Southbridge schools seek $42 million, need "massive repair"

BY GUS STEEVES CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE —The school district will be seeking $42 million to operate this year, with $9.7 million coming from local taxes. According to last week's public hearing by Receiver Jeffrey Villar and Business Manager Seth Racine, that's "the bare mini- million in Chapter 70 from local taxpayers.

"We can't get much more conservative than this budget at this point," Villar added.

At the same time, Villar noted Southbridge is getting an extra $2.86

Charlton police arrest student with pellet gun on bus

CHARLTON — Charlton police have released details concerning a reported firearm on a Dudley-Charlton Regional School District bus that resulted in the arrest of a student.

According to a release from District Superintendent Steven Lamarche, officials at around 3 p.m. on March 14 at Shepherd Hill Regional High School were informed that a student was possibly in possession of a weapon onboard bus #53. After communicating with School Resource Officer Philip Megas of the Charlton Police Department, an investigation took place that confirmed the suspicions.

She suggested having a road gate, plus a "sound barrier and dust barrier," and also expressed concern the high-tension wires might be a health risk to her two young children.

Selectman Mary Dowling said she thought the gate was a "reasonable request," but didn't know whether the board has the authority to order National Grid to install it.

Town Administrator Robin Grimm noted that road is public, shared by both the town and state, albeit not maintained. Thus, she said she'd need to check the law to see if Sturbridge can gate it. That "might not be something we could do, even if both parties approved," she said.

The National Grid spokesmen said they didn't know about health risks and argued a gate would slow emergency response. They said the plan called for erecting all-new poles that will be 38 feet high (taller than the present ones) and designed to carry heavier wires. ## SCHOTT donates $5,000 towards Southbridge Youth Center

SOUTHBRIDGE - SCHOTT, a local glass manufacturer, is committed to supporting surrounding communities through various efforts particularly, programs that foster growth and enrichment for our local youth.

This month, SCHOTT generously donated $5,000 to the local youth organization, Bridge of Faith Youth Center (BOFYC), to support their efforts in "bridging the gap" amongst local middle and high school-aged children in the Southbridge community. The BOFYC's program goal is to provide local youth from sixth to 12th grade, a place where they can have access to the support and resources necessary to experience higher education.

Charlton celebrates Earth Day April 27

CHARLTON — Charlton residents are invited to help clean up the Town for Earth Day 2024. The roads are strewn with trash, so show your appreciation for the planet by cleaning up a mile (or two!) on Saturday, April 27.

Online registration begins April 1 at https:// www.townofcharlton. net/238/Earth-Day-Committee. Sign-up for a road, or portion of a road, or sign up in person the morning of the event. Beginning at 8 a.m., road volunteers may pick up yellow bags, gloves, safety vests, boxes of water, and pickers on the Town Common. Supplies courtesy of a grant from The Last Green Valley and donations from from The Charlton Recreation Commission, and several Earth Fest Planning Group members. # Town to mail "leak list" notices to residents only ones who knew about the leak list in this present group."

The issue stemmed from a leak water contractor Veolia's routine meter-reading system picked up at 425 Main St., initially last summer. Veolia superintendent Shane Moody described the "leak list" at the last meeting, noting it has existed for years, but has been used only when customers complain about bills. He wasn't at this meeting.

Mary Blanchard was the sole no vote, saying she didn't see the issue as the town's fault. To her, abatements in general mean "other ratepayers are footing the bill on this" when property owners have some responsibility to maintain their systems.

The other selectmen agreed with that point, but supported abating half the cost (meaning the Bacas will get reimbursed). Mary Lou Volpe said she's concerned about "repercussions for prior people" who were denied abatements, while Mary Dowling noted the town "could have mitigated" the leak "because we had the information."

Technically, the board observed that Veolia is a "private vendor," not a town department. It's overseen by the DPW, but they noted this issue predates Director Heather Blakeley's becoming director and told her not to "take ownership" of it.

She noted the "leak list" has 100 properties on it now, although some of them are probably businesses that use water 24 hours a day, and thus not actually leaking. They initially talked about sending the notice with the next bill, but Blakeley said they contract out billing and can only add two lines to it, not a detailed note. But they will be posting the list on the website and updating it often.

As Goodwin put it, the leak list is "complicity. I don't think it's the cause" of this problem. He decried using the list as Veolia has been, rather than "to circumvent our wasting hundreds of thousands of gallons of water. That is problematic, and that is not your [Blakeley's] fault."

Blakeley said she was "not sure who made that determination" to create and use the leak list this way. But because of the recent concerns, Grimm has had her start reviewing the billing data before mailings with Finance Director Barbara Barry, although "that's never been a DPW duty." Grimm noted they've been finding "a whole host of errors in inputting and data entry" they didn't know about previously.

That change somewhat riled Goodwin, who said it amounted to setting policy without selectmen's approval.

STURBRIDGE — After delaying it Town from the previous meeting, the selectmen voted 4-1 to abate half of a nearly $3,000 water bill that hit local property owners Sylvie and Miki Baca last fall.

Town Administrator Robin Grimm also said she'd draft a letter to mail to everyone on the water system to inform them of the existence of the "leak list" and urge them to check it regularly to see if their home or business is on it. She noted the next meter reading is April 1, but the letter will go out before the bills do.

Some selectmen noted that might spark a flurry of abatement requests. To even be considered for one, people seeing issues with their bills must contact the town within 10 days of the bills being sent out. Such requests go through the finance department first, but can be appealed to the selectmen

Don't fall victim to scammers claiming affiliation with Sheriff's Office

REGION — Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis is issuing a warning to residents regarding a recent phone scam involving the Sheriff's Office. The phone scammer poses as an employee of the Sheriff's Office and informs the victim that they have an arrest warrant or charges filed in their name or that of a loved one. The scammer then demands payment of a fine to avoid being arrested and serving jail time.

