nov. 5 validated a desire to solve long-standing problems; so such childish antics are unlikely to advance that goal. Meanwhile, how can we maintain a country if we can't live peacefully with our neighbors and distrust our institutions?

The President's earlier prediction proved true: nothing he says or does will ever cause Dems to smile or applaud. Sadly, the piece de resistance of heartless disrespect unfolded when Dems dehumanized special guests being introduced. Not to applaud or even stand was inexcusable. So come 26, remember that image of the Dems. These are our elected officials refusing to acknowledge their fellow Americans, example, those families of victims killed by illegals; a slain police officer's son admitted to West Point; champions of no-men-in-women's-sports; a 13-year old brain cancer survivor inducted into the Secret Service. Neither could Dems bring themselves to applaud proposals for permanent tax cuts for everyone and no tax on tips. All telling reasons why they lost in November!

Admittedly, it is nice having Republicans (adults) in charge now, but I hope the Dems start working with the majority soon... and stop those cringe-worthy TikTok 'fight' videos. The 'fight' is too serious; the country can 'afford' to wait no longer.

Crabmeat and Artichoke Mock

Casserole Rich, filling and delicious, this recipe, making the rounds on the internet, is a five star favorite! Ingredients: 8 ounces uncooked small

Still searching for creative and tasty shell pasta; 2 tablespoons butter; 6 green onions, chopped; 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour; 1 cup half-and-half; 1 teaspoon dry mustard; ½ teaspoon ground red pepper; salt and black pepper; ½ cup shredded Swiss cheese, divided; 1

> (8 ounce) package imitation crabmeat, chunks; 1 (14 ounce) can artichoke hearts, drained and cut into bite-size pieces

Directions: Preheat oven to 350. Cook pasta according to package directions; drain and set aside. Melt butter in large saucepan over medium heat; add green onions. Cook and stir about 2 minutes. Add flour, cook and stir two minutes more. Gradually add half-andhalf, whisking constantly until mixture begins to thicken. Whisk in mustard and red pepper; season to taste with salt and black pepper. Remove from heat and stir in 1/4 cup cheese until melted. Combine crabmeat, artichokes and pasta in a buttered two quart casserole. Add sauce mixture and stir until blended. Top with remaining 1/4 cup cheese. Bake about 40 minutes or until hot, bubbly and lightly browned.

Simple Soufflé This souffle uses canned soup as a shortcut, but it still tastes impressive

Note: If you object to canned soups, you can make homemade condensed cream of celery soup with celery, onion, flour, butter, vegetable stock, s & p. Recipes are easy to find online.

Ingredients: One (10 3/4 oz) can of condensed Cream of Celery Soup (or homemade); 1 cup sharp cheddar cheese, grated; 3 eggs, separated Directions: Mix together soup and cheese in a saucepan and heat slowly until cheese melts, stirring occasionally. In a large bowl, beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Slowly stir soup mixture into beaten egg yolks. In a separate bowl, and using clean beaters, beat egg whites until stiff peaks form. Fold into soup mixture. Pour into ungreased two quart casserole. Bake at 300°F. for about an hour or so until the soufflé is brown. Serve immediately. Makes four to five servings.

Classic Mini Clam Cakes

This classic mid-century recipe can easily be doubled or tripled for hearty family

Ingredients: two eggs; one half cup clam juice; one half cup milk; dash pepper; one and one half cups flour; one quarter teaspoon salt; three teaspoon baking powder; one 6.5 ounce can minced clams or equal weight of fresh, chopped clams.

Directions: Beat eggs. Add milk and clam juice. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and pepper. Add the minced clams to the sifted flour and then add enough of the liquid to make a thick, lumpy batter. Drop batter by tablespoon into 375 degree oil. When one side is cooked, the cakes will roll over by themselves. Drain on brown paper and serve immediately with chowder.

Baked version: Drop by tablespoon on a parchment lined cookie sheet. Cook at 425 degree oven for about 20 minutes until lightly and crispy – or try the air fryer with the same temperature (time till doneness will vary)

Remember the Alamo!

My dad was obsessed with the Battle of the Alamo, which fell in the early morning hours of March 6, 1836—nearly 189 years ago this week.

