33rd Annual Cartoon Character Breakfast returns soon

SOUTHBIDGE — The Southbridge Lions Club reminds the community that its 33rd Annual Cartoon Character Breakfast will take place on Sunday, Feb. 8 — Super Bowl Sunday — at the Southbridge Community Center, 153 Chestnut St. This family-favorite event runs from 7 a.m. to noon and invites children to meet their favorite cartoon characters while enjoying an all-you-can-eat breakfast featuring pancakes, French toast, and ham. A DJ will be on hand throughout the morning, playing great tunes to add to the festive atmosphere. In the spirit of Super Bowl Sunday, attendees are welcome to come dressed in their best New England Patriots gear or game-day attire. Jerseys, hoodies, lucky hats, and game faces are all encouraged, with prizes awarded to the top three looks for a fun and friendly competition. All proceeds from the breakfast will support the Southbridge Lions Club's charity fund, benefiting local families, individuals, and community organizations in need. Tickets may be purchased in advance from any Southbridge Lions Club member or at the door. Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children under 10, with credit and debit cards accepted in addition to cash. The Southbridge Lions Club looks forward to welcoming families for a morning of food, fun, music, and community spirit — a great way to kick off Super Bowl Sunday.

Charlton Lions grateful for your cast-offs

CHARLTON — The Charlton Lions Club turns your redeemable cans and bottles into cash that helps fund their annual scholarships to graduating high school seniors in their community. This past year, they awarded three $1,000 scholarships. A good portion of that money came from the Club's frequent redemption sessions at Ted's Package Store in Charlton. Thus, the Lions are grateful for the cast-off bottles and cans that residents and friends leave in the two large blue bins on North Main Street across from the Charlton Fire Department garage. Every few weeks, several members of the Charlton Lions meet at 7:30 a.m. on a Sunday morning to empty the bins into pick-up beds and drive a mile down route 31 to Ted Mroczkowski's

Charlton Lions recently spent a chilly Sunday morning redeeming cans and bottles to raise money for their scholarship fund. Ted graciously opens his redemption center just for them. They spend the next hour or so feeding cans and bottles into the machines. It's a messy, loud job, but worth the time and effort when they cash in their slips and realize about $200 each session for their scholarship fund. They are especially grateful to friends and neighbors who bring only redeemable items: containers that are labeled returnable in Massachusetts. Bottles and cans that held juice, water and wine are not redeemable. Only containers that held liquids with carbonation are returnable for their deposits. (Also, cans from certain local breweries — such as those from Tree House — must be taken back to the brewery.) Odd items sometimes turn up in the recycle bins. During the last redeeming session, a brand-new Junior Railers whistle was found. If you accidentally put it in the recycle bin with your cans and bottles, you can claim it by sending the name of the person written on the box to thecharltonlions@gmail.com. The Lions of Central Massachusetts are part of Lions Clubs International District 33A, a network of 45 local Lions Clubs dedicated to serving the communities of Central Massachusetts. Lions focus on addressing critical community needs, including hunger, vision care, youth services, and disaster response. To learn more, visit www.lionsdistrict33a.com.

Charlton City UMC tackles hunger with Souper Bowl of Caring

CHARLTON — The Charlton City United Methodist Church is tackling hunger this Super Bowl Sunday by participating in the Souper Bowl of Caring.

The Souper Bowl of Caring began in a church in 1990 with a simple prayer: "Lord, even as we enjoy this Super Bowl football game, help us be mindful of those without a bowl of soup to eat."

In 2026, the CCUMC is bringing it to Charlton. They are trying to Tackle Hunger by collecting for their Manna Food pantry. Each month, they help more than 35 families from Charlton, Southbridge, Sturbridge, and Spencer. If you would like to donate, please send a check to CCUMC, PO Box 1151, Charlton City, MA 01507, made out to the church and marked Souper Bowl, or use the QR code at <https://www.charltoncityumc.org/>.

Anchoring community through winter’s
quiet days

In the quiet stretch between the new-year energy of January and the first spring buds, our tri-town communities of Southbridge, Sturbridge, and Charlton settle into a rhythm that can feel both slow and profoundly steady. February’s cold does not halt life here; it changes its pace.

Winter can teach us something about endurance. The trees that look bare are quietly conserving their strength. Under snow and frost, roots stretch and ground itself stores life. Residents of our area know this intuitively: we tire of the short days, but we adapt to them. We celebrate the Little League sign-ups and the arrival of February vacation week with equal anticipation, because both remind us that this season—like all others—is part of the larger cycle of community life.

