Debt exclusion for school projects added to Dudley ballot

BY JASON BLEAU
CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — Dudley voters will be asked to decide on a funding mechanism for school capital costs when the municipal election comes around in June with selectmen proposing a debt exclusion rather than taking the money out of the town budget.

Taxpayers voted to expend more than $3 million for school repairs, including the Dudley Middle School roof and enhancements to fire alarms, security, and video systems, during a ballot vote in September of 2022. However, the vote only approved the expenditure and not the method in which the town will pay off the debt. Selectmen sought input from Treasurer/Collector Richard Carmignani and Principal Assessor Lisa Berg during a March 18 meeting where Berg presented a 15-year payoff plan that would require voter approval of a debt exclusion.

Berg's worksheet showed the largest tax increase of 22-cents would be assessed in Fiscal Year 2025 with the additional impact to the tax rate lowering year after year. Fiscal Year 2025 would pay $348,150, the largest portion of the $3.06 million and be the only year where the increase to the tax rate is more than 20-cents. Berg explained that the combined tax increases among all fifteen years would total $1.95.

"When I do this, I have to base everything off the last certified year of values, the last certified year of the tax rate, which is Fiscal year 2024. Obviously, this can change, but we have to have a starting point," Berg said, noting that after homes are reassessed the estimated tax impact could be lower than project. "I know 22-cents (in 2025) may sound like a lot of money to people, but they have to understand right now that the assessed values are still going up which makes the tax rates drop. It may not be 22-cents on the tax rate next year if this debt goes through, it may be less."

A debt exclusion, opposed to an override, allows added taxes to cover debt with that levy eventually falling off when the debt is paid, meaning the added taxation for the school projects isn't a permanent part of the taxes. According to Berg's worksheet, Fiscal Year 2025 would create an estimated $86.53 increase to the average home tax levy with every subsequent annual addition to taxes being lower year after year. For example, Fiscal Year's 2026 and 2027

Oxford officials seeking $49.6 million budget

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

OXFORD — The town administration plans to seek voter approval for a $49.6 million budget for the coming fiscal year, with public hearings in April and a Town Meeting vote May 8.

That's $2.5 million or 5.3 percent higher than last year, and will require $28.1 million in property taxes to fund, according to the March 19 presentation by Town Manager Jen Callahan and Finance Director Katie McKenna. Additionally, they'll seek approval of $2 million in capital spending.

The plan foresees a several additions, but also has a few uncertainties. The largest part of the increase is in contractual, step and related raises for many town staff, but also takes on five school positions that had been federal-grant funded, adds to legal costs to handle "a handful of cases that have been quite expensive," a little to other post employment benefits, and pretty significantly to insurance costs.

The latter is also one of the uncertainties, with Callahan saying the town's insurer wants Oxford to set aside 10-12 percent for potential claims. That would add $240,000, but she said she's not including it "because I don't have evidence" it's necessary.

"Not everything is in our control," she noted.

Other uncertainties include the effect of police union negotiations, a $143,000 deficit on out-of-district tuition costs from the current year, whether the state will approve local option hotel and meals tax increases, and final state budget numbers.

Regarding the latter,

Callahan said she's seen "some foreboding warnings." The quarterly state budget is seeing "rapidly decreasing revenue projections" and local legislators told her there's "no real wiggle room" for local earmarks after already seeing "mid-year cuts," so nobody's sure what that will mean for local aid.

She said she'd hoped the "millionaire's tax was going to do something a bit more sizeable" for Chapter 90 road aid (instead, it's basically stable, which is "still not enough"). That money is mostly going to schools this year, with Oxford getting $1.27 million extra.

Some of the legal fees will probably go toward pursuing contractual cannabis payments. Callahan said some of the businesses "have not paid their

DCLT announces plans to add trees to town properties

CORRESPONDENT

DUDLEY — The Dudley Board of Selectmen has given its blessing to the Dudley Conservation Land Trust (DCLT) to pursue grant funding to plant new trees on town owned properties.

DCLT representative Paul Wieloch met with selectmen on March 11 where he explained that the Trust is currently seeking money through the Janet Malser Humanities Trust for a variety of projects, including adding greenery to help beautify Dudley.

"We've been looking for a community service project and we thought we'd request some additional funds from the grant, and we would purchase some trees to be planted around town," said Wieloch.

The idea was received warmly by selectmen, especially considering it would be funded through the grant. Selectman Kerry Cyganiewicz praised the initiative as a positive for the town.

"I like the idea. Why wouldn't we want more trees? It's something to beautify the town, and it's not costing the taxpayers anything. Personally, I don't see any negatives there," he said.

Some of the recommended locations for the trees were the town municipal building, highway department

Don't fall victim to scammers claiming affiliation with Sheriff's Office REGION — Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis is issuing a warning to residents regarding a recent phone scam involving the Sheriff's Office. The phone scammer poses as an employee of the Sheriff's Office and informs the victim that they have an arrest warrant or charges filed in their name or that of a loved one. The scammer then demands payment of a fine to avoid being arrested and serving jail time.

Another common phone scam involves telling individuals they have missed jury duty, which also results in a fine.

"Unfortunately, we recently received a report of an individual who was scammed out of over $20,000," commented

Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis. "With the amount of information sharing and readily available data on consumer habits, scammers may know where you bank, the products you buy, or the names of your loved ones. Scam artists will go to any length to trick you into sharing personal information or issuing irreversible payments."

