DUDLEY—South Worcester County Communications Center Director Gregory Lynskey along with Dudley Police Chief Marek Karlowicz and Dudley Fire Chief Dean Kochanowski are pleased to announce that major upgrades to the Public Safety Radio Communications System in Dudley are coming in the near future.

Following many years of planning, the Dudley Public Safety Agencies will transition from antiquated analog radio channels to P25 digital radio channels effective May 13 and May 14. These upgrades are a major step in improving operational safety for First Responders in the community and bring the Dudley Public Safety Departments in compliance with national Public Safety Radio Interoperability standards

Director Lynskey stated, "This is a major milestone in what has been a nine-year project that would not have been possible without the support and assistance of the State 911 Department through grant funding opportunities. We are extremely pleased to have such a great working relationship with both the communities we serve and the State 911 Department, as is evidenced by their continued funding support to improving Public Safety in Webster and Dudley.'

Director Lynskey added that funding for this project, along with the corresponding project in Webster, consisted of $139,467 in State 911 Support & Incentive Grant funding and $1,037,629 in State 911 Regional Development Grant funding. Grant funds were obtained over a total of ten years through nine different awards. Additionally, a total of $378,000 was approved between the May, 2022 and May, 2023 Webster Annual Town Meetings. $60,000 in American Rescue Plan Act funds

FY26 budget aims to "hold the fort as best you can"

BY GUS STEEVES

WEBSTER — When voters go to Town Meeting on Monday, the core of the warrant will be the town's $67 million budget. The Finance Committee held its public hearing on that April 28, detailing a lot of issues we've already heard in parts for a couple months now.

This year will see a big jump in taxes, with most of the change driven by the fact $5 million in debt exclusion is now hitting the bills for the Bartlett renovation.

Town Administrator Rick Lafond told the committee this year's general government budget has actually declined by $435,597, to $11.9 million. That doesn't match how much other areas have risen, though: Schools are up $1 million to $27.8 million, and shared costs up $3.8 million to $25.1 million.

The big items are generally in the latter category: Pensions $5.1 million, debt service $5.5 million, school transportation $3.8 million, and health insurance $7.2 million, plus $2.5 million in state (the largest being school choice's $1.1 million and charter schools' $716,282).

"Those are almost entirely items we don't really have an ability to control," he noted.

Locally, this year's budget process has involved a lot of drilling down into town departments. This will be the first full year Webster has a full-time fire department with its union contract. Lafond described that as "overall, pretty modest" when compared to other towns, but it looks high for this vear because of the change from part-time. It "has already saved lives," he added later.

One issue there is that Webster originally planned to fund it from $350,000 yearly in marijuana establishment agreements, but the state forced towns to eliminate automatic "mitigation fees."

forward language that is easy for students to understand and remember. Many of her former students, she noted, have told her that they held on to their booklets well into high school and college, where the material continued to serve as a helpful reference.

Miss Larson also took time to answer students' questions about the development of the program—explaining when she started it, what inspired her, and the ongoing work involved in keeping it updated and relevant. One important message she shared was about the value of constructive criticism. She encouraged students to embrace feedback as a way to grow and improve, reminding them that all great work is the result of careful review and revision.

In a particularly memorable moment of the visit, Miss Larson spent time personally greeting each student in Grades 3 through 6 and signed their Nancy Larson Science workbooks. Her kind and encouraging words made a lasting impression, and students were thrilled to have a personalized keepsake from the author of a program they know so well.

Students and staff alike were inspired by Miss Larson's visit and grateful for the chance to learn from someone whose work has had such a direct and positive impact on their education. Her passion for science and dedication to learning made for a memorable and motivating day at Saint Joseph School.

Grzegorz Chodkowski, Associate Pastor Rev. Anthony Kazarnowicz, and Fourth-Grade Instructor Sr. Jeanne Marie Akalski. Health screenings are an investment in your future self

It's easy to put off routine health check-ups. Life gets busy. We feel fine. We assume we're too young to worry. But catching a problem early, when it's most treatable can make all the difference. Preventive health screenings aren't about fearing the worst; they're about giving ourselves the best shot at living well. From your 20s through your 60s and beyond, here's a decade-by-decade breakdown of essential screenings that everyone should prioritize.