Another common phone scam involves telling individuals they have missed jury duty, which also results in a fine.

"Unfortunately, we recently received a report of an individual who was scammed out of over $20,000," commented Worcester County Sheriff Lew Evangelidis. "With the amount of information sharing and readily available data on consumer habits, scammers may know where you bank, the products you buy, or the names of your loved ones. Scam artists will go to any length to trick you into sharing personal information or issuing irreversible payments."

Communications Commission, or FCC, this type of scam is called spoofing. Spoofing is when a scammer deliberately falsifies the information transmitted to your caller ID display to disguise their identity. Scammers often use neighbor spoofing so it appears that an incoming call is coming from a local number or spoof a number from a company or a government agency that you may already know and trust.

In the case of the Sheriff's Office scam, the scammers use the names of actual officers and "spoof" the depart-According to the Federal ment's phone number. The scammer asks for money to clear up a non-existent warrant. In some instances, the caller requests that payments be made in the form of gift certificates or via apps such as Venmo or Cash App. The scammer will then have the victim remain on the line until the victim purchases the gift certificates or relays specific financial information to the scammer.

The Worcester County Sheriff's Office encourages people to be aware of calls like this and to never give personal or financial information over the phone to anyone whom you didn't call yourself.

"Our department does not contact residents and demand payment or ask for credit card information. Today's scam artists are always testing new tactics. Residents need to beware of any unsolicited calls that ask for their personal or financial information," commented Evangelidis. "These callers can sound convincing, may be aggressive, and try to intimidate you with threats of jail time or steep fines. We encourage anyone who gets a suspicious call to hang up and contact their associated institutions directly to verify any requests."

QCC offers free tax return assistance through VITA program

WORCESTER — Quinsigamond Community College is once again offering free tax assistance through the IRS's Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program. Certified volunteers and trained QCC students will assist with preparing tax returns for people who make $60,000 or less and people with limited English language skills. The VITA program provides services primarily at the Main South Community Development Corporation and also offers workshops at QCC's main campus in Worcester and the QCC at Southbridge location.

"Everyone should know how to do their own taxes. This program helps us get to know where our money is going and why," said Mohamed Kanafani, a student in the Business Administration Transfer program at QCC.

"This is a good resource, especially for low-income families," said Business Administration Transfer student Nahum Echevarria, adding, "Sometimes when you're done, clients are really grateful and you get to see their smile and gratitude."

Elizabeth Coffey, another Business Administration Transfer student, noted that clients speak a variety of languages and the VITA program has an advantage over other tax establishments in that many volunteers can translate during the tax preparation process. Coffey speaks Spanish, Echevarria speaks Spanish and Portuguese and Kanafani speaks Arabic.

QCC has been involved with the VITA program since 2018, thanks to the work of QCC Assistant Professor of Accounting Eduardo Rivas.

"Students learn about taxes, but also other skills that they can put on their resume," Rivas said.

Anna Kessler, a biology student, noted that the program has helped her learn how to work with people and remain empathetic yet professional during difficult conversations.

New to the program this year is a tax-specific platform, which allows for the entire process to be done remotely. According to Rivas, remote options were previously available but piecemealed together, whereas the new platform seamlessly allows for fully remote service including the signing and uploading of documents as well as remote communication.

QCC's VITA services are offered through April 12. For more information visit www.qcc.edu/services/income-tax-assistance or email Eduardo Rivas at erivas@qcc.mass.edu.

The origins of the Easter Bunny

The Easter Bunny will be getting a workout this season, as the newly fallen deep snow in some parts of New England may make for some difficult travel. But alas, with baskets filled with colorful eggs and chocolates, this beloved character has been a part of Easter celebrations worldwide. Where does this tradition stem from?

The legend of the Easter Bunny traces its roots back centuries, intertwining folklore, mythology, and religious symbolism. While its precise origins are a bit of a mystery, various theories and cultural influences have contributed to the emergence of this cherished icon.

One prevailing theory suggests that the Easter Bunny's lineage can be traced back to ancient pagan rituals celebrating spring and fertility. In pre-Christian Europe, the hare was revered as a symbol of fertility and new life, representing the arrival of spring after the barrenness of winter. As Christianity spread across the continent, pagan customs melded with Christian traditions, giving rise to a hybridized celebration that incorporated elements of both.

Another theory proposes that the Easter Bunny found its way into Christian festivities through German immigrants who settled in America during the 18th century. In German folklore, the "Osterhase" or Easter Hare, was believed to lay colorful eggs as gifts for children who had been good. This tradition evolved over time, with the hare eventually morphing into the familiar bunny we know today, and eggs becoming synonymous with Easter. Furthermore, the association of rabbits with Easter can also be attributed to their prolific breeding habits, symbolizing fertility, abundance, and the cycle of life. This symbolism aligns seamlessly with the Easter narrative of rebirth and resurrection, making the bunny a fitting emblem for the holiday. Whether nestled in the pages of children's books, adorning decorations, or delighting young hearts during egg hunts, the Easter Bunny continues to evoke a sense of wonder and joy.

Everyone has been squeezed by inflation. Prices are up but income, for most, remains flat, whether we're on social security or still earning a wage. Once you pay for housing and food, if you can, what money is left?

And you can't walk out the door naked. You still need to clothe yourself. $100 lululemon sweatpants are probably out of the question. Where to shop, then?

