WEBSTER — On Sunday, Feb. 15, Prestige Salon & Day Spa opened its doors and hearts to host a deeply meaningful spa retreat in partnership with The Breast Friends Connection, a nonprofit based in Shrewsbury.

Eighteen breast cancer survivors were treated to a peaceful afternoon of gentle, oncology-safe services designed to nurture both body and spirit. Guests enjoyed relaxing facials, chair massages, soothing foot soaks paired with hand, arm, foot, and leg massages, along with restorative hydrogen therapy and salt therapy. Every service was thoughtfully provided by Prestige team members specially trained in oncology-safe care, ensuring comfort, safety, and compassion at every touchpoint.

The retreat was more than a spa day—it was a heartfelt give-back. Through this experience, Prestige Salon & Day Spa honored the strength of survivors while supporting the mission of The Breast Friends Connection, which provides emotional support, friendship, and resources to those impacted by breast cancer.

The afternoon was filled with quiet moments of relaxation, shared smiles, and a powerful sense of community—reminding everyone present that healing is not just physical, but emotional and communal as well.

Interactive presentation on the art of respectful dialogue at Booklovers' Gourmet

WEBSTER — Booklovers' Gourmet, located at 72 East Main St. in Webster, invites the public to a free information session on "Mastering the Art of Respectful Dialogue" with Jessica Butler on Saturday, March 7 at 2 p.m. Please RSVP to 508-949-6232 or deb@bookloversgourmet.com.

This session will help attendees better communicate with others when they disagree. It will focus on strategies, listening skills and prompts that can be used to diffuse stressful situations and even turn them into opportunities to learn more about others (and oneself.)

Learning Outcomes:

Understand why we feel threatened and get defensive when our opinions are questioned or challenged

Learn how to replace defensiveness with curiosity

Learn several techniques that can be used to diffuse tense situations, improve relationships, and help you find "common ground"

Prior to retiring this past Spring, Jessica Butler was principal and founder of Attain Consulting Group, specializing in Business Process Improvement for more than 20 years. Before starting her consulting company, she was a partner in an international accounting and consulting firm. She holds a BS in Psychology and an MBA in Finance. Since her retirement, Jessica is focusing on activities that "feed her soul" as well as give back to the community, including communication skills, joint problem solving, tolerance and finding common ground. Formerly from New Jersey, Butler and her husband moved to Webster in 2023.

Saint Joseph School Student Council puts faith into action with winter drive

WEBSTER — At Saint Joseph School, Student Council is designed to help students become thoughtful leaders who serve their community. Elected annually by their peers, Student Council members represent the voice of the student body and support school life through outreach projects, student-led initiatives, spirit activities, buddy programs, and school dances. The goal is not only to build leadership skills, but also to form students who understand that leadership includes responsibility and service.

Student Council members are guided by Beth Boudreau, Principal, Mary Ann Weaver, Teacher Moderator, and Rev. Richard Polek, Pastor and Headmaster.

That mission was especially visible when the Student Council partnered with the Webster Police Department for its annual coat, hat, and glove drive. With support from school families, the Council collected 40 coats, 48 hats, 36 scarves, and 90 pairs of gloves, making it the most successful drive the school has held to date. Students presented the donations to Webster Police Chief Michael Shaw. The items will be distributed through the Webster-Dudley Food Share to help local families stay warm during the winter months.

School leaders noted that the drive's success reflects both the generosity of families and the commitment of students who organize and lead service projects that benefit others.

Clara Barton Drone Club launches Mission 2026 – “Time Warp”

OXFORD — The Clara Barton School’s after-school aerial drone teams are preparing to launch Mission 2026, themed “Time Warp,” following an impressive inaugural season.

In its first year, the program fielded two competition teams that achieved notable success on the national stage. One team placed 147th out of 674 middle school teams nationwide and ranked 41st out of 134 teams in the Northeast region. The second team finished 223rd nationally and 58th in the Northeast—an extraordinary accomplishment given that students had only a few months of practice before competing.

Building on that early success, the drone club is expanding this year and is expected to field six or even seven teams. The growth of the program has been made possible through the generous support of the Cecelia J. Smolenski-Millette Charitable Trust, which provided initial funding for the purchase of drones and has continued to support the program’s expansion this year.