In your 20s, the focus is on building a health baseline. This is when your long-term habits start taking shape. Even if you feel great, it's important to get your blood pressure and cholesterol checked. These simple screenings can reveal early signs of heart disease risks. If you're sexually active, regular STI screenings and, for women, a Pap smear starting at 21 are critical. A mental health check-in should be part of the routine too, especially in a decade filled with transitions. It's also smart to begin annual skin checks, particularly if you've had a lot of sun exposure.

By your 30s, it's time to pay closer attention to subtle shifts in your health. Continue monitoring your blood pressure, cholesterol, and STI status. Add in screenings for diabetes risk especially if you have a family history or carry extra weight. If you're trying to conceive or just want to know where things stand, a fertility check can offer insight. Watch for signs of thyroid issues like fatigue or weight changes, and keep up with dental and eye exams every year

Your 40s are when chronic conditions often start creeping in, sometimes without symptoms. This is the decade to stay vigilant. Women should begin mammograms at 40 or earlier if there's a family history of breast cancer. Everyone should consider a baseline colonoscopy by age 45. Diabetes, cholesterol, and heart screenings are more important than ever, and it's a good idea to test for glaucoma during your eye exam. This is also a smart time to check in on your mental health, as burnout and midlife stress can take a toll.

By your 50s, screenings shift from preventive to potentially lifesaving. Colonoscopies should continue every 10 years or as your doctor advises. Women should consider bone density tests, and men should discuss prostate screenings with their doctor. Hearing loss becomes more common, so a hearing test is worth scheduling. This is also the age for a shingles vaccine, and if you've had ongoing risk factors, a cardiac stress test might be wise.

In your 60s, staying ahead of health issues becomes even more important. Annual flu and pneumonia vaccines are recommended, and if you've ever smoked or been around secondhand smoke regularly, you may qualify for a lung cancer screening. Continue yearly vision and hearing checks, and consider cognitive screenings if memory issues arise. Osteoporosis becomes more common in both women and men, and regular skin checks should continue to catch early signs of skin cancer.

No matter your age, health screenings are a way to invest in your future self. They help you catch issues early, manage risks, and stay in control of your well-being. Ask questions, track your numbers, and make time for the care you deserve. After all, staying healthy isn't something that just happens it's something we have to work for. When was your last check-up?

Happy Mother's Day

Think about the women who have influenced the world and impacted our contemporary society! The role of women is undeniable. We could debate about which women, and what type of women, have had the greatest effect throughout history. Are they the women of power in politics or business or society, or are they the women of humble sacrifice and service?

Of course, we could lift up many women and argue certain virtues and accomplishments of each type. What is significant, however, is to reflect on the women who have touched our lives.

On the second Sunday after Easter, which was this past Sunday, the Orthodox Church highlighted the myrrh-bearing women, the female disciples of Jesus Christ who were the first of His followers to witness His resurrection from the dead.

These women represent believers who passionately loved their Lord, who courageously stayed by his side even through His passion and crucifixion, and who devoutly wanted to anoint his body with their myrrh and precious oils after He had died. By honoring these myrrh-bearing women, the Church acknowledges women who, throughout history, have expressed an extreme love, a courageous faith and a deep devotion to Jesus Christ.

So often, women are the ones who openly display a burning love for Jesus; women are the ones who courageously express their faith in countless ways, not giving in to the fears and ridicule of society; and women are the ones who present a sincere religious zeal and piety, a devoutness to following the ways of God. The Gospels offer a thought-provoking contrast when they show the women disciples staying close by the Cross of our Lord while the male disciples hide in secret out of fear.

