Church packages more than 20,000 meals for impoverished children overseas

WEBSTER — Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church packaged 20,120 meals on Sunday, March 29 to help support impoverished children in the developing world. Seventy five volunteers joined forces with Rise Against Hunger, an international hunger relief non-profit organization that coordinates the packaging and distribution of food and other aid to people in developing nations. "We are putting our faith into action," Fr. Luke Veronis preached in his sermon that Sunday. "Saint James tells us that faith without works is dead. We show what we believe by what we do and how we live. And this is what we, as a Church family, are trying to do through this event. It's a day when our prayers take on hands and feet. For the children receiving these 20,000 meals, they may never know our names but they will feel Christ working through us. This is where everything comes together. We are blessed not so that we keep God's blessings for ourselves but so we bless others. We remember the words of St. John Chrysostom: 'If you can't find Christ in the beggar at the church door, you will not find Him in the chalice.'" Rise Against Hunger works in countries worldwide to fight hunger, targeting communities facing high rates of food insecurity. They provide volunteer-packaged meals and other assistance, often through school feeding programs, to support nutrition, education and health for children and families facing

Founder of Paragus IT to deliver Nichols College commencement address

DUDLEY — Nichols College has announced that Delcie D. Bean IV, founder and CEO of Paragus IT, will give the commencement address at the 2026 commencement exercises, which will take place Saturday, May 2, at the DCU Center in Worcester.

"Nichols College is honored to welcome Delcie Bean as we celebrate the remarkable achievements of the class of 2026. His entrepreneurial spirit, creative business acumen and deep commitment to underrepresented communities embody the values we seek to instill in our graduates," says Nichols College President Bill Pieczynski. "We know Delcie's words will inspire our students to trust their instincts and take risks as they pursue their dreams, while continuing to lift others as they advance in their careers. We look forward to commemorating this milestone with him and our Nichols community."

Since founding the company at the age of 13, Bean has transformed Paragus IT into one of the most successful, fastest-growing information technology (IT) firms in the region. The company's unique corporate culture and strategic approach to providing outsourced IT services to small- to medium-sized businesses have earned many accolades, including being named to Inc. magazine's list of 5,000 fastest-growing businesses and Forbes magazine's 25 Small Giants list.

As the company has grown, so has Bean's commitment to equity and inclusion. In 2014, he created Tech Foundry, an educational nonprofit designed to address the need for a skilled IT workforce by providing in-depth training for individuals from marginalized or underrepresented communities.

In 2016, Bean began the process of transitioning Paragus to a 100 percent employee-owned company, which he completed in 2024. He is currently working to grow Paragus into a $250-million firm with offices across the country. In doing so, he aims to create more than 100 employee-owner millionaires.

Bean has advised state leadership on economic and technology matters and has served as a member of the Board of Trustees for Bay Path University. He has received multiple Entrepreneur of the Year and 40 Under 40 honors from Business West and the Worcester Business Journal, and Paragus has been recognized by WBJ as Best Employee-Owned Company for 2026.

Bean and his wife of 15 years live in southern New Hampshire with their three boys. He will receive an Honorary Doctor of Business Administration degree at Nichols College's May commencement ceremony.

Cub Scout Pack 53 holds annual Pinewood Derby

AUBURN — Creativity, craftsmanship, and friendly competition were on full display as Cub Scout Pack 53 held its annual Pinewood Derby on Sunday, March 29, at Faith Church in Auburn.

Scouts spent weeks designing and building their own wooden race cars for the beloved scouting tradition, which challenges participants to combine engineering, imagination, and teamwork. This year's entries showcased an impressive range of themes and designs. Cars included everything from a pizza delivery vehicle and a recycling truck to an intricate miniature camp-ground landscape.

Sawyer Tubbs, age seven, overall winner of the 2026 race, remembered that "designing and painting my car was the funnest part. I liked looking at all the other cars and watching them race."

Many scouts drew inspiration from their favorite characters and hobbies. Several cars featured designs based on popular figures from "Minecraft," "K-Pop Demon Hunters," "Ghostbusters," and "Batman," while others celebrated favorite animals such as dogs, dragons, and unicorns.