Good thing that thrift stores and thrifting are on the rise. Seventy-five percent of all U.S. consumers are willing to or prefer to shop at thrift stores; for millennials, at the bottom of the wage pool, the percentage rises to 83 percent. Thrifting is not only becoming necessary because of our wallets, it is also good for the environment, as I've written about before (2,000 gallons used in the creation of a single pair of jeans, for instance, not to mention the energy and chemicals).

Further good news that Charlton City UMC at 74 Stafford Street boasts of one of the best thrift stores in the area, and it opens for the season April 19. Starting April 19, we'll be open Fridays and Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 2 p. m. We are excited to once again serve the community in this tangibly meaningful way.

()PINI()N

You may have expected me to write about Holy Week and Easter, as that is what time of year it is. But I am reminded, by our serving the homeless in Worcester on Easter day, rather than going home to our own private celebrations, that the most important thing we do as a church is to live the good news. Talking about how good God is pales in comparison to living God's goodness. And we certainly hope we are doing that by helping our community stay clothed affordably.

We'll see you April 19!

Time for financial spring cleaning?

Spring is almost here, which means it's time for some spring cleaning. This year, in addition to tidying your home and surroundings, you might want to consider sprucing up your financial environment, as well.

Here are some suggestions for doing just that:

Improve your vision. Once the days are warmer and longer, you may want to get outside and clean all the winter grime and smudges from your windows, allowing you to see the world more clearly. And you may want to bring more focus to your financial vision by asking some key questions: Is my investment strategy still appropriate for my needs, goals, and family situation? If not, what changes should I make? And am I prepared for changes in my life, such as health challenges or a need to retire earlier than planned? The answers to these and other questions can help you clarify where you are, in terms of your financial picture, and where you want to go.

De-clutter. As you look around your home, you may find things such as expired health care products, old prescriptions, ancient cleaning solutions, and so on, in addition to duplicate household items (how many blenders do you really need?) and non-working equipment — printers, laptops, etc. Most people find that eliminating this clutter gives them a good feeling - and more livable space. As an investor, you can also find clutter in the form of redundant investments — for example, you might own several nearly identical mutual funds. You might be better off selling some of these funds and using the proceeds to find new investments that can help you further diversify your portfolio. As you may know, diversification is a key to investment success, but keep in mind that it can't prevent all losses. Plant seeds of opportunity. Whether they're planting camellias and crocuses or carrots and cilantro, gardeners are busy in the spring, hoping their efforts result in lovely flowers and tasty foods. And when you invest, you, too, need to plant seeds of opportunity in the form of investments that you hope will grow enough to enable you to make progress toward your goals. So, you may want to review your portfolio to ensure it's providing this growth potential, given your individual risk tolerance. Reduce dangers. You may not think about it that much, but your home and surroundings can contain potential hazards. You might have ill-fitting caps on cleaning products with toxic chemicals, or sharp cutting instruments protruding from shelves in your garage, or heavy, cracked tree branches hovering close to your roof. Spending some time on a spring-cleaning sweep can get rid of these dangers — and devoting time to consider the possible threats to your financial security, and those of your family, can pay off, too. For starters, review your life insurance to determine if you've got enough. Your employer may offer some coverage as an employee benefit, but it might not be sufficient, so you may need private coverage. And the same is true for disability insurance, because if something were to happen to you, and you couldn't work for a while, you'd still want to protect your family's lifestyle.

Suicide – the whispered epidemic

BY DR. RB MCFEE

Did you know the theme song to the movie and television show "M*A*S*H" was titled "Suicide is Painless?"

I can assure you as a physician, suicide is anything but "painless." Any doubt, ask the ones who survived the gunshot blast, the poisoning, the other instruments of self harm. And for the ones who did die from suicide, the pain never fully leaves the ones left behind. Trust me, suicide is not painless. But like the title to MASH theme song, sadly remains largely invisible. It is a stealth pandemic.

And like so many clinical situations, there isn't one simple test or treatment for this complex, deadly challenge. While the outcomes are the same – death, disability, loss and grief, the causes and interventions are varied. Consider the following information from the Collaborative Assessment and Management of Suicidality (CAMS)1 Sadly, the stigma of mental illness remains. It, too, in many ways is the whispered epidemic. But it is that denial and subsequent need for greater awareness of, participation in prevention strategies, availability of trained professionals and opportunities to reach out and help those who are at risk, that contributes to the problem.

How can we do better? After all, we're all in this together.

For starters, treat suicide as any other largely preventable disease. We don't need another high profile event to tell us what we know – that kids, teens, young adults and even the elderly are dying from self inflicted methods.

And, as one of the leading causes of preventable death for virtually all age groups, with rising rates and suicide attempts even in the elderly, clearly we need to stop whispering the word!

Letter submission policy

Letters to the Editor must include the author's name, address, and a daytime phone number for purposes of verification in order to be considered for publication. Only the author's name and the town in which they reside will be published. Letters submitted without all of the required information will not be accepted.

It is the sole prerogative of the Editor to determine whether a submission satisfies our requirements and decency standards, and any submission may be rejected at any time for any reason he or she might deem appropriate. In Massachusetts, suicide is the 2nd leading cause of death for ages  $10\mathchar`-24$

2nd leading cause of death for ages 25-34

4th leading cause of death for ages 35-44

6th leading cause of death for ages 45-54

10th leading cause of death for ages 55-64

19th leading cause of death for ages 65+

The statistics for veteran suicides are no less encouraging.