While last Sunday we remembered the faithful myrrh-bearing women, this Sunday our American Society remembers and honors another group of cherished women - the mothers and mother-figures in our lives. On Mother's Day, we offer tribute to not only our own mothers, but all women who have fulfilled their calling as loving angels to their children and others. Whether one is a birth mother, a step-mother, a grandmother, a godmother, an adopted mother, a surrogate mother, or even a woman who offers motherly care and concern to others as an aunt or friend or teacher, we pause to honor and thank God for these women of love and sacrifice for the role and impact they have had and continue to have in the lives of countless people. And the best way of honoring and thanking such women is to lift up their virtues and strive to imitate them in our own lives.

"To become a mother is not so hard:" I have heard it said, "But being a mother – a mother in the ideal sense - is extremely difficult."

possibly argue that no earthly influence can impact a person in the same way as a mother! What is it that makes mothers so unique and special? Mothers sacrificially and loving give of themselves from the moment that a child enters into their lives! Mothers lose countless hours of sleep, change untold numbers of diapers, sacrifice their time, their schedules and their ambitions, all for the purpose of incarnating love for another being and helping mold the likeness of God into them. Throughout their lives, mothers work as and counselors. Mothers serve

Abraham Lincoln summarized the attitude of countless great figures when he reflected, "All that I am or ever hope to be, I owe to my angel Mother." Some could as teachers, guides, disciplinarians, and coaches. Mothers act as chefs, cleaning ladies, and chauffeurs every day. Mothers help develop personalities, cultivate attitudes, nourish faith, and build up spirits. Mothers constantly give, and give, and then give even more! They don't think of themselves too often but willingly place the needs of others before their own.

And motherhood doesn't end with childhood or adolescence but continues throughout one's life. Mothers sacrificially and willingly offer constant love and care, never-ending prayer and guidance, limitless forgiveness and concern no matter how their children respond and no matter how old their children become. In many ways, ideal motherhood strives to mirror the divine and unfathomable love and grace that God showers upon us all.

"The heart of a mother is a deep abyss, at the bottom of which you will always find forgiveness," reflected Honor de Balzac.

"The mother's heart is the child's schoolroom," offered Henry Ward

'People are what their mothers make them," the writer Emerson once noted.

"God could not be everywhere, and therefore He made mothers," teaches a Jewish proverb.

By lifting up and honoring the precious mothers in our lives, we should not simply remember particular individuals but reflect upon the deeper meaning of motherhood itself. And from a Christian perspective, we should honor and lift up the virtues of sacrificial and unconditional love, of humble and continual service to others, of seeing and understanding the "other" as Christ Himself, and thus, caring for them with divine concern.

Let us thank God for our mothers and the lessons they taught us - of extreme love, courageous faith and deep devotion, as well as sacrificial love, humble service and divine care for the other!

Positively

Professor Fowler sat in his home, recently retired. alone with his thoughtsand none of them were kind.

A teacher who had dedicated his entire life to shaping young minds, he now sat convinced he had failed.

Looking back decades in the classroom, all he could see was the void—the faces forgotten, the lessons lost to time.

He spoke the words aloud, his voice thick with regret:

"I walked from class to class...teaching unhearing ears...unwilling heads...I moved nobody, I motivated nobody, I left no direct imprint on anybody.'

His retirement had not come by choice. It had been forced upon him by an institution eager to make room for the next generation. And now, with his life's work behind him, he sat in the darkness of his own doubt, convinced his efforts had vanished like chalk dust after the final bell.

This story, by the way, is from an old episode of "The Twilight Zone," titled Changing of the Guard.'

And yet, as I think about Professor Fowler, my mind drifts to teachers today—living in the modern world, dealing with pressures he could scarcely have imagined.

The teacher today faces crowded classrooms, shrinking budgets, endless paperwork, shifting standards, the strain of technology, and the silent burden of wondering if any of it is making a difference.

I wonder if, after long and weary days, teachers ever question whether the hours spent planning lessons, listening to struggling students, breaking up conflicts, inspiring curiosity—if any of it will truly matter.

I wonder if they ask themselves whether their voice will linger, whether their encouragement will echo, whether their belief in a student who didn't yet believe in themselves will survive the tests of time.

It's easy in the haze of exhaustion and bureaucracy, to feel invisible.

To feel, like Fowler once did, that no imprint has been left behind.