His passion for this pivotal moment in history shaped some of my earliest memories. The first time I ever traveled on a plane was when he took me to San Antonio, Texas, just to see the Alamo.

He'd guide me through every historical marker, narrating the story with the enthusiasm of a historian. After dinner, we'd walk back to the Alamo and just stand there, staring at its walls for hours. I was only six years old, and even then, I was intrigued—less because of the battle itself and more because of how much it meant to him.

His obsession ran deep. He owned every book ever written on the Alamo, studied every account, and took us back to San Antonio many times over the years. And if there was one night in that story that truly defined his fascination, it was the final night—the moment when the walls were breached.

For 12 long days, a small band of Texan rebels, including legendary figures like James Bowie, William B. Travis, and Davy Crockett, had held off the massive Mexican army led by General Santa Anna. Despite being vastly outnumbered—fewer than 200 men against thousands—not a single defender had fallen during the siege. But in the early hours of March 6, under the cover of darkness, the Mexican forces launched their final assault.

Wave after wave of soldiers stormed

Positively

SPEAKING TOBY MOORE

the mission, scaling ladders, battering gates, and overwhelming the defenders with sheer numbers. In less than an hour, the Alamo was overrun. Every last Texan fighter was killed, their sacrifice becoming the rallying cry of the Texas Revolution.

"Remember the Alamo!" became more than just words—it became the battle cry of those who would go on to win Texas its independence. And for my dad and so many others, the Alamo wasn't just history—it was a symbol of defiance, courage, and an unwavering stand against impossible odds.

I read one of my father's old articles that he wrote about the Alamo and he said something in that article that struck a chord with me—something that transcends the Alamo itself.

Reflecting on the Alamo defenders, my father said, "Heroes are important. No human being today can hold up to the scrutiny we give them, but we need someone to emulate.'

Having someone to admire and emulate is important, especially when that person excels at something we aspire to do ourselves. It's natural to be drawn to greatness, to want to follow in the footsteps of those who have achieved something remarkable. But that admiration can sometimes turn into idolization, and that's where things get complicated.

I once idolized an Olympic swimmer.

He was a powerhouse in the water, someone I wanted to be like. But after getting to know him, I realized that while I respected his skill, I didn't necessarily admire his personality. And that's when it hit me—people are just people. Even those we put on pedestals.

Great people, even those with strong moral convictions, have made mistakes. And when those mistakes come to light. they can shatter the illusion we've built in our minds. The question isn't whether our heroes are perfect—they never arebut whether we can still draw inspiration from the best parts of who they were while understanding that they, too, were human.

No one is perfect, and if we expect our heroes to be, we set ourselves up for disappointment. The truth is that greatness and imperfection exist side by side. A person can make mistakes and still leave behind something worth admiring.

Maybe we've become too harsh on our heroes, or maybe we've been too unrealistic about what it means to have role models in the first place.

Admiration doesn't require blind devotion; learning from someone's greatness doesn't mean ignoring their flaws. Because if perfection is the requirement for being worthy of admiration, we won't have any heroes left at all.

Our heroes, past and present, aren't Hint!, C/o the Southbridge Evening News, meant to be untouchable figures. They're reminders that even flawed people can do extraordinary things. And maybe, that means we can too.

St. Patrick's Day is celebrated each year on March 17. The day honors St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, but it's also a celebration of Irish culture. Although St. Patrick's Day is celebrated around the world by people who can trace their lineage to the Emerald Isle, millions more with no such heritage join in the festivities each year. That means anyone who is Irish or just Irish in spirit can take part in St. Patrick's Day celebrations.

There are many entertaining ways to commemorate this special day. Here are a few to get the party start-

1. Eat green foods. Green is a prominent color for St. Patrick's Day and Ireland in general. Many people eat foods and consume beverages dyed green on March 17.

2. Bake soda bread. Everyone can take part in the kitchen whipping up a batch of delicious Irish Soda Bread. This is a great recipe for kids because there's no need to wait for dough to rise. Baking soda is the "soda" in the recipe and serves as the leavening agent.

3. Take part in a parade. St.

Patrick's Day parades are held in major cities across the country, making it relatively easy for people to be there in person. However, many communities also host parades that are small in scale but still big on fun.

4. Attend an Irish dancing demonstration. Irish dance is a traditional dance that originated in Ireland. It is known for its intricate footwork and minimal upper-body movement.