According to various medical, mental health and suicide prevention organizations, the need for greater awareness, opportunities for dialogue, places for support, counseling and therapeutic interventions are at a critical juncture. How could it be otherwise when people who otherwise are in their peak of health succumb to self inflicted harm?

Think about it...the second leading cause of death for young adults is suicide.

From the time I started an adolescent practice in New York over 20 years ago, to today suicide remains a leading cause of death afflicting teens.

Some might argue the suicide rates are worse than ever before, and in certain groups they would be right.

What are we missing?

As a child I remember my aunts whispering the word "cancer" when talking about a family member who recently died. I asked my grandmother why the whispering. I ask myself today why when talking about the cause of death of a loved one we still whisper the word "suicide?"

We've come a long way since then; "cancer" is no longer whispered, and significant progress has been made. The public was engaged, preventive and protective strategies were pursued, money raised, research increased and therapies developed. The same can be achieved with suicide. Although there is no one size fits all approach, there are ways we all can make a difference.

In addition to increasing the availability of and access to mental health services, is the underutilized but important role of protective factors.

Each of us can become a safe place. We can volunteer or share our expertise with organizations working to provide greater services.

We can be good to ourselves and others.

For example, bullying is a known contributing factor to suicidal ideation. Let's stop treating it as a right of passage, let's stop the denials ("not my child"); let's stop exhorting the victims to toughen up, and lets get involved in curtailing the physical and online bullying. One way is taking a greater interest in what your children are experiencing in their cyber world.

And we can encourage seeking help – whether mental health counseling, speaking with clergy, getting help from primary care.

There is a suicide help line in addition to general emergency numbers....

THE HINT

KAREN TRAINOR

Spring has sprung and gardening season is around the corner! As all home growers know, it takes careful planning and many hours of labor to produce a bountiful garden. While nearly every successful gardener has their own special tricks to ensure a productive crop, the novice planter may need a helping hand to nudge green sprouts from uncooperative soil. If that's the case, the following tips culled from various "green thumbed" sources, including previously published tips from readers, may just be all you need to make this the most successful gardening season yet.

The addition of peat moss is necessary to keep window boxes and other container gardens properly watered. But, if you are not wetting down the peat moss before adding it to the soil, you may be harm than good. Peat moss must be moistened before it is used in potting mixes. When dry, the substance actually repels water!

Gardening Tips and Tricks doing your garden more plentiful at large garden

Here's how to pretreat it: If you want to wet a full bag of peat moss, poke several holes in the bottom of the bag and open the top. Then pour water slowly into the top of the bag until it seeps out of the bottom holes. Push on the bag and knead it to ensure the peat is getting saturated. To test, scoop out a handful of peat moss and squeeze it. If you can squeeze water out, it is ready to use. If not, keep wetting until you can.

Here's an easy test to gauge if your garden soil is ready to plant. Simply scoop up a handful of dirt and squeeze it into a ball. If the ball crumbles when you release your fingers, the soil is all set for digging. If the ball sticks together, the soil is still to wet to work.

Flower bulbs are now centers. But, bulbs sold at such places are a bargain only if you know how to avoid poor quality bulbs. Here are some * Bulbs should feel solid and heavy. If they are light, they may be dried out.

* Avoid bulbs with discolored, dark or moldy spots.

* Make sure there are no holes or other signs of insect damage on bulbs.

* Pick over bulbs that have sprouted; it is better if they grow roots first.

Color Tip: Garden designers recommend most flower gardens have a splash of red. The bright color acts as a stunning accent when planted in a clump among white flowers and thick greenery!

Farmer's Planting Timetables

Our forefathers took great pains to plant crops at the precise time of year to promote a bountiful crop. With this in mind, below is this column's annual reminder of some interesting "old farmer's tales" that indicate when it is time to plant garden vegetables:

Lilac's Bloom: When the lilacs have their first leaves it is time to plant cool-weather crops such as peas, lettuce, and onions. When the lilac flowers are in full bloom, it s safe to plant tender crops such as tomatoes and corn.

Native American's Rule: The American Indians passed this reliable tip on to European colonists, and many farmers still rely on it today. Tender crops should not be planted until the leaves on an oak tree are as big as a squirrels ear (about an inch or so long).

Moon Signs: Many natural gardeners plant successfully by the phases of the moon. Here's how: Between the new moon and the first quarter: sow or transplant leafy plants and those that bear seeds on the outside of the fruit, such as strawberries. Between the first quarter and the full moon: plant crops whose seeds develop inside the fruit, such as tomatoes, peas, beans and squash. From the full moon to the last quarter: plant root vegetables.

Never plant from the last quarter to the new moon.

Evoke positive emotions by adding Pantone Color of the Year to your garden

Ball Horticultural Company — Courtesy Heat and drought-tolerant Celosia Celway™ Salmon has spiky blooms atop 40- to 48-inch stems.

Add a warm, cozy feel to this year's gardens with the 2024 Pantone Color of the Year, Peach Fuzz. It was selected a color that reflects the spirit of the times. These are colors you are likely to see in home furnishings, advertisements, and even our landscapes. Peach Fuzz lies somewhere between pink and salmon. Many garden plants have flowers that fit into this color spectrum and can be used in containers and garden beds.

Dianthus VivaciaÔ Orange is hardy to zone 7a, but can be used as an annual in colder areas. The large double flowers top 10- to 16-inch-tall plants and are showy during the cooler months of the growing season. They combine nicely with other flowers and their sturdy stems make them suitable for cutting.

