Webster Public Schools outline winter programs and upcoming calendar items

WEBSTER — The Webster Public Schools are moving into the heart of the winter term with a series of scheduled programs, instructional initiatives, and calendar items that will shape the remainder of the school year.

According to information posted by the district, January marks a return to regular classroom routines following the holiday break, along with the continuation of academic support services and enrichment opportunities for students across grade levels. Winter months are traditionally a period of steady instructional focus, with schools emphasizing curriculum pacing, assessment preparation, and student engagement ahead of spring testing and end-of-year activities.

District calendars show several upcoming dates of note for students and families, including professional development days, early release schedules, and school committee meetings. These calendar items are reviewed and updated regularly to ensure families have advance notice of schedule changes or events that may affect transportation and after-school programming.

In addition to academic instruction, Webster Public Schools continue to offer non-sports extracurricular activities during the winter season. These may include student clubs, arts-related programming, and academic enrichment opportunities that operate during or after the school day, depending on school level. Participation in these programs provides students with

Auburn selectmen set Jan. 12 public hearings

AUBURN — The Auburn Select Board has posted public hearing notices for Monday, Jan. 12, 2026, including hearings tied to a motor vehicle-related license application and a separate notice connected to utility infrastructure locations.

The town’s meeting calendar lists a Board of Selectmen meeting scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Jan. 12 in the Select Board Meeting Room at Town Hall, 104 Central St. The calendar entry also provides options for remote participation, including a call-in number and an online meeting link.

One posted notice states the Select Board will hold a public hearing regarding a Motor Vehicle Class II License at 85 South St., Auburn. The notice indicates the hearing will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Jan. 12, and includes remote participation instructions (telephone and online access) associated with the Select Board’s meeting setup.

A separate notice posted for the same date describes a public hearing connected to a petition for joint or identical pole locations. Like the other notice, it identifies the Select Board, the Jan. 12 date and 6:30 p.m. time, and the Town Hall location, with the purpose of the hearing tied to pole location procedures.

While the two notices address different subjects, they share a common procedural goal: giving the public a clear time and place to weigh in before the board takes action within its authority.

For residents who plan to attend, Town Hall is located at 104 Central St. For residents planning to participate remotely, the town’s calendar entry includes the dial-in number and access code as well as the online meeting link for the Select Board room.

Public hearings are typically structured to allow the applicant or petitioner to present the request, for board members to ask questions, and for members of the public to offer comment within the rules of the hearing. Residents who have questions about participation logistics can also use the town’s calendar listing as a starting point, since it consolidates meeting time, location, and remote participation details in one place.

Since posted notices can be supplemented by additional meeting materials as the date approaches, residents who want the most current packet information should monitor the town’s online postings leading up to Jan. 12.

Bartlett Class of 1976 planning 50-year reunion

REGION — Attention, classmates of Bartlett High School, graduating class of 1976!

We have been searching high and low for you! We are planning a 50th class reunion for the summer of 2026 and would like to see you there.

We have been busy doing Google searches, Facebook searches, LinkedIn searches, general searches, “Hey, does anyone know where ____ has been?” searches and yes, sadly, even obituary searches, to find you. Yet, there are still a few of you that we still have been unable to locate.

Whether you are now living out of state or are using a different name, we are hoping that some of your family or friends are still in the area and can let you know we are looking for you and your contact information.

If you have not been contacted by one of us or have not reached out to connect with us, we would very much like to hear from you to see if you would be interested in attending the reunion.

If you also have information on a classmate and can share it with us, we would be very appreciative.

Cornerstone Bank, Athol Savings Bank finalize merger

WORCESTER — Cornerstone Bank today announced the closing of its merger with Athol Savings Bank (ASB), effective Dec. 31, uniting the two long-standing community institutions. The completed transaction results in an expanded banking network that brings Cornerstone Bank’s full suite of digital services to the North Quabbin region while preserving ASB’s trusted local identity and five branch locations.

“As of today, our partnership is officially complete, and we are excited to move forward as one organization,” said Todd Tallman, CEO of Cornerstone Bank. “This merger strengthens our ability to serve customers with improved technology, expanded products and deeper community investment, while staying true to the values that define both banks.”