Students and staff at Clara Barton School expressed their gratitude to the Cecelia J. Smolenski-Millette Charitable Trust for the opportunity to participate in this innovative program and are looking ahead with excitement to another outstanding season of competition.

Oxford Community Center Friends hosting shoe drive fundraiser

OXFORD — The community is invited to clean out their closet for a shoe drive to raise funds to help support the Oxford Community Center. Donations of gently worn, used and new shoes, boots, sneakers, sandals and slippers will be accepted through April 15. The amount of money raised is determined by the total weight of the shoes collected.

All donated shoes will be redistributed to micro-enterprise partners through Funds2Orgs, a for profit social enterprise, and used in developing nations for impoverished people to start their own businesses.

Donations may be dropped off during business hours at the Oxford Community Center, 4 Maple Rd., or the Oxford Free Public Library, 339 Main St.

In the US alone, more than 300 million pairs of shoes are thrown away per year. The materials used to manufacture a pair of shoes are created from chemical compounds that will create health hazards if left to disintegrate openly or in landfills. By donating your gently worn, used and new shoes to the Oxford Community Center Friends Fundraiser, your shoes are given a second chance to make a difference.

Local residents attend Saint Anselm College's Blessing of the Hands ceremony

MANCHESTER, New Hampshire — Natalie Burdett and Jared Ferschke of Dudley were celebrated ahead of their clinical experience at Saint Anselm College's annual and treasured Blessing of the Hands ceremony.

The Blessing of the Hands ceremony is a special tradition and major milestone for second-year nursing students at Saint Anselm. Family, friends, and faculty gather in the college's Abbey Church to support nursing students as they prepare to enter a clinical environment for the first time. The ceremony marks the beginning of their clinical practice, a halfway point to pinning, and a step towards an impactful future in healthcare. Members of the monastery preside over the blessing and present each student the medal of Saint Raphael, patron saint of nurses.

Founded in 1889, Saint Anselm College is a nationally-ranked four-year liberal arts college providing a 21st century education in the Catholic, Benedictine tradition. Located in the greater Boston region in southern New Hampshire, Saint Anselm is well known for its strong liberal arts curriculum, the New Hampshire Institute of Politics, commitment to inclusiveness, a highly successful nursing program, and a legacy of community service.

About Saint Michael's College

The value of ordinary Tuesdays

Not every measure of a town's health shows up in a headline.

Some of it reveals itself on an ordinary Tuesday afternoon.

It is the steady hum of traffic along Route 12 in Auburn. It is the line at the post office in Webster. It is the familiar rhythm of dismissal at Shepherd Hill Regional High School or the quiet movement in and out of Oxford Town Hall before a meeting begins.

In small communities like ours, it is easy to focus on the big moments. Budget votes. Major development proposals. Controversial zoning changes. Those events deserve attention. They shape the long-term direction of a town.

But what keeps a town strong, week after week, is something less dramatic: consistency.

Municipal employees who show up every day to keep water running, roads plowed and paperwork processed rarely make the front page. Teachers who arrive before sunrise and stay long after dismissal do not ask for applause. Police officers and firefighters train, respond and prepare, often without fanfare, until the moment someone needs them most.

The same can be said of volunteers. Library trustees. Youth coaches. Senior center organizers. Historical society members preserving the stories of Webster's mill days or Auburn's early farms. These residents build stability through routine effort.

There is a temptation to think that progress only comes through sweeping change. Yet in towns like Webster, Dudley or Auburn, much of what works well does so because it has been tended carefully over time. Responsible budgeting. Thoughtful planning. Maintenance of public buildings. Incremental improvements to parks and fields.

That kind of stewardship does not generate excitement, but it generates trust.

Trust grows when residents see that snow is cleared promptly. That school buses run safely. That town meetings are conducted with fairness. That disagreements are handled with civility.

This year, as boards across the region prepare budgets and outline capital projects, the conversation will inevitably turn to costs. Inflation continues to pressure households. Municipal expenses rise. Decisions about staffing, equipment and infrastructure are not easy.

Yet even in tight financial times, it is worth remembering what we are funding. We are not simply approving line items. We are sustaining the ordinary Tuesdays that make life here predictable and secure.

