Dudley Historical Commission to celebrate America's 250th anniversary with Declaration Reading, community bell ringing

DUDLEY — The Dudley Historical Commission will commemorate the 250th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and the birth of the United States with a public reading of the Declaration and a community-wide bell-ringing celebration on Sunday, July 5.

The program will begin at 11:30 a.m. on the front steps of the First Congregational Church of Dudley, 135 Center Rd., a location chosen for its historical significance. In 1776, the church also served as the seat of Dudley's town government, making it a fitting site for a public reading of the Declaration of Independence.

Historical Commission Secretary David Proulx will open the ceremony with remarks on the historical context of the Declaration and its significance to the founding of the nation. He will then introduce Dudley Historical Commission Chairman Fredrick "Butch" Meyer, who will deliver a reading of the Declaration of Independence.

Following the reading, Meyer will lead attendees in three cheers for the United States. Veterans Services personnel will accompany each cheer with a ceremonial salute.

At noon, church and institutional bells throughout Dudley will ring for five minutes in celebration of the nation's founding. Participating bell ringers include:

Dudley Senior Center Director honored with 2026 Commonwealth Heroine Award

DUDLEY — Deborah Johnson, Director of the Dudley Senior Center and a community volunteer, has been recognized with the prestigious 2026 Commonwealth Heroine Award, an honor presented annually by the Massachusetts Legislature to women whose selfless contributions make a lasting impact in their communities.

Johnson was presented with an official citation from the Massachusetts House of Representatives on June 24 at the State House in Boston, recognizing her exceptional dedication to the Town of Dudley and its residents.

"I'm so happy Deb was recognized for all the work she does for Dudley seniors," State Rep. John Marsi said. "She also does a lot for the community behind the scenes, which is the intent behind this award. She is very deserving of this honor."

For more than two years, Johnson has served as Director of the Dudley Senior Center, dedicating countless hours beyond her paid responsibilities to expand programming, organizing meals and events, coordinate dementia education initiatives, and enhance services for local seniors.

Her commitment extends well beyond the daily activities of the Senior Center. Johnson successfully secured private funding from the Dudley Woman's Club for much-needed renovations to the facility.

"Mrs. Johnson has a way of making people feel cared for, welcomed, and valued," Dudley Town Administrator Jonathan Ruda said. "That is exactly what she has brought to the Dudley Senior Center and to so many parts of this community over the years. This recognition is truly well deserved, and we are very fortunate to have her in Dudley."

A Dudley resident since 1978, Johnson and her husband of 56 years Jon, raised two sons while she pursued a college education part-time at Nichols College, becoming the first member of her family to earn a college degree. Throughout the years, she has devoted herself to numerous organizations, including Abby's House, St. Anthony of Padua Parish, the Dudley Woman's Club, and initiatives supporting local veterans.

Local residents to participate in 2026 Pan-Mass Challenge to support cancer research NEEDHAM — This August 1 and 2, the Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) will bring together more than 6,000 cyclists and 4,000 volunteers on August 1-2 to raise money for cancer research and patient care at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute. Participants from local communities will be among those helping support the PMC's mission to fund lifesaving cancer research and treatment.

Local participants include: Christopher Bolduc of Auburn Makenzie Parella of Auburn Pamela Fenby Lazerick of Auburn Mary Chaves of Auburn Carol Fraini of Auburn John Chaves of Auburn Maureen Grensavitch of Auburn Dawn Allard of Auburn Melissa Sellers of Dudley Riley Bowes of Dudley Melissa Leonard of Dudley Carol Watroba of Dudley Payton Parent of Dudley Kimberly Aucoin of Dudley Holden French of Dudley Sean Bowes of Dudley John Glowacki of Dudley Mike Allain of Dudley Brooke Bowes of Dudley Heather Bowes of Dudley Olivia Bowes of Dudley Amanda Suss of Dudley Lauryn Collins of Webster Cynthia Sherman of Webster Courtney Desrosiers of Webster Amanda Collins of Webster Emme Shippey of Webster Brenda Williams of Webster Dina Kujawski of Webster Brittany Caron of Webster Wilfred Desrosiers of Oxford Cynthia Podles of Oxford Janet Fiorentino of Oxford Mark Baker of Oxford Jeanne Malone of Oxford

The PMC, which raises more money for charity than any other single athletic fundraiser in the world, is aiming to raise more than ever this year, with a fundraising goal of $79 million. This year's PMC comes at an especially critical time, with federal research support shrinking, grant approval rates reaching historic lows, and cancer cases continuing to rise. For the 20th consecutive year, 100 percent of every rider-raised dollar will go directly to Dana-Farber, one of the nation's top three hospitals for cancer research and care.