With the closing, Daniel J. Zona, former President and CEO of ASB, has begun his new role as President of Cornerstone Bank, succeeding the retiring Randal Webber. The Cornerstone Bank Board of Directors has also expanded to include four new members, including Zona, broadening leadership representation across the regions the combined bank now serves.

“This is a meaningful moment for both banks,” said Zona. “Our teams share a strong commitment to customers, employees and the communities we call home. With the merger now finalized, we can begin fully delivering the enhanced services and opportunities that come with joining forces.”

All ASB employees have been retained, ensuring continuity for customers. Customers can expect ongoing communications and a smooth transition as Cornerstone and ASB align systems and expand access to digital banking tools, financial planning resources and new product offerings.

Job change?

Whether retiring or changing jobs, you'll want to know your retirement account options.

There are four potential options for your 401(k) when leaving an employer:

- Leave it in your former employer's 401(k) plan, if allowed by the plan.
- Move it to your new employer's 401(k) plan, if you've changed employers and your new employer plan allows for it.
- Roll the account over to an individual retirement account (IRA).
- Cash it out, which is subject to potential tax consequences.

We can talk through your financial goals and find the option that works best for you.

Pasture Prime Players to hold auditions for “The Hot L Baltimore”

CHARLTON — Pasture Prime Players, Inc. is pleased to announce open auditions for “The Hot L Baltimore” by Lanford Wilson. The production will be directed by Don Konopacki.

Auditions will be held Tuesday, Jan. 13 at 6 p.m. and Saturday, Jan. 17 at 10 a.m. at the Charlton Arts & Activities Center, 4 Dresser Hill Rd., Charlton, MA. Performances will be held April 17, 18, 19, 24, 25 and 26 This play is produced by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc. of New York, N.Y.

The scene is the lobby of a rundown hotel so seedy that it has lost the “e” from its marquee. As the action unfolds, the residents, ranging from young to old, from the defiant to the resigned, meet and talk and interact with each other during the course of one day. The drama is of passing events in their lives, of everyday encounters and of the human comedy, with conversations often overlapping into a contrapuntal musical flow. In the resulting mosaic each character emerges clearly and perceptively defined, and the sum total of who they are, or wish they were, becomes a poignant, powerful call to America to recover lost values and tore store itself in its own and the worlds eyes.

The play won the New York Drama Critics’ Circle Award for Best American Play of 1972–’73, multiple Obie Awards and the John Gassner Playwriting Award.

There are roles for seven females and 10 males although three of the male roles are of the walk-on variety. Auditions will be cold readings from the script. We are also looking for people to fill non-performing roles. For more information, contact us at pasture.prime.players@gmail.com.

A modest start still counts

The arrival of January often comes with a familiar sense of expectation. A new year is supposed to feel different, more purposeful, more hopeful. There is pressure, subtle but persistent, to make declarations, set goals, and turn the page decisively on whatever came before.

That pressure can be motivating, but it can also be unrealistic.

Winter in New England does not naturally lend itself to grand reinvention. It is a season defined by restraint rather than abundance. Days are short. Roads are slower. Schedules are shaped by weather and daylight. Expecting sweeping personal or civic transformation in early January may ignore the reality of where we are, both physically and mentally.

There is nothing wrong with starting small.

A modest start still counts. Small changes made with intention are often the ones that last. A decision to be more patient behind the wheel. A renewed effort to stay informed about local issues. A commitment to attend a meeting, support a local organization, or lend a hand when it is needed. These actions may not feel dramatic, but they are meaningful.

Communities like ours are sustained by these kinds of steady contributions. Progress here rarely comes from sudden breakthroughs. It comes from consistency. It comes from residents showing up, paying attention, and doing their part, even when it is inconvenient or uncomfortable.

January is also a reminder that improvement does not require perfection. Resolutions are often framed as all-or-nothing propositions, but real change is rarely so clean. Setbacks are inevitable. Missed goals are not failures; they are part of the process. What matters is the willingness to adjust and continue.

On a community level, this mindset matters as well. Civic engagement ebbs and flows. Some weeks are quiet. Others bring difficult conversations or slow-moving decisions. Staying involved through all of it, not only when outcomes are exciting or immediate, is how towns remain healthy and responsive.

As the new year unfolds, there will be opportunities to revisit priorities and set new ones. January does not have to carry the full weight of reinvention. It can simply be a place to begin, thoughtfully and realistically.

If the year starts without fanfare, that is not a failure. A quiet beginning can still lead to meaningful progress. In fact, it often does.