SuperTrouperÔ Orange Dianthus has similar colored flowers that are about 20% smaller. It is hardy in zones 5 to 9 and has a spicy fragrance. Celosia Celway™ Salmon has the same heat and drought tolerance as other celosias. The spiky blooms are held atop 40- to 48-inch stems, making them great additions to the middle or back of the border.

find a variety of peachy-colored blossoms. These plants tend to be deer-resistant and hummingbird magnets. Just check the plant tag for more specific information on the mature size and hardiness.

Luxury Lace daylily has subtly fragrant star-shaped flowers. Hardy in zones four to eight it has the same low maintenance requirements as other daylilies. Just water thoroughly when needed.

Geum 'Mai Tai' has vermilon red flowers that fade to a peachy pink early in the season. The 18-inch-tall burgundy stems are a nice contrast to the flowers. Grow it in full sun with moist soil in zones five to seven. Last but certainly not least is threadleaf coreopsis 'Crème Caramel' (Coreopsis verticillata 'Crème Caramel').

Hardy in zones five to nine, it slowly spreads making it a nice addition to a sunny slope or traditional border. The fine foliage blends nicely with other flowers, adding welcome texture to any planting. Watch the peachy-pink flowers deepen to salmon when temperatures cool.

Use the artist's color wheel to find colors that pair well with these and other peachfuzz-colored flowers and foliage. Then look for opportunities to add interesting texture for some additional pizzazz. You and your visitors will enjoy the cozy warm feeling when walking through your landscape.

This past week, I was driving down the road on Route 16 near my house when a large rabbit was spotted crossing the road, and it was very large, but what made him stand out was the huge ears he was sporting. It was the size of a large snowshoe hare, but it definitely was not a hare. I had one in my backyard last year. Now, there are a lot of rabbits throughout the valley area, but these do not have all the features of the standard New England cottontail rabbits we are used to seeing.

The Eastern cottontail rabbits are also located in New England, and have many of the same features of a New England cottontail. Whatever they are, they raised havoc with my vegetable garden and with my flower bed last year, prompting me to fence off the garden this year.

Bear are coming out of hibernation, and sightings are being reported by homeowners throughout the valley that have bird feeders out. They are the number one food source they enjoy eating.

Treat yourself like a million-dollar racehorse

Growing up, my dad was a huge fan of Zig Ziglar, filling our home with the sound of his motivational speeches. One story that always stuck with me was the story about a million dollar racehorse.

Ziglar poses a thought-provoking question: "If you did have a million-dollar racehorse, would you let him stay up half the night drinking coffee and booze, smoking cigarettes, and eating junk food?" Of course, you wouldn't! He then extends the analogy, asking, "Would you treat a $10 dog or a $5 cat that way? What about a billion-dollar body?"

The point he's trying to make is clear. You are that billion-dollar body. You may not feel like a Billion Dollars but nobody is going to bring you the life you want except yourself. It's true that you're are the best investment your money can buy. You must invest in yourself to get far in life, but it takes work. Investing in yourself takes time, patience, and sacrifice.

This investment concept extends beyond the racetrack to the broader market of our personal development, where the stakes are high, and the returns on investment can be life-changing.

Consider your personal development as a portfolio. Diversification is key to any sound investment strategy. Similarly, investing in oneself encompasses various aspects: physical health, mental well-being, emotional strength, and intellectual growth.

It requires consistent effort. Whether it's committing to a regular workout routine at the gym, attending night classes to further our education, or seeking therapy to address underlying issues, each action signifies an investment in our well-being and future success.

Through the years, I eventually started to think of myself as an investment in my future, and I thought a lot about bad habits. Just like savvy investors review and adjust their portfolios to optimize performance, we must periodically assess our habits, routines, and choices.

While we may know on an intellectual level that we need to take care of ourselves to accomplish our dreams and be healthy, it's not easy, and bad habits are hard to kick. Very few of us can kick a bad habit Cold Turkey.

Bad habits, in this analogy, are like underperforming assets. They drag down our overall portfolio's value-our life's potential and well-being. Just as an investor wouldn't hold onto a stock plummeting in value without good reason, we shouldn't cling to habits that don't serve our ultimate goals of health, happiness, and success.

Yet, the process of divesting from these habits isn't akin to simply clicking a "sell" button. It's a gradual, sometimes challenging process of trial, error, and perseverance.

I've been paying close attention to Bitcoin since 2016, and I'm always amazed at its volatility. Yet, amidst the ups and downs, it keeps trending upward.

Watching Bitcoin's ascent has taught me that volatility is part of the journey. There will be days when our resolve weakens, and old habits resurface like a market correction testing investors' nerves.

However, it's not the daily fluctuations that define our success but the overall trend. If you're gradually becoming more mindful of your health, more resilient in facing stress, and more dedicated to your personal growth-even amidst occasional setbacks—you're on an upward trajectory.

Remember, the most significant investments don't yield returns overnight. They require time, belief in their value, and the patience to ride out the volatility. Your investment in yourself is no different. Each step toward breaking a bad habit, no matter how small, is a deposit into your billion-dollar body's account, accruing compound interest in the form of a healthier, more fulfilled life.

As you continue on this journey, don't beat yourself up if you have the occasional backslide, stop counting calories for a couple of days, get too busy to make it to the gym, or aren't able to stay on track the way that you thought you should. Volatility is part of the game; just keep focused on making those baby steps and keep trending upward!

Keep the image of the million-dollar racehorse in mind, and remember, that racehorse is you! Would you bet against a horse of such value by neglecting its care? Unlikely. Then why bet against yourself? By viewing each choice and habit through the lens of investment, you position yourself to succeed and thrive.