But here's the part of Fowler's story that every teacher today needs to hear.

That night, sitting in his despair, something remarkable happened. One by one, the faces of his former students appeared—visitors not of the body, but of the heart.

They came to tell him what he could not see: that he had changed lives.

That a word of encouragement had saved one from despair. That a lesson on courage had inspired another to give their life to a cause greater than themselves. That a belief in decency and kindness had taken root and flourished long after the final grades were given.

They stood before him-not as students he once taught, but as proof that his life had mattered far more than he ever realized.

It's more than just an old television episode—it's a truth lived out in class-

Some days it feels like you're shouting into the wind, wondering if you are reaching anyone, if any of it matters.

Somewhere right now, there is a student who carries a seed you plantedsomething you said and taught when they needed it most.

And that seed will grow, often quietly,

You may never see it bloom. But it blooms nonetheless. Every encouraging word. Every ounce of patience. Every lesson, even the ones you think fell flat. Every moment you chose to believe in someone who didn't yet believe in themselves—these things matter more than you will ever know.

You are building lives. You are shaping futures. You are winning victories for humanity that no history book will ever fully record.

So, in this week where we celebrate teachers, I want you to know: You are not invisible. You are not forgotten. You are not wasting your time. You are changing the world, one student at a time. And for that—for everything—you have my deepest thanks. I, like so many others, am grateful forever grateful.

Each of us carries something you gave us: a word, a hope, a strength, a

I want to thank you—for believing in us, for guiding us, for helping to shape who we became.

In the end, teachers have lived a very good life, a very full life, a very rich life. And I hope, like Professor Fowler came to realize, you wouldn't have it any other way.

LOYALTY DAY CELEBRATED WITH LOCAL VETERANS

Every May 1, our nation celebrates Loyalty Day. Loyalty Day was first established 1955 but made a national recurring holiday in 1958 as a day to honor America. This year, the students of All Saints Academy joined local veterans to celebrate the combined love and respect of, and loyalty to, our country. Students led the veterans in the opening and closing prayers of the ceremony, and in the Pledge of Allegiance, and each of them was given a flag as a keepsake of the day and ceremony. A veteran bugler played the national anthem as the flag was lowered and raised again with both veterans and students standing at attention. As an important day in our nation's calendar, it is vital that students understand what our veterans and current military have done and continue to do for our country to keep it "the land of the free and the home of the brave." It is also a day that kicks off the National Military Appreciation Month. The ceremony was held across the street from the Veterans Home on Veteran's Way in Webster.

Celebrate Spring with Old Fashioned Lemonade Recipes

Last week's record high temperatures remind us that bright sunny days, shade tree breezes and a comfortable backyard chaise are the perfect elements for warm weather "easy living." And what could be more delightful than taking a well-deserved rest with cool, refreshing drink (even better if you can enjoy it on a porch with a friend or neighbor)!

There's no doubt about it, nothing quite "hits the spot" on a hot New England spring day better than a tall glass of ice tea or lemonade. The sweet taste and clanging ice cubes of the thirst-quenching drinks have prompted recipe contests, starred at country fair refreshment booths, and spawned generations of young roadside entrepreneur

With summer just around the corner, here are some great old-fashioned lemonade and iced tea recipes guaranteed to refresh both body and spirit.

When people call for Tea Time, this season, it's usually iced tea - in frosty glasses filled to the brim. Here are a couple of delicious ways to serve up the perennial favorite drink:

Citrus Tea Cooler: The carbonation and orange juice add sparkle and zest to this alternative to traditional iced tea. Perfect for a punchbowl at an outside get-together.

Ingredients: Three bags or one tbsp loose black tea; one and a half cup boiling water; one half cup fresh lemon juice; one bottle (28 oz) lemon-lime -carbonated beverage or ginger ale, chilled; three quarters to one cup sugar (or conversion measurement of Stevia or other non-sugar sweetener); one tray ice cubes ;one half cup fresh orange juice.