"The theme for this year's PMC, which is 'now, more than ever,' underscores the paramount importance of every single dollar raised in fueling the search for a cure," said Billy Starr, founder and chairman of the PMC. "We are endlessly grateful to every rider, volunteer, donor, and sponsor who makes the PMC possible. Because of their training miles, long hours of volunteering, generous support, and unwavering commitment, we are moving ever closer to a world without cancer."

Since its inception in 1980, the PMC has raised $1.125 billion for Dana-Farber, making it the organization's largest single contributor and accounting for 67 percent of the annual revenue of The Jimmy Fund, Dana-Farber's community-driven fundraising arm. This unrestricted annual funding has empowered and accelerated advancements in cancer research, deeply benefitting patients across the world.

During each annual PMC weekend, thousands of cyclists and volunteers come together from across the world, hailing from 47 US states and 12 countries, with a shared purpose of raising as much money as possible for Dana-Farber. Cyclists ride routes ranging from 25 to 177 miles. Included among these participants is the PMC Living Proof community, riders and volunteers who were previously treated or are currently undergoing cancer treatment and serve as Living Proof of the progress made through raising funds for cancer research and treatment.

There is still time to participate in this year's Pan-Mass Challenge. Folks interested in getting involved can learn more and register at PMC.org.

About the Pan-Mass Challenge The Pan-Mass Challenge (PMC) is a bike-a-thon that today raises more money for charity than any other single athletic fundraising event in the world. Founded in 1980 by Billy Starr - who remains the event's founder & chairman, an annual cyclist, and a fundraiser - the PMC has raised $1.125 billion for Dana-Farber Cancer Institute through the Jimmy Fund. As Dana-Farber's single largest contributor, the organization generates 67 percent of the Jimmy Fund's annual revenue. 100 percent of every rider-raised dollar goes directly to fueling cancer research and treatment at Dana-Farber. In addition to its two-day bike-a-thon across Massachusetts, the PMC is powered by further "spokes in the wheel," with initiatives including the PMC Winter Cycle, an indoor spin event; PMC Unpaved, a gravel bike ride; and PMC Kids Rides, mini bike-a-thons for children ages 2 to 15. The PMC attracts riders and volunteers from 47 states and 12 countries and over 300,000 individual donors. Across events, the PMC has successfully melded support from committed cyclists, volunteers, corporate sponsors, and individual donors, all of whom are essential to the PMC's goal and model: to attain maximum fundraising efficiency while increasing its annual gift. The PMC's aspiration is to provide Dana-Farber's doctors and researchers with the necessary resources to discover cures for all cancers. For more information, visit www.pmc.org.

Cynthia Iwanski joins Dudley Board of Selectmen

Cynthia Iwanski

with a Master's Degree in Law Enforcement in 2004.

"My father built the house that we moved into in Dudley. My roots have always been in Dudley," she said.

Iwanski is a retired police officer, having served the Town of Southbridge for more than thirty-one years. She was the first female hired on the force, the first female to obtain a Master's Degree, and the first female to retire.

"Through that experience, I've learned that good governance comes down to three things: listening carefully, making informed decisions, and being accountable to the people we serve," she said.

Over the years, Iwanski has been involved in community service through the Toys for Tots program, planning and chairing church festivals, planning trips for youth, and volunteering with local organizations.

In her new role on the Board, Iwanski said her priorities are to maintain fiscal responsibility, support smart, sustainable growth, and ensure transparency in how decisions are made.

"I believe in open communication, respectful dialogue, and working collaboratively—even when we do not all agree," she said.

The quiet heroes who hold a community together

Every community has its public figures. They chair meetings, cut ribbons, and stand behind podiums when milestones are celebrated. But every community also depends on another kind of leader, one whose work is rarely accompanied by applause.

The Commonwealth Heroine Award exists to recognize those women whose influence is measured not by headlines, but by lives touched. Deborah Johnson's selection as Dudley's 2026 Commonwealth Heroine is a reminder that some of the most important contributions to a town happen quietly, consistently, and often without expectation of recognition.

For many people, the local senior center is simply another municipal building. In reality, it is often one of the community's most important gathering places. It combats isolation, promotes health, provides education, offers companionship, and gives older residents a place where they continue to feel connected and valued. Behind every successful senior center is someone who understands that the job extends far beyond office hours.