According to the Federal Communications Commission, or FCC, this type of scam is called spoofing. Spoofing is when a scammer deliberately falsifies the information transmitted to your caller ID display to disguise their identity. Scammers often use neighbor spoofing so it appears that an incoming call is coming from a local number or spoof a number from a company or a government agency that you may already know and trust.

In the case of the Sheriff's Office scam, the scammers use the names of actual officers and "spoof" the department's phone number. The scammer asks for money to clear up a non-existent warrant. In some instances, the caller requests that payments be made in the form of gift certificates or via apps such as Venmo or Cash App. The scammer will then have the victim remain on the line until the victim purchases the gift certificates or relays specific financial information to the scammer.

The Worcester County Sheriff's Office encourages people to be aware of calls like this and to never give personal or financial information over the phone to anyone whom you didn't call yourself.

"Our department does not contact residents and demand payment or ask for credit card information. Today's scam artists are always testing new tactics. Residents need to beware of any unsolicited calls that ask for their personal or financial information," commented Evangelidis. "These callers can sound convincing, may be aggressive, and try to intimidate you with threats of jail time or steep fines. We encourage anyone who gets a suspicious call to hang up and contact their associated institutions directly to verify any requests."

Nicole Grady inducted into Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi

BATON ROUGE, La. — Nicole Grady of Oxford was recently initiated into The Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest and most selective all-discipline collegiate honor society. Grady was initiated at The University of Tampa.

Grady is among approximately 25,000 students, faculty, professional staff and alumni to be initiated into Phi Kappa Phi each year. Membership is by invitation only and requires nomination and approval by a chapter. Only the top 10 percent of seniors and 7.5 percent of juniors are eligible for membership. Graduate students in the top 10 percent of the number of candidates for graduate degrees may also qualify, as do faculty, professional staff and alumni who have achieved scholarly distinction.

Phi Kappa Phi was founded in 1897 under the leadership of undergraduate student Marcus L. Urann who had a desire to create a different kind of honor society: one that recognized excellence in all academic disciplines. Today, the Society has chapters on more than 325 campuses in the United States, its territories and the Philippines. Its mission is "To recognize and promote academic excellence in all fields of higher education and to engage the community of scholars in service to others."

More About Phi Kappa Phi Since its founding, more than 1.5 million members have been initiated into Phi Kappa Phi. Some of the organization's notable members include former President Jimmy Carter, NASA astronaut Wendy Lawrence, novelist John Grisham and YouTube co-founder Chad Hurley. Each year, Phi Kappa Phi awards $1.3 million to outstanding students and members through graduate and dissertation fellowships, undergraduate study abroad grants, funding for post-baccalaureate development, and grants for local, national and international literacy initiatives. Nursing class of 2024 spreads acts of kindness

CHARLTON — Christine Abdi, Evelyn Kiplangat and Catherine Ibrahim, all of Worcester and all members of the PN Class of 2024 at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy, coordinated the collection of groceries and snacks on campus to restock the practical nursing students' food pantry.

Abdi, Kiplangat, and Ibrahim recognize that some practical nursing students struggle to find the funds to cover educational expenses. The struggle to be fully nourished while juggling home, work, and school is real. By maintaining a well-stocked food pantry, the idea is to lessen the struggle. The nursing students are gladly stepping up to help their peers. Their acts of kindness do not go unnoticed. According to research, “spreading kindness not only helps others feel better about themselves -- it can also boost the giver's health and happiness!

Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN Academy Director is grateful for the members of the PN Class of 2024 for sharing their kind gestures.

“Our student nurses continue to make the world a better place,” she said. “Our faculty and staff not only produce competent and prudent nurses they are kind-hearted nurses. All acts of kindness, big and small, change the world, and kindness given to others is also a gift to oneself.”

The PN students are happy to give and consistently does so.

Bolandrina adds, “It is common for our alumni, faculty, and staff to generously give, they give of their time, resources, and many more kind gestures. Now, our students do too! When they give to nursing students, they invest in the nursing students' future and provide a legacy for more generations of nurses. We are forever grateful for everyone's support.”

Giving also shows appreciation for the education and training that Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy is providing them and it gives others a chance to have a similar experience of support.

The origins of the Easter Bunny

The Easter Bunny will be getting a workout this season, as the newly fallen deep snow in some parts of New England may make for some difficult travel. But alas, with baskets filled with colorful eggs and chocolates, this beloved character has been a part of Easter celebrations worldwide. Where does this tradition stem from?

The legend of the Easter Bunny traces its roots back centuries, intertwining folklore, mythology, and religious symbolism. While its precise origins are a bit of a mystery, various theories and cultural influences have contributed to the emergence of this cherished icon.

One prevailing theory suggests that the Easter Bunny's lineage can be traced back to ancient pagan rituals celebrating spring and fertility. In pre-Christian Europe, the hare was revered as a symbol of fertility and new life, representing the arrival of spring after the barrenness of winter. As Christianity spread across the continent, pagan customs melded with Christian traditions, giving rise to a hybridized celebration that incorporated elements of both.

Another theory proposes that the Easter Bunny found its way into Christian festivities through German immigrants who settled in America during the 18th century. In German folklore, the "Osterhase" or Easter Hare, was believed to lay colorful eggs as gifts for children who had been good. This tradition evolved over time, with the hare eventually morphing into the familiar bunny we know today, and eggs becoming synonymous with Easter.

Furthermore, the association of rabbits with Easter can also be attributed to their prolific breeding habits, symbolizing fertility, abundance, and the cycle of life. This symbolism aligns seamlessly with the Easter narrative of rebirth and resurrection, making the bunny a fitting emblem for the holiday.