Directions: Place tea bags or loose tea in bowl. Pour boiling water over tea. Let stand five minutes. Remove bags or strain to remove leaves. Add sugar and stir until all is dissolved. Place ice cubes in two-quart serving pitcher. Pour hot tea, lemon and orange juice over tea. Stir briskly several seconds until mixture is cold. Stir in chilled lemon-lime carbonated beverage. Pour into glasses and serve at once. Makes two quarts

Lemon Sparkler: Here's a quick and easy version of a classic lemon sparkler:

Ingredients: Two cups tea, brewed; one half cup lemon juice; one half cup sugar (or conversion measurement of Stevia or other non-sugar sweetener); juice cubes (ice cubes made with lemon juice and a little water); two quarts of ginger ale, chilled.

Directions: In a pitcher, combine the tea, lemon juice, and sugar stirring until sugar is dissolved. Just before serving, add the ginger ale and pour over juice cubes.

Most lemonade aficionados agree the secret to a great lemonade is to make a heated syrup as a base. This nostalgic recipe from Hamilton Beach, calls for fresh lemons, oranges and mint leaves!

Ingredients: Two cups granulated sugar; two and one half cups water; juice of six lemons; juice of two oranges; grated peel of one orange; one cup fresh mint leaves

Directions: In a medium saucepan, combine sugar and water. Bring to a boil; cook over medium high heat five minutes. Let cool.

Add lemon juice, orange juice and orange peel to syrup. Add in mint leaves. Cover and let stand one hour. Strain lemon syrup into a jar or pitcher. Store in refrigerator until ready to use. For each serving: Put one third cup lemon syrup into an eight ounce glass filled with crushed ice and cold water. Mix or shake well.

Quick Old Fashioned Lemonade

No time for the recipe above? Try this easy version:

Ingredients: Two or three ice cubes; two tablespoons lemon juice; one and one half tablespoons lime juice; two tablespoons superfine sugar (or conversion measurement of Stevia or other non-sugar sweetener);; six to eight ice cubes; two cups cold water.

Always room for tomatoes

Nothing beats the flavor of fresh-from-thegarden tomatoes. Keep them close at hand by growing one or more in containers on your patio, balcony, or front steps.

Any tomato can be grown in a pot, but determinate varieties are shorter and more compact, making them a bit easier to manage in a container. They produce fruit in a relatively short period of time, making them great choices for preserving as well as using fresh. Look for a D or determinate on the plant tag, seed packet or in the catalog description.

Indeterminate tomatoes, often designated with an I, are usually much taller and continue to grow, flower, and produce fruit until frost kills the plant or you pinch out the growing tip. These are usually staked or grown in wire cages to save space, reduce pest problems and make harvesting easier. Many new containers have built-in trellises or creative gardeners craft their own, making it easier and more attractive to grow these bigger plants in pots.

MYERS

Semi-determinate varieties are in between these two. They are compact like determinates, often trailing but produce fruit throughout the growing season like indeterminate varieties.

You can now find compact varieties often sold as miniature and dwarf plants that grow well in small four-to-eight-inch pots. They are a great option for those with limited space, gardening on balconies, indoors in a sunny window or just about anywhere. Kitchen Mini tomatoes, Heartbreakers, Red Velvet and Micro Tom Thumb are just a few.

Grow one tomato per container for maximum productivity. Use a five-gallon or bigger container for large varieties and at least a two to three gallon or similar size pot for smaller varieties. Some research suggests growing tomatoes in a pot that is at least 14 inches but preferably 20 inches wide will yield greater results. Adding flowers and herbs to the container boosts the beauty and diversity of your container garden but will reduce the number of tomatoes produced.

Growing tomatoes in containers also allows you to start the season earlier. Just move the planter inside when the weather is harsh and back outside when the weather is warm and sunny. As the weather turns cold at the end of the growing season, cover the planter or move it into a frost-free location as needed. Some gardeners even move a pot or two inside to finish off the tomato season.

Plant tomatoes in a container with drainage holes and fill it with a quality potting mix. Reduce the time spent watering with a self-watering pot that has a reservoir to hold water and extend the time between watering. Further reduce the need to water by adding an organic, sustainable soil amendment like certified organic Wild Valley Farms' wool pellets (wildvalleyfarms. com) to the potting mix. Made from wool waste, this product reduces Consistent soil moisture encourages more flowering and fruiting, while reducing the risk of blossom end rot, cracking, and misshapen fruit.