Ezra Hashey, age seven, and the 2025 defending champion, knew what it

PAW of the WEEK
CASH MONEY
1.5 YRS./12 LB./MALE/CHIHUAHUA MIX

Hi, I'm Cash Money — 12 pounds of personality with ears that deserve their own spotlight. Let's address them: yes, they're big. Yes, they're fabulous. And yes, they function as full-time snack detection systems. I don't miss a thing. I'm affectionate, loyal, and happiest when I'm close to my people. I've got a confident little strut, a playful streak, and a cuddly side that comes out once I know you're part of my inner circle. I may be small, but I show up in a big way — whether that's curling up in your lap or supervising your every move from the couch. Life with me is equal parts laughter, loyalty, and tiny-dog charm.

Milford Federal Bank is proud to sponsor the Pawfect Life Rescue PAW of the WEEK!

Bring your furry friend along on your next trip to MFB for a treat from our drive-up tellers, or stop in any branch and bring home a treat from our complimentary doggy biscuit bar.

Town Historian to be remembered at next Auburn Historical Society meeting

AUBURN — Ken Ethier considered himself the “unofficial town historian,” and spent his life preserving and disseminating the history of the town. He was a wealth of information as he grew up in town and knew the stories. He told these stories through “Tidbit of History From Chapins’ Crossing” articles that he wrote and published in the Auburn News.

The next monthly meeting of the Auburn Historical Society & Museum will be held on Thursday, April 16, and will feature Ellen Ethier reading some of these historical readings and elaborating on them. People are encouraged to add their stories after the meeting. The meeting will be at the Auburn Sportsman’s Club at 6:30 p.m. The meeting is free and open to the public.

For more information contact Auburn Historical Society & Museum, 41 South St. The museum is open Tuesday and Saturday mornings 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., and may be reached at auburn-museum@verizon.net or 508-832-6856, www.auburnhistoricalmuseum.org or follow us on Facebook at Auburn Historical.

Massasoit Art Guild announces Spring Small Works show at Leicester Public Library

LEICESTER — The Massasoit Art Guild will present its Spring Small Works Art and Photography Show from April 30 through May 27 at the Leicester Public Library, offering visitors a chance to view a wide range of compact-format artwork created by guild members from across the region.

The members-only exhibition will feature original pieces limited to a maximum size of 12 by 14 inches, measured by outside frame dimensions. Artists may submit up to two entries each. Organizers said the smaller format encourages experimentation and accessibility while allowing a broad range of styles and media to be displayed in a shared community setting.

The show will be judged as a single category rather than divided by medium. Awards will be presented for first, second and third place, along with an honorary mention. A People’s Choice selection will also be recognized. Ribbon prizes will be awarded to winners.

Artwork drop-off and check-in is scheduled for Thursday, April 30, from 9:30 to 11 a.m. in the library’s ground-floor Community Room. Later that day, the guild will host a public meet-and-greet reception with participating artists from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the same location. Organizers encourage all participating artists to attend the reception to connect with visitors and fellow exhibitors.

The exhibition will remain on display during regular library hours through May 27. Pick-up for submitted artwork is scheduled for Thursday, May 28, from 9:30 to 11 a.m., again in the Community Room.

Registration for the show opened Feb. 22 and continues through April 15, or until available space is filled. Advance registration is required, and artists must complete the entry process through the guild’s website.

Guild representatives said the annual small works exhibition provides an opportunity for artists to present new material while also introducing local audiences to the range of talent within the organization. The show is designed to be approachable for both established artists and newer members interested in exhibiting their work publicly.

Faith in action close to home and far beyond

In small towns like ours, it is easy to think of service as something that happens nearby. We picture neighbors helping neighbors, food drives at local pantries, or volunteers showing up when someone needs a hand. Those efforts matter deeply. Yet every so often, a local group reminds us that the reach of a caring community can extend far beyond its own borders.

That is exactly what happened March 29, when volunteers at Saints Constantine and Helen Greek Orthodox Church came together to package 20,120 meals for children in the developing world through the international nonprofit Rise Against Hunger.