Whether nestled in the pages of children's books, adorning decorations, or delighting young hearts during egg hunts, the Easter Bunny continues to evoke a sense of wonder and joy.

Discovering life: Palm Sunday

Jesus' earthly life and ministry is coming to an end. For three years, He inspired people with His words of wisdom. With his simple parables and stories, He revealed the great secrets of the kingdom of heaven. He amazed the crowds with his miracles, signs and wonders. Many began seeing Jesus as the long-awaited Messiah, the Anointed One about whom the prophets spoke. Such a Messiah, they hoped, would usher in a new reign in the world, the kingdom of God!

In preparation for His arrival in Jerusalem during the Passover feast, Jesus visits His good friends, Lazarus, Mary and Martha, but unfortunately, Lazarus had died. He was buried in the tomb and dead four days! Mary and Martha were in the midst of the seven day Shiva, the Jewish mourning custom, welcoming their family and friends who came to express their sorrow and condolences.

Imagine the shock, the wonder, the excitement when Jesus comes not simply to pay condolences, but to cry out "Lazarus, Come forth," raising His friend out of the tomb! Among Jesus' many miracles, He previously raised a young girl who had died as well as the son of a widow who was being carried out of the city for burial. Yet here Jesus confronts someone dead and buried in a tomb for four days! Even Martha is confused and questions Jesus when he asked that the tomb be opened because she is afraid of the terrible odor, the smell of death and decay.

Yet, Jesus proclaims to Martha "I am the resurrection and the life. Anyone who believes in me will live, even though they die; and whoever lives by believing in me will never die."

Do we understand these words? Do we truly believe the Jesus is "the resurrection and the life" and that He holds control over death itself? In the hymn for Palm Sunday, we sing, "By raising Lazarus from the dead before Your passion, You confirmed the universal resurrection, O Christ God! Like the children with the palms of victory, we cry out to You, O Vanquisher of death: Hosanna in the highest! Blessed is He that comes in the name of the Lord!"

Jesus "confirmed the universal resurrection" because He is "the Vanquisher of death!" The resurrection of Lazarus is simply the precursor to what Christians celebrate this upcoming week. We are preparing to journey through the holiest week of the year as we take part in the great Mystery of Christ's Passion, Suffering, and Death. Yet, we all know how it will end – in His glorious Resurrection. "I am the resurrection and the life. Anyone who believes in me will live, even though they die; and whoever lives by believing in me will never die."

We relive this every year during our Holy Week and Pascha celebrations! Yet, do we truly understand and believe? Not simply with an intellectual belief of Jesus rising from the dead but do we orient our entire lives around the One who said "I am the resurrection and the life."

We live in a society that more often than not tries to ignore death. We don't want to think of this final reality for all of us. Even as we get older we try to make ourselves look young and don't want to talk about death. Just like Martha, we are afraid of the terrible odor, the horrible smell of death and decay. So, we try to ignore it. And yet, we all will die like Lazarus one day and be laid in a tomb. Unfortunately, too many of us taste death even before our bodily death. So many people live in a "living hell" because of their own sinfulness and brokenness and experience death in this life. Well, on Palm Sunday, Christ is here to call out to each one of us – Luke/John/ Maria/ Sophia come forth! Come out of the tomb in which you suffer and discover life! For I am the resurrection and the life!

The crowd that gathered at Mary and Martha's house for shiva interrupted their mourning to shockingly witness Lazarus come out of a tomb after four days! Word spread quickly about this Prophet from Nazareth whom claimed to be the "resurrection and life." This Messiah, the word spread, even raises the dead! So throngs of people began to surround Him and walk with Him as He enters Jerusalem. They cry out, "Hosanna to God in the highest. Blessed is He who comes in the name of the Lord." They wave palm branches as a sign of their king entering into the holy city. They hope and believe this Messiah will usher in a new world order!

Yet what happens? Why do the crowds joyously praise Him one day and reject him a few days later, choosing to join the corrupt religious leaders who cry out "Crucify Him! Crucify Him!"

The more important question is, why do we do the same thing, praising Him one day and rejecting Him the next? Look at how full our churches are for Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday with people praising our Lord and God, yet after this sacred week, how many of us disappear from the Church and push aside any faith in the Risen One, choosing to listen to and follow the alluring and deceptive ways of the world.

Jesus Christ, the Resurrection and the Life, calls us to come out of our tomb of death and truly experience life in a divine way. He invites each one of us to receive Him and taste of immortal life! Yet, we don't like His path to life because it is counter-cultural, a path contrary to the ways of the world. To truly follow Christ and discover life as He offers it, we must follow His path:

If we want to be first, we must be last; we must not seek to be served but to serve others

If we want to follow Christ, we must deny ourselves and take up our cross of sacrifice

If we truly love Jesus, we must love our enemies and forgive even those who hurt us

If we call Christ our Lord and Teacher, we need to wash one another's feet, as He washed ours

If we want to discover life, we must be ready to lose our life for the sake of Jesus

If we want to welcome Jesus to live in our hearts, we must welcome the stranger, the foreigner, and even our enemy into our hearts

If we want to experience the forgiveness of God, then we must forgive as He forgives, even forgiving up to 70 x 7

If we want to taste God's glory, we can only discover this glory through the path of humility

If we want to understand God's sacrificial love for the world, then we must be ready to sacrifice for others.