A stable town is not a stagnant town. It can welcome new businesses along Southbridge Street in Auburn or support revitalization efforts in downtown Webster. It can invest in school programs while maintaining strong public safety services. It can improve recreational spaces in Oxford and Dudley without losing sight of fiscal responsibility.

The key is balance. Measured growth. Careful oversight. Open communication.

When residents attend meetings, ask informed questions and vote thoughtfully, they reinforce that balance. When officials provide clear explanations and transparent reporting, they strengthen public confidence.

The real story of our communities is not written in moments of crisis alone. It is written in the quiet continuity of daily life.

On that ordinary Tuesday afternoon, when traffic flows, schools operate smoothly and storefronts open on time, it may not feel remarkable. But it is.

That steadiness is the product of many hands and many years of effort. It is worth protecting.

In a world that often feels unpredictable, the simple reliability of Webster, Dudley, Oxford and Auburn remains one of their greatest strengths.

The knowledge that never makes the manual

There is a certain kind of knowledge that never makes it into a manual.

You learn it by watching. By listening. By standing quietly off to the side while someone who has done a thing for a long time does it without explanation. No checklist, no diagram. Just habit, muscle memory, and a rhythm built over years.

I think about that kind of knowledge more now than I used to.

It shows up in ordinary places. The person who knows exactly how much force it takes to close a stubborn door without slamming it. The clerk who can tell, just by the sound, whether a register is about to jam. The neighbor who can look at the sky and know, with surprising accuracy, whether you ought to bring the chairs in tonight.

These are not skills anyone brags about. They are simply carried, quietly, until one day they're gone.

I noticed this recently while trying to fix something simple. Simple, that is, for the person who used to handle it. I followed the instructions. I watched a video. I did everything "right," and still ended up with a result that worked, but not well. It functioned, but it lacked the ease of the original.

That's when it occurred to me that what was missing wasn't information. It was judgment.

In small towns, we are surrounded by people who carry that kind of judgment. They know when to tighten something just a little more, and when to leave it alone. They know when to speak up at a meeting, and when silence does more good. They know which traditions matter, and which ones we only keep because we always have.

Much of this knowledge never gets passed along formally. It transfers sideways, through example.

LANTERNS ALONG MAIN STREET

By CHARLES

A younger person watches an older one. A newcomer notices how things are done. A habit forms, not because it was required, but because it made sense.

The trouble is, this kind of knowledge doesn't announce when it's about to leave. One day the familiar person retires. Or moves. Or simply stops showing up. And only then do we realize how much was being held together by someone's steady presence.

I don't think this is something to panic about. Towns have been losing and gaining quiet experts forever. What matters is whether we notice them while they're still around.

There's value in paying attention to how things are done, not just that they get done. In asking why a process works the way it does. In recognizing that experience has a texture that can't always be replicated by instructions alone.

At home, this shows up, too. We all have ways of doing things that make sense to us but might look odd to someone else. Over time, households develop their own unwritten rules. You don't realize how many there are until someone breaks one accidentally.

Living alongside other people, whether in a family or a town, means learning these invisible systems. It also means being patient when someone hasn't learned them yet.

I suppose what I'm really saying is that wisdom often arrives quietly and leaves the same way. If we're too busy, we miss it entirely. If we're paying attention, we can catch pieces of it before it goes.

And maybe pass a little of it along, not in a lecture, but in the way we do things day after day. That's usually how it's been done around here, and it's worked pretty well so far.

Vintage Maywood Auburn

BY HELEN POIRIER
AUBURN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

A small museum needs to utilize every bit of space it has to display exhibits and artifacts and the Auburn Historical Museum is no exception. The museum started as a two-room schoolhouse and along the way was a hospital, overflow for the Auburn school department, and the Auburn Visiting Nurses offices. It was natural to add indoor plumbing and a kitchen area. The kitchen displays vintage utensils for cooking and baking like flour sifter, hand eggbeater, tin measuring cups and measuring spoons, graters, even a metal recipe box which held vintage recipes. The museum has several old recipe books from churches and school groups as well as neighborhood families who got together to share their favorite recipes. Looking through the collection there was some from the "Friends in Maywood Auburn Mass 1911". One of the authors happened to be Mrs. C.L. Tuttle. Since the museum is at "Tuttle Square" and the museum was once called Tuttle School, more investigation had to be done to find this "Maywood Auburn" area.