Esther C. Kish: The woman behind Dr. Robert Goddard

BY HELEN POIRIER
AUBURN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The start of this new year will bring many celebrations to look forward to. One of these will be the 100th anniversary of Dr. Robert Goddard's launching of a liquid-propellant rocket and the start of the space age. There will be many articles written about the "Father of Modern Rocketry", but what about the women behind this man who helped him?

The Auburn Historical Society will be looking at the history of aviation in Auburn as well as the people who advanced that history. The first person will be Esther Christine Kish, who became the wife of Goddard. She spent a great deal of her life making sure the world did not forget what Robert Goddard had done to advance technology to the stars.

Esther was born March 31, 1901, in Worcester to August Wilhem Kish and Augusta Johnson both born in Sweden. Esther also had a brother, Albert Walter, who married Beatrice D. Labossiere. The 1910 census had Kish family living on Fountain St. in Worcester with Grandmother Johanna Anderson and 5 other boarders. By the 1920 census, the family had moved to Gates Street. and Esther was 18 and working as a clerk. She studied at Bates University before she met Robert at Clark University where she was the secretary to the college president, Joseph N. Dinand. Robert was a physics professor and had asked Esther to help transcribe his notes. Esther was 20 years younger than Goddard, but that didn't matter to either of them. They were married on June 21, 1924, at St. John's Episcopal Church in Worcester. They took up residency at Maple Hill Farm, which was Robert's ancestral home on Talawanda Drive in Worcester. Esther was a photographer and used that skill to document her husband's early launches as well as stamping out brush fires and collecting pieces of the rocket after it landed. She was able to decipher his notes, kept his account books, did the sewing of parachutes used in launches and gave unlimited support to her husband's dreams for the rest of her life.

It was in 1929 that funds from the Guggenheim Foundation and the backing of Charles Lindbergh encouraged the move to Roswell New Mexico. There also were the reoccurring fires after the launches at Aunt Effie Ward's farm that didn't endear him to the neighborhood on Pakachoag Hill that could have influenced the move. While they lived in Roswell, Esther was part of the Roswell Music Association, The Women's Club, the Shakespeare Club, and founded a book club. She also got her husband to join some of the activities in the area and take time away from his work and relax.

Unfortunately, in 1932, the funding from the Guggenheim Foundation was stopped due to the Depression. This forced the Goddard family to return to Maple Hill and Robert went back to the Physics Department at Clark University. In this time his health began to be an issue and the doctors suggested they return to Roswell. The Guggenheim Foundation was able to support Goddard again thus allowing for the move back to Roswell. They were visited by Charles and Anne Lindbergh who were on their way to the west coast shortly afterward they moved into their new home. During the 1930s the Goddard's entertained the likes of the Guggenheims, and officials from the Navy and Army, as well as those interested in seeing his rockets.

Esther wanted her husband to fit into Roswell and encouraged him in group activities like singing and playing bridge, anything that would pause his devoted attention to rocketry. She did get him to take a vacation to France and Switzerland in 1938, and this helped improve his health. The 1940 census listed Esther as a housewife, and Goddard's mother was living with them after his father died.

The Navy Department was interested in the military potential that rocketry had and in 1942 persuaded Goddard to move to Annapolis, Maryland to set up his machine shop and testing stands. Esther was able to enroll at John Hopkins University in Baltimore and finished her studies that she was doing before her marriage. Esther brought her mother to live with them to help take care of Robert and the house while she was away. She earned a Bachelor of Arts degree with honors. The throat cancer that had started in 1941 finally took Robert on August 10, 1945. He was buried in Hope Cemetery in Worcester on the 14th which was the same day the Japanese signed the surrender ending WWII.

Esther moved back to Talawanda Drive and, and with the help and support of her family, started to work on getting her husband the honor and credit he so rightly deserved. She organized his papers to get patent right and stop others from pirating his inventions. She worked with Charles Hawley who was a Worcester patents attorney and got 214 patents, of which 131 were posthumously granted because of Esther's efforts. According to "This High Man" Milton Lehman 1965, Esther donated the oldest space-oriented artifact (1916) the Magnesium Powder Experiment Box to the National Air and Space Museum. Esther traveled worldwide to lecture & receive many awards and honors bestowed on Robert as well as other public appearances including cutting the ribbon at the opening of the Auburn Mall in 1971, a large picture of which can be seen at the Auburn Historical Society's Museum. Esther is also credited with being the first woman to receive an honorary degree from WPI, was active on several college boards, received her own awards and edited a three-volume work of Goddard's papers that were published in 1970. She received a Doctor of Physics degree from the University of Maine in 1945 and a doctor of humane letters from Clark University in 1972. Esther died June 5, 1982, and was buried in Hope Cemetery with her husband.