Right now, civic and nonprofit groups are planning through the winter months, scheduling select board and planning board meetings, organizing youth programming at Old Sturbridge Village, and hosting library events that offer a midday respite from the chill. These small gatherings and committee meetings might not always make headlines. But they are where local residents roll up their sleeves to shape our towns’ futures.

The local winter event calendar reflects a mix of practical assembly (town commissions, neighborhood meetings) and family-oriented programming. Organizations are making space for homeschool days, educational workshops, informal social gatherings, and even food truck visits that bring neighbors out of home and into shared spaces. These interactions, small and simple, build the connective tissue that helps our towns move forward together—especially in winter’s quieter days.

It’s important to note that the vibrancy of our community does not only come from headline festivals or big ticket events. It’s also in the Scout troop meeting at the municipal building, in conversations at the local library between toddler story time and evening seminars, in the conversation around a table at a local brewery’s food truck night. Participation matters. Attending matters. Even just knowing these things are happening matters.

We invite everyone to look closely at the calendar in this paper as more than just dates and times. See it as a reminder of the ongoing story of our tri-town region: one of civic engagement, neighborly support, volunteer energy, and the steady hum of community life. Winter may suppress the flower buds, but it does not diminish the value of community effort that carries us toward spring.

Love languages can help you enjoy Valentine’s Day on a budget

Valentine’s Day doesn’t have to break the bank. In fact, the most meaningful expressions of love often cost little to nothing. The key is understanding your partner’s love language and tailoring your approach accordingly. When you know what makes your partner feel truly valued, you can create memorable experiences without the financial pressure that often accompanies this holiday.

The five love languages — words of affirmation, acts of service, receiving gifts, quality time and physical touch — offer a roadmap for showing affection without overspending. Here’s how to express your love while staying financially smart this Valentine’s Day.

Words of affirmation: For partners who value verbal expressions of love, heartfelt words matter far more than expensive gifts. Write a letter expressing what you appreciate about them, create a personalized playlist with songs that remind you of your relationship or record a video message. All are free but carry immense emotional value. For this love language, thoughtful expression surpasses financial investment every time.

Acts of Service: If your partner feels loved through helpful actions, Valentine’s Day is about sweat equity, not spending. Cook their favorite meal, tackle chores they’ve been dreading or, for those who have expressed frustration with budgeting, create a simple budget tracker or spreadsheet tucked into a decorative folder. Your time and effort demonstrate your love. The beauty of acts of service is that they cost little to nothing but demonstrate care and attention.

Receiving Gifts: Even gift-oriented partners don’t need expensive presents to feel valued. Focus on thoughtfulness and personalization over price tags. Try DIY crafts that show you put time into creating something. Explore thrift stores for vintage treasures or consider giving stock in a company your partner loves — a retail store, a tech brand or a coffee chain. Many platforms offer fractional shares, so you don’t need a huge budget. Remember: A $10 item chosen with care can mean more than a $100 generic gift.

Quality time: For those who value undivided attention, experiences often cost less than gifts. Check for free museum days, plan a scenic hike, go stargazing or create a cozy home movie night with homemade popcorn. The key is being fully present without distractions. For a longer-term outlook, consider a future fund jar for shared goals, like a couples massage or a trip. Make the first deposit and pair it with a handwritten note about building dreams together.

Physical Touch: Intimacy and affection are inherently free, but small comfort investments can enhance closeness. Create an at-home spa experience with inexpensive bath products, invest in cozy blankets for cuddling, or clear space in your living room for dancing together. These minimal purchases amplify connection without requiring significant spending.

There’s no wrong way to celebrate Valentine’s Day, and overspending isn’t necessary. If you’re diligent about budgeting, you’ll know what you can afford to spend. Understanding your partner’s love language empowers you to express affection in ways that resonate deeply — without the financial stress. The best Valentine’s celebrations come from the heart, not the wallet.

Auction news and goodbye

ANTIQUES,
COLLECTIBLES
& ESTATES
WAYNE TUISKULA

It’s been a few weeks since I shared the latest auction news, and plenty has taken place since then.