The path of Jesus as the Resurrection and the Life is a path of simplicity and contentment, learning to live with less so that we can give more

Do we want to follow the One who proclaims "I am the Resurrection and the Life?" On this Palm Sunday, let us cry out with the crowds "Hosanna to God in the highest. Blessed is He who comes in the name of the Lord." We will, however, learn what it truly means to follow our Lord Jesus and discover life in its fullest form, accepting life in the way that God created us to experience it – with love, with sacrifice, with self-denial, sometimes with suffering – yet with ultimate victory.

"I am the resurrection and the life. Anyone who believes in me will live, even though they die; and whoever lives by believing in me will never die."

Trout season produces impressive fish

Don Cook with a nice brown trout caught last weekend at Lousia Lake.

Trout fishing is producing some impressive fish in Mass. waters, with some impressive rainbow trout being caught at various ponds and lakes in the valley. Mass. has pretty much stocked all ponds and lakes in the valley at least once, and trout will continue to be stocked up to Memorial Day weekend. Because of the high water from recent heavy rain, streams and rivers may not be stocked until waters recede. Many anglers are smoking the trout that they catch.

The Uxbridge Rod & Gun Club will open their pond for the April trout fishing derby on April 13, for members only. The pond will receive another huge trout stocking prior to the derby. The derby will start at 7 a.m., and will end at 10 p.m. Cash prizes will be awarded for the largest trout.

Trout fishing anglers need to be reminded again that Wallum Lake in Douglas is closed to all fishing until April 13, as the lake is controlled by Rhode Island regulations. When Wallum Lake opens, the trout limits are six fish per day. To check on all regulations, go to the Web site at Rhode Island freshwaterfishing.com.

Most local Rod & Gun Clubs in the valley have had their annual wild game dinners, with tickets selling out in one day. The

This past week, I was driving down the road on Route 16 near my house when a large rabbit was spotted crossing the road, and it was very large, but what made him stand out was the huge ears he was sporting. It was the size of a large snowshoe hare, but it definitely was not a hare. I had one in my backyard last year. Now, there are a lot of rabbits throughout the valley area, but these do not have all the features of the standard New England cottontail rabbits we are used to seeing.

The Eastern cottontail rabbits are also located in New England, and have many of the same features of a New England cottontail. Whatever they are, they raised havoc with my vegetable garden and with my flower bed last year, prompting me to fence off the garden this year.

Bear are coming out of hibernation, and sightings are being reported by homeowners throughout the valley that have bird feeders out. They are the number one food source they enjoy eating.

Forgiveness

Forgiving others - I didn't want to do.
Now that I'm done, I've a different point of view.

The hurt, the pain, had caused me so much strife.
It's true, you see – I'm no longer someone's wife.

I can't change the past, I can only move on.
God will help me - He'll make me grow strong.

Have mercy upon me, cleanse me from my sin.
Then I'll feel Your presence, which is found deep within.

Going back, in order to clean up the past,
Just apologize – things will change real fast.

Being obedient, is how I need to be.
Grace & mercy, I know You'll show to me.

'Hurt people, hurt people,' is what they do say.
'Loved people, love people,' is now the best way.

It's not up to us to settle the score,
It's God who decides, who will come through His door.

"People who conceal their sins will not prosper, but if they confess and turn from them, they will receive mercy."

The story of Joe Robbie

Like most New Englanders, I am a big fan of Boston sports. I'm willing to talk about the Celtics, Bruins, Red Sox, and Patriots anytime. But this interesting story has its roots in a different sports franchise, namely the Miami Dolphins.

Joe Robbie was born in South Dakota on July 7, 1916. The son of a Lebanese immigrant, he came from modest beginnings and worked a variety of jobs to earn a living. He spent time as a lumberjack, sportswriter, served in the Navy, and eventually attended the University of South Dakota where he received his law degree. Post graduation, Robbie's legal career gradually morphed into local and state politics. But it's what happened in March of 1965 that turns this into an interesting sports story.

In 1965, Robbie had a meeting with Joe Foss, the commissioner of the American Football League. Foss encouraged Robbie to look into Miami as a potential site for a new expansion franchise. As a lifelong sports fan, Robbie was very much interested in the idea, but he personally didn't have the money to make it happen. And so, Robbie formed a general partnership with a few other individuals and raised the $7.5 million to purchase the expansion team. A couple of short years later, Robbie bought out his remaining partners and simultaneously became the primary owner of the Miami Dolphins.

The trees — a letter to the town of Webster

To the Editor:

Please consider, in your next project, leaving the trees alone! It is very upsetting to myself, and many I have spoken to, to see the destruction of a living tree, let alone a whole row of them. Offering shade and beauty and also the ability to remove tons of Co2 from the atmosphere!

I was very dismayed to drive down Poland Street this week and see the place I walk my dog devoid of the tall tree row entering the middle school driveway. I also recall, years back, the destruction of the row of trees by the library on Main St. Those trees offered such beauty to the downtown common area. It was with sadness a neighbor cut down the huge magnolia offering such beauty and another a gorgeous cherry tree.

Every time I turn around, someone is destroying one. It takes 30 years or more for a tree to grow to maturity. So please don't give me the response "Oh, I'm planting another to replace it." In 30 years, our carbon levels will be much worse. The time to stop destroying trees is now. Think of our children's future not our current desire for a distorted idea of cleanliness, space or whatever it is the town thinks when cutting down our beautiful trees!