This article is made possible by the Auburn Historical Society & Museum, 41 South St. The museum is open Tuesday and Saturday mornings 9:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m., and may be reached at auburnmuseum@verizon.net or 508-832-6856, www.auburnhistoricalmuseum.org or follow us on Facebook at Auburn Historical.

Lanterns Along Main Street

LANTERNS
By CHARLES

There is a particular moment most evenings when the house settles into itself. The dishes are done, the day's noise has burned off, and the television hums more out of habit than interest. It is in that quiet stretch that I find myself paying attention to small, almost unnoticed things. The kind of things you don't put on a calendar or make plans around, but that somehow shape a day all the same.

One of those things is light. Not the bright kind. Not the glare from screens or headlights or store signs blinking at us from every corner. I mean the steady, ordinary light that shows up when it is supposed to. A porch lamp clicked on at dusk. A kitchen window glowing softly against the dark. The faint shine from a streetlight that has been standing in the same place longer than most of us have lived on the block.

I do not remember anyone ever talking about light when I was growing up. It was simply there, or it wasn't. You flipped a switch, and life went on. But lately I've noticed how much comfort comes from knowing it will be there when you expect it.

On winter evenings especially, when the cold presses in early and the daylight gives up before it feels fair, those small lights do real work. They tell us someone is home. They tell us the day isn't quite finished yet. They give shape to streets that would otherwise feel empty and unwelcoming.

I have walked through town many nights when the sidewalks were quiet and the stores long closed, and I have found myself slowing down without realizing it. There is something grounding about seeing the same lights you saw yesterday, and the day before that, and the year before that. The hardware store sign still glowing. The corner house still lighting the same window. The library's exterior lamps still shining over the steps, even when the doors are locked.

It is not nostalgia exactly. It is steadiness. So much of life now feels temporary. Apps update overnight. Buildings change names. Businesses come and go so fast that by the time you remember what used to be there, it has already been replaced by something else. In the middle of all that motion, there is comfort in the things that quietly stay put.

Light does that. It doesn't ask for attention. It doesn't demand praise. It simply does its job.

I think that is why I have grown more appreciative of routines as I have gotten older. Not exciting routines. Plain ones. The same walk. The same drive. The same chair by the window. These habits act like small lanterns of their own, marking time and place when everything else feels like it is rushing past.

There was a time when I thought routine meant giving up something. Youth, possibility, adventure. Now I see it differently. Routine is what gives those things a place to

New Year's financial resolutions: Making them stick

ANTONOPOULOS

As the calendar flips to a new year, millions of Americans pledge to improve their financial lives. But without a concrete plan, those well-intentioned resolutions often fade quickly.

Financial goals consistently top the list of New Year's resolutions. A 2025 CFP Board study shows that financial resolutions are prominent, with saving more money (45 percent) and reducing debt (32 percent) ranking among the top three goals.

Unfortunately, most resolutions don't last. A 2023 Forbes Health poll found that over half of people give up on resolutions by the four-month mark and only 1% make it the full year.

The challenge isn't a lack of desire for change. People may set the same resolution year after year, revealing a disconnect between intentions and action. Or it may be that they try to tackle too many goals at once, or aim higher than is realistic, setting themselves up for disappointment.

Set smart financial goals. Before crafting your action plan, consider which financial priorities matter most to you. If you need ideas, here are some areas where you may want focus in 2026:

Regularly review your financial goals and track progress toward meeting them
Increase your 401(k) contributions or max out your IRA and/or HSA contributions

Pay down debt strategically and negotiate lower interest payments
Build an emergency savings fund of six to 12 months
Save more consistently

Be specific. Vague resolutions like "save more money" rarely succeed. Instead, it can help to make goals specific and measurable. For example, rather than making a resolution to "start an emergency fund," commit to a specific goal, such as, "I will put $100 a month into an emergency fund."

