WEBSTER — On Tuesday, June 9, Saint Joseph School’s Pre-K 4-year-old students and their families gathered in the Richard A. Nowak Gymnasium to celebrate an exciting milestone as the students marked the completion of their preschool journey and received their diplomas. The special graduation ceremony recognized a year filled with tremendous academic, social, and spiritual growth as the students prepared to take their next big step into kindergarten. The ceremony began with the traditional Graduation March, followed by welcoming remarks from PreK 4-year-old program Instructor, Ms. Robyn Dodge. Students proudly participated in several recitations, including the Pledge of Allegiance, The Hail Mary, and The Our Father, before delighting family members with a collection of songs that showcased both their enthusiasm and the confidence they developed throughout the school year. Musical selections included “Books! Books!,” “I Might Be Small,” “Thank You,” “Kindergarten Here We Come,” and the always entertaining “Tooty Ta.” Following their performance, the proud graduates were presented their diplomas by Principal

Beth Boudreau before joining their families to enjoy a special photo slideshow, highlighting memorable classroom moments, friendships, and the many milestones achieved throughout the 2025–2026 school year. The celebration reflected the joy and accomplishment of a wonderful year of learning, discovery, and growth. This year, 23 students advanced to Kindergarten: Emma Artuso, Maria Attalla, Rita Dostoler, Fatima Sofia Garcia, Noah Huynh, Giavanna Khalil, Elias Kielinen, Grace Kubiak, Cameron LaFlash, Skylette Lancellotta, Grayson Larsen, Avery Lewandowski, Forrest Lovett, Olive MacPherson, Divya Nasis, Max Piehl, Abigail Prendergast, Hunter Smith, Henry Surowaniec, Anzio Vega, Lucas Wierzchowiec, Freya Williamson, and Maximus Zona. Saint Joseph School’s Pre-K 4-year-old program is led by Ms. Robyn Dodge and supported by teacher assistants Mrs. Pier Cutler and Miss Molly Brennan, whose dedication and care helped create a nurturing environment where students were able to learn, grow, and thrive throughout the year. Congratulations to the Class of 2026 Pre-K Graduates as they begin their Kindergarten journey!

Local residents graduate from Eastern in 2025-26 academic year

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. — More than 800 Eastern Connecticut State University students received undergraduate and graduate degrees in the 2025-26 academic year, culminating this past May in two commencement ceremonies at the conclusion of the spring 2026 semester.

Among the graduates are: Gavin May of Dudley, who graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in Art.

Ella Springer of Dudley, who graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Health Sciences.

Delaney Kudron of Oxford, who graduated with a Master of Science in Elementary Education.

From first-generation college students to seasoned professionals pursuing advanced degrees, the Class of 2026 hails from nearly all of Connecticut's 169 towns, 24 U.S. states, and 28 foreign countries. The graduates range in age from 19 to 81, with 28 percent being the first in their families to graduate from college and 11% being NCAA Division III student athletes. Women make up 60% of the class, and approximately 30 percent of students identify as people of color.

The graduates went through the University's School of Arts and Sciences, School of Education and Professional Studies, and Graduate Division. Popular undergraduate majors included business administration, psychology, English, health sciences, and art. At the graduate level, students received advanced degrees in applied data science, management, accounting, education (early childhood, elementary, secondary), special education, and educational studies/technology.

During her keynote speech at the undergraduate commencement ceremony, Beth Regan '79, justice and chairwoman of the Mohegan Tribal Council of Elders, urged the graduates to be flexible as they enter their careers. "The universe may have other plans," she said. "When those moments are presented to you, embrace them. If you allow yourself that flexibility, you may experience the best adventure you never could have imagined."

President Karim Ismaili offered his congratulations to the Class of 2026. "What you have accomplished is no small thing," he told the graduates. "You have navigated deadlines and exams, long nights and early mornings, work, family responsibilities, leadership roles, internships, athletics, and all the unexpected realities of life."