Beginning with local news, a Western Massachusetts historical society recently consigned a piece of furniture for auction that generated significant funds for the group. I’ve noted in previous columns that most antique furniture has dropped in value over the years. This piece was certainly an exception. The Swift River Valley Historical Society’s website describes themselves as “the leading resource in preserving the artifacts, stories and records of the lost towns of the Quabbin Valley.” It is the historical society for the towns of Dana, Enfield, Greenwich, and Prescott. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts took residents’ properties in those four towns by eminent domain, and everyone had to relocate by April 28, 1938. The land was flooded several months later to create the Quabbin Reservoir, which provides water to the Eastern part of the state. The Swift River Valley Historical Society had a cabinet from 1677 that had been donated by Annie Frances Ballard, according to the Greenfield Recorder. Ballard was a descendant of one of the cabinet’s original owners. The cabinet door was crafted with two sevens for 1677 and a heart with the initials of Symon and Rebeckah Home. They were an Andover, MA, couple who commissioned the cabinet after the birth of their first son. It was kept in a temperature-controlled room, but the historical society could no longer secure and insure it. It sailed past the auction estimate of $600,000 to $800,000, selling for $1,636,000 earlier this month. According to the Greenfield Recorder, the historical society will use the funds to make their “building accessible for people with disabilities, and mak[e] the facility more user-friendly for archivists and historians.”

An auction of memorabilia related to our nation’s history also took place earlier this month, with two George Washington paintings selling very well. A 1783 painting depicting Washington as a general by Charles Peale Polk brought $577,850, while a Gilbert Stuart portrait of Washington went for $2.8 million, according to Artnet News. A printed copy of the Declaration of Independence from 1776 sold for $5.6 million, and a printed copy of the Emancipation Proclamation signed by Abraham Lincoln earned $6.7 million. A draft of the United States Constitution with notes by founding father Rufus King was the highest selling piece, bringing $7.3 million.

A more contemporary item set an auction record in November. Auction records for sports memorabilia and comic books are frequently being broken, and a rare Superman 1939 first issue comic book has done it again. The comic book was discovered by three brothers who were cleaning out their mother’s attic, according to an AP article. The copy graded a 9.0 out of 10, remarkable for an issue that old. It went up, up, and away, fetching over $9 million.

I’ve greatly enjoyed the 10-plus years I’ve been writing this column. It’s been wonderful meeting many of you who’ve invited me to appraise items at local appraisal events, asked me to lecture about antiques, have consigned items with me, or have taken the time to email me about articles I’ve written. Our workload has been increasing every year, leading me to take a hiatus from writing. Please keep my contact information in case you may need help in the future. Once again, thank you to everyone who has read this column and thank you for your support.

Our single-collector Civil War auction starts next week. The following sale will include fine jewelry, sterling silver, art, and other antiques and collectibles. We’ll be running a major sale with sports cards and memorabilia in the summer. We are accepting consignments for our next two sales. Please visit our website <https://centralmassauctions.com> for links to upcoming events.

Where thumbtacks and neighbors meet

LANTERNS
By CHARLES

That corkboard is a small act of resistance to that trend. It says: here is a place where real people leave messages for other real people. It is imperfect. It is slightly crooked. It smells faintly of paper and tape. And it works.

You see similar boards in libraries, town halls and coffee shops across our region. They are community living rooms in miniature. Each note represents someone taking a chance that a neighbor might need what they are offering or offering what they need.

There is something brave about pinning up a piece of paper with your phone number on it. It is a quiet statement that says, “I am part of this place, and I am willing to be found.”

It made me think about how often we hide behind screens. We text instead of talk. We email instead of knock on doors. None of that is wrong, but it does change the texture of community life. A handwritten sign taped to a window or pinned to a board carries a different weight. You can see the handwriting. You can tell if the person was in a hurry or took their time. You can sense effort.

I watched an older woman stop at the post office board last week. She read carefully, adjusting her glasses, nodding slightly at a few notices. Then she pulled out a small stack of papers and added one of her own. I did not see what it said, but I saw the care she took in placing it just right, smoothing the corners before stepping back to admire her work.

That moment felt important. It was not loud. It was not broadcast to hundreds of followers. It was one neighbor speaking quietly to another through paper and thumbtacks.

We often talk about keeping Main Street alive. We focus on storefronts, parking spaces and foot traffic. Those things matter. But so do these smaller, almost invisible threads that tie us together. Bulletin boards. Flyers. Handwritten notes. Conversations that start because someone stopped long enough to read.

Next time you pass one of these boards, take a moment. Read a few notices. You might find something useful. You might learn something new. Or you might simply be reminded that community is not built by algorithms. It is built by ordinary people sharing space and information in ordinary ways.