Johnson has clearly embraced that philosophy.

Her work has not been limited to overseeing daily operations. She has expanded programming, organized meals and special events, promoted dementia education, secured private funding for improvements, and continually sought ways to improve the lives of Dudley's older residents. Those accomplishments would be impressive on their own.

What makes this recognition especially meaningful, however, is that it acknowledges the work most people never see.

Community service is often built upon countless small acts rather than a few grand gestures. It is making phone calls to check on someone who hasn't been seen in a while. It is staying late to finish preparations for an event. It is writing grant applications, coordinating volunteers, arranging transportation, or finding resources for someone facing a difficult situation. These are the kinds of responsibilities that rarely generate publicity, yet they form the backbone of a caring community.

The Commonwealth Heroine Award intentionally honors those behind-the-scenes efforts. In doing so, it reminds all of us that leadership is not measured by titles but by service.

Johnson's story also reflects another important lesson. Her commitment to Dudley did not begin when she became director of the Senior Center. For decades she has volunteered with organizations including the Dudley Woman's Club, St. Anthony of Padua Parish, Abby's House, and programs supporting local veterans. She has invested in her hometown across generations, proving that community involvement is not something reserved for a particular stage of life. It is an ongoing choice. That example matters.

Across Massachusetts, volunteer organizations continue to face challenges recruiting new members. Many longtime civic groups depend on a small number of individuals who repeatedly step forward to organize events, raise funds, and solve problems. As those volunteers retire, communities will need a new generation willing to carry that responsibility forward.

Awards like this one do more than recognize past accomplishments. They shine a light on the value of public service and remind others that one person's commitment truly can make a difference.

There is another lesson worth remembering as well. Our older residents deserve more than basic services. They deserve opportunities to remain active, engaged, and connected to their neighbors. Communities that invest in their seniors are investing in decades of wisdom, experience, and volunteerism that continue to enrich local life.

Dudley has every reason to celebrate Deborah Johnson's recognition. It honors not only one exceptional individual, but also the spirit of compassion that strengthens small towns throughout the Commonwealth.

Communities rarely become stronger because of a single dramatic event. They improve because people like Deborah Johnson quietly choose, day after day and year after year, to care for their neighbors. Those contributions may not always make headlines, but they leave an enduring mark on the places we call home.

Tasty cool down places in Auburn

BY HELEN POIRIER
AUBURN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Summer is here, and with the hot days, one's thoughts could be cooling down with ice cream and the many flavors that can make deciding which kind to choose difficult. There was a time in Auburn when where to get your ice cream could be a tough decision also. There were many ice cream places to visit in Auburn's history. This article will be the start of a multi-part series highlighting different ice cream stores that were in Auburn from past to present. To help gather information, a survey was put on the Auburn Historical Society & Museum's Facebook page asking for the best place, past and present, to get ice cream in town and why, as well as favorite flavors. There were standalone ice cream shops, ice cream at convenience style stores, restaurants, and unexpected places of business like a filling station. The consensus so far is 3-1 hard ice cream over soft serve with novelty treats coming in third.

A long time West Auburn resident remembers a Sunoco gas station at 887 Southbridge St. run by Ralph R. and Grace E. Ross, who were originally from Vermont. Besides selling gas, there was a small room attached to the main house on the Route 20 side where they sold candy and ice cream. That was his favorite place to get his ice cream cone.

Where the 99 Restaurant is now located originally started out as Dutchland Farms, which was a chain of ice cream and lunch shops that started in Brockton, Massachusetts on a dairy farm established by Fred F. Field in 1897. A picture of the Dutchland Farm Store, which was built by L.O. Irish Co. of Auburn in 1933, can be found in our "Images of Auburn" book, which is available for sale at the museum. Eventually, the company expanded to 50 roadside stores that sold milk, butter, eggs, served toasted sandwiches, hot dogs, and fountain treats including ice cream. However, the Dutchland chain did not do well during the Depression and was sold to their rival, Howard Johnson's by 1940. Howard Johnson's was located where J. Anthony's is now at the Auburn/Oxford line. On Auburn side of the restaurant, 28 flavors of ice cream were served.

The former Dutchland store became a short-lived furniture store, then the China Terrace motel and restaurant, Hawaii 12/20, and is now Pub 99.