In 1912, there was a Maywood School on Cedar Street with the first teacher being M. Louise Edjerly. The school records showed that it was closed in 1935 with its last teacher being Fannie Williams, who held the position for seven years. The school remained vacant until bought in 1975 and turned into a many roomed house.

There was also the Maywood Crossing train stop at the corner of Cedar and South Streets. The train tracks are still there, but the three-sided enclosure used to wait for the train is gone. The train only stopped if there was a red flag displayed stating that passengers were waiting.

So where did the Tuttle family live? The 1900 census had them living in Needham with Charles's mother, his wife and children; Florence, Chester, Earl and Alice. In the 1910 census, Charles and Ada Tuttle were living on a farm on Barnes Street, which is off South Street not far from Cedar with their children. The family had moved to Worcester by the 1930 census with Ada, Earl, Alice and granddaughter Florence. Chester had died in World War I in France.

Maywood Auburn area might be defined as between Southbridge Street to South Street, Oxford Street South, to Barnes Street by way of Cedar Street. It was all farm area when Ada Tuttle and her neighbors got together to share their recipes. One of the recipes was Molasses Cookies and it is exactly the way Mrs. C.L. Tuttle had it.

Molasses cookies
1 Cup Molasses
" sugar
" sour milk
" melted lard or butter
2 large teaspoons of soda in sour milk. (soda = baking soda)
Teaspoon salt
Tablespoon of Ginger
Flour enough for a soft dough roll out and bake in a very quick oven.
I use a large cutter and put two rasains (sic) on each cookie which everyone likes.

(In 1911 the ovens were either coal or wood with no temperature gauge on them A "quick oven" is about 375-400 degrees.)

Retired Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy Director & husband lead 'Bikes for Change' road trip

ROCKVILLE, Md. — A chance breakfast conversation in Gardner has turned into a life-changing mission for the North Quabbin community, led by a familiar face in local education. Gretheline Bolandrina, DHA, MSN Ed, RN, CRRN, who recently retired as the Academy Director of the Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy in Charlton (October 2025), has traded the classroom for the open road to deliver hope on two wheels.

Alongside her husband, Joseph, the retired director spearheaded a «Road Trip to Deliver Bikes for Change.» a mission fueled by the overwhelming support of the Bay Path community, local residents, and the spirit of global Bayanihan (a core Filipino cultural value representing communal unity, work, and cooperation to achieve a common goal without expecting anything in return.)

A legacy of service continues: Partnership of Purpose, 2012–2026

Having spent over a decade guiding future nurses at Bay Path Practical Nursing Academy, Dr. Bolandrina is no stranger to humanitarian efforts. While her retirement in late 2025 marked the end of an era for nursing education, it signaled the beginning of a new “tour of duty” alongside her husband.

The 2026 project began when the Bolandrinass visited Bruce and Mary Willoughby, the retiring owners of O’Neil’s Bicycle Shop in Gardner. Faced with hundreds of used bicycles that needed a new home, Joseph reached out to Bikes for the World (BfW), a non-profit they have supported for years and have helped to send shipments to the Philippines (coordinated with Bikes for the Philippines).

This mission is the continuation of a shared passion; both Joseph and Gretheline have been volunteers with Bikes for the Philippines since 2012. For 14 years, the couple has worked in tandem—collecting, organizing, and delivering donated bicycles from their local Massachusetts community to the BfW headquarters. Their long-standing partnership has been instrumental in ensuring that hundreds of bicycles have reached the Philippines through Bikes for the Philippines, transforming the lives of students and workers across the archipelago. Hundreds more for the rest of the world through Bikes for the World.

Powered by the Bay Path community

The mission was a true team effort. The Bay Path community—comprising former students, faculty, and local friends—helped the Bolandrinass reach their fundraising goals. A key celebration and fundraiser held on Gretheline’s 59th birthday at Kuru Kuru Ramen shop in the Worcester Public Market provided the necessary funds to rent the 20-foot U-Haul truck required for the long haul to Maryland.

“I have seen how second-hand bikes enrich lives,” Joseph explained. “From helping a student graduate to giving a small-scale entrepreneur a way to reach the market, these bikes are tools for independence.”