Sometimes the lanterns along Main Street are not hanging from poles or glowing in windows. Sometimes they are pieces of paper, quietly lit by the simple hope that someone else is paying attention.

Gateway Players to hold fundraising performance of “Godspell”

SOUTHBRIDGE — Gateway Players Theatre is excited to announce special fundraising performances of the beloved musical “Godspell” in support of Elm Street Congregational Church. This collaborative event promises an uplifting evening filled with inspiring music, energetic performances, and a shared spirit of community.

Gateway Players Theatre has called Elm Street Church home since 2017 when our long-time home; The Barn at the Ruth Wells Art Center was discovered to be structurally unsound. We are so appreciative of the church and their support that we feel the need to give back. All proceeds from these performances will go directly toward supporting the Roof Capital Campaign held in 2025. By attending, you’ll not only enjoy a night of fantastic entertainment but also contribute to important improvements to this historic church.

Performance dates are March 20 & 21 at 7:30 p.m. and March 22 at 2 p.m. The performances will be held at Elm Street Congregational Church, 61 Elm St. in Southbridge. Entrance is on Park Street (around the corner). Book by John Michael Tebelak, Music and Lyrics by Stephen Schwartz, Conceived and Originally Directed by John Michael Tebelak, Based on The Gospel According to St. Matthew. “Godspell” is presented through special arrangement with Music Theatre International (MTI). Directed by Lynn Boucher, Produced by Lou Ellen Corkum and the Musical Director is Chris Rubenacker.

Tickets are $20 for adults, and $17 for Seniors and Youth. Tickets may be reserved by calling Gateway at 508-764-4531. Online credit card ticket sales are available at <https://www.ticketleap.events/tickets/gateway-players/godspell>

The cast includes: “Jesus” - Alex Gardner, “John the Baptist/Judas” - Mark Lammert Ensemble: Billy Bolster, David Yutzler, Davyn Walsh, Deb Hollett, Erin Simpson, Hannah Bilis

Heather Crabbe, Kirsten Smaltz, and Robyn De Gennaro.

“Godspell” was the first major musical theatre offering from three-time Grammy and Academy Award winner, Stephen Schwartz (“Wicked,” “Pippin,” “Children of Eden”), and it took the world by storm. Led by the international hit, “Day by Day,” “Godspell” features a parade of beloved songs, including “Prepare Ye the Way of the Lord,” “Learn Your Lessons Well,” “All for the Best,” “All Good Gifts,” “Turn Back, O Man” and “By My Side.”

A small group of people help Jesus Christ tell different parables by using a wide variety of games, storytelling techniques, and hefty doses of comic timing. An eclectic blend of songs, ranging in style from pop to vaudeville, is employed as the story of Jesus’ life dances across the stage. Dissolving hauntingly into the Last Supper and the Crucifixion, Jesus’ messages of kindness, tolerance, and love come vibrantly to life.

Boasting a score with chart topping songs, a book by a visionary playwright (John-Michael Tebelak) and a feature film, “Godspell” is a sensation that continues to touch audiences.

All Saints students visit Worcester Art Museum

WORCESTER – Grade 6 students from All Saints Academy recently visited the Ancient Civilizations galleries at the Worcester Art Museum, where they explored artwork from Mesopotamia, Egypt, Greece, Rome, and beyond. In addition to touring the galleries, students participated in a hands-on studio workshop focused on Egyptian cartouches. A cartouche is an oval shape that encloses a pharaoh’s name in hieroglyphs and symbolizes protection and eternity. Reserved for royalty, cartouches often displayed both a ruler’s birth name and throne name and later became essential to historians in deciphering hieroglyphs, including those found on the Rosetta Stone.

This immersive experience brought classroom learning to life by allowing students to see firsthand the artifacts, symbols, and artistic techniques they have been studying. Concepts discussed in class—such as the role of writing in ancient societies, the significance of art in expressing power and belief, and the daily lives of ancient peoples—became more meaningful as students observed authentic works of art up close. Creating their own cartouches helped students better understand the importance of names, symbolism, and written language in ancient Egypt while reinforcing lessons on hieroglyphs and historical interpretation.

During the visit, students also stopped by the Center for Nonviolent Solutions, where they were excited to view artwork created by 7th grade students from All Saints Academy on display. The pieces were submitted in the fall as part of a project that asked students to respond to the question, “What does peace look like in your community?” Seeing student artwork displayed in a museum setting made the experience especially meaningful, inspiring students to connect history, art, and their own voices in powerful ways.