Seventy-five volunteers working side by side in a single afternoon created something remarkable. It was not only the number of meals that stood out. It was the spirit behind the effort. People of different ages and backgrounds gathered with a shared purpose and turned a few hours of their time into something that will help families they will never meet.

There is something powerful about that kind of service.

Events like this remind us that compassion is not limited by geography. Hunger remains one of the most urgent challenges facing children around the world. Organizations such as Rise Against Hunger work through school feeding programs and local partnerships to address both immediate needs and longterm food security. Their efforts connect communities like ours to families thousands of miles away in a very real and practical way.

Still, what makes this story especially meaningful is not only the scale of the global need. It is the local response.

Volunteer service has always been one of the strongest traditions in central Massachusetts towns. Churches, civic groups, youth organizations, and neighbors regularly step forward when there is work to be done. Whether supporting a local food share, organizing a fundraiser, or helping after a storm, people here understand that community is something we build together.

This meal packaging effort reflects that same tradition, even though the recipients live far away. It shows that the habit of caring for others does not stop at town lines.

It also reflects something else worth noticing. The volunteers did not wait for a crisis to act. They made service part of a regular seasonal practice during Lent, choosing to turn reflection into action. That kind of intention matters. When service becomes part of a routine rather than a reaction, it strengthens both the volunteers and the community around them.

The scale of the accomplishment speaks for itself. More than 20,000 meals represent thousands of opportunities for children to attend school with the nutrition they need to learn and grow. Those meals also represent dozens of local residents who chose to spend part of a Sunday working together for a common purpose.

That is the kind of example that deserves recognition.

In a time when it can sometimes feel as though communities are more divided than connected, projects like this remind us what cooperation still looks like. People gathered in one room, focused on helping others, and left knowing they had made a difference.

It is a simple story, but an important one.

It shows that even from our corner of Massachusetts, a group of volunteers can reach across the world with something as basic and essential as a meal. And it reminds us that the spirit of service, once set in motion, has a way of traveling farther than we might expect.

Oxford Middle School recognizes students each month who exemplify our Be The 3 goals of Respect, Responsibility, and Safety as well as showing that attendance matters, displaying citizenship, and showing growth in a variety of ways. This month, OMS celebrates Zachary Dubsy, Hannah Riley, Gavyn Lucier, and Maci Turner as our March Students of the Month.

The comfort of a familiar hardware store

There are some places in a Massachusetts town that do more than sell things. A hardware store is one of them.

I stopped into ours the other afternoon looking for a replacement washer for a leaky outdoor spigot. It was not a complicated job. At least I hoped it was not. I stood in the aisle longer than I care to admit, holding two nearly identical little packages and trying to decide which one looked more trustworthy.

Before I could make the wrong choice, someone I recognized from town stepped around the corner and asked what I was working on. Not a clerk. Not someone wearing a name tag. Just another neighbor who had clearly solved the same problem once or twice.

That is how these places work.

You go in for a small repair and come out with advice, conversation, and sometimes a better understanding of how many other people in town are fixing the very same thing you are fixing that week. A loose hinge. A storm door closer. A stubborn lawn mower bolt that refuses to cooperate.

When I was growing up, hardware stores were part classroom, part meeting place, and part supply depot. The shelves were tall. The floors creaked. Somewhere near the counter there was always a bulletin board with handwritten notices about yard sales, lost cats, and community suppers.

Nobody hurried you.

If you asked where something was, the answer was rarely just a direction. It was usually a short story about how to install it correctly and what mistake to avoid the first time around. Sometimes you left knowing more than you planned to learn that day.

That still happens.

There is something reassuring about walking into a place where the people behind the counter understand not only what you need, but where you live and what kind of house you probably have. Older colonial. Mid century ranch. Cape with a drafty back hallway that always seems colder than the rest of the house in February.

Advice changes depending on those things.

In larger stores, everything is bigger. Brighter lights. Wider aisles. More choices than anyone really needs. There is nothing wrong with that. Sometimes you need those places. Still, there is a different feeling when someone hands you exactly the right size screw without checking a computer.