The story of Joe Robbie

Like most New Englanders, I am a big fan of Boston sports. I'm willing to talk about the Celtics, Bruins, Red Sox, and Patriots anytime. But this interesting story has its roots in a different sports franchise, namely the Miami Dolphins.

Joe Robbie was born in South Dakota on July 7, 1916. The son of a Lebanese immigrant, he came from modest beginnings and worked a variety of jobs to earn a living. He spent time as a lumberjack, sportswriter, served in the Navy, and eventually attended the University of South Dakota where he received his law degree. Post graduation, Robbie's legal career gradually morphed into local and state politics. But it's what happened in March of 1965 that turns this into an interesting sports story.

In 1965, Robbie had a meeting with Joe Foss, the commissioner of the American Football League. Foss encouraged Robbie to look into Miami as a potential site for a new expansion franchise. As a lifelong sports fan, Robbie was very much interested in the idea, but he personally didn't have the money to make it happen. And so, Robbie formed a general partnership with a few other individuals and raised the $7.5 million to purchase the expansion team. A couple of short years later, Robbie bought out his remaining partners and simultaneouslv became the primary owner of the Miami

FINANCIAL FOCUS BY CHRISTOPHER MALLON SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT, PROGRAM MANAGER LPL REGISTERED PRINCIPAL, THE CAPSTONE PLANNING GROUP

Dolphins.

Fast forward to the 1980's and Robbie's family net worth had skyrocketed. In 1987, he even built a new $114 million stadium, appropriately called "The Joe Robbie Stadium."

By most measures, Joe Robbie was a very successful businessman and he amassed a substantial fortune during his lifetime. So, when he died in 1990, one would assume his wife and children should remain financially "set for life.' Unfortunately, this this was not the case for the Robbie heirs. When Robbie passed away most of his net worth was tied up in illiquid assets (i.e. the new stadium). The estate tax bill due upon his death was an estimated $47 million. His wife and children did not have the funds available to pay this tax, and they were forced to sell the Miami Dolphins franchise (and stadium) at a very, very deep discount. Unfortunately, the Robbie family would no longer be a part of the NFL.

While 99.99 percent of Americans will never own an NFL franchise or amass the type of fortune Joe Robbie had, we can all learn an extremely valuable lesson from this story. Estate planning is extremelv important. Had Robbie done a few things differently, his family would likely still own Miami the Dolphins today (fun fact: the Miami Dolphins franchise currently has an estimated value of $5.7 billion).

You don't need to be a multimillionaire to benefit from estate planning. Working with an experienced financial planner will help you create a plan for the various assets you do own (i.e., real estate, businesses, investment accounts, IRA's, etc.). The goal is to get your assets transferred to the correct people, and in a tax-efficient manner. At a minimum, a financial plan should evaluate how your accounts are titled (individual, joint, trust, etc.), who you have listed as beneficiaries, review your asset allocation, and make proper use of insurance.

If you've never had a formal financial plan prepared for your family, or if you're overdue for a review, a member of The Capstone Planning Group would be happy to assist.

bankHometown parent wins 2024 Top Workplaces USA Award

OXFORD —Hometown Financial Group, parent company of bank-Hometown, bankESB, and Abington Bank announced today it was named a winner of the 2024 Top Workplaces USA award by Energage.

Top Workplaces USA celebrates organizations with 150 or more employees that are dedicated to building an exceptional people-first culture. Winners are chosen based solely on employee feedback gathered through an anonymous, third-party employee engagement survey, issued by Energage, a leading provider of technology-based employee engagement tools. More than 42,000 organizations across the country were invited to participate in the Top Workplaces USA survey. Results are calculated by comparing the survey's research-based statements, including 15 Culture Drivers that are proven to predict high performance against industry benchmarks.

"We're honored to be nationally recognized as an employer of choice for the second time in three years, and especially humbled that this honor resulted from positive feedback from those who know us best: our employees," said bank-Hometown President and CEO Robert J. Morton. "Every day, I'm inspired by our compassionate, dedicated, and talented group of employees, who demonstrate passion for unlocking the full potential of our customers, our communities, and each other. We try hard to foster a work environment that's inclusive, innovative, team-oriented, and fun, and this honor proves that our employees believe we're doing it right."

"Earning a Top Workplaces award is a badge of honor for companies, especially because it comes authentically from their employees," said Eric Rubino, Energage CEO. "That's something to be proud of. In today's market, leaders must ensure they're allowing employees to have a voice and be heard. That's paramount. Top Workplaces do this, and it pays dividends."

OBITUARIES Gerard "Jigs" LaFleche Obituary

Gerard (Jigs) La-Fleche passed away peacefully at home on March 8 surrounded by his loving family.

He leaves his wife of 57 years Darcy (Domijan); his daughters Kerry Mossey and her husband Keith of Ashby and Nicole La-Fleche of Austin, TX; his grandsons Keegan and Owen Mossey; his siblings Paul LaFleche and his wife Lucille of Southbridge, Lucille Houde and her husband Fred of Hudson, FL and Old Orchard Beach, ME, Roger La-Fleche and his wife Lenelle of Brimfield. Joseph LaFleche and his wife Margo of Southbridge, sister-inlaw Gail LaFleche of Alpharetta, GA. He was predeceased by his brother Philip La-Fleche.

Jigs was born November 18, 1942 in Southbridge, the son of the late Gerard E. and Louise (Bourdelais) LaFleche.

He graduated from Assumption Preparatory School in Worcester and Nichols College in Dudley. His career path was varied; manager at American Optical, business owner at Beacon Craftsmen. The most rewarding chapter of his work life was with Catholic Charities of Southbridge and Worcester and as business manager at Saint Anne-Saint Patrick Parish in Sturbridge.