Navigating the “Plan B” route

The trek to the Bikes for the World headquarters in Rockville, Md., tested the couple’s resolve. The duo spent hours navigating around New York’s low-clearance parkways.

“Every time we saw a ‘NO TRUCKS’ sign on a parkway on-ramp, we had to scramble for a Plan B,” Joseph shared. Despite adding hours to their transit time, the couple arrived safely to deliver 55 bicycles to BfW leaders Yvette Powell Hess and Taylor Jones.

A commemorative honor

In recognition of their years of advocacy, Yvette presented Joseph with an Official Bikes for the World 2005–2025 Commemorative Coin. The Bolandrinass plan to keep the coin as a family heirloom, eventually passing it to their grandson, Tidus, to inspire the next generation of service.

For the retired Academy Director, the journey was a reminder that while she may have stepped down from the helm of the practical nursing Academy, her mission to heal and help the world is far from over.

“Life is best shared,” the couple reflected. “We are tired, but we have a grateful grin that isn’t going away.”

Worcester County Sheriff’s Medical named Wellpath Facility of the Year

Sheriff Lewis Evangelidis presents a congratulatory plaque to the WCSO Medical Team for being named 2025 Wellpath Facility of the Year.

WORCESTER — The Worcester County Sheriff’s Office (WCSO) is proud to announce that the Worcester County Sheriff’s Office Medical Team, the Office’s subcontracted medical provider, has earned the title of Facility of the Year by its parent company, Wellpath. The award recognizes excellence in leadership, innovation, and the delivery of high-quality correctional healthcare.

Sheriff Lewis Evangelidis noted that shortly after taking office in 2011, he decided to privatize the WCSO Medical Department, believing that it was one of the best decisions of his tenure.

“Subcontracting medical services through Wellpath significantly reduces liability for the Commonwealth while allowing us to provide a higher level of care to those in our custody,” Evangelidis said.

The recognition reflects a year of sustained progress under the leadership of Anjuli Richard, Health Services Administrator, and Kayla Carlo, Assistant Health Services Administrator. Together, Richard and Carlo built upon the facility’s strong foundation by strengthening workplace culture, refining clinical and operational processes, and expanding access to care through enhanced interdisciplinary coordination.

Anjuli Richard commented, “This award highlights the hard work, resilience, and teamwork demonstrated every day by our staff, as well as the strong collaboration with the Sheriff’s Office in supporting a safe, respectful, and effective environment for care.”

Wellpath is an international provider of contracted healthcare services for correctional facilities and other high-risk environments. The company employs more than 8,000 professionals and serves nearly 300 facilities across the United States and Australia, providing care to approximately 200,000 patients each day.

The WCSO medical team includes physicians, nurse practitioners, physician assistants, nurses, and other healthcare professionals who provide 24/7 medical coverage. The medical unit is housed within the Sheriff’s Office Intake and Medical Unit, a modern, purpose-built facility that opened in 2021 and was designed to centralize intake, medical screening, and long-term care.

Key accomplishments contributing to the Facility of the Year designation include securing a $25,000 UMass Medical School grant to expand ophthalmologic services and vision care, as well as partnering with MCPHS University to enhance dental health education through student involvement. The facility also prioritized workforce development by establishing a nurse-led onboarding committee, implementing shift huddles and a staff Idea Board, achieving zero first-year staff turnover, and maintaining 100 percent compliance with annual training requirements.

with Anna Maria College allowed 27 Bachelor of Science in Nursing students to complete clinical observation hours. Collaboration with UMass hospital case managers further improved continuity of care for patients returning from hospital stays. Operational enhancements included the creation of an Infirmary Committee to support compliance with updated NCCCH standards and the launch of regular interdisciplinary meetings with non-Wellpath mental health partners.

“This award affirms the meaningful progress we have made over the past decade to strengthen the operations of the Worcester County Sheriff’s Office,” said Lewis Evangelidis. “I’m especially proud of the strong partnership we have built with our healthcare team and the professionalism our corrections staff demonstrates in working alongside them to support those in our care.”

Through consistent results across patient care, workforce engagement, partnerships, operational processes, and performance outcomes, Worcester County Jail Medical exemplifies Wellpath’s Five P’s and is a deserving recipient of the Facility of the Year award.