U.S. Senator Richard Blumenthal was among the special guests. "We live in difficult, sometimes dark and daunting, times. ... We have been through tough times before. We are a resolute and resilient nation, and it is you whose service and dedication will help get us through."

During his remarks at the graduate ceremony, World Bank Executive Harold Tavares, recipient of Eastern's second annual Distinguished Public Service Award, told the graduates to lead with courage and to pave the way for others. Reminding them that they are in the minority of Americans with an advanced degree, he said, "Doors are opening for you. Be sure to hold them open for those around you. Each of you has the power - and the responsibility - to improve the human condition."

Eastern alumnus James Woulfe '09, chief of staff for the mayor of the City of Hartford, welcomed the graduates to the University's alumni family. He reminded the graduates that they are not alone on this journey. "Tonight, you become a part of the Eastern alumni family. Stay connected. Lean on one another, and lean on us."

A quarter-millennium of community

There are few institutions in any town that can honestly say they have witnessed nearly every chapter of its history. Even fewer can claim to have helped write many of those chapters. As First Congregational Church, UCC, in Auburn prepares to celebrate its 250th anniversary, the occasion offers far more than a birthday party. It is an opportunity to reflect on the enduring role that community institutions play in shaping the places we call home.

Founded on Jan. 25, 1776, the church predates the signing of the Declaration of Independence by several months. That simple fact is remarkable. Before the United States officially existed as a nation, this congregation had already taken root in what would become Auburn. Through wars, economic upheavals, technological revolutions, pandemics, and generations of change, it has remained a constant presence.

Buildings alone do not last 250 years. Organizations survive that long because people continually choose to invest their time, talents, and faith in something larger than themselves.

For generations, churches have served as much more than places of worship. They have been gathering places where neighbors celebrated marriages, mourned loved ones, organized charitable efforts, welcomed newcomers, and supported one another through life's greatest joys and deepest hardships. Whether someone attends every Sunday or simply drives past the familiar steeple each day, these institutions become woven into the identity of a community.

The anniversary celebration itself reflects that broader mission. A public reading of the Declaration of Independence reminds attendees that the church's history is intertwined with the nation's earliest days. Historic displays and artifacts invite residents to reconnect with Auburn's past. Food trucks, lawn games, cupcakes, and an outdoor movie transform the occasion into a community festival where everyone is welcome, regardless of religious affiliation.

That openness is worth celebrating.

In an era when many people feel increasingly disconnected from one another, opportunities to gather face-to-face have become more valuable than ever. Communities thrive when people know their neighbors, share traditions, and create new memories together. Milestone anniversaries like this one remind us that history is not something preserved only in museums or textbooks. It lives through the institutions that continue to serve their communities decade after decade.

It is also important to recognize the countless volunteers whose quiet efforts make organizations like First Congregational Church possible. Every historic building requires maintenance. Every community event requires planning. Every outreach program depends upon people willing to give their time without seeking recognition. While anniversaries often focus on the past, they are equally a celebration of those carrying the mission forward today.

Not every organization reaches 25 years. Very few reach 100. Reaching 250 years represents an extraordinary achievement that deserves recognition throughout Auburn.

Whether residents attend the celebration because of family ties, an interest in local history, or simply the chance to spend an enjoyable summer afternoon with neighbors, they will be participating in something much larger than a single event. They will become part of a story that began before the birth of the nation and continues today.

Communities are strengthened not only by new ideas and new investments, but also by preserving the institutions that have provided stability across generations. As Auburn celebrates this remarkable milestone, it is also celebrating the values that have sustained the town itself: faith, fellowship, service, and a commitment to future generations.

Two hundred fifty years is an extraordinary legacy. More importantly, it is a reminder that the strongest communities are built one generation at a time, with each leaving something meaningful for those who follow.