The actual threat is clear

To the Editor:

Accuse your enemies of what you yourself are guilty of. This is a tactic that progressives have used, to great effect, for over a hundred years. It's called projection, and a pair of letters to the Editor that appeared in the March 22 edition of the Webster Times were textbook examples. The first was a short, uninformed litany of accusations and leftist catch phrases that ended with a blind declaration of support for our current leadership. The second was a two page manifesto that read like the transcript of a hostage tape composed in a legacy media prison. Which, of course, it was. Willing captives of a curated narrative from a bygone era, the authors will never be swayed into seeking out originally sourced, unedited information on any of the candidates they claim to support - or detest. For the rest of us, it's easy — the actual threat to our "republic" is plainly visible.

Fattman has failed to represent his district

To the Editor:

When I read that State Sen. Ryan Fattman had secured state funding for Worcester Public School students to have free visits to Old Sturbridge Village, I wondered why?

Why would a State Senator, who doesn't represent Worcester, fight for free visits for Worcester students and ignore those students in his own district?

When I saw Mr. Fattman handing over a check for $15,000 to the CEO of Old Sturbridge Village, again, I wondered why? Why is taxpayer money being sent to Old Sturbridge Village, and not the Worcester public school System? I wondered how are our tax dollars being spent?

On Feb. 28, I contacted State Sen. Fattman's office for answers to these questions. As of this date, his office has failed to respond to my inquiry, I guess some things just can't be explained.

I would remind State Sen. Fattman that his job is to represent his district and address his constituents' concerns, and in this case, he has done neither.

Stop private jet expansion at Hanscom

To the Editor:

Both Republican and Democratic state governors, along with the legislature, have been pushing for a pathway for the Commonwealth to be carbon neutral by 2050. Considering the path we are on now, this will tough to reach. However, many have been making an effort to get there, by signing up for "green" electric plans, taking public transportation, purchasing an electric vehicle, switching over to heat pumps, cutting back on single use plastic, or putting solar panels on their roofs.

But now, even while we are asked to do all of this, Massport is considering a proposal to expand Hanscom Airfield solely to accommodate another 50 to 80 private jets that are used almost exclusively by the millionaires and billionaires to get to their vacation homes and destinations. Not only will the carbon footprint outweigh all the environmental benefits of all the rooftop solar panels in Massachusetts, it is being done on public property owned by Massport, and with the generosity of us taxpayers by not only letting these jets be written off as a business expense, but they are purchased tax free and fly with jet fuel that is taxed way below what you and I have to pay at a gas station. To top this off, this expansion will require clearing forested land that will adversely affect Walden Pond, the Minute Man National Historical Park, the Great Meadows National Wildlife Refuge and all of the Commonwealth.

If you would like more information on this, or find out to help stop this insane billionaire welfare plan, please take a look at this Web site: <https://www.stopprivatejetexpansion.org/>.

Is this the Dudley we want to see?

To the Editor:

April 20 is Earth Day and your friends and neighbors will be picking up litter that has accumulated since the last Earth Day. Sadly, this is a one-day event. I know that there are caring folks who have made Earth Day a year-round activity in their neighborhoods. Kudos to them for their efforts. We need more like you.

Regrettably, on April 21, the day after Earth Day, we will again see that littering is a 365-day year-round activity. Our "fast food" drive thru culture has given too many the perceived license to use their car or truck window as the easy option for disposal of their Big Mac remains and their empty DD coffee containers. Out the window and keep on driving!

The litter problem is on us; we own it. It won't be solved by "no littering" signs. Nor should we expect the police to solve this problem for us. Yes, they do have a role to play, and laws do need to be enforced. Unfortunately, bad habits are not easily broken and there aren't enough blue lights to enforce a meaningful change.

Thank you,

Gladys E. Kelly Library chickens have hatched

WEBSTER — It's once again chicken season at the Library! The Gladys E. Kelly Public Library welcomed 2 adorable chickens who hatched on the evening of Tuesday, March 19. When incubated, eggs take 21 days to hatch.

All the fluffy chick action can be seen in the lobby, or live streamed on the Library's Facebook page. The chicks are spending their days hiding under their heating plate, eating and drinking, and cheeping very loudly! They are always a welcome sight, and both adults and children enjoy watching their antics.

Usually, the Library hatches a larger amount up to 6. Staff are grateful for a small clutch this year, though, as it means they get to know their bubbling personalities (chicken-alityes?), and there is a LOT less cleaning up!

If you're interested in hatching your own eggs at home, the Library has two kits available in the Library of Things. If you have access to your own fertilized eggs, and land to raise them on, the kits include an incubator and everything you need to hatch. After you've hatched a clutch, the Library has a brooding kit for you to use to raise the chicks. These kits are available for an extended loan period in order to accommodate incubation and brooding times.

Or, if you're just interested in knowing more about chickens, you'll want to take home one of the egg-citing titles they have in stock. For example, "Drinking with Chickens: Free-Range Cocktails for the Happiest Hour," by Kate E. Richards, features delicious cocktails you can enjoy while you sit in your backyard and watch your hens free range!

Make sure you stop by the Library by the end of the month to see the chicks before they return back to their farm, or catch the live stream online!

OXFORD STUDENTS TAKE PART IN ARBOR DAY DRAWING CONTEST

The town of Oxford participated in Massachusetts' Arbor Day drawing contest. We had two students at Clara Barton Elementary selected as winners for the Town of Oxford-Saige Angell and Danny Estrada Lopez. Our Tree Warden, Jacob Mackowiak, presented them with certificates and an invitation to plant some trees in town. We'll see if they are selected for the official Massachusetts Arbor Day calendar.