5. Dine the Irish way. Although corned beef and cabbage is often served on St. Patrick's Day, it is not the most authentic Irish fare one can eat. Find a restaurant that serves Irish stew, Boxty, Colcannon, or Black and white pudding, or try making such dishes at home.

6. Host a scavenger hunt. See who can find the gold at the base of the write the clues and hide the prize.

7 Listen to Irish music to celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

Whitinsville's Vander Baan named to Academic All-Patriot League Squad

EASTON, Pa. — Senior Justin Vander Baan earned a spot on the 2024-25 Academic All-Patriot League Men's Basketball Team, announced on Wednesday morning.

To be eligible, student-athletes must have at least a 3.20 cumulative grade-point average and be a starter or key reserve player in their sport. Freshmen are not eligible for this honor, as it tracks from the previous spring semester.

Vander Baan, a native of Whitinsville, Mass. and son of Jeff and Laurie Vander Baan, was crowned the Patriot League's Defensive Player of the Year after a sensational season in the frontcourt on March 3. He was also listed on the Third Team and the All-Defensive Team. The Northbridge Mass. native averaged 12.2 points, 6.9 rebounds, 3.0 assists and 2.9 blocks per game in his final regular season run for Lafayette. Overall, he competed in 94 games while starting in 77 and scored 886 points and grabbed 471 rebounds.

Garden longer with less muscle strain and fatigue

GARDEN MOMENTS MELINDA MYERS

That first full day in the garden may find you tired, sunburned, and stiff. Whether you are a young or young-at-heart gardener, include some strategies to help extend your enjoyment and reduce fatigue and muscle strain so you can keep gardening longer each day and for years to

No matter your age, it's important to protect your joints when gardening. Use a kneeler pad or knee pads to protect your knees. Knee pads secured to your legs allow you to conveniently and comfortably protect your knees as you move from one garden bed to another.

If you need help kneeling, consider a garden kneeler with handles. The handles provide needed support when kneeling and standing up. The ones that can be flipped over and used as a garden bench provide double the benefit. The seating position reduces bending and helps minimize the need to kneel.

Elevating your garden can also help. It is a great way to save space and eliminate the need to bend when planting, weeding, and harvesting. Elevated gardens and raised beds also offer a place to garden where planting space is limited or nonexistent. You'll enjoy planting and harvesting with minimal weeding needed. Just be sure to monitor soil moisture and water as needed. Use self-watering containers, add irrigation or employ water-extending products to help lengthen the time between water-up walls, fences, and more fatigue. Consider investwith vertical gardens. ing in shovels with an Monitor soil moisture in anti-skid plate above the wall-mounted gardens regularly as many have support for more digging limited soil that dries out

Clean and sharpen your cially available anti-skid tools, including pruning equipment, digging and weeding tools. This allows you to make cuts more easily and dig into the soil and weed with less effort.

Consider investing in ergonomic tools designed for comfort to help prolong your time in the garden. Select lightweight tools with non-slip comfortable grip handles aligned to keep your wrist extension straight, which helps reduce muscle strain.

Use pruners with ratcheting, compound, or Dual Link action for more cutting power with less effort. You'll be able to spend more time pruning with less muscle strain and blade, providing more foot power. Or retrofit an existing shovel with a commer-foot plate.

Don't overlook the importance of protecting your hands as well when gardening. Quality gardening gloves provide support and protection when digging, planting, pruning, and more.

Start with some preseason training. Every gardener knows gardening is a workout and often involves different motions and muscles than other exercises. Always warm up your muscles and do a bit of stretching before getting out in the garden.

Enlist the help of wheeled carts and wagons to move plants, mulch, soil, and other heavy loads. Don't be afraid to break heavy loads into smaller batches or ask for help. You'll spare your muscles and probably save time in the long run.

Wear a pair of safety glasses to protect your eves and don't forget the sunscreen. Take frequent breaks and drink plenty of water.

Preseason planning and preparation can help reduce muscle strain as the garden season begins. You'll boost your enjoyment and be able to garden longer.