It feels like being known.

I noticed something else that afternoon while I waited at the counter. Two teenagers came in looking for sandpaper for a school project. An older couple asked about furnace filters. Someone else needed a length of rope and could not remember how thick it should be.

Nobody seemed out of place.

A hardware store welcomes beginners and experts the same way. It assumes you are trying to fix something and that trying counts for a lot. That is a generous attitude for any place to have.

Communities depend on locations like that more than we realize. Not because of what they sell, but because of how they connect people who might not otherwise speak to each other on an ordinary weekday afternoon.

You go in for a washer and leave with a short conversation about the weather, the garden, or whether it is finally time to put the snow shovels away for good.

I am never entirely sure how long I have been standing there when that happens.

But I always leave feeling like the town is still working the way it is supposed to.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It's people like Tom Klebart who make our community strong

To the Editor:

I am writing to share my deep respect and appreciation for Tom Klebart and the many ways he has given back to the Town of Webster, and to urge Webster Residents to vote for Tom as a Selectman in the upcoming Webster Elections on Monday, May 4.

Tom's commitment to Webster is rooted in something personal. He and his wife, Rena, grew up here, attended Webster public schools, and after spending some years away raising their family and building their careers, chose to return in retirement to the town they have always loved. That says a great deal about who Tom is. He did not come back simply to enjoy retirement. He came back ready to serve!

Over the years, Tom has devoted himself to Webster through a wide range of volunteer and public roles. He has served on the Board of Selectmen, Planning Board, Memorial Beach Committee, Economic Development Committee, Cable Committee, Central Massachusetts Regional Planning Commission, Webster Lake Association, and was Treasurer of United Church of Christ for 10 years. This reflects both the breadth of his involvement and the sincerity of his commitment to our Webster community.

What stands out most to me is that

Tom's service has always been grounded in care for Webster's people, character, and future. During the Covid period, as a Selectman, he helped support the town through an extraordinarily difficult time. He has also supported improvements that benefit families and residents, including enhancements to Memorial Beach, and he has shown a strong appreciation for protecting Webster's natural resources and preserving what makes this town special.

Tom also brings with him a lifetime of professional experience, judgment, and integrity. His long career at IBM, combined with his legal degree and MBA, gave him significant expertise in management, compliance, negotiation, and problem-solving. But beyond his resume, what matters most is how he has chosen to use that experience in service to others.

People like Tom help make small towns strong. He has given his time generously, worked thoughtfully, and shown that he truly cares about Webster. I am grateful for his dedication and for all he has done for our town. Again, I urge Webster residents to vote for Tom in the upcoming elections on Monday, May 4.

Thanks,

RAQUEL COLBY

Oxford students build strength and confidence through self-defense training

OXFORD — A group of students at Oxford High School recently took part in an empowering self-defense and confidence-building program that left a lasting impact both physically and emotionally. This workshop was led by Caroline Deragon at CC Fit and Wellness.

The training, led by Deragon, who is passionate about equipping young people with practical safety skills, focused not only on self-defense techniques but also on cultivating inner confidence. Over the course of the program, students learned how to assess situations, trust their instincts, and respond with strength and awareness.

“I had such a great time working with this group,” Deragon shared. “Every student brought something unique to the experience, and each one demonstrated strong individual qualities. It was inspiring to see their growth in both skill and confidence.”

Participants engaged in hands-on activities designed to simulate real-life scenarios, helping them develop both the mindset and techniques needed to stay safe. Just as importantly, the sessions emphasized self-assurance, communication, and resilience—skills that extend well beyond physical defense.

Principal Czernicki praised the program as a valuable addition to student development efforts, particularly in supporting young women as they navigate an increasingly complex world.

Programs like this continue to highlight the importance of providing students with tools that promote personal safety and self-confidence. Advocates believe that expanding access to self-defense and confidence training in schools and communities can have a meaningful, long-term impact.

WEBSTER — Each year, Park Avenue is filled with remarkable student learning—made possible by the dedication, creativity, support, and, most importantly, the hope carried by the extraordinary staff in our school community. This week, we are proud to highlight two more exceptional members of our PAE team: Will Gammetto, Special Education Teacher, and Lisa Falco Foreman, Special Education Teacher.