Harvest tomatoes

when fully colored or leave them on the plant a few more days for an even sweeter flavor. You'll enjoy the convenience of harvesting fresh tomatoes right outside your door for use in salads, sauces, and other favorite recipes.

and microscopes for the outdoors as part of an immersive learning experience, turning heads across the district.

The school's Biology and Pirate Patch Agriculture Programs have provided students with real-world applications of classroom lessons, offering hands-on science and sustainability education that's anything but ordinary.

Biology students dive into local ecosystems

AP Biology students traveled to Carbuncle Pond with professors Kim McCoy and Erin Schofield of Bridgewater State University for a full-fledged field lab. The goal? To perform a biotic index, measuring the biodiversity of the local pond ecosystem. Students spent hours knee-deep in nature, collecting and analyzing samples, and applying their final math equation of the year in a real-world setting.

"It's one thing to talk about biodiversity in class," said AP Biology teacher Emma Harper, "but it's another to actually count living organisms and calculate it yourself."

This lab wrapped up the AP Biology curriculum and reinforced the program's aim of providing students with a college-level experience, including the requirement that at least 30 percent of class time be spent on lab work.

Agriculture students grow more than just plants

Meanwhile, juniors and seniors enrolled in the Pirate Patch Agricultural Program have been getting their hands dirty literally. From maintaining compost systems to analyzing greenhouse students explored everything from plant biology to commercial agriculture.

The class has cultivated a wide range of crops lettuce, peas, cucumbers, radishes, yellow squash, and even Mother's Day flowers for the school's preschool. They've built rain barrels, taste-tested new cafeteria food ideas, and held open discussions on how to boost student morale in the lunchroom.

Next up for these agricultural adventurers: a field trip to Smith's Country Cheese on April 30, where they'll observe dairy cattle and cheese production in action.

Mark your calendars: The Sound, Sight & Soil

To celebrate all this hard work, Oxford High will host the "Sound, Sight & Soil Show" on May 8 from 5 to 7 p.m.. This newly expanded event features:

The Art Show in the Community Room

Concert Α in the Auditorium

& Α Greenhouse Courtyard Garden Open House

The event promises to showcase the creative, scientific, and agricultural efforts of OHS students, and the entire community is invited to see firsthand how these innovative programs are shaping the next generation of thinkers, creators, and growers.

were also contributed to the project by the Town of Dudley. The total project costs for both communities was $1,615,100.

Chief Karlowicz stated, "Improving radio communication has been a priority for the Dudley Police Department for the last couple of years. SWCCC Director Lynskey dedicated great efforts to secure funding and planning for this much needed project. His efforts will improve officer safety and add reliability to our current radio system."

Chief Kochanowski stated, "Reliable fireground communications is not an option, it is a necessity. These upgrades will assist us in improving firefighter safety at incidents by having state of the art, reliable communications at our fingertips."

While there are no plans to encrypt any of the public safety radio channels and while the operating frequencies will not change for Dudley Police, we must note that many older home scanners will not be capable of receiving the new digital channels. Additionally, the operating frequency for Dudley Fire will change to a new frequency. Residents who wish to monitor the public safety departments via a home scanner will need to ensure their current scanner, or any newly purchased scanner, is capable of receiving P25 digital transmissions.

The completion of this multi-year project marks a major step forward in public safety technology in both the communities of Dudley and Webster, technology that will serve both communities well for many years to come. Dudley Public Safety

The town is also adding funds to Animal Control, which was "extremely part time" but absorbed into the police department as a fulltime AC officer and animal inspector. The police are also getting several items in the capital budget, prompting Lafond to observe that they and the public both expect them to have good-quality equipment for safety.