Saint Joseph School seventh grader Sophia Surowaniec proudly holds her winning Lions Clubs International Peace Poster Contest entry, “Together as One,” alongside Dr. John Kalinowski of the Webster-Dudley Lions Club, who visited the school to notify her that her poster is advancing to the district level.

WEBSTER — A seventh-grade student at Saint Joseph School has been selected as the school’s winner in the 2025 Lions Clubs International Peace Poster Contest, earning the opportunity to advance to the district level.

Sophia Surowaniec, daughter of Piotr and Kristy Surowaniec of North Grosvenordale, Conn., received the news during a visit to Saint Joseph School by Webster-Dudley Lions Club member Dr. John Kalinowski, who personally notified her that her poster was moving forward and posed for photos with the student.

This year’s contest theme, “Together as One,” encourages students to share their vision of peace through original artwork. The Peace Poster Contest aims to allow children in schools and youth groups everywhere to express their visions of peace through their art. Lions Club members, through local service, strive to spread joy, kindness, hope, and peace within the community.

Sophia is a repeat winner for Saint

Joseph School—her 2024 entry was also selected to move on in the competition. She is also deeply involved in school leadership and service as a member of Saint Joseph School’s Eagles Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society, Treasurer of the Children of Mary Sodality, a member of the Varsity Cheer Team, and an Assistant Coach for the Eaglets Cheer Team.

Students develop and refine their contest ideas in art class with Saint Joseph School’s Art Instructor and Fine Arts Director, Ms. Brigid Campbell, who supports students in connecting artistic choices to the message they want to communicate.

School leaders noted that the contest aligns closely with Saint Joseph School’s mission of Religion, Respect, and Responsibility, giving students a meaningful way to express compassion, unity, and respect through creativity.

Congratulations to Sophia Surowaniec on this achievement.

All Saints Academy comes together to honor local veterans

WEBSTER — The All Saints Academy community came together to honor local veterans with a special breakfast and ceremony this past Veterans Day.

In the school gym, decorated by Grades 4 and 5 with handmade cross table decorations symbolizing gratitude for veterans’ bravery, courage, and service, we gathered to honor local veterans from our community as well as veterans invited by our students. A Veterans Wall, thoughtfully created by Grade 6, displayed meaningful acrostic poems that reflected students’ appreciation and respect for those who have served our country.

The morning began with a warm welcome to our honored guests, followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Students in Kindergarten through Grade 3 proudly recited poems expressing thankfulness and admiration for our veterans. Grades 7 and 8 played an important role throughout the event by assisting with serving food and engaging the veterans in friendly, respectful conversation.

The veterans were extremely appreciative of the morning and expressed gratitude for the opportunity to share their experiences. They were especially touched by our commitment to teaching students the importance of honoring and understanding the sacrifices made throughout their military careers. Students greatly enjoyed listening to the veterans’ stories and learning first-hand about their service, making the celebration both meaningful and memorable for everyone involved.

Through this special event, we wanted our veterans to know that they are remembered, valued, and appreciated not only on Veterans Day, but every day.

Students and veterans gathered for a meal and conversation during the Veterans Day event at All Saints Academy.

The Groundhog Day verdict is in! Cornelia's prediction at EcoTarium comes as no surprise

WORCESTER — Monday morning at the EcoTarium, Worcester’s very own weather-predicting groundhog, Cornelia, emerged from her burrow and carefully looked around her habitat, sniffing at lettuce and other treats. Mayor Joe Petty watched Cornelia carefully and then delivered the official Groundhog Day proclamation before a crowd of teachers, students, and community leaders.

“Today, Cornelia has emerged from hibernation to search the ground at the EcoTarium for her shadow, as, like her ancestors before her, Cornelia has acquired the fascinating ability to predict the arrival of spring with 50 percent accuracy,” said Petty with a smile. “I hereby decree that, on this sunny day, Cornelia did in fact see her shadow and thus proclaimed six more weeks of winter weather for the City of Worcester, Massachusetts. I urge all citizens to join in the Groundhog Day celebration across the City, and to keep your hats and mittens close at hand.”

The crowd let out a loud moan at the news of more winter.

“No matter the weather, we always embrace the fun of this time-honored tradition,” said Noreen Smith, EcoTarium President & CEO. “This really is Cornelia’s day to shine. While most groundhogs were still asleep, Cornelia was hard at work analyzing the conditions and making her forecast.”