Evoked positive emotions by adding Pantone Color of the Year to your garden the 2024 Pantone Color of the Year, Peach Fuzz. It was selected for generating a feeling of kindness and tenderness and encouraging sharing, community, and collaboration. Consider including this color in your garden to convey these emotions or as a good excuse to add more plants to your landscape. This is the 25th year the Pantone Color Institute has selected a color that reflects the spirit of the times. These are colors you are likely to see in home furnishings, advertisements, and even our landscapes. Peach Fuzz lies somewhere between pink and salmon. Many garden plants have flowers that fit into this color spectrum and can be used in containers and garden beds. Dianthus Vivacia® Orange is hardy to zone 7a, but can be used as an annual in colder areas. The large double flowers top 10- to 16-inch-tall plants and are showy during the cooler months of the growing season. They combine nicely with other flowers and their sturdy stems make them suitable for cutting. SuperTrouper® Orange Dianthus has similar colored flowers that are about 20% smaller. It is hardy in zones 5 to 9 and has a spicy fragrance. Celosia Celway™ Salmon has the same heat and drought tolerance as other celosias. The spiky blooms are held atop 40- to 48-inch stems, making them great additions to the middle or back of the border. If you love salvias, you can find a variety of peachy-colored blossoms. These plants tend to be deer-resistant and hummingbird magnets. Just check the plant tag for more specific information on the mature size and hardiness. Luxury Lace daylily has subtly fragrant star-shaped flowers. Hardy in zones four to eight it has the same low maintenance requirements as other daylilies. Just water thoroughly when needed. Geum ‘Mai Tai’ has vermilion red flowers that fade to a peachy pink early in the season. The 18-inch-tall burgundy stems are a nice contrast to the flowers. Grow it in full sun with moist soil in zones five to seven. Last but certainly not least is threadleaf coreopsis ‘Crème Caramel’ (Coreopsis verticillata ‘Crème Caramel’).

Hardy in zones five to nine, it slowly spreads making it a nice addition to a sunny slope or traditional border. The fine foliage blends nicely with other flowers, adding welcome texture to any planting. Watch the peachy-pink flowers deepen to salmon when temperatures cool. Use the artist’s color wheel to find colors that pair well with these and other peach-fuzz-colored flowers and foliage. Then look for opportunities to add interesting texture for some additional pizzazz. You and your visitors will enjoy the cozy warm feeling when walking through your landscape. Gardening Tips and Tricks

Spring has sprung and gardening season is around the corner! As all home growers know, it takes careful planning and many hours of labor to produce a bountiful garden. While nearly every successful gardener has their own special tricks to ensure a productive crop, the novice planter may need a helping hand to nudge green sprouts from uncooperative soil. If that's the case, the following tips culled from various "green thumbed" sources, including previously published tips from readers, may just be all you need to make this the most successful gardening season yet.

The addition of peat moss is necessary to keep window boxes and other container gardens properly watered. But, if you are not wetting down the peat moss before adding it to the soil, you may be doing your garden more harm than good. Peat moss must be moistened before it is used in potting mixes. When dry, the substance actually repels water!

Here's how to pretreat it: If you want to wet a full bag of peat moss, poke several holes in the bottom of the bag and open the top. Then pour water slowly into the top of the bag until it seeps out of the bottom holes. Push on the bag and knead it to ensure the peat is getting saturated. To test, scoop out a handful of peat moss and squeeze it. If you can squeeze water out, it is ready to use. If not, keep wetting until you can.

Here's an easy test to gauge if your garden soil is ready to plant. Simply scoop up a handful of dirt and squeeze it into a ball. If the ball crumbles when you release your fingers, the soil is all set for digging. If the ball sticks together, the soil is still to wet to work.

Flower bulbs are now plentiful at large garden centers. But, bulbs sold at such places are a bargain only if you know how to avoid poor quality bulbs. Here are some tips:

- * Bulbs should feel solid and heavy. If they are light, they may be dried out.
- * Avoid bulbs with discolored, dark or moldy spots.
- * Make sure there are no holes or other signs of insect damage on bulbs.
- * Pick over bulbs that have sprouted; it is better if they grow roots first.

Color Tip: Garden designers recommend most flower gardens have a splash of red. The bright color acts as a stunning accent when planted in a clump among white flowers and thick greenery!

Farmer's Planting Timetables

Our forefathers took great pains to plant crops at the precise time of year to promote a bountiful crop. With this in mind, below is this column's annual reminder of some interesting "old farmer's tales" that indicate when it is time to plant garden vegetables:

Lilac's Bloom: When the lilacs have their first leaves it is time to plant cool-weather crops such as peas, lettuce, and onions. When the lilac flowers are in full bloom, it s safe to plant tender crops such as tomatoes and corn.

Native American's Rule: The American Indians passed this reliable tip on to European colonists, and many farmers still rely on it today. Tender crops should not be planted until the leaves on an oak tree are as big as a squirrels ear (about an inch or so long).

Moon Signs: Many natural gardeners plant successfully by the phases of the moon. Here's how: Between the new moon and the first quarter: sow or transplant leafy plants and those that bear seeds on the outside of the fruit, such as strawberries.

Between the first quarter and the full moon: plant crops whose seeds develop inside the fruit, such as tomatoes, peas, beans and squash.

From the full moon to the last quarter: plant root vegetables.

Never plant from the last quarter to the new moon.

community host agreement fee. They're following their interpretation of the [Cannabis Control Commission's] intent" and Oxford is using the lawyers to compel them to fulfil their host agreements. That's being triggered by still-unclear CCC changes she described as "over-reaching legislative intent where they're rewriting the rules."