One committee member said the police are "consistently asking for help and not getting it" staff-wise, with officers transferring out and other concerns. Lafond agreed, saying the town used to be able to set aside money to pay for new officers when the federal government was providing grants to pay the first couple years of such jobs, but those grants are gone. The department has a "compelling" case, but to fund them, Webster needs to see "some easing of fixed shared costs. ... If we could fund a new position tomorrow, it'd be in the Police Department, but we've got to keep the trains running." He noted, for example, that town buildings need professional maintenance and other issues "almost don't even get to the

"For all of our departments ... the revenue we're getting is not keeping up with the compliance needs and the fixed costs across our commu-Superintendent Monique Pierangeli said. "We can't afford them

As mentioned in previous stories, the schools are seeing a lot of those costs, particularly in special education services and transportation. Lafond said a third of this year's school budget is "required special ed services ... That's astounding. It's safe to say we don't have a choice." The district is looking at how to keep some of those kids in town, and thus reduce transport costs, but "we have to have an appropriate place to put students" before even hiring teachers to do it, he said.

coincidental-Not ly, Treasurer Tim Bell brought forth an additional $400,000 cost for transportation which hadn't been known before the schools submitted their budget. (He also cited a new police request for $10,000 for cameras.)

Later, the town's reliance of state and federal money prompted a committee member to ask what will happen if those grants get cut. He observed that Massachusetts sends more to D.C. than the state gets back, so might there be more money available from Boston?

Pierangeli doubted that. She said she could see the state matching what the feds had paid, but "I don't anticipate getting any more funds." Lafond also noted he expects the state to revamp the special ed funding formula over the next couple years.

Bell said this year's free cash is going toward $939,500 in capital items and projects, $250,000 for snow & ice, $70,260 for a general insurance deficit, $1.3 million to reduce the tax rate, $50,000 to stabilization, and $25,000 to Webster Lake maintenance. Adding in the two late requests cited above will leave about $2.9 million in free cash after Monday's meeting. The town also has about $6 million in Stabilization.

While those reserves are healthy now, Lafond said they're allowing Webster to "hold the fort as best you can."

Wil Cournoyer agreed, expressing concern for the future.

"Something's got to change, because the train is heading to a bridge that isn't there in a few years," he said.

Form 299

Date: April 2, 2025 Attorney General's Notice Pursuant to G.L. c. 40, § 32 Town of Oxford -- Case No. 11575 Special Town Meeting of October 2, 2024

Article # 6

Attorney General's Limited Authority to Waive Procedural Defects in the Notice of the Planning Board Hearing

Pursuant to the provisions of G.L. c. 40, § 32, if the Attorney General finds there to be any defect in the procedure of adoption or amendment of any zoning by-law relating to the form or content of the notice of the Planning Board hearing prescribed by G.L. c. 40A, § 5, or to the manner or dates on which said notice is mailed, posted or published as required by that section, then instead of disapproving the by-law or amendment by reason of any such defect, the Attorney General may elect to proceed under the defect waiver provisions of G.L. c. 40, § 32. Under those provisions, the Attorney General is conditionally authorized to waive any such defect.

Defect Determined in Notice of Planning Board Hearing

The Attorney General has determined that the planning board hearing notice relating to the above Article failed to comply with the notice requirements for such hearing established by G.L. c. 40A, § 5. Section 5 provides in part (with emphasis added):

No zoning...by-law or amendment thereto shall be adopted until after the planning board in a...town has...held a public hearing thereon...at which interested persons shall be given an opportunity to be heard.... Notice of the time and place of such hearing, of the subject matter, sufficient for identification, and of the place where texts and maps thereof may be inspected shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the...town once in each of two successive weeks, the first publication to be not less than fourteen days before the day of said hearing, and by posting such notice in a conspicuous place in the...town hall for a period of not less than fourteen days before the day of said hearing. Notice of said hearing shall also be sent by mail, postage prepaid to the executive office of housing and livable communities, the regional planning agency, if any, and to the planning board of each abutting city and town....In cases involving boundary, density or use changes within a district, notice shall be sent to any such nonresident property owner who has filed such a request with the city or town clerk and whose property lies in the district where the change is sought.