Revolutionary soldier and a camp

BY HELEN POIRIER
AUBURN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

When driving through Auburn west on Route 20 going over Eddy Pond one can see a building with a beach. That building is the newly renovated Camp Gleason, which is accessed off Central Street. In the past, Camp Gleason has not only been used swimming but for many different organization meetings, private parties, V.F.W. posts events, churches for fireside services, picnics, wedding receptions and more. The Gleason name does have a history with the town of Auburn going back to when it was the “South Parish of Worcester.”

Deacon David Gleason was a descendant of the Watertown Gleasons, who originally came from England, according to the “David Gleason in North America Family Histories, 1500-2000.” Thomas first moved to Charlestown in December 1658 where he leased from Captain Scarlette a portion of the Squa Sachem lands. In 1639 Saua Sachem deeded her lands in what is now Medford, to Charlestown. She kept some of the land on the west side of Mystic Pond. When she died, she bequeathed all her land to Gov. John Winthrop and Edward Gibbons. Gibbons got possession of the land on the west side of Mystic Pond and was the land he leased to Thomas Gleason. There was a question of ownership after the lease was signed and it kept Thomas Gleason in litigation until he died.

Thomas Gleason II. was born in England around 1737. He settled in Sudbury on 40 acres of land bought from Benjamin and Mary Rice that was between Beaver Dam Brook, Gleason's Pond and Gleason Hill in Framingham. The pond was named after Thomas Gleason Sr. and for four generations of his descendants that lived on its border. It is still known as Gleason's Pond to this day.

Thomas III was born in Sherborn in 1671. He moved to Oxford about 1723 and deeded his home in Framingham to his son Thomas who sold it to Jacob Commings. Thomas III was one of the founders and signers of the Covenant of the church in Oxford and was one of the directors from 1723-1726. He gave his son, Thomas IV, a 40-acre home lot in Oxford Village and various other parcels of land lying in the Great Cedar Swamp in Oxford.

Thomas Gleason IV was born in Framingham but moved to Oxford sometime after 1715. In 1739, Lieutenant Thomas Gleason was chosen by the town of Oxford as a gamekeeper to prosecute those who illegally killed deer. On December 31, 1775, he was dismissed from the Oxford church to be part of a new church in the South Parish of Worcester of which he was a pew holder. The tax records of 1771 showed Thomas paying £18 for real estate, personal property was £5 14s. He lived to an old age and died at the house of his son-in-law, Joshua Merriam, in North Gore in Oxford.

Thomas V was born in 1721 in Oxford where he lived until the land was included in the forming of the South Parish of Worcester in 1773. He married Susannah Putnam of Sutton in 1746; they had 5 children, the oldest being David.

The name of David Gleason appears in the South Parish tax list 1771; real estate valued at £27, personal £9 19s. He kept a tavern in the north part of Oxford from 1768 to 1773. Settled in North Gore and on June 23, 1773, moved with several other family members to form a town at Ward. In 1774 Elijah Gleason, David's uncle, sold him land in north part of Oxford, reserving ½ of the house during the natural life of Thomas Gleason their father.

Forming of South Parish 23 Jun 1773 David Gleason of Oxford was listed as one of the families who's "families and estate, erected into a Precinct and shall enjoy all the power and privilege which other precinct in this Province by law enjoy..... which was sent down for consideration to the House of Represent, Thomas Fluker, Sect. and J. Chasling Speaker."

Throughout the process of creating the South Parish of Worcester, the names of David Gleason and his father Thomas appear in minutes of meetings and letters of correspondence. Both Thomas and David Gleason were listed as privates from South Parish taking part in the Revolutionary War. In the Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors who fought in the Revolutionary War, David Gleason was with "Worcester Matross, Capt. James Swan's 1st Company, Colonel Crafts's regiment." After the war, David continued giving service to the town by being a part of the Commission, School Squadron leader, assessor, constable and Thying man between 1779-1786.

In 1815, Jonah Goulding established the First Baptist Church of Ward with eleven men and seventeen women as members. Two of those members were David Gleason and his wife. The church disbanded in 1837, and a new church was formed in North Oxford which the Gleason family were members.