Will Gammetto, Special Education Teacher, is a dedicated and impactful educator who consistently works to meet the diverse needs of his students. He is flexible, communicative, and thoughtful in his approach, always adapting to ensure each student receives the support they need to be successful. He is a true point person when it comes to special education initiatives, often leading and supporting efforts that strengthen our school community. Gammetto is known for being a hard worker and an innovative thinker, always looking for new ways to improve outcomes for students. The children in his class genuinely love him, and it is clear that his commitment and care make a difference each and every day.

As one colleague shared, “Will is someone we rely on—he is always willing to step in, problem-solve, and support both students and staff. His dedication and innovation truly set him apart.” Thank you, Mr. Gammetto, for your dedication.

Lisa Falco Foreman, Special Education Teacher, is a truly compassionate and committed educator who holds each of her students in a special place in her heart. She brings a heart of gold to her work, while also maintaining high expectations to ensure her students grow and succeed. She creates a classroom environment where students feel cared for, supported, and challenged to do their best. Foreman is creative in her teaching and works tirelessly to meet the needs of every learner. In addition, she serves as a point person for special education training within the building, supporting staff and helping to build strong, effective practices across our school. Her dedication and warmth are felt by both students and staff, and she has built strong, meaningful relationships throughout the school.

As one colleague noted, “Lisa is someone who truly sees every child—she leads with kindness but never lowers her expectations. Students and staff alike feel supported and valued because of her.” Thank you for your dedication.

Zion Lutheran Church hosts annual “Stoup” cookoff

OXFORD — Zion Lutheran Church, 70 Main St., Oxford, hosted its second annual “Stoup” cook off on Saturday, March 28. The event featured a diverse array of soups, stews, chili and chowders offered by contestants from eight to ninety years of age. The competition showcased an impressive variety of soups, including beef and barley, Indonesian chicken, Greek lemon and orzo, chicken taco, chicken lasagna with white beans, chilled tomato with grilled cheese croutons, kapusniak, and Louisiana seafood stew. A favorite option among the chilis was the Guinness short rib and another tasty choice was the Rocky Point clam chowder, one of three chowders sampled by the hungry guests. Sharing bowls of hot soup with an even split of attendees from the congregation and the surrounding community made for interesting conversations and renewed friendships as everyone perused their ballots, tasted their favorites for second time and cast their votes. Coordinator of the event, Caitlin Clark Seaman, announced the winners who were decided by clear margins. Marilyn Dalimonte, a home chef from the community, claimed the “People’s Choice” award with her Italian sausage and vegetable soup. Jay Costello, a Zion congregant, captured the “Most Unique” award for his Asian chicken and dumpling soup. Congratulations to both winners! A hearty round of thanks also goes out to Chef Tim of the Auburn Tuttle Post and to Akila of Simply Baking in Dudley for their contributions of corn and bacon chowder and loaves of bread. Mark this event on your calendars and plan to join us next Spring. All are welcome!

Saint Joseph School Educator participates in United Nations CSW70 event

Courtesy

Mr. John Kottori, Social Skills Instructor, Grade 5 Social Studies teacher, and Athletic Director at Saint Joseph School in Webster, recently served as a featured leader for an official parallel event of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women (CSW70), sharing a powerful message of perseverance, dignity, and equal opportunity in sports and education.

WEBSTER — Saint Joseph School is proud to recognize Mr. John Kottori, who recently served as one of the featured leaders for “Progress and Paradox: Women’s Leadership in Sport After Title IX,” an official parallel event of the 70th Session of the United Nations Commission on the Status of Women (CSW70), a global forum focused on advancing the dignity, equality, and opportunities of women and girls.

Building on this recognition, Athletes United for Peace – Level the Field hosted a virtual event on March 10, 2026, to explore progress for women and girls in sports since the passage of Title IX, and to address the ongoing need for equity, dignity, and leadership opportunities for all.

