Dudley Cultural Council awards local community grants

DUDLEY — The Dudley Cultural Council (DCC) is part of a network of 329 Local Cultural Councils (LCCs) serving all 351 cities and towns in the Commonwealth. The LCC Program is the nation’s largest grassroots cultural funding network, supporting thousands of community-based projects in the arts, humanities, and sciences every year. The state legislature provides an annual appropriation to Mass Cultural Council (MCC), a state agency, which then allocates funds to each productions, field trips for school-children, after school youth programs, writing workshops, historical preservation efforts, lectures, nature and science education programs for families, and town festivals. Nearly half of LCC funds support educational activities for young people. The DCC will seek applications again in the fall. Additional information about DCC, the LCC Program, grant application process, and guidelines may be found at <https://massculturalcouncil.org/communities/local-cultural-council-program/application-process/>. This year, $11,400 was awarded to the following 20 grant recipients:

- Holiday Spectacular at Shepherd Regional High School
  - Traveling Makerspace: Chain Reactions at Pearle L. Crawford Library, Jay Mankita
  - Live Music Making History Live – “Popular Music & Veterans” at Pearle L. Crawford Library, Jon Waterman•

Digitizing the past: an update on the process

AUBURN — The Auburn Historical Society & Museum has a mission to preserve the history of the town and has been doing that in several ways. Volunteers have been working diligently to put the historic documents and photographs that are in the museum into an archival digital format. This includes creating databases for the tax records from 1863 to 1967. Birth, deaths, and marriages that were found in some of the early town annual reports, and those who were in town government offices throughout the years are being recorded. This will make it easier for genealogists to find family information. The tax records will help get a history of a house’s previous owners. All this information helps to tell the story of this town. As the information is being entered, unusual and unique facts have emerged that have helped to create articles that have been published locally. The Auburn Historical Society & Museum has created different series like, “The Family Behind the Exhibit, The Name behind the Street, and Who’s behind the Business.” Currently being worked on are the businesses along Southbridge Street past and present, and aviation in Auburn’s past. # Saint Joseph School seventh graders win MLK poetry honors at Worcester State University

WEBSTER — Two Saint Joseph School seventh graders were recognized as winners in Worcester State University’s 32nd Annual Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Celebration Poetry Contest, centered on this year’s theme: “Voices of the Future: Bold Roots, Brave Leaders.” Abby Rubin (daughter of Mark and Agnes Rubin of Webster) and James Miranda (son of Thiago and Alyssa Miranda of Douglas) were selected as two of only 25 winners from hundreds of entries submitted by students in Grades

7–12 from Worcester Public Schools and schools in the Diocese of Worcester. The poetry contest invited students to reflect on Dr. King’s enduring legacy of equality, justice, and nonviolence, asking how young people will use their voices to continue his dream. Entries were reviewed by the MLK Jr. Poetry Committee, a panel of educators, university students, and community members. Judging criteria included creativity, originality, style, and connection to the theme. Saint Joseph School’s Grades 6–8 Language Arts teacher, Mrs. Karen Lefebvre, encouraged students to participate. In mid-December, the school was notified that Abby’s winning poem, “Dr. King’s Words,” and James’ winning poem, “Equality for All,” were selected. James writes, “We show his dream matters by speaking up, even when our voices shake a little.” Abby emphasizes peaceful courage, writing, “He taught us how to use love

Keeping the middle in mind

It is easy, especially during the long stretch between the holidays and spring, to feel as though life in our towns moves in fits and starts. One week feels crowded with meetings, school events and obligations. The next can feel strangely quiet, with fewer reasons to venture out once darkness falls early and winter settles in. But taken together, these weeks reveal something steady and reassuring about the communities we call home.

Even when the calendar looks sparse, the work of keeping a town running never truly slows. Municipal boards continue their discussions. Budgets are reviewed line by line. School committees and administrators plan not only for the end of the school year but for the next one already waiting around the corner. Libraries unlock their doors each morning. Senior centers put out coffee and chairs. These are not headline-grabbing moments, but they are the foundation of local life.

What often goes unnoticed is how much of this depends on people who live in the middle. Not the loudest voices in the room, and not those who have checked out entirely, but residents who show up regularly, ask reasonable questions and give their time without expecting recognition. They may attend meetings quietly, serve on committees year after year, or simply stay informed enough to vote thoughtfully when the time comes.

In small towns, progress rarely comes from grand gestures. It comes from patience and persistence. It comes from residents who read agendas ahead of time, from parents who juggle work schedules to attend school events, and from neighbors who check in on one another during icy stretches and long nights. It is steady work, and it is rarely glamorous.