Melinda Myers has written over 20 gardening books, including Midwest Gardener's Handbook, Revised Edition, and Small Space Gardening. She hosts The Great Courses "How to Grow Anything" instant video and DVD series and the nationally syndicated Melinda's Garden Moment radio program. ### Crafts are a lucky bet for St. Patrick's Day celebrations

While it certainly can be fun to visit a pub and raise a pint in honor of St. Patrick's Day on March 17, such efforts are not necessarily a family-friendly way to commemorate the patron saint of the Emerald Isle. Thankfully, there are plenty of activities for children and adults that focus less on imbibing and more on hands-on fun so everyone can be involved equally. Crafting often fits that bill.

The following are some unique craft ideas to celebrate the spirit of St. Patrick's Day. Many of these projects include items you may already have around the house.

Shamrock key chain

Find your favorite salt dough recipe and use a shamrock cookie cutter to cut out the shape of a lucky clover. Poke a hole at the top where you can connect a key ring. When the shamrock is dried and hardened, paint it in a vivid shade of green. Attach keys, a school ID or anything else to the key ring, or simply hang it from a backpack.

Leprechaun hats

With a little green paint, green card stock and construction paper in black and gold, anyone can create miniature leprechaun hats. Paint the toilet paper tube green, then wrap the bottom in a strip of black and place a gold "buckle" made out of a rectangle of gold or yellow paper. Glue the tube to a round of green card stock, and voila, you have a perfect leprechaun hat for decorating a room or table.

Easy rainbow craft Grab some fruity O-shaped cereal and let kids sort the colors into red, orange, yellow, green, and purple. Glue rows of these colored cereal rings onto a piece of white cardstock to make the rainbow. At the base of the rainbow, glue some cotton balls to serve as the clouds.

Beaded bracelets

Visit a craft store and stock up on small green, white and gold beads, as well as some bracelet wire or poly string. Spend a few hours making bracelets that everyone can wear with their green attire for St. Patrick's Day. The bracelets also can be given as gifts.

Shamrock slime

Those who can find green glitter glue and shamrock confetti can turn their favorite slime recipe into one worthy of St. Patrick's Day. Rainbow cereal bars

Incorporate some of the marshmallows from a favorite "lucky" cereal brand into the mix of rice cereal treats to give them a rainbow-inspired upgrade. Pots of gold If you have leftover plastic witches' cauldrons from Halloween, paint them gold and use them to store foil-wrapped chocolate coins. Otherwise, tie green helium-filled balloons to the cauldron

St. Patrick's Day crafts get the entire family in on the fun of celebrating the Emerald Isle.

7 activities to commemorate the spring equinox

The beginning of spring is cause for celebration. In many areas of the world, the start of spring marks the end of cold temperatures and hours spent indoors, a shift in conditions that is welcomed by millions each year.

Spring is a time of rebirth when flowers and trees bloom anew and animals bear new young. Spring is an exciting and busy time, and one that people can commemorate in many unique ways. Here are seven ideas to usher in spring this March.

1. Fill a home or business with flowers. Collect some early tulip or daffodil blooms and place them around the house. Offer bouquets of dandelions to children or weave them

Daily steps to make a vehicle last longer

Modern cars have longer life expectancies than their predecessors. Consumer Reports indicates it's not unheard of for modern vehicles to endure for 200,000 miles or more. For many, that equates to 12 to 15 years of usage.

Even though many vehicles are built to have increased longevity, it often is up to the driver to do his or her part to ensure cars and trucks can last for years and years. Here are some daily steps vehicle owners can take to achieve longer life spans for their cars or trucks.

• Take it slow and steady. Athletes do not hit the ground running at top speed, and neither should a vehicle. Let the car gradually acclimate to being on the move each day after sitting overnight. Gently accelerate and afford the engine time to warm up and all of the components to get the fluids they require before you jump on the highway or require the vehicle to go all out. Most automotive experts warn against idling a car in the driveway to warm it up, but starting out at · Don't be extreme. Jerky turns, gunning the gas and braking hard lead to unnecessary wear and tear on a vehicle. By smoothing out your driving, you'll put less stress on mechanical components and help prevent them from wearing out prematurely.

· Clean it out daily. Accumulated debris often builds up inside a vehicle that is used all of the time. Taking a few minutes to clear out trash or to wipe down the interior each day will prolong the interior components, not to mention make it easier to do a more thorough detailing when the time comes.