Mr. Kottori was born and raised in Webster, graduating from Bartlett High School ('87) and Springfield College ('93). While at Springfield studying Sports Management, he learned about the significance of Title IX from Dr. Mimi Murray, who testified before Congress in support of it.

After graduating, Mr. Kottori returned to Webster and began his education career, coaching basketball at Bartlett under the mentorship of Mr. Donald Cushing, the school’s longtime Athletic Director. Observing Mr. Cushing’s implementation of Title IX first hand shaped Mr. Kottori’s perspective. Through this mentorship, Mr. Kottori succeeded in basketball and gained an even deeper appreciation for pursuing excellence in an equal-opportunity society.

Today, in his role at Saint Joseph School, Mr. Kottori serves as the Social Skills Instructor for Grades PreK through 8, the Grade 5 Social Studies teacher, and the Athletic Director. Through his work with students, he brings patience, encouragement, and a strong sense of compassion to both the classroom and the athletic field.

Athletes United for Peace sought Mr. Kottori to help lead and organize the event during the CSW70 at the United Nations. Recognizing the decline in female participation in sports, he suggested the Title IX topic, which was approved. Over six months of planning, he helped secure 4 of the 5 panelists, including the keynote speaker, Ms. Stephanie Dollar, a Webster resident. Ms. Dollar, a graduate of Saint Joseph School and Marianapolis, serves as the Executive Deputy of Athletics for UMASS Boston, with one of her main duties being compliance with Title IX. Notably, Kottori and Dollar previously coached a boys AAU basketball team together in the '90s and have a longstanding friendship.

During his presentation at the event, Mr. Kottori shared his moving story of perseverance and faith. Born with arthrogyriposis, a condition affecting his joints and muscles, he underwent 23 surgeries on his feet as a young child and spoke about his determination not only to walk but to run and participate in sports. He reflected on how the spirit of Title IX opened doors for those too often overlooked, just as its call to fairness and dignity shaped his own journey as an educator and coach. Drawing a parallel between his early life and Title IX, he believes the legislation has enabled him to pursue equal opportunities in sports.

Continuing his remarks, he also expressed gratitude to the women who influenced his life and instilled in him the values of equity, compassion, and respect for others. His message served as a powerful reminder that every person is created with God-given dignity and that we are called to stand together in support of one another.

Reflecting on his 35-year career as an educator, including 25 years in Catholic schools, Mr. Kottori views supporting others in their struggles as his calling, stating, “How can I ask for others to support disability rights issues if I don’t support theirs?”

As a single parent to a daughter who plays soccer and basketball, he underscores the importance of ongoing improvement for all students and student-athletes, adding, “When I can no longer educate or coach, I would like to see the improvement growing for all students and student-athletes.”

WORCESTER, SS.

CASE NO. 25 MISC 000699 (MDV)

Steven J. Anderson and Susan Anderson v.

The unknown heirs and devisees of James M.D. Belliveau, et al.

TO: James M.D. Belliveau, deceased, and Abby Christie, as the parent of Avery James Belliveau, now or formerly of Putnam, in the State of Connecticut or their unknown heirs, devisees, or legal representatives

You are hereby notified that a complaint has been filed by the above-named plaintiffs in which you are named as an interested party. This complaint concerns a certain parcel of land in Oxford, Worcester County, and said Commonwealth being known and numbered as 7 Linden Street, more particularly described in a deed (the "Deed") dated April 19, 2012 and recorded on April 20, 2012 in the Worcester Registry of Deeds, at Book 48846, Page 155 (the "Property").

Title is clouded by a potentially invalid or defective deed. The Property was owned by Rebecca J. Belliveau ("Rebecca"). Plaintiffs allege that on or about August 30, 2010, Rebecca passed away and was survived by her three children, Shiela A. Anderson ("Sheila"), Charles E. Belliveau ("Charles"), and Debra J. Belliveau ("Debra").

Plaintiffs further allege that on or about March 3, 2014, Charles passed away. On or about September 27, 2010, Shiela filed a Petition for Probate of Will and Appointment of Executor, regarding Rebecca's Estate (Probate and Family Court, Worcester Division, Docket No. WO10P3015EA [the "Estate"]).