One could think that all this could warrant a place in Auburn being named after the Gleason family, but alas the history of Camp Gleason only goes back to American Steel and Wire who created this recreational center in the 1940s. It was named after George Gleason, a superintendent at American Steel and Wire.

The last place you can still wander

LANTERNS
By CHARLES

There are fewer and fewer places these days where you can simply wander.

Everything seems to have a purpose now. We drive to the store because we need something. We head to work because we have to. Even a walk is often measured by a smartwatch that reminds us how many steps we've taken, how fast we walked and whether our heart rate was acceptable. Somehow we've managed to turn wandering into another assignment.

But every once in a while, I find myself in an old hardware store.

Not one of the giant warehouse places where you need a map to find a box of screws. I mean the kind of hardware store with wooden floors that creak just enough to let everyone know you've arrived. The place where shovels stand in one corner, fishing lures somehow occupy another, and there's always a mysterious shelf full of oddball parts that haven't changed since the Reagan administration.

I never get through one of those stores in less than half an hour. It's impossible.

You walk in looking for a hose washer, and suddenly you're examining cast-iron hooks that would look good in the garage. Then you notice birdseed on sale. Around the corner is a display of flashlights that makes you wonder if yours still works. Before long you're comparing paintbrushes even though you haven't painted anything in years.

None of it is urgent. None of it was on the list. That's the beauty of it.

When I was younger, I thought efficiency was the goal. Get in, get out, cross another errand off the list. Now I'm beginning to appreciate places that don't rush you.

The best hardware stores aren't really selling tools. They're selling possibilities.

You start imagining projects you'll probably never tackle. Maybe this is finally the year you'll repair that loose porch step. Perhaps you'll organize the workshop. You stand there holding a packet of vegetable seeds, briefly convinced you're about to become the sort of fellow who grows prize-winning tomatoes.

Then your wife gently reminds you that the last basil plant barely survived because you kept forgetting to water it. She's usually right.

What I enjoy most, though, are the conversations. Someone asks where to find a particular bolt, and another customer answers before an employee has the chance. Advice travels up and down the aisles as naturally as if everyone were old neighbors. Nobody seems bothered by the interruption. That doesn't happen very often anymore.

In most places, people stare at their phones while waiting in line. At the hardware store, they're debating the best way to remove a stripped screw or whether oil-based stain still beats the newer products. Somehow complete strangers become temporary teammates, united by whatever stubborn home repair brought them there.

I suspect that's one reason these stores have survived when so many small businesses haven't. They offer something that can't be delivered to your front porch in two days. They offer human nature.

Of course, I rarely leave with only what I intended to buy. Somehow a five-dollar errand becomes a small bag full of things that "might come in handy someday." My garage is living proof that someday hasn't arrived yet. Still, I don't regret it.

Those little detours through the aisles remind me that not every minute needs to be optimized. Not every trip needs to be timed. Sometimes it's enough simply to wander, discover something unexpected, exchange a few words with a stranger and head home feeling like the afternoon was well spent. That's getting harder to find.

So if you happen to disappear for a while on a Saturday morning, don't worry if you haven't traveled very far. You might just be wandering through the last place where nobody expects you to be in a hurry.

And honestly, I think we could all use a little more of that.

Dudley thanks community partners for memorable ceremony marking 250th anniversary of Declaration of Independence

To the Editor:

The Town of Dudley extends its sincere appreciation to the many organizations, volunteers, and community members who came together July 5 to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence with a meaningful and patriotic community ceremony.

The event honored the enduring principles of liberty and self-governance while showcasing the spirit of collaboration that continues to define the Dudley community.

Special thanks go to the Dudley Historical Commission for organizing the event. The Town extends particular appreciation to Dudley Historical Commission Chairman Fredrick “Butch” Meyer, whose public reading of the Declaration of Independence brought the words of America’s founding document to life for those in attendance.

The town also recognizes the Technical Committee of the First Congregational Church for providing professional sound and live streaming of the event, allowing those unable to attend in person to view the celebration.