This middle ground matters more than ever. Public conversations, even at the local level, can sometimes feel sharper than they need to be. It can seem as though every issue demands a side, and that compromise is a weakness rather than a strength. That atmosphere can discourage people who care deeply about their towns but prefer thoughtful discussion over confrontation.

Most residents live comfortably in that middle space. They want schools to succeed, roads to be safe, taxes to be fair and services to be reliable. They understand that not every decision will please everyone, and that local government, like any other, involves trade-offs. Their expectations are reasonable, and so is their engagement.

As February approaches, there is no need for sweeping resolutions or dramatic declarations about the future. What serves communities best is consistency. Attend a meeting when you can. Read the minutes if you cannot. Visit the library. Support a local program or fundraiser. Speak up when something truly matters to you, and listen carefully when others do the same.

Winter will pass, as it always does. Budgets will be finalized, school years will move ahead and spring calendars will fill quickly. What will remain, if we are fortunate, is the steady presence of people who keep these towns functioning quietly and effectively, week after week and season after season.

That middle ground, built on reliability and respect, is worth recognizing and protecting. It is where most of us live, and it is where strong communities are sustained.

Lanterns Along Main Street

There is a certain sound that tells you winter is finally losing its grip: the slow, steady drip from the edge of a roof. It is not dramatic. It does not announce itself loudly. But once you hear it, you know something important is happening.

Around here, late winter has its own personality. The snowbanks shrink one cautious inch at a time. Mud season starts knocking on the door. The sun hangs around a little longer in the evenings, giving us just enough light to feel hopeful without quite letting us relax yet. It is an in-between season, and I have come to appreciate it more as the years go by.

When I was younger, I wanted winter gone the moment it arrived. I counted down the days until spring with the impatience of someone waiting for a bus that never seems to come. Now, I find myself paying closer attention to the small signs of change. A patch of grass reappearing along the edge of the driveway. A bird returning to the feeder that I have not seen in months. The first time I leave the house without my heaviest coat and realize, halfway down the steps, that I do not actually need it.

These small moments do not make the weather report, but they shape our moods more than we realize. They remind us that no season lasts forever. Not the cold ones, and not the easy ones either.

Living in small Massachusetts towns, we are used to adapting. We shovel, salt, scrape, and repeat. Then, without much ceremony, we switch gears. Out come the rakes and the garden gloves. The snow brush gets tossed in the back of the closet, and the lawn chairs quietly reappear on porches. We do this every year, almost automatically, yet it always feels a little new.

There is something comforting about that rhythm. It gives structure to time. It teaches patience. It also teaches humility, because no matter how many winters we survive, the next one still has the final say.

My wife likes to open the windows on the first mild day, even when the air is still a little sharp. She says the house needs to "remember what fresh air feels like." I usually grumble about the cold breeze, but I secretly enjoy it. It smells like change. It sounds like the start of something better.

We talk a lot about big goals and fresh starts this time of year. But I think the real reset happens quietly. It happens when we take that first walk without worrying about ice. When we linger outside a little longer after work. When we notice ourselves breathing easier, not just because the air is warmer, but because the season is shifting in our favor.

Late winter teaches a useful lesson. You do not need everything to be perfect to move forward. You just need enough light to see the next step.

So if you find yourself listening to that drip from the roof or watching the snow retreat from the corners of your yard, take a moment to appreciate it. It is not just water falling to the ground. It is time moving on, slowly and steadily, the way it always has.

And that steady movement, even when it is subtle, is often exactly what we need most.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Seniors have no less love to give to adopted pets

To the Editor:

I would like to offer the following viewpoints for the dog shelter advertiser who refuses to allow senior citizens to adopt rescue dogs.

My heart may be faltering, but I still have abundant love to give. I may not be computer savvy, but I have a lifetime of experience dealing with canine issues. I may not have a fulltime job, but I have plenty of time to devote to a canine companion.

It is true that I don't know how many years, months or days I have left to care for a pet, but neither do you.

“The luge is a high-speed physics lesson on gravity, acceleration, and aerodynamics”, said EcoTarium President and CEO Noreen Smith. “With the help of the USA Olympic Luge Team and Norton | Saint-Gobain, visitors were able to experience the excitement of the sport and meet some of the athletes who inspire us all.”

“Partnerships like ours with Norton | Saint-Gobain help us expand how young people see science, technology, engineering, and math,” said Katie Chappell, Deputy Director of Museum Operations at the EcoTarium. “Working together with the USA Luge team allows us to highlight the many ways STEM connects to real-world experiences like winter sports and the Olympics, while also introducing youth and families to career paths they may not have previously considered.”

“We’re incredibly excited to sponsor the Norton Luge Challenge with our partners at the EcoTarium and the USA Luge team. This event captures the creativity, teamwork, and engineering spirit behind winter sports, and it’s a fun way to share our enthusiasm as we look ahead to the upcoming Winter Games,” said Melanie Bonsu, Community Relations Manager, Saint-Gobain Abrasives.