Based on the materials submitted to this Office, we have identified the following defect: the Planning Board hearing notice was published on August 30, 2024 and September 9, 2024, which is not two successive weeks as required by G.L. c. 40A, § 5. For this reason, the 90-day period prescribed for the Attorney General's review of Article 6 is suspended in accordance with G.L. c. 40, § 32.

Attorney General's Election to Proceed Under the Waiver Provisions of G.L. c. 40, § 32

The Attorney General has elected to proceed under the limited defect waiver authority conferred by G.L. c. 40, § 32. Suspension of Review of Zoning By-Law Amendments

The 90-day period prescribed by law for the Attorney General's review of local by-laws is therefore suspended in accordance with the provisions of G.L. c. 40, § 32.

Posting and Publication of This Notice The Town Clerk shall post a true copy of this Notice in a conspicuous place in the Oxford Town Hall for a period of not less than 14 days and shall publish a copy once in a newspaper of general circulation in the Town of Oxford.

Filing of Claim That Defect in Notice Misleading or Otherwise Was Prejudicial

Within 21 days of the date on which this Notice is published in a newspaper of general circulation in the Town of Oxford, any resident of the Town of Oxford, or the owner of any real property in the Town of Oxford or any other party entitled to notice of the planning board hearing may file with the Town Clerk a written statement that the notice defect was misleading or otherwise prejudicial. The statement must include the reasons supporting the claim that the defect in the Planning Board Notice was misleading or otherwise prejudicial. This statement must be actually on file with the Town Clerk not later than 21 days from the date on which this Notice is published in the newspaper.

Town Clerk's Certification Compliance with This Notice

After the expiration of the 21-day period, the Town Clerk shall submit to the Attorney General a true copy of this Notice with a certification of compliance with the publishing and posting requirements of the preceding paragraph, and a certification that either (a) no claim was filed within the 21-day period, or (b) one or more claims were filed within the 21-day period. The Town Clerk shall submit to the Attorney General true copies of any such claim(s).

Resumption of Attorney General's Review

Upon receipt of one original copy of this Notice with the Clerk's certification, the 90-day period provided for the Attorney General's review under G.L. c. 40, § 32, shall resume. If no claim is made, the Attorney General has the discretion to waive any such defect; if any claim is made, however, the Attorney General may not waive any such defect. May 9, 2025

SUDOKU

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Oxford Middle School celebrates National Junior Honor Society induction

OXFORD — Oxford Middle School (OMS) proudly hosted its annual National Junior Honor Society (NJHS) Induction Ceremony on Wednesday, April 30, celebrating the achievements and character of its newest mem-

The evening began with NJHS officers delivering heartfelt speeches, each highlighting one of the society's five core pillars. Brooke O'Connor spoke on the importance of scholarship, emphasizing academic commitment.

Bella Coghlan inspired the audience with reflections on leadership, while Destiny Purcell shared the impact and necessity of service. Catalina Montalvo reminded attendees of the role citizenship plays in building strong communities, and Niko Coraccio concluded with a powerful message on the enduring value of character.

The ceremony was enriched by special guest speakers. Representing Oxford High School's National Honor Society, President Emma Martin and Historian Kayla Belmore shared their personal journeys, underscoring the profound influence of leadership, citizenship, and service. The keynote address was delivered by Michelle Blackburn, a former OMS student and NJHS member, and a 2013 Boston Marathon Bombing survivor. Blackburn recounted her remarkable story of resilience—how she transformed the trauma of her injuries into deter-backs delayed her dream of completing the Boston Marathon in 2023, she triumphantly crossed the finish line in 2024, a testament to perseverance and unyielding spirit.

Adding to the ceremony's significance, the NJROTC presented the colors and led the assembly in the Pledge of Allegiance. A special thank you to OMS Principal Ms. Joseph who welcomed families and students with an opening address. Additional thank yous to Ms. Wagner, NJHS advisor, for her dedication to the program, and Superintendent Lucas for presenting the inductees with their hard-earned honor cords.

The evening concluded with a reception in the cafeteria, where families, students, and staff gathered to celebrate the accomplishments of these outstanding young leaders.