Volunteer work was important to Jigs. He gladly gave his time and energy to Southbridge Food Share, Tri-Community Exchange Club and St. Vincent de Paul Society at St. Anne's. He was especially proud to assist in relocating immigrants from Kosovo and Sudan.

Jigs' life was centered around his family, friends and faith. These aspects were interwoven throughout his 81 years.

His roots were planted deep within the Southbridge and Sturbridge communities. His friendships spanned decades, many of his closest began in grammar school and his years at Assumption Prep and endured still.

He loved living in neighborhood. his The community that grew there was a vital part of his family and social life. He and Darcy traveled extensively including trips to Israel, Turkey, and France with dear friends. They enjoyed many winters in Florida after their retirement.

Jigs' family connection was strong. Even after starting his own family and household, life still centered around Moon Street and the family he was raised in. He was proud to be the oldest brother to his beloved siblings and pleased to extend that role to brother-in-law when he and Darcy began their married life together. His love for his many nieces and nephews was a mutual appreciation society.

A great joy came with the birth of his grandsons Owen and Keegan. Playing wiffle ball on the porch, debating the merits of Red Sox vs. Yankees, and playing catch anywhere created cherished memories.

He was a faithful and involved member of Saint Anne-Saint Patrick Parish. He particularly cared for morning Mass and Saturday coffee at the rectory.

He dealt with his Parkinson's Disease diagnosis and progression with strength, dignity and resolve. Darcy was by his side and his champion, unfailingly caring for and cherishing him throughout the last years of his life.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to Worcester County Food Bank at foodbank.org or St. Vincent de Paul Society of Saint Anne's Parish 16 Church Street Sturbridge, MA 01518.

Jigs' funeral services were held March 13, 2024 at St. Anne's Church. Sansoucy Funeral Home, 40 Marcy Street, Southbridge assisted the family with arrangements.

Noella G. Faraday, 83

Dudley - Noella G. (McDonald) Faraday, Thursday, 83, died March 14, 2024, at her home due to declining health.

Noella was born on Christmas Day 1940 in Dudley, MA. She was the daughter of the late Wilfrid and Annette (Bousquet) McDonald. She leaves behind her longtime caretaker and best friend, Dave Akeley. She also leaves three brothers: George Mc-Donald of Sturbridge, Richard McDonald and his wife, Sandra, of Charlton, and Roger McDonald and his wife, Linda, of Sturbridge; one sister, Constance Wagner and her husband, Herb, of Webster; two grandsons Michael and David, both of Ohio; a granddaughter, Melony McNeaney, of California; her daughterin-law, Judy (Petro)

Sobieski, of Southbridge; her sister-inlaw Rosemary McDonald of Marlborough; and several nieces and nephews. She is predeceased by her children, Michael Sobieski and Donna Sobieski; her brothers Norman, Lucien, Robert, Raymond, and Roland McDonald; and her sisters, Jeannette Gelineau and Lucille Dronzek.

Noella had a personality that always was especially true at family reunions held at her home. Noella was very fond of animals, especially her dogs. She also liked gardening, and playing cards for fun with her family. Noella also enjoyed gold-mining and prospecting at Herkimer Diamond Mines in Herkimer, New York, traveling, Niagra Falls, horses, ducks, and chickens. She will surely be missed by all.

There are no calling hours. Burial in New Notre Dame Cemetery will be private and at the convenience of the family. Sansoucy Funeral Home, 40 Marcy Street, Southbridge, MA has been entrusted with Noella's private funeralarrangements. www.sansoucyfuneral. com

Hydrant flushing starts Sunday

SOUTHBRIDGE — Southbridge Water Department will start its semi-annual hydrant flushing program on Sunday, April 7 at approximately 9 p.m. and continue during overnight hours for approximately six to eight weeks between the hours of 9 p.m. and 5 a.m. Flushing will start in the Westville area and continue easterly throughout the town.

The procedure will include the cleaning of the reservoir intake screens, flushing accumulated sediments from the water mains and testing the operation of each hydrant.

The department requests that during this period customers check their water before washing clothes. Customers may also get accumulated sediments in their house laterals and experience some discolored water. This will clear after a brief run of water at the tap. Please contact the Southbridge Water Department at (508) 764-3207 if you have any questions or comments.

Learn to draw and stitch labyrinths at Jacob Edwards Library

SOUTHBRIDGE - Learn to Draw and Stitch Labyrinths with mixed media fiber artist Lynda Shoup at the Jacob Edwards Library, Main Street, Southbridge, on April 11 from 6 - 7:30 p.m.

Walking labyrinths has been a source of peace, contemplation and prayer for people from many religious and philosophical backgrounds throughout history. In this fast paced society, people can benefit from tools to refocus, relax and meditate. Not only are labyrinths grounding tools, but stitching has been shown to lower blood pressure and reduce stress.

Let your fingers do the walking in this class as we learn how to draw a number of labyrinths and stitch a finger labyrinth for meditation on the go.

Participants will learn how to:

determine the difference between a labyrinth and a maze

use a finger labyrinth

learn several types of labyrinths and how to draw them stitch a labyrinth onto fabric for a portable meditation tool

In keeping with the instructor's textiles reuse philosophy , the fabric provided will be reclaimed materials. As far as is possible, the embroiderv thread offered for stitching will also be reclaimed.

Lynda Shoup is a mixed-media fiber artist who makes art journals, collages, handmade books, hands-on yarn, needlework, and printing. Her work often uses recycled materials and focuses on how disparate materials and ideas can be combined to create harmony.