• Find a trusty fuel station. Bad gas can wreak havoc on a vehicle. Find a station that you trust, particularly one that takes care of their pumps and regularly changes their pump filters. It's worth it to spend a little more overall for good gas.

• Read your oil level. Oil is essential to maintain a properly operating engine and vehicle. AARP suggests routine reading of a

• Park in the shade or a garage. The sun may feel good on a warm day, but the UV rays from the sun can take their toll on a vehicle's paint. Whenever possible, park out of direct sunlight so that the paint will not fade and the interior upholstery will not bleach. Those who need to park their vehicles for an extended period of time should choose a clean, dry, well-ventilated location, advises Wawanesa Insurance.

· Be attentive. Listen to the sounds your vehicle is making and give it a visual inspection each time you get in or out of the car. The sooner you catch something that is out of the ordinary, the easier it becomes to fix problems before they become costly and damaging.

Vehicle owners can take steps each day to improve the longevity of their cars and trucks.

2. Spend time in nature. It's time to get outside, and there is no better time to do so than the beginning of spring. Soak up the sun and temperate climate, which can be good for your physical and mental well-being.

3. Visit a loved one. Bring some sunshine to an elderly relative by visiting with him or her. Take a stroll outside or sit on a bench and enjoy a picnic.

4. Prepare the garden

by cleaning out weeds and tilling the soil. Some early spring preparation ensures everything will be ready when planting time arrives.

5. Prepare an outdoor feast. Whether it's a picnic or a barbecue, serve up a warm-weather feast with salads, sandwiches and other dishes that are normally served outdoors.

6. Sow some seeds. Encourage each member of your household to pick a favorite plant or flower and sow it in celebration of the first day of spring. It's possible to make a special spring garden with perennials that will bloom each year. 7. Make spring-related crafts. Colorful wreaths, centerpieces and garlands can bring some of the natural wonders of spring indoors. The first day of spring is an opportunity to enjoy what makes the season so special. Celebrate the new season with plenty of creative ideas.

using a dealership for servicing needs.

According to a study by Kelley Blue Book, 35 percent of all cars were serviced at a dealership in 2021. By 2023, that figure had dropped to 30 percent. Service chains, like tire service centers and quick lube brands, are gaining ground in automotive the servicing market. Here are six reasons why consumers may want to think about returning to the dealership to maintain their vehicles.

1. Cost KBB says that owners are not saving much by shifting their business to service centers. 2023, In the average dealership service visit cost $258, while a visit to a non-dealer service center was $249 on average. Customers may be able to negotiate with dealerships where they purchased the car for lower prices or coupon incentives, as dealerships typically like to Modern vehicles are complex and unique between make and model. Visiting a dealership for service means you'll be getting a service technician who has specific knowledge about the vehicles that dealership sells. Technicians at dealerships have to be manufacturer-certified, meaning they will have the most up-to-date knowledge and access to cutting-edge equipment.

5. Accessible records

If and when the time comes time to sell a vehicle, having a handy log of all servicing can be advantageous. This is easier to come by if all of the visits took place at a dealership. # Dehydrating gives "DIY convenience"

Lanette Lepper holds up one of her sample jars, with several others in the background. BY GUS STEEVES

DUDLEY - With higher winds and more unpredictable weather, we've been seeing more power outages in recent years. Sometimes they're brief, sometimes they last days.

Of course, the latter is a problem when you have food in the fridge.

But if it's dehydrated, it's "shelf stable," local farmer Lanette Lepper told a small group at Dudley library last weekend. "If the power goes out, it doesn't matter.'

Lepper, of the Dudley Agricultural Commission and Grange, has been dehydrating food "probably 15 years," since before she even started growing her own food.

But human beings have been doing it, in one form or another, for at least 1000 times that long.

She notes "everyone's going to have different reasons for doing it." Among them are "you're overrun with zucchinis" in summer and don't want to buy in winter, or you want to send loved ones their favorite recipe, or you want lightweight and space-saving food for camping, or you have stuff that's stale or just about to go bad and don't want to waste it. The list is pretty long.