Guests were treated to a close-up experience with Cornelia, as her dedicated keeper shared fascinating insights into her daily care: “Cornelia is still shaking off her winter sleepiness, as at the EcoTarium, Cornelia does not fully hibernate, although she does slow down between October and March, eating less and sleeping for most of the day. She managed to wake up to enjoy breakfast with all of us this morning. She enjoyed a spread of greens and vegetables. After eating, she quickly made herself comfortable again in her toasty nest!”

Local historian releases groundbreaking Revolutionary War study

Book signing scheduled Feb. 14 at Joshua Hyde Public Library

STURBRIDGE — Local historian and author Walter J. Hersee announces the release of “To Defend All That Is Dear,” a groundbreaking reconstruction of Sturbridge’s Revolutionary War roster that recovers dozens of forgotten patriots and provides a replicable research model for communities preparing for the nation’s 250th anniversary.

A public book signing and author talk will be held on Saturday, Feb. 14 at 10:30 a.m. at the Joshua Hyde Public Library, located at 306 Main St., Sturbridge. Unlike traditional Revolutionary War histories that retell familiar battles, To Defend All That Is Dear focuses on the recovery of the soldiers whose service was omitted, mis-recorded, or lost through generations of incomplete documentation. Through meticulous archival work—including cross-referencing the Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors volumes, pension files, muster rolls, Continental returns, bounty records, and town meeting documents—Hersee identified 186 overlooked soldiers tied to Sturbridge and confirmed 23 wartime deaths previously absent from the town’s historical memory.

“Every community has missing patriots,” Hersee explains. “Their absence isn’t intentional—it’s a quiet drift caused by record loss, transcription errors, and assumptions passed down over centuries. This book shows how towns can recover those names and restore them to the story.”

The study also serves as a practical guide. Hersee’s transparent methodology demonstrates how individuals, local historians, genealogists, and historical societies can rebuild their own Revolutionary War rolls using both traditional and modern tools. With the 250th anniversary approaching, the book arrives at a crucial time for communities seeking accurate histories and inclusive commemorations.

Hersee, a member of the Sturbridge Historical Commission, the Community Preservation Committee, and several regional history initiatives, has been widely recognized for his work updating Sturbridge’s honor rolls and re-examining long-standing assumptions about local Revolutionary War service.

“This is more than Sturbridge’s story,” Hersee notes. “It’s a blueprint. Any town—large or small—can do this work and rediscover those who stepped forward ‘to defend all that is dear.’”

Published under his imprint, Heritage Oak Press, the book includes corrected service profiles, narrative insights, and detailed explanations of the research process—bridging scholarly rigor with accessible community history.

Residents, history enthusiasts, genealogists, and representatives from regional historical societies are encouraged to attend the Feb. 14 event to meet the author, learn about the research, and obtain signed copies.

Walter J. Hersee is a Sturbridge-based historian, researcher, and author whose work centers on recovering forgotten local stories through deep archival research.

He serves on several historical and municipal committees and is the author of “Common Witness: Leaves from a New England Town” and forthcoming works from Heritage Oak Press.

the Sublime Degree of Master Mason. They are Brothers Harmon Hirtz of Charlton, Brother Brendan Shunaman of Southbridge and Brother Aidan McCann of Charlton. These men, along with other men, have followed this path and joined this great fraternity because of “Who We Are.” We’re men, each trying to be the best version of ourselves. We find it’s easier to do that when we’re with other men who share the same values. We’re there for our brothers no matter what life may bring, and our brothers are there for us. We help others, not just because it’s the right thing to do, but also because it helps us grow. We value Honor and Integrity. We believe there’s always more to learn. As Freemasons we thrive to make good men even better.

Major General Salem Towne Masonic Lodge was chartered in 1859. What we do know is that after 167 years, the Major General Salem Towne Masonic Lodge and Freemasonry have continued to grow and make good men better. This is because we value our old traditions, and we think this is what attracts this younger generation of men. These men want to see and learn how it used to be and what it is like to value honor and integrity. If you would like more information about Freemasonry and to find a lodge nearest you, visit our website at www.massfreemasonry.org

WITH KIDS, PROVIDING GREAT CARE IS MORE THAN PROVIDING GREAT MEDICINE.

Because you can’t impress a child with credentials. Because children don’t really care that your research is helping change the world. Because a kid doesn’t care how many degrees you have. Because they mostly just think that hospitals are scary places, our first step in the healing process is to cure the fear.

And that’s another reason we’re the only pediatric hospital of its kind in the region.