The Mt. Auburn Dairy was located on Route 20 in front of what was the Auburn Airport and is now a furniture store. The dairy was opened in the 1930s by Frederic O'Shea who built and ran it, and who also worked for the town as the sealer of weights and measures. He sold it in the late 1940s or early 1950s. The O'Shea family lived upstairs over the dairy. A picture of the diary can also be found in the "Images of Auburn" book.

Mt. Auburn Dairy was a staunch supporter of the Auburn High School yearbook, taking ads out from 1937-1952. There were many different meetings held at Mt. Auburn during the years including Democratic Town meetings, the Golden Rule Committee of the district nurses, and the Tuesday Luncheon Club to name a few. There was even a meeting hosted by Dr. Manford R. Spalding where A.A. Robertson, special agent for the Auburn Board of Health, spoke on the work he was doing in town. It was also interesting that the Mt. Auburn Dairy was used as a geographic reference in many types of articles about accidents, selling pets and getting dressed or fresh turkeys and so on.

The ice cream survey is still on the Auburn Historical Society and Museum Facebook page for people to chime in their opinion. There is also email, leave a message by phone or come visit the Auburn Historical Society & Museum, 41 South Street. The museum is open Tuesday and Saturday mornings 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., and may be reached at auburnmuseum@verizon.net or 508-832-6856, www.auburnhistoricalmuseum.org or follow us on Facebook at Auburn Historical.

Small habits help shape a stronger financial future

FINANCIAL FOCUS
DENNIS ANTONOPOULOS

Financial security doesn't have to come from a big salary, a lucky investment or some dramatic turning point. For most people, wealth is built more simply, through small habits repeated many times over.

If you're like many young people, you may feel you don't have enough money to start investing. The reality is that you're in a great position to build the small habits that will help you create lasting wealth. Here are five tips to help you get started.

Automate savings before you spend. One of the most powerful financial habits you can build is among the easiest. Set up an automatic transfer such as by contributing to an employer retirement plan or exploring if you can direct part of your paycheck to a savings or investment account.

This helps remove the temptation to spend that money instead of saving it. Even setting aside 1 to 5 percent of your income can help build momentum over time.

Watch the small stuff. It's easy to dismiss a $15-a-month streaming service or a $6 coffee twice a week. But those small purchases add up. Forgotten subscriptions, food delivery fees and impulse buys can quietly drain your bank account.

"Just $25 a week, if invested well, can grow into the thousands in a few short years." Scan your recurring charges regularly, cancel what you don't use and put that money to work instead.

Don't let your lifestyle outpace your income. When you get a raise or bonus, it's tempting to upgrade your apartment, car or everyday spending. This "lifestyle creep" can be a significant hindrance to building wealth.

Here's an alternate approach: Every time your income goes up, increase your savings rate before anything else. Even saving half of a raise while spending the rest puts you ahead.

Start now, even imperfectly. Don't wait to start investing. Even if you can only set aside a small amount each month, do it. Starting just five to 10 years earlier can result in significantly more wealth down the line, even if the early contributions are small, thanks to compounding.

Compounding means your contributions earn interest, and even that interest earns interest. Over decades, that snowball effect can make a world of difference.

Stay aware, not obsessed. You don't necessarily need to track every dollar you spend. But you do need to be aware of your money habits. A quick weekly or monthly check-in on your accounts, spending patterns and progress toward savings goals can help you catch problems early.

Financial awareness also means protecting what you build. An emergency fund covering three to six months of total expenses keeps one bad month from becoming a financial crisis. Avoiding high-interest debt does the same. These defensive habits make everything else possible.

Your financial future likely won't be shaped by one big decision. Instead, it will probably be built by small choices you make every day. And the best time to start making good choices is now.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We need to protect energy choice in Massachusetts

To the Editor:

Massachusetts lawmakers are currently considering legislation that would directly impact your ability to choose an energy plan that fits your needs. For years, customers like you have had the freedom to select the energy option that works best for your household or business, whether that means price certainty, a clean energy option, or a plan that better aligns with your budget and preferences. That could change if S.3143 moves forward in Massachusetts.

This legislation does not expand customer choice. Instead, it would reduce your ability to choose by making it harder for families to maintain access to competitive energy options and limits flexibility. If protecting your ability to choose your energy plan is important to you, now is the time to speak up. Your voice is important and lawmakers need to hear directly from you. Send a message to your state representative and urge them to protect choice in

At 250, Dudley can choose the better work of self-government

To the Editor:

As America marks its 250th anniversary, Dudley has an opportunity to remember something larger than any one election, budget debate, board meeting, or ballot question.