This shift from general to specific transforms wishful thinking into actionable steps. When goals are attainable, it's easier to track progress and stay motivated.

Find an accountability partner. Don't go it alone. Having someone to check in with can help you stay on track. This could be a spouse, friend or family member who shares similar goals.

Consider working with a financial advisor who can help you create a realistic plan, monitor your progress and adjust strategies as needed. A professional can provide expertise and accountability, making it easier to stay on track throughout the year.

Start small and build momentum. Rather than overhauling your entire financial life all at once, focus on one or two priority areas. Identify where the largest gap exists between your current situation and where you want to be, then concentrate your energy there.

Breaking larger goals into smaller, manageable actions makes them less overwhelming and more achievable. Each small win builds confidence and momentum for tackling the next challenge.

The new year offers a fresh start and renewed motivation to improve your financial health. With specific goals, a solid action plan and the right support system, this could be the year your financial resolutions finally stick.

land. Without it, everything floats.

Even the people we rely on most often show up this way. The neighbor who always waves. The clerk who remembers your name. The librarian who knows where to find what you’re looking for without checking the computer. None of them make speeches. They just show up, day after day, like a porch light at dusk.

I suspect that is how communities really hold together. Not through grand gestures or big announcements, but through small, dependable acts repeated over time. Lights turned on when they are supposed to be. Doors opened when promised. People doing what they said they would do.

There is something reassuring about driving home after dark and recognizing where you are by the pattern of lights alone. The curve in the road marked by three houses close together. The long stretch of trees broken by a single lamp. The center of town announced not by noise, but by glow.

You know where you are. You know you belong there.

I don’t know when I started noticing these things. Maybe it happens slowly, without permission.

Or maybe it happens the first time you realize how unsettling it feels when a familiar light doesn’t come on. When a house goes dark for good. When a storefront stays empty longer than expected.

That is when you understand how much those quiet, ordinary lights mattered all along.

So if tonight feels unremarkable, that might be because it is doing exactly what it should. The lights are on. The street looks the way it always has. The town is steady, at least for the moment. And sometimes, that is more than enough.

The Fools to perform at Samuel Slater’s Restaurant Jan. 24

WEBSTER — Venerable Massachusetts based rock band The Fools are coming to Samuel Slater’s Restaurant in Webster on Saturday, Jan. 24 at 8 p.m. Tickets are on sale now at www.samuelslaters.com. Sometime around 1975, deep in the Home of the Fried Clam — Ipswich, Massachusetts — a fun-loving bunch of guys known as The Rhythm A’s morphed into a new band: The Fools. And that’s when the madness truly began. From the start, The Fools’ mission was simple: turn an ordinary night out into the most fun anyone had ever had anywhere. Their shows became legendary for over-the-top antics, wild themes, audience pranks, and sheer joyful chaos — all wrapped around seriously great rock and roll. In 1979, The Fools hit the airwaves with “Psycho Chicken,” an X-rated parody of Talking Heads’ “Psycho Killer.” The single exploded on Boston radio, and the band quickly followed it up with another hit, “It’s a Night for Beautiful Girls.” EMI Records came calling, signing The Fools and sending them out on a national tour with The Knack. The debut album Sold Out soon followed, recorded in Miami and packed with their signature mix of humor and hooks. The 1980s brought a storybook rise — massive Boston shows, national tours with Van Halen, TV appearances, European tours, and MTV videos. Their follow-up album Heavy Mental cemented their place in rock history. After parting ways with EMI, The Fools regrouped on Cape Cod to record what became their most successful release, World Dance Party. Fueled by radio hits like “World Dance Party,” “Doo Wah Diddy,” “Life Sucks...Then You Die,” and “She Makes Me Feel Big,” the album became an independent blockbuster, selling hundreds of thousands (or maybe millions — depending which Fool you ask). Since then, The Fools have kept the party going with relentless touring, MTV airplay, and an unshakable fanbase that spans generations. Today, they’re still at — bringing their trademark spectacle, humor, and heart to every stage they hit. The Fools have shared the stage with so many bands including The Doobie Brothers, Rush, Jefferson Starship, Blondie, The Knack, Van Halen, Toto, The Plasmatics, The Bangles, Joan Jett, Steppenwolf, The Ramones, Los Lobos, Cheap Trick, Motorhead, Peter Dinklage, The Pointer Sisters, Kate Bush, Billy Squier, Southside Johnny, and countless others. They’ve also rocked alongside many of Boston’s best, including The J. Geils Band, The Cars, Til Tuesday, The Stompers, The Neighborhoods, Fahrenheit, The Del Fuegos, Human Sexual Response, Robin Lane, James Montgomery, The Joe Perry Project, and Private Lightning. Fifty years later, The Fools remain one of New England’s most beloved — and unpredictable — rock ‘n’ roll institutions. Tickets for The Fools on Saturday, Jan. 24 are on sale now at samuelslaters.com. Doors open at 7 p.m.; the show starts at 8 p.m. Samuel Slater’s Restaurant is located at 200 Gore Rd. in Webster, outside of Worcester and less than an hour’s drive from Boston, Providence, Hartford, and Springfield.