The Veterans Honor Guard is thanked for lending dignity and tradition to the occasion through its ceremonial rifle salutes and the stirring performance of “To the Colors,” honoring our nation’s flag and those who have served to defend it.

Appreciation is also extended to the Dudley Grange for generously providing refreshments following the ceremony, giving attendees an opportunity to gather and reflect on the significance of the day.

The town thanks the Black Tavern for opening its doors and offering tours to visitors interested in learning more about Dudley’s rich colonial history and its connection to the nation’s founding era.

In keeping with a tradition observed across the country, the bells of St. Andrew Bobola Church, St. Anthony of Padua Church, the First Congregational Church, and Nichols College rang out in celebration, helping commemorate the anniversary with a symbolic reminder of the call to liberty that has echoed through generations.

The Town of Dudley also thanks everyone who attended and all who contributed their time, talents, and resources to make this historic anniversary a fitting tribute to the ideals expressed in the Declaration of Independence 250 years ago.

Bay Path celebrates 59 CTI graduates, expands workforce training programs

CHARLTON — Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School proudly celebrated the graduation of 59 students from its Career Technical Initiative (CTI) program last evening, marking a significant milestone in the program's continued growth and impact.

The CTI program, launched in 2024, provides adult learners with access to high-quality, hands-on technical training designed to meet regional workforce demands. Last night's graduates represent a diverse group of individuals who demonstrated dedication, perseverance, and a strong commitment to building new career pathways. Many balanced work, family, and personal responsibilities while completing rigorous 200-hour training programs that prepare them for immediate employment in high-demand industries.

"This graduating class represents the heart of what the CTI program is all about—opportunity, access, and workforce readiness," said Marci Komssi, Program Coordinator. "We are incredibly proud of these 59 graduates and the determination they demonstrated throughout the program."

The success of the CTI program is made possible through continued state investment and workforce development partnerships. As part of the Commonwealth's commitment to economic recovery and growth, $24.2 million was awarded to 23 organizations throughout Massachusetts to train 2,490 individuals. These strategic investments, led by the Massachusetts Workforce Skills Cabinet, are designed to expand access to career pathway programs and better position residents to fill critical workforce needs across the state.

Building on this momentum, Bay Path is expanding its program offerings to reach even more adult learners. For the first time, the school will offer a 200-hour Building Maintenance program in a five-week hybrid summer format, running from June 29 through July 31. This program is offered in partnership with MassHire, with applications opening this week.

Looking ahead to Fall 2026, Bay Path will offer nine CTI programs, further increasing access to career training opportunities. These programs include:

- Building Maintenance
- HVAC
- Culinary
- Manufacturing
- Auto Collision
- Auto Technology
- Diesel Mechanic
- Welding
- Electrical

Since its inception, the CTI program has continued to expand in both enrollment and program diversity, attracting students from local communities as well as across the region. The program remains a critical component of Bay Path's efforts to support workforce development and provide meaningful career pathways for adult learners.

For more information about the CTI program or to apply for upcoming opportunities, please contact Marci Komssi at mkomssi@baypath.net.

Webster First launches ‘Pay a Person’

Send money to friends and family instantly, no extra apps required

WORCESTER — Webster First has announced an exciting update to its online banking platform with the launch of a new “Pay a Person” feature. Arriving this July, this convenient tool will let members send money instantly to friends and family straight from their account—no extra third-party payment apps to download or sign up for. With just a few taps, members can transfer funds in seconds, making it faster and easier than ever to pay back a friend, share expenses, or help out a loved one. Designed for speed and simplicity, “Pay a Person” puts effortless, secure payments right at members’ fingertips.

The Pay a Person tool was created to make everyday financial moments simpler. To send money, members only need the recipient’s name and phone number or email address. There’s no need to ask for account or routing numbers. Once a transfer is started, the recipient gets a quick notification and can accept the funds in just a few steps, even if they don’t bank with Webster First. The feature is built for the moments that come up in daily life. Members can split a dinner bill with friends, chip in for a group gift, pay a babysitter or dog walker, settle up on shared rent or utilities, or send emergency funds to a family member in a pinch. Pay a Person makes it easy to move money quickly and securely whenever the need arises.