We are neighbors before we are opponents. We are Americans before we are factions. Disagreement, even sharp disagreement, is not disloyalty. It is part of the inheritance of self-government.

Dudley has just come through a spirited local election season. Voters chose a new Selectman and rejected an override by a clear margin. Those results deserve respect. Every candidate willing to serve deserves credit. Every voter deserves to be heard. Those newly elected deserve the opportunity to lead, and those who previously served Massachusetts.

Sample of Letter:

I'm writing as a constituent to ask you to protect energy choice in Massachusetts as you consider S.3143. For years, I've had the ability to choose the energy supplier that works best for my needs – whether that's a plan with stable pricing, clean energy options, or something that fits my specific needs. The legislation being considered would take that choice away by allowing municipalities to force me onto a default utility service of their choice – even if I'm satisfied with my current provider.

I urge you to support Amendments 23 and 67 to S.3143 and oppose any version that removes or limits energy choice so that flexibility for Massachusetts customers is preserved.

Thank you for your time, and for representing our community.

deserve thanks for their commitment.

That is democracy.

But democracy does not end when the votes are counted. Dudley still faces real questions about public safety, roads, schools, senior services, equipment, health insurance, retirement costs, utilities, and basic municipal operations. Those challenges did not begin with one election, and they will not disappear because one vote is over.

There will be further public discussion about how Dudley addresses these issues. That may include whether a smaller or more limited financial question should be considered. Nothing should be assumed, rushed, or treated as automatic. If considered, it should be done carefully, publicly,

The freedom found between the fireworks

Every Fourth of July seems to arrive with the same familiar soundtrack.

Somewhere in town, someone is already testing fireworks a few nights early. Flags appear on front porches that looked bare only a week before. The grocery stores suddenly have mountains of hamburger buns stacked where the breakfast cereal used to be, and every weather forecast becomes the most important broadcast of the week.

In Massachusetts, Independence Day has always carried a little extra weight. We live where so much of the nation's story began. We grow up hearing about Lexington and Concord, Bunker Hill and the Boston Tea Party. Schoolchildren memorize dates that happened just down the road from where they ride bicycles today. This year, as the nation marks its 250th birthday, those connections feel even closer. Communities across the Commonwealth are celebrating not only with fireworks and parades, but with historical programs that remind us how much of America's story started here.

Yet, I suspect most of us don't spend the Fourth thinking about history books. Instead, we remember our own traditions.

Maybe it's the neighborhood parade where every kid decorated a bicycle with crepe paper. Maybe it's sitting on a blanket waiting for darkness while trying to guess where the first fireworks will appear. Maybe it's a backyard filled with folding chairs that have somehow become family heirlooms. There is comfort in traditions that don't need improving.

Every year, someone insists they know the perfect way to grill corn on the cob. Every year someone burns the hot dogs while insisting they're "just getting flavor." Every year someone forgets the bug spray until it's too late. Some things are worth repeating.

The older I get, the more I think Independence Day isn't really about the fireworks at all. They're beautiful, certainly, but they're over in half an hour. The holiday lasts because of everything surrounding them. It's neighbors waving

LANTERNS

By CHARLES

from across the street. It's children staying up far later than they should. It's veterans quietly standing when the national anthem is played. It's grandparents explaining to curious youngsters why the holiday matters without turning it into a lecture. Those moments don't make headlines, but they make communities.

Our towns have changed over the years. Storefronts come and go. Schools expand. Roads are rebuilt. New families arrive while others move away. Yet on the Fourth of July, people still gather in the same parks, line the same sidewalks, and spread blankets across the same fields their parents and grandparents once used. That's a remarkable kind of continuity.

We spend much of the year talking about what divides us. Turn on the television for ten minutes and you'll be reminded of every disagreement imaginable.

Then Independence Day arrives. For one evening, we all look in the same direction.

Nobody argues about whether the red burst was prettier than the blue one. Children don't care who their parents voted for. The only debate that matters is whether the grand finale has started or if the biggest shells are still coming.

Perhaps that's the lesson hidden beneath all the celebration. A community doesn't become stronger because everyone thinks alike. It becomes stronger because people choose, again and again, to share the same spaces, the same traditions, and the same hopes for tomorrow.

So this weekend, enjoy the parade. Eat one too many hamburgers. Wave to someone you haven't seen in a while. Stay for the fireworks, even if you've seen hundreds before.

And when the last echo fades into the summer night, remember that the brightest part of Independence Day was never what exploded overhead. It was the people standing beside you, looking up together.

LETTER

and with respect for the vote that already occurred.