Plaintiffs allege that is unclear based upon the language of the Will which beneficiaries were entitled to inherit the Property. As Executrix of the Estate, Shiela executed the Deed, conveying the Property to herself and her son and plaintiff, Steven J. Anderson, as joint tenants.

Plaintiffs further allege that on or about August 24, 2022, Shiela passed away, survived by her two children, the plaintiffs. Plaintiffs allege they have been residing at the Property for approximately 15 years.

The plaintiffs seek a judgment to ratify and confirm that Steven J. Anderson is the titled owner of the Property, while extinguishing any and all claims of the Estate of Rebecca J. Belliveau.

This complaint may be examined at the Land Court, Boston, Massachusetts, or online at www.masscourts.org. Information on how to search Land Court dockets is available on the Land Court website: www.mass.gov/how-to/find-a-land-court-case-docket.

A copy of said complaint may also be obtained from plaintiff's attorney. If you intend to make any defense, you are hereby required to serve upon the plaintiffs' attorney, Ryan J. Lutrario, Esq., of Savage Law Partners, LLP, at 564 South Water Street, Providence, Rhode Island 02903, an answer to the complaint on or before the eleventh day of May, 2026, next, the return day, hereof, and a copy thereof must be filed in this court on or before said day.

If you fail to do so, judgment by default will be taken against you for relief demanded in the complaint. Unless otherwise provided by Rule 13(a), your answer must state as a counterclaim any CASE NO. 25 MISC 000699 (MDV) claim which you may have against the plaintiff which arise out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the plaintiffs' claim, or you will thereafter be barred from making such claim in any other action.

It is ORDERED that notice be given by publishing a copy of this notice once in the following newspapers at least thirty days before the eleventh day of May, 2026: (1) the Webster Times, a newspaper of general circulation in Oxford, Worcester County, and said Commonwealth and (2) the New Haven Register, a newspaper of general circulation in Putnam, Connecticut.

Witness, Gordon H. Piper, Chief Justice of the Land Court, the thirtieth day of March, 2026.

"I applied for this award because I knew our council deserved this honor because we put so much hard work into our events," Heroux states. "For all of our efforts, we truly deserve this recognition."

According to Oxford principal Rebecca Czernicki, "Our Oxford High School

Student Council continues to set the standard for what student leadership should look like—thoughtful, inclusive, and driven by a genuine commitment to community. Earning the 2025 National Gold Council of Excellence is not just an award, but a reflection of the heart, dedication, and integrity our students bring to everything they do. I couldn't be more proud of this exceptional group of students and our two advisors, Lindsay Castonguay and Kristin Harvey. Congratulations on this award, you deserve it immensely."

"I am so proud of our council for receiving this recognition and I am especially proud of Anna for being driven to apply for this award," says Oxford Student Council Advisor Lindsay Castonguay. "This award validates all of the hard work we put into serving our school and community every year. Oxford Middle School hosts first aerial drone competition

OXFORD — Oxford Middle School took flight on Saturday, March 28, as students participated in the school's first-ever Aerial Drone Competition. The exciting event showcased student skill, teamwork, and innovation as two teams proudly represented the middle school against competitors from across the Northeast.

Oxford Middle School fielded two teams for the competition: The Champs, made up of students Mia, Sylis, and Greg, and The Enthusiasts, represented by Seamus and Liam. Both teams demonstrated impressive drone piloting abilities, strategic thinking, and perseverance throughout the competition.

As the event progressed, excitement continued to build as both teams steadily improved their standings. By the end of the competition, The Champs earned an outstanding second-place ranking, while The Enthusiasts secured an impressive fifth-place finish among middle and high schools throughout the Northeast region.

The success of the inaugural event would not have been possible without the support of staff and volunteers. A special thank you goes to Aidan Dolan, who generously stepped in to serve as a judge for the competition.

Oxford Middle School congratulates both teams on their strong performances and looks forward to continued success in future drone competitions. With such an impressive debut, the future of Oxford Middle School's drone program is certainly headed in the right direction.