Webster First designed the Pay a Person feature with flexibility and affordability in mind, giving members several ways to send money based on how quickly it needs to arrive. Sending money to another Webster First member is always free and lands in their account instantly, making it perfect for quick, everyday exchanges. When the money is headed to someone at a different bank, members can choose a free next-day delivery option that’s ideal for payments that aren’t time-sensitive. And for those moments when speed matters most, recipients at outside financial institutions can accept the funds instantly for a simple, low flat fee of just $2.50. No matter which option members choose, the recipient receives a text or email with clear, step-by-step instructions on how to accept the funds.

To make sending money as simple as possible, Webster First has built Pay a Person directly into its online banking platform. Members can access the feature right from their account dashboard, with clear prompts and an intuitive layout that guides them through each transfer in just a few taps.

Special Events
Family Capoeira Workshop Series – Thursdays, June 25th-August 20th at 3:00pm
Capoeira is an Afro-Brazilian martial art form originally developed in Brazil by enslaved peoples as a form of resistance. It incorporates elements of acrobatics, dance, and music. In this class, parents and kids will learn together — beginning with basic capoeira movements, songs and rhythms.
No experience needed, and all athletic levels are welcome! Come ready to move and wear something comfortable. The class is led by instructors from Mass

Capoeira Culture Center, located right here in Webster. See you there!

The Music of McCartney with Kirouac – Thursday, July 16th at 6:30pm
This program will explore the music of Paul McCartney as he developed his songwriting through the 1960s with the Beatles and beyond. From the influences of his father, a jazz musician in the 1920s/30s, his incorporation of those sounds of ballroom and dance-hall big bands in his music, to his successes as a pop and rock performer in Wings and as a solo musician, the listener will re-visit a wide spectrum of musical styles covered over Sir Paul’s 65-year career. Regional musician Dan Kirouac has been performing throughout New England for 40 years, including 20 years combined with the Massachusetts-based Beatles tribute bands Yellow Submarine (2001-2006) and Beatles For Sale (2007-2022). Tonight’s show will be delivered on piano and vocals.

Joys of Nature: Helping Endangered Species – Thursday, July 23rd at 4:30 and 5:30pm disappearing? Learn about endangered species in the wild here in New England, and around the world, and some things we can all do to help them. Don’t miss meeting some of their animal relatives up close and personal! This intergenerational program is designed for ages 4 and up, registration is required.

Dinosaurs with Dinoman – Tuesday, July 28th at 4:30pm
Dinoman Dinosaurs take the audience on a fact filled adventure through the Mesozoic Era with fun, magic and amazing props. What is a dinosaur? When were they here? How do we know? All this and more will be answered and some life-sized dinosaurs may appear. Suitable for folks age 4 and up, but visual enough for everyone. There is even time afterwards to visit and take photos with these gentle giants from the past.

Summer Soul Collage: Expressive Arts Workshop with Kaylah – Thursday, July 23rd at 6:30pm
You can either beat the heat or bask in it — either way, summer stirs something within all of us. Please join us for an expressive arts workshop where we’ll explore what warmth, light, and the summer season mean for our minds, bodies, and spirits through the meditative art practice of collage. We’ll invite creativity and conversation, touching on how heat and sunlight affect our mental health, and leave you with local resources to support your well-being all season long. This program is for adults and registration is required.

Sage and Emily Amick: “In today’s political climate, it’s hard not to get discouraged. Isolated, doom scrolling, lacking a sense of purpose or community...it’s easy to become overwhelmed by the dire state of democracy and do nothing. This book provides a new lens through which to see yourself: a new & powerful light which bridges the personal & the political. In the words of Joan Baez, action is the antidote to despair, and with this helpful guide, even if Mercury is in retrograde, our democracy doesn’t have to be.”