Residents have every right to support, oppose, question, or reject any future proposal. Government has a duty to listen, explain clearly, and earn public trust.

What makes that harder is the example too often set by higher levels of government. Too much of state and federal politics has become performance: blame first, listen last, turn every issue into a weapon, and treat compromise as surrender.

Dudley does not have to copy that.

We are close enough to know better. We see each other at school events, youth sports, church, the grocery store, town meeting, the senior center, and along the same roads. We do not have the luxury of pretending that the people who disagree with us are strangers.

Social media makes that easy to forget. At its worst, it turns complicated issues into slogans, rumor into "fact," sarcasm into argument, and neighbors into targets. A Facebook thread is not a town meeting. A meme is not a budget analysis. A personal attack is not accountability.

Criticism is healthy. Cynicism is not. Questions are healthy. Character assassination is not. Oversight is healthy. Cruelty is not.

A person who supported an override does not hate taxpayers. A person who opposed it does not hate police officers, firefighters, seniors, schools, roads, or public services. We can disagree strongly without deciding the worst about each other.

The founding generation understood that lesson. At the Constitutional Convention, large and small states nearly broke the project apart over representation. The answer was not humiliation. It was compromise. Benjamin Franklin signed a Constitution he did not believe was perfect because he understood that self-government required humility. James Madison listened to public concerns and helped advance the Bill of Rights. John Adams and Thomas Jefferson went from allies, to bitter rivals, to friends again.

They did not avoid conflict. They kept conflict from becoming ruin.

For Dudley, ruin would not arrive all at once. It would look like slow erosion: fewer resources for services that keep the community safe, slower response capacity, delayed repairs, reduced maintenance, less support for seniors, and fewer tools for employees to do their jobs.

That is not a scare tactic. It is math. Health insurance, retirement, utilities, equipment, public safety, roads, schools, and compliance are not likely to become cheaper in 2028. If recurring costs keep rising faster than recurring revenue, the gap must be closed. Reserves, deferrals, and reductions can only go so far. Eventually, difficult choices become service reductions, and service reductions often mean staffing reductions.

At some point, a community must decide not only what it does not want to pay, but what it still expects to receive.

At 250, America reminds us that self-government asks more of us than voting, posting, criticizing, or winning an argument. It asks us to listen when we would rather dismiss, compromise when compromise is hard, accept outcomes when they do not go our way, and stay engaged when the next hard question comes.

Dudley does not need the politics of Washington or Beacon Hill. It needs the better work of citizenship: facts over slogans, respect over suspicion, humility over pride, and the understanding that no one side owns this community.

That was the challenge of the founding generation. It remains ours now.

Dudley belongs to all of us. Its future will depend on all of us.

Oxford artist's work on display at Booklovers' Gourmet

WEBSTER — Booklovers' Gourmet, located at 72 East Main St. in Webster, is hosting a local art show & sale featuring the paintings of W.J. Yacino of Oxford.

"Through the Eyes of an Artist" will be on view July 1st-31st in the cafe gallery and may be viewed during regular business hours: Tuesday-Saturday 10am-5pm, Wednesday 10am-6pm.

The public is invited to a meet and greet with the artist on Saturday, July 25, noon to 2 p.m. For more information, call 508-949-6232 or visit bookloversgourmet.com/events

Wayne Joseph Yacino is a native of Oxford who is of Metis (French – Abenaki), Italian and Polish descent. He began painting at the age of five years. As a self-taught artist, and with over 60 years of experience, he has had the opportunity to live in Europe for two years during his military tour with NATO. He has displayed several of his pieces in Vicenza, Italy. He has also displayed his woodwork and paintings throughout the United States.

The artist has done extensive research into Native American imagery and has taught the Ancient American Skills the first weekend in October, at the Annual Water's Farm Days event in Sutton, Massachusetts, from 1996-2022.

The artist's goal is "To share with the viewer my emotions and Spiritual experiences through my art; to rise above the mundane, and to bring honor and Glory to my God."

Whatever his subject, he finds great joy and blessing in the way the eye moves through a painting and follows the interaction of all the colors.

Vision looks to tomorrow and sees the reality that should exist today. Vision is the ability to dream – to dream better things in a better world.

Vision brings power to a life that might otherwise be meaningless.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute announces Spring Dean’s List

WORCESTER — Worcester Polytechnic Institute (WPI) has announced the university’s Dean’s List for academic excellence for the spring 2026 semester.