McKenna said cannabis revenue is declining already because of the many such firms in Massachusetts and the fact Connecticut legalized it as well. She said she thinks Oxford's share will "level out somewhere between $150,000 and $200,000 a year. Because of the uncertainty, she has not specifically budgeted its use, noting "we would be scrambling now and cutting" if she had.

As always, the biggest part of the budget is education, at $22.5 million, or 45.4 percent of the total. The schools are seeking a new elementary school Phys Ed teacher, a kindergarten teacher, an interventionist, and a little extra money for special ed summer school and tennis coaching stipends. The district schools are seeking a 3.8 percent increase to $20.8 million, but Bay Path is down by 2.7 percent to $1.7 million. Additionally, the town's funding just over $1 million in out-of-town tuition to other public or charter schools and $5.8 million in "indirect" school costs (including the various things the town side pays for, such as insurance). Oxford is receiving $12.2 million in Chapter 70 school aid to offset some of that.

At the end, Robert King claimed the schools had originally sought a much higher increase and that Town Meeting passed an unbalanced budget last year. Callahan, however, noted "with [an] 8.8 percent [hike], there is no contingency plan. It will be an unbalanced budget because we don't have that." McKenna added that Town Meeting "did not leave with an unbalanced budget" last year, because it had "some capacity in a couple lines. There was some levy reserve. We don't have any levy reserve this year."

(That's a reference to the maximum amount the town can tax under Proposition 2 ½, with a "reserve" meaning any unused amount below the maximum.)

Earlier, Callahan had expressed concern that the schools had sought $1.77 million increase, but her budget asks for $379,000 below that. Even "this funding level is not sustainable to taxpayers," she added.

The other big budget areas are $9.1 million in benefits, $5.7 million for public safety, $4.5 million for DPW, $3.3 million for general government, $1.3 million for various state payments and $1.1 million for debt payments (mostly the police station and last year's school repair bonds).

For the $2 million in capital spending, they're seeking to replace the high school HVAC condenser coil, demolish a Barton St building, repaint the library, replace town hall windows, $900,000 in road work, replacing an underground fuel storage system, two new vehicles, upgrade restrooms at Greenbriar, upgrade police Tasers and weapons. Callahan noted two police cruisers and ongoing DPW vehicle leases are not included, since they're in those department budgets.

project an 18-cent increase which amounts to $70.80 added to the tax levy in those years.

While added taxes may be difficult for many to accept, selectmen stressed that the only other option is to pay the money from the general government budget which would severely affect town services. Selectman Steve Sullivan explained this reality.

"If a debt exclusion doesn't pass, we have to come up with (money) from the town government - It'll come out of the town side of the budget. The tax increase and the snapshot are important, but if the debt exclusion doesn't pass after the people approved this roof project that's the number we have to deal with," said Sullivan.

Town Administrator Jonathan Ruda confirmed that if the debt exclusion fails, the town will be left with the bill to pay for through available funds. The cost will not fall back on the school district.

"We either debt exclude it which means you look at it as what it is, the district borrowed money and we're raising our tax rate the payoff that push in the assessment which the school then uses to pay off the loan, or we bring it out of the general government side. Essentially, what we're doing is adding $1.95 to the tax rate over the course of fifteen years in order to pay off that $3 million," said Ruda.

Selectmen closed the discussion by voting unanimously to add the debt exclusion to the June 10 election ballot. The town has also announced that nomination papers for the election are available and due by April 22.

ment garage, water and sewer facility, and town cemeteries. Town Administrator Jonathan Ruda recommended that the DCLT work with his Administrative Secretary Michelle Jarvis to determine exactly where the trees would be planted as there may be some added logistics depending on the location.

"I think the board would be better serviced if there were a plan as to where they were going to go. If they're going to go in cemeteries that requires a separate board approval vote. Maybe if we have a plan for some proposed spots, we can kind of look at it again in the very near future," said Ruda.

Selectmen also wanted the Land Trust to determine a long-term maintenance plan for the trees and what responsibility would lie with the town.

For now, the selectmen gave their blessing for the Land Trust to pursue to grant funds to purchase and plant the new trees. The DCLT would depend on town employees from the Highway Department for the planting. Officials do not expect to seek any added tax dollars for this project.

OBITUARIES

Treat yourself like a million-dollar racehorse

Eleanor B. Sendrowski

DUDLEY – Eleanor B. “Ellie” (Burzenski) Sendrowski died Friday, March 15, 2024 in her home.

She leaves her husband of almost 58 years, Joseph E. “Joe” Sendrowski; 2 daughters, E. Sendrowski of Webster and Paula Kohler and her former husband Roger of Sandisfield, MA; 4 grandchildren, Jacob Charles, Haley Grace, Maria Teresa and Harlan Joseph; 5 siblings, Chester Burzenski and his wife Claire of Clinton, twin Paul Burzenski and his wife Andrea of Clinton, twin Paula Gosselin and her husband Joe of North Middlesex, VT, Mark Burzenski and his wife Tessie of Clinton, and Ann Martin and her husband Craig of Bolton; a close brother-in-law, John Sendrowski and his wife Leila of Thompson, CT; nieces, nephews and extended family.

She was born in Clinton and raised there, a daughter of Charles H. and Eleanor “Alice” (Rzegota) Burzenski. She graduated from Clinton High School where she was a defensive guard on the varsity basketball team. She moved to Dudley in 1966.