Participants used easy-to-manuever plastic sleds in a safe, slope-side setting. Helmets were provided to ensure a fun and safe experience for all. Adding to the high-energy atmosphere, the USA Luge DJ kept the excitement going with upbeat music throughout the event.

During the Free Admission Day sponsored by Norton | Saint-Gobain,

Merry Christmas to all from the Davis Family!

N O R T H GROSVENORDALE — On Dec. 13, the Davis Family proudly celebrated 50 years of a tradition that can be summed up in one word: amazing.

Van and Florence Davis raised 13 children, and each year, they made it a priority to gather and celebrate family. Santa always joined the festivities, bringing a small gift for children under the age of 12, along with a special stocking from Van and Florence filled with a coloring book, crayons, and a candy cane. Each family also contributed a child's gift to be placed on the gift table, and tickets were sold at $1 for 10 chances to help raise money to host the party. Adult items are $1 per chance if those are brought. All food is home-made. One family member from each family signs up for the main course meal items and all other generations bring a dessert. So much food and goodies all day long!

Fifty years later, this beautiful tradition continues just as it began.

Over the years, many siblings have sadly passed, leaving one sister, Bevy Chauvin, and one brother, Gerald Davis, Sr. This year's turnout was especially heartwarming, with so many family members coming together—filling the room with love, laughter, and cherished memories.

The celebration featured appearances by Santa and the Grinch, a photo booth, a DJ, and a professional photographer to help capture the magic of this milestone event. Family members traveled from near and far, including Switzerland, Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont, Massachusetts, and Connecticut, to be part of this incredible celebration.

Here's to 50 years of love, unity, and tradition—and many more to come. Cheers to family!

The Veterans’ Project, which is being built to honor and remember those who were in the military has allowed articles to highlight different aspects of military service that readers may not know of such as those early town founders who were in the Revolutionary War and those in the Navy during the Civil War. Veterans who didn’t see any action are also welcomed as this is an ongoing project for the society.

If you have any documents, photos, stories, memorabilia, artifacts or just want to talk about Auburn History, the Auburn Historical Society & Museum would welcome the chance to enhance the history of Auburn. Donations are welcome.

The museum has the ability to scan information if donating is not possible. Bring the items to the museum and discover how they may tell a story. The museum is open Tuesday and Saturday mornings 9:30-12:30 and may be reached at auburnmuseum@verizon.net or 508-832-6856, www.auburnhistoricalmuseum.org or follow us on Facebook at Auburn Historical.

Lefebvre on Saturday, Jan. 17 at Worcester State University, where each student received a certificate from Congressman James McGovern and a $50 Amazon gift card.

“Abby and James captured Dr. King’s message in a way that feels both hopeful and urgent,” said Boudreau. “Their words reflect what we encourage every day at Saint Joseph School: to live with faith, treat others with respect, and take responsibility for making the world more just.”

Saint Joseph School congratulates both students on the honor and applauds the many student participants who used poetry to share their voices and leadership.

Regis College students named to Dean's List

WESTON — Regis College today recognizes students whose academic excellence and commitment to learning have earned them a place on the fall 2025 Dean's List.

To qualify for the Dean's List, students must earn a GPA of 3.5 or higher. First-year students qualify with a GPA of 3.25 or higher.

"Earning recognition on the Dean's List reflects the discipline, curiosity, and perseverance students bring to their academic work," said

Mary Erina Driscoll, PhD, Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs. "At Regis, learning is not just about mastering coursework but about developing the intellectual rigor and sense of purpose that will guide students long after graduation."

Founded by the Sisters of St. Joseph nearly a century ago, Regis College educates students to lead with integrity, purpose, and compassion. Through an inclusive and innovative learning community, Regis prepares graduates to build meaningful careers and make a positive impact in the world.

The university congratulates the following students on this significant achievement:

Maria Morales, of Auburn
Jaime Pichardo Brito, of Auburn
Lily Durda, of Dudley
Claire Farrar, of Webster
Diana Pickett, of Oxford

Area residents named to Dean's List at University of New England

BIDDEFORD/PORTLAND, Maine — Taya Lawrence of Dudley and Tori Granato of Webster have been named to the University of New England's Dean's List for the fall semester 2025. Dean's List students have attained a grade point average of 3.3 or better out of a possible 4.0 at the end of the semester.

The University of New England is Maine's largest independent university, with two beautiful coastal campuses in Maine, a one-of-a-kind study-abroad campus in Tangier, Morocco, and an array of flexible online offerings. In an uncommonly welcoming and supportive community, we offer hands-on learning, empowering students to make a positive impact in a world full of challenges.