The criteria for the WPI Dean’s List differ from that of most other universities as WPI does not compute a grade point average (GPA). Instead, WPI students are named to the Dean’s List based on the amount of work completed at the A level in courses and hands-on projects.

“WPI’s academic programs are rigorous and require a level of independence beyond what is required in traditional courses. WPI students work on real-world, open-ended problems on campus and in communities around the globe. Far from being simple academic exercises, the projects students complete have genuine and lasting impacts in our partner communities,” said Provost Andrew Sears. “Some of this nation’s best and brightest students come to WPI to study engineering, science, business, and the humanities. Those named to the Dean’s List have excelled in all of their work, and we are exceptionally proud of these outstanding students.”

The following students were recognized:

Bay Path celebrates 59 CTI graduates, expands workforce training programs

CHARLTON — Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School proudly celebrated the graduation of 59 students from its Career Technical Initiative (CTI) program last evening, marking a significant milestone in the program's continued growth and impact.

The CTI program, launched in 2024, provides adult learners with access to high-quality, hands-on technical training designed to meet regional workforce demands. Last night's graduates represent a diverse group of individuals who demonstrated dedication, perseverance, and a strong commitment to building new career pathways. Many balanced work, family, and personal responsibilities while completing rigorous 200-hour training programs that prepare them for immediate employment in high-demand industries.

"This graduating class represents the heart of what the CTI program is all about—opportunity, access, and workforce readiness," said Marci Komssi, Program Coordinator. "We are incredibly proud of these 59 graduates and the determination they demonstrated throughout the program."

The success of the CTI program is made possible through continued state investment and workforce development partnerships. As part of the Commonwealth's commitment to economic recovery and growth, $24.2 million was awarded to 23 organizations throughout Massachusetts to train 2,490 individuals. These strategic investments, led by the Massachusetts Workforce Skills Cabinet, are designed to expand access to career pathway programs and better position residents to fill critical workforce needs across the state.

Building on this momentum, Bay Path is expanding its program offerings to reach even more adult learners. For the first time, the school will offer a 200-hour Building Maintenance program in a five-week hybrid summer format, running from June 29 through July 31. This program is offered in partnership with MassHire, with applications opening this week.

Looking ahead to Fall 2026, Bay Path will offer nine CTI programs, further increasing access to career training opportunities. These programs include:

- Building Maintenance
- HVAC
- Culinary
- Manufacturing
- Auto Collision
- Auto Technology
- Diesel Mechanic

BHS Class of 1986 seeks community's help locating classmates for 40th reunion

REGION — As the Bartlett High School Class of 1986 prepares to celebrate its 40th reunion on Sept. 26, organizers are asking the community for assistance in locating classmates who have not yet been reached through social media or via text.

To make the process simple, the reunion committee has created a short contact-information form and is encouraging residents, friends, and former classmates to help spread the word. If you know someone on the "missing classmates" list, organizers ask that you text them the link to the form so they can update their information.

Contact Info Form: <https://tinyurl.com/BHS1986-40Years>

If it's easier, you may also complete the form on a classmate's behalf—so long as you have their current contact details. Organizers emphasize that any help tracking them down is truly appreciated, as personal connections often succeed where digital outreach falls short.

A list of classmates the committee is hoping to locate appears below. With the community's support, they hope every member of the Class of '86 will have the opportunity to join this milestone celebration.

Central Mass. farmers' market season starts now!

REGION — May marks the semi-official beginning to farmers market season, with many of the seasonal farmers' markets in our region starting their regular schedules, with more starting in June. Central Mass Grown is proud to support more than two dozen farmers markets across the Worcester County area.

Just in the city of Worcester, residents can choose from no less than six different markets, including the markets run by the Regional Environmental Council, both the Beaver Brook Market (306 Chandler St.) Friday mornings starting June 12 and the University Park Market (965 Main St.) Saturday mornings starting June 13, plus the Out To Lunch Market on the Worcester Common Oval behind City Hall every Wednesday from June 24 to Aug. 26. On Sundays, there's both the Market on Exchange Street starting May 17th and the Brussels Street Market starting June 7. And on Thursdays, check out the Burncoat Center for Arts and Wellness at 78 Burncoat St. for their new farmers market starting May 14th. Some of these markets feel like festivals, while others are farmers markets in the truest sense, focused on offering fresh food and agricultural products directly from local farms.