This program is supported by a grant from the Southbridge Cultural Council, a local agency funded by the Massachusetts Cultural Council a State agency.

standardized test scores but still have "a long way to go as a district." He showed several screenshots from the state's MCAS Explorer pages depicting Southbridge as being number 9 in eighth grade math score growth statewide, among other things.

But he admitted Southbridge faces a serious issue of teacher retention, although that's not unique to town and has become a problem since Covid among many districts. Seventy percent of the teacher force has less than two years' experience, and only a handful have more than 10. To him, that requires focusing on professional development and various additional support staff, often provided by various contractors and partners.

Despite that, though, he said this budget eliminates nine positions "largely through attrition." Villar said nobody's going to lose jobs, but most of those posts are now vacant, with the people who once did them being shifted into other roles.

On the student side, key issues are attendance, income issues, mental and behavioral health needs, and the resulting learning gaps at various grades. He noted Southbridge is defined as 90 percent "high needs," putting it in the top 5 in Massachusetts. The higher grades have more attendance issues, with the Academy and high school both being under 90 percent when the district's goal is 95 percent, one chart showed. Beyond that, chronic absence is very high at that level – 45 percent at the high school (50 percent among seniors specifically) and 72 percent at the Academy.

The state defines "chronic" as 10 percent of school days or more per year, but does not exempt medical or mental health issues as causes.

To help that, Villar said each school has an attendance committee that reaches out to families.

He also noted there's been "a pretty significant uptick in disruptions of class across the district." That's part of the reason for the district's 20 "fulltime equivalent" counselors of various types, plus various outside vendors. One of the latter is Cartwheel, a remote counseling service which Villar said has helped address the fact that many local families have trouble getting to out-of-town services and teens generally try to avoid them anyway.

One of the biggest districtwide issues is the condition of the buildings themselves. Villar said he expects a lengthy report from Context Archi-portedly riding, and an investigation was conducted," Charlton police said in their report. "Based on the information obtained during this investi-

tecture that details physical facilities needs to arrive in April. The material he has seen so far shows "the middle high school is new, but all of the other buildings are in need of massive repair."

His presentation included several pages of photos, and he described a variety of issues with doors, windows, HVAC, energy inefficiency and more. His budget is seeking $600,000 in capital repairs for this fiscal year, although he also noted he cut $1 million from maintenance.

For larger work, he said a major issue will be how to fix them while the schools are in operation. One of several options Context will present is that of building a new school as "swing space" housing a rotating group of grades while other schools are being fixed and then becoming a permanent school. Others may include consolidating schools and various individual school partial- and full-repair concepts. He noted he thinks they'll recommend "renovat[ing] as new. The best thing to do is replace it all. The structure is OK" but everything in most buildings is decades old.

Whatever option Southbridge likes will require Council approval, and very likely voter ballot approval of debt exclusions. Villar noted the estimate for of Massachusetts possessing a pellet gun is not considered the same as having traditional firearms or dangerous weapons. State law limits the ownership and possession of a pellet gun to those considered adults over the age of 18 and if a pellet gun is used in a crime or is fired in public it can be considered the same as using a traditional firearm. Police did not indicate that the weapon was discharged on the bus nor were any injuries to students a new elementary school alone is $75-100 million based on size. A few years ago, a similar report projected just $30 million in district-wide needs.

If Southbridge opts to do any major project, it can seek Mass School Building Authority aid, which typically covers 70-87 percent of the total cost of a major renovation or new building. MSBA also offers the Accelerated Repair Program for partial repairs. However, neither program is fast, and both have extensive backlogs. Webster, for example, waited more than seven years for Bartlett to get approved (and had to do two ballot votes on top of that), while Oxford just voted for school repairs that MSBA had rejected a few times when criteria changed.

The school budget will go to the Town Manager for inclusion in the town's overall budget, although the Council can only give the school budget a yes or no vote as a whole under state law. The charter calls for the council to hold hearings and vote on the full budget before the end of May, and individual sections will go through various subcommittees between now and then.

The Dudley-Charlton Regional School District offered its thanks to the individual who contacted the Shepherd Hill Regional High School office to report the incident. The matter remains under investigation by both Charlton and Dudley Police. Officials did not disclose any specific charges against the student and any further discipline will be handled in the court system.

SUICIDE

health services (Annual Particle Accelerate Festival in Putnam, Ct) to the annual Out of the Darkness Walk to prevent suicide held at Polar Park (2,3).

Increasingly a strong spiritual health and faith life is being recognized as a protective factor in risk reduction of suicidal ideation, along with being part of a supportive network, including a faith community. Towards that end, recognizing churches can be a great resource for the community writ large, and for our neighbors, in addition to our growing food bank, and other good neighbor ministries, one of the outreach missions Charlton City United Methodist church is to embarking on is addressing suicide prevention. Through a variety of programs starting March 27th, Charlton City United Methodist Church (CCUMC) will be offering a series of meditation and support groups, and possibly workshops, for those experiencing anxiety and depression or suicidal thoughts, or are survivors of suicide. The purpose of the meditation and support groups is to, once a month, gather in a safe space without judgment to be listened to, form a community, and learn some beneficial spiritual tools. We will also be participating in a variety of outreach programs that will include a variety of professionals drawn from a wide range of disciplines and expertise directed at risk reduction, protective measures, suicide prevention, and related.For further information please contact Pastor John Lucy of CCUMC at (508) 248-7379 or john@cc-umc.org.Together, we can make a difference, and help reduce the deadly impact of suicide in our community.
