Local police departments work together to arrest shooting suspect

WEBSTER — Town Administrator Rick Lafond took center stage for the recent selectmen’s meeting, with almost all of the discussion surrounding education. The discussion started by saying hadn’t been a public hearing.

Two issues dominated the agenda: the town’s budget override.

The former has been in the works for some time, but the latter was good, ready for a board vote until a final review. Lafond said the current proposal, which included $4.4 million, had been written for a community with a different financial government and were basically “to avoid going from another community.” As a result, some of the very specific things that are needed are not where (including in the line item, insurance and other things that don’t exist, even in other communities and other problems.

A lot of things that code are purely administrative in nature and shouldn’t be there, he added.

Chair Karl Gober pushed forward the idea of a “great goal you’re trying to achieve.” Butler added the changes were needed to make language noting union contracts.

The budget is similar to a business plan, with Lafond noting Feb 20 will be the deadline for proposals to the town departments to submit requests for the budget. Finance Committees are now reviewing them. In general, he described it as a “very good budget in terms of some services.” Still, he’s planning a “purely level service” budget.

That’s mostly because of the recent changes to state formulas for revenue sharing and federal stimulus funds. To be clear, these last few years, just not raising enough to cover the increases in contractual, interest, insurance and other always rising “fixed” costs.

“We’re almost like you’re being up on the ball,” he said.

For the former, Lafond said last year Webster received about $3.4 million extra in chapter 70 aid, which the town routine splits 70:30 between the schools and town. This year it’s getting less than $3 million in additional Chap 70 money and he didn’t expect such a drastic cut. To get about $28,000 more in Chapter 70, he predicted the schools would be “emotionally supportive” of the resulting budget.

Indeed, Superintendent Richard Lamarche at the next night’s School Committee meeting attended by Selectmen approved revised budget plan for Airport Road intersection

Some of the options proposed at previous meetings. Option 1 would be a level service budget and an increase of $13 million. Option 2 was a list of different post positions in the district and the option being used for Fiscal Year 2023, letting the towns decide if they’re willing to absorb the full cost in their tax levies.

After March 9, detectives with the Auburn Police Department determined that a shooting initially reported to have occurred in Auburn actually took place in North Oxford.

After the Oxford Police Department assumed the investigation, it was determined that a suspect, Christopher Tetreault, 29, of Southbridge, was working in the area of RJH Concrete at the time of the shooting.

The male victim was treated for a single gunshot wound to the right leg and making the area more accessible to ADA compliance sidewalks and making the area more easily navigable.

The incident occurred at Boulder Industrial Park, in the area of RJH Concrete, police said. A 25-year-old male victim was treated for a single gunshot wound to the femur area.

The Oxford Police Department assumed the investigation after receiving medical care.

Solving a murder mystery involves careful observation and deduction. In this puzzle, the focus is on understanding the implications of the clues provided. The solution requires an analytical approach to connect the dots between the given information and the ultimate goal revealed by the highlighted letters. The narrative content engages the reader in a suspenseful tale, which ties in with the visual elements of the grid, leading to a satisfying conclusion. This exercise is an excellent example of how puzzles can be both intellectually stimulating and entertaining, offering a unique way to engage the mind.

Join us on a trip back to the ‘90s!

The 1990s was a decade defined by seismic shifts, cultural milestones, and profound transformations that continue to resonate as a global phenomenon, the decade of the Internet age. The fall of the Berlin Wall to the dawn of the 21st century, the 1990s laid bare the deep-seated divisions, the force of neoliberalism, and the advent of free trade that would leave a lasting imprint on the world for decades to come.

The 1990s was a time of profound socio-economic shifts, as neoliberalism and the forces of globalization emerged as major players, signaling an era of unencumbered capitalism. The forces of neoliberalism and globalization, as marginalized communities sought to organize and speak up, signaling an era of unencumbered expression.

Letters to the Editor

Trump is no peacemaker

To the Editor:

I love to read your newspaper and the articles are well written. But I am writing to express my frustration with the latest issue. The article about Trump and his policies is completely biased and disrespectful. I encourage you to consider a more balanced approach in your future articles.

Sincerely,

When should you take Social Security?

One of your important sources of income for your retirement security, but when should you take it?

You can start collecting Social Security benefits at 62, but your checks will only count toward your full retirement age, which is currently at 67. If you start collecting before your full retirement age, your benefits will be reduced by a certain percentage for each year you claim early. If you wait until your full retirement age, your benefits will be at their full value. If you wait until you reach age 70, you can receive a higher benefit, but it will only be 8% more than your full retirement benefit.

However, if you have adequate financial resources to meet your monthly needs, whether through savings or an investment portfolio, or a combination of both, you may want to consider delaying your retirement and earning more income.

Selecting the right potting mix for your plantings

GARDEN MOMENTS

MELINDA MYERS

Many potting mixes are available.

They consist of post, potting soil, and organic matter. Some potting mixes contain more sand or perlite for better drainage. African Violet potting mix contains more organic matter to help hold moisture, and is good for starting seedlings, growing young seedlings when spending a lot of time watering and without much success.

One of the best potting mixes is “Humidity and Disease Resistant” mix, which has been formulated to hold moisture and reduce the frequency of watering. It has a low salt level and is suitable for all types of indoor plants, including orchids, cacti, and succulents. This mix is reported to be effective for all types of houseplants, including orchids, cacti, and succulents.

Melinda Myers has written more than 20 potting mixes, including the recently released Melinda Gardeners’ Handbook, 2nd Edition, and Soil Science for Gardeners. She is the founder of MyChips, a community-based organization, and the author of Melinda Gardeners’ All Purpose Potting Mix. Myers is a columnist and a contributing editor for Birds &Blooms magazine and is commissioned by Wild Valley Farms for her expertise in writing this article. BUDGET by $100,000. Lamarche explained that he felt it was necessary to make a small increase in their 2015 budget, in order to support the current and future needs of the town.

The budget includes a $2.4 million increase which will be used to pay back the town's long-term debt, as well as to fund a number of new projects, including the construction of a new medical center and a new police station. The budget also includes a number of smaller items, such as the purchase of new vehicles and the hiring of additional staff.

The budget was passed unanimously by the Selectmen, who thanked the town residents for their support.

Grew up, my dad always said, "Dressing for success." But I hardly remember him ever doing anything but wearing jeans and a sweatshirt with 'Red Sox' on the back. He always said, "What's the point of dressing like a well-dressed man if you're going to be doing dirty work?"

During my college years, a chance encounter with a modeling agent composed of a few office girls, a trunk full of giant castings, as well as a plane ticket to New York. I was of course, in awe of all that was Europe and New York. Success seemed to come with ease.