Mrs. Sendrowski was a senior clerk typist at Worcester State Hospital where she worked for 14 years. She then was substitute teacher and a teacher's aide in Webster, Dudley and Sturbridge for many years before retiring.

She belonged to Saint Louis Church in Webster. Previously she was a member of Saint Andrew Bobola Church where she taught CCD classes and belonged to the former Holy Rosary Sodality at the church. She was also a member of the Holy Rosary Sodality at Saint Joseph Basilica in Webster.

Ellie was a member of the Polish American Veterans in Webster and of the Polish National Alliance in Dudley. She owned a motorcycle and enjoyed riding, ice fishing, arranging flowers, polka dancing, watching cowboy movies and cruising on Pierpont Pond in the “Green Flash.” She loved living on the lake and night swimming. A conservative, she was a proud member of the National Rifle Association. Talking to people was her favorite pastime. She dedicated her life to her family, especially her grandchildren.

Her funeral will be held on Tuesday, April 2, from the Sitkowski, Malboeuf & Hickey Funeral Home, 340 School Street, Webster, with a Mass at 11:00 AM in Saint Louis Church, 14 Lake Street, Webster. A time of visitation will be held from 9:00 to 10:30 on Tuesday in the funeral home prior to the Mass. Donations in her memory may be made to either the Polish American Veterans, 30 Ray Street, or to the Webster-Dudley Veterans Council, 4 Veterans Way, both in Webster, MA 01570.

Growing up, my dad was a huge fan of Zig Ziglar, filling our home with the sound of his motivational speeches. One story that always stuck with me was the story about a million dollar racehorse.

Ziglar poses a thought-provoking question: “If you did have a million-dollar racehorse, would you let him stay up half the night drinking coffee and booze, smoking cigarettes, and eating junk food?” Of course, you wouldn't! He then extends the analogy, asking, “Would you treat a $10 dog or a $5 cat that way? What about a billion-dollar body?”

The point he's trying to make is clear: You are that billion-dollar body. You may not feel like a Billion Dollars but nobody is going to bring you the life you want except yourself. It's true that you're are the best investment your money can buy. You must invest in yourself to get far in life, but it takes work. Investing in yourself takes time, patience, and sacrifice.

This investment concept extends beyond the racetrack to the broader market of our personal development, where the stakes are high, and the returns on investment can be life-changing.

Consider your personal development as a portfolio. Diversification is key to any sound investment strategy. Similarly, investing in oneself encompasses various aspects: physical health, mental well-being, emotional strength, and intellectual growth.

It requires consistent effort. Whether it's committing to a regular workout routine at the gym, attending night classes to further our education, or seeking therapy to address underlying issues, each action signifies an investment in our well-being and future success.

Through the years, I eventually started to think of myself as an investment in my future, and I thought a lot about bad habits. Just like savvy investors review and adjust their portfolios to optimize performance, we must periodically assess our habits, routines, and choices.

While we may know on an intellectual level that we need to take care of ourselves to accomplish our dreams and be healthy, it's not easy, and bad habits are hard to kick. Very few of us can kick a bad habit Cold Turkey.

Bad habits, in this analogy, are like underperforming assets. They drag down our overall portfolio's value—our life's potential and well-being. Just as an investor wouldn't hold onto a stock plummeting in value without good reason, we shouldn't cling to habits that don't serve our ultimate goals of health, happiness, and success.

Yet, the process of divesting from these habits isn't akin to simply clicking a “sell” button. It's a gradual, sometimes challenging process of trial, error, and perseverance.

I've been paying close attention to Bitcoin since 2016, and I'm always amazed at its volatility. Yet, amidst the ups and downs, it keeps trending upward.

Watching Bitcoin's ascent has taught me that volatility is part of the journey. There will be days when our resolve weakens, and old habits resurface like a market correction testing investors' nerves.

However, it's not the daily fluctuations that define our success but the overall trend. If you're gradually becoming more mindful of your health, more resilient in facing stress, and more dedicated to your personal growth—even amidst occasional setbacks—you're on an upward trajectory.

Remember, the most significant investments don't yield returns overnight. They require time, belief in their value, and the patience to ride out the volatility. Your investment in yourself is no different. Each step toward breaking a bad habit, no matter how small, is a deposit into your billion-dollar body's account, accruing compound interest in the form of a healthier, more fulfilled life.

As you continue on this journey, don't beat yourself up if you have the occasional backslide, stop counting calories for a couple of days, get too busy to make it to the gym, or aren't able to stay on track the way that you thought you should. Volatility is part of the game; just keep focused on making those baby steps and keep trending upward!

Keep the image of the million-dollar racehorse in mind, and remember, that racehorse is you! Would you bet against a horse of such value by neglecting its care? Unlikely. Then why bet against yourself? By viewing each choice and habit through the lens of investment, you position yourself to succeed and thrive.

CLARA BARTON STUDENTS LEARN SOME “SLAPSTICK SCIENCE”

Clara Barton Elementary in Oxford had a visit from “Dr. Quinton Quark’s Slapstick Science” on March 21. “Dr. Quark” (a.k.a. Ted Lawrence) taught our students about friction, types of energy and the physics behind simple machines and how they make our lives easier. Our students greatly enjoyed these assemblies sponsored by our PTO and did a great job volunteering in various physics experiments. Individual students were able to lift a 200-pound man, out-balance a dozen students on a seesaw and win at tug-of-war against four or six other students. Our kids truly walked away with an understanding of how these aspects in physics work.