While there are many food preservation methods, most require more work than dehydration. Take canning, for example – that requires boiling in a large pot and being very careful to make sure the cans seal to avoid botulism. Dehydration doesn't have that risk, although if you don't make sure its truly dry, you might see it mold in storage. (That said, though, Lepper notes "Some things just need to be canned.")

One commonly canned thing - tomato sauce - is also ideal for dehydrating. Lepper showed her audience it in two forms – a jar of powder and a crinkly sheet that looked like a fruit rollup (which it essentially was). Both of them will reconstitute into sauce by simply adding water, and you can do the same thing with apple sauce and many other things.

She said dehydrating provides a lot of "DIY convenience," giving her a lot of ingredients to throw in soup, often with more nutrients than stuff that's "fresh" at the supermarket (especially in winter).

Gus Steeves

Lanette Lepper and Maureen Doyle look over one version of a dehydrator.

Beyond that, it's preparation for the unexpected; "It's good way to have things on hand when you don't know if you can get them," Lepper said.

"Almost anything" can be dehydrated, "but there are a few things I don't recommend," she said. One of the latter is meat – very lean meat is OK, but fats will spoil (true also of fatty plant products like avocadoes; she urged just freezing them).

Historically, meats and fish were typically cured with salt and/or various spices and dried either in the sun or smoked in a dry, hot place. According to the online essay "Historical Methods of Food Preservation" Brian Nummer, "Evidence shows that Middle East and oriental cultures actively dried foods as early as 12,000 B.C. in the hot sun." (Chances are it was actually far older than that.) He also notes, "In the Middle Ages purposely built 'still houses' were created to dry fruits, vegetables and herbs in areas that did not have enough strong sunlight for drying. A fire was used to create the heat needed to dry foods and in some cases smoking them as well."

His essay is at https:// nchfp.uga.edu/resources/entry/historical-origins-of-food-preservation. Lepper noted there are many online resources for curing meat, something she doesn't do.

Lepper said she typically starts by chopping, slicing or shredding the fruit or vegetables, and frozen veggies will dehydrate quite well. Apples and pears are "easy-peasy," – and apples are one of her family's favorites; "They hardly ever make it to a storage bag, they're so good." Also easy are peas, tomatoes, peaches, strawberries, nectarines and cherries. Some, like cherries and cherry tomatoes, need to be cut in half first, with the cut side up to retain the nutrients; full size tomatoes get sliced (as do most others).

Lepper is not fond of dehydrated blueberries; she'll freeze them instead, and notes you can't get banana chips from dehydrating because they're actually fried in oil. Carrots, celery, broccoli and many other things dehydrate easily, but onions, hot peppers, and garlic will "stink up your house," so she recommends doing them out-

She also noted potatoes "are one of the types of vegetables vou have to blanch before dehydrating" or they'll turn black. They're still edible, but not very appealing; blanching is simply boiling them for a few minutes before slicing them. She recommends running them under cool water before sticking them in the dehydrator.

Most herbs don't need a dehydrator; just hang them in a dry, dark place. But you need to harvest them before they go to flower to collect the most essential oils and nutrients. If doing them in a dehydrator, they need a temperature of 95 degrees "so it doesn't ruin the essential oils," she said.

Other things need the following: vegetables, 125 degrees, fruit, 135 degrees, and 160 degrees for meat jerky (because it has to cook, too). Some ovens can get that low, but most can't. Most dehydrators have thermostats, but she notes they're "helpful but not necessary." Timers are useful, but also unnecessary; the key is simply to check on the drying process occasionally. "If you have any doubt, leave it in an extra hour or two, but don't leave it in overnight," she added. Things are dry if they pass the "snap, crackle, pop" test - they break easily when folded, for example.

One useful tool is a portable vacuum-sealer for cans; they're available online and in some stores. You can reuse cans of various kinds (with or without vacuum seals) for storage, unlike in can-Lepper said a basic startup costs $50-$60, her dehydrator cost about $300, and commercial varieties can cost thousands.

WITH KIDS, PROVIDING GREAT CARE IS MORE THAN PROVIDING GREAT MEDICINE.

Because you can't impress a child with credentials. Because children don't really care that your research is helping change the world. Because a kid doesn't care how many degrees you have. Because they mostly just think that hospitals are scary places, our first step in the healing process is to cure the fear. And that's another reason we're the only pediatric hospital of its kind in the region.