Throughout the region, there's a market nearly every day of the week: for example, the

Sturbridge Farmers Market on Sunday, Holden on Tuesday, Grafton on Wednesday,

Westborough on Thursday, and Westminster on Friday. And so many, many more markets featuring a wide variety of items you won't find anywhere in supermarkets, including purple cauliflower, celeriac, husk cherries, goat cheese, duck eggs, or alpaca wool socks!

Every farmers' market is important to the farmers and other vendors that are there.

According to Central Mass Grown Executive Director David Reed, "Farmers markets are a vital source of revenue for farmers, because every dollar goes right back to them. And they are an important way for consumers to see where their food, flowers, wool, and soap all come from. If you usually shop in a big box store or online, you've never had a real chance to know anything about what you are buying."

Most farmers markets in our region have one or more farms that participate in the Healthy Incentives Programs, a benefit connected to the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). SNAP recipients can use their EBT card to purchase fresh produce from participating farms and receive an immediate refund to their card, up to a monthly limit that is based on household size. The end result? Free farm-fresh fruits and vegetables, and the reward of knowing you supported your local farm!

So this summer season, visit a farmers' market and take a second to say hi to your local farmers. The farmers want to meet you. They want to say hi. Because farming is hard work, and they do it because they love it and they want you to love it, too.

Find out more about local farmers markets at centralmassgrown.org.

Master Masons hold MYCHIP Community Outreach event

BY BRO. JIMMY FALZONE
MAJOR GENERAL SALEM TOWNE LODGE
SOUTHBRIDGE

SOUTHBRIDGE — On Saturday, June 27, Master Masons from the Major General Salem Towne Lodge (MGSTL) set up pop up tents and tables for the Family Fun Day event at the Southbridge common. Children lined up waited to complete their MYCHIP identification kits. The Massachusetts Youth Child Identification

Program (MYCHIP) event was sponsored by MGSTL. Chairman Brother Joel Reich of MGSTL says families can learn about this free child safety program and receive valuable child identification material. The Masonic MYCHIP program is one of the most comprehensive services of its kind and is offered to the public free of charge. All identification materials created during the event were provided directly to each child's family.

At these MYCHIP events, Freemasons set up the equipment and work with other volunteer Masons from the 24th Masonic District, along with additional volunteers as needed, to create child identification kits. Each child moves through several stations, which together take about 10 to 15 minutes to complete. The process collects key identification information, including voice recordings, fingerprints, a short video, and photographs. MYCHIP gives law enforcement valuable tools to help recover a missing child quickly and safely. Thanks to the generosity of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts and its members, this service is offered free of charge. Massachusetts Freemasons remain committed to providing this program to families across the state on an ongoing basis. Once completed, the child's information is given to the parent or guardian on a USB wallet card for safekeeping.

All information is confidential and the Masonic my Chip retains nothing but the permission form when the kits are complete. All other data is permanently erased after the child's USB drive wallet card is prepared. Privacy is our number one focus. If you would like more information or would like to request one of these Masonic my chip events in your area, go to www.mychip.org to read more information and to schedule an event near you. If you would like more information about Freemasonry, go to massfreemasonry.org to read to and to find a lodge nearest you.

18th Century Magic Show coming to Samuel Slater Experience

WEBSTER — Step back into history for a one-of-a-kind experience of magic, illusion and mystery. The Samuel Slater Experience will be hosting a historical magic show by award-winning Professor D.R. Schreiber, the Historical Conjurer, on July 3 at 3 p.m. Tickets are $16 per person.

As the Historical Conjurer, Professor D.R. Schreiber evokes the spirit of early magical performances and brings parlor magic back to the public. In the 18th century, conjuring (as magic was called then) emerged as a genuine art form and entertainment. Known as "professors of natural philosophy," magicians would rent taverns, legitimate theaters or lecture halls for the exhibition and displays of legerdemain, necromancy, or what would today be called "illusion" and "magic tricks." Top dollar would be paid by the citizens of Europe to see the latest discoveries in the science of "natural philosophy" presented by these conjurers. Today, Professor D.R. Schreiber presents an historic look at the beginnings of modern magic in his performances and exhibitions. Professor D.R. Schreiber leads his audiences on a stroll through the past centuries of conjuring entertainment. His unique presentations entertain while educating the audience about historical events, literary and cultural figures, and the science and art of conjuring.

The Samuel Slater Experience will be closing at 2:30 p.m. to accommodate this special performance. Please purchase tickets online, at the box office, or by calling 508-461-2955. Buy both museum admission for Friday, June 3 and performance tickets for a discount. Email admin@samuel Slater Experience, 31 Ray St., Webster.