Project Summary and Public Comment Hearing Overview

New England Power Company d/b/a National Grid (“National Grid” or the “Company”) has asked the Energy Facilities Siting Board (“Siting Board”) to approve its proposal to replace two existing overhead 69 kilovolt (“kV”) transmission lines, three associated tap lines, and their supporting structures (“Existing Lines”) with new overhead 115 kV transmission lines, tap lines, and structures (“Rebuilt Lines”) in an existing transmission corridor through Millbury, Auburn, Leicester, Spencer, East Brookfield, North Brookfield, West Brookfield, Ware, Belchertown, Pelham, Shutesbury, Leverett, Sunderland, Deerfield, Conway, Shelburne, and Buckland, Massachusetts (the “Project”). The Project would be capable of operating at 115 kV, although it would initially operate at 69 kV, as does the existing line.

The Siting Board will conduct three hybrid public comment hearings with both in-person and remote participation options, as follows:

Public Comment Hearings

At each public comment hearing, National Grid will present an overview of the Project. Public officials and members of the public will have an opportunity to ask questions and comment on the Project. The public comment hearings will be transcribed by a court reporter. A recording of each public comment hearing will be posted to the Siting Board’s YouTube channel after that hearing, at https://www.youtube.com/@MaDPU_hearing.

The public comment hearings mark the beginning of a formal, state-level decision-making process in which the Siting Board will; (1) review National Grid’s proposed Project to ensure that it will provide a reliable energy supply with a minimum impact on the environment at the lowest possible cost, pursuant to G.L. c. 164, § 69J; and (2) determine whether the proposed Project is necessary, serves the public convenience, and is consistent with the public interest, pursuant to G.L. c. 164, § 72.

Intervention and Participation

Persons or groups who wish to participate in the Siting Board proceeding beyond providing comments at the public comment hearings or submitting written comments, may seek to intervene as a party or to participate as a limited participant. “Intervenor” or “Party” Status: An intervenor can participate fully in the evidentiary phase of the proceeding, including participating in discovery (information gathering), participating in the evidentiary hearing, filing a brief, presenting comments to the Siting Board on the Tentative Decision, and appealing the Final Decision.

“Limited Participant” Status: A limited participant receives documents during the proceeding and may file a brief and present comments regarding the Tentative Decision to the Siting Board.

Instructions for Filing Written Comments and Requesting to Participate in the Proceeding

Any written comments on the Project and any petition to intervene or to participate as a limited participant in this proceeding must be sent to the following four email addresses: dpufiling@mass.gov; Daniel.W.Keleher@mass.gov; ckeuthen@keeganwerlin.com; and cblaine@keeganwerlin.com. The filing deadline is January 28, 2026 (unless one of the public comment hearings is postponed, in which case the filing deadline will be February 11, 2026).

The e-mail accompanying the written comment or petition must specify: (1) the docket number of the proceeding (EFSB 25-01/D.P.U. 25-16); (2) the name of the person or entity submitting the request; (3) a brief description of the document; and (4) the name, title, and telephone number of a person to contact with questions about the filing. Any petition for intervention must state and explain the way or ways in which the requester may be specifically and substantially affected by the Project. Project Description

National Grid asserts that the Project, with projected costs of $896.9 million, is needed to ensure reliable electric service to approximately 24,000 customers across twelve municipalities in Massachusetts. National Grid states that the Existing Lines were constructed in 1900, reconductored in 2001, and reinsulated in 2020 and that they are among the oldest transmission lines in New England. National Grid contends that the Existing Lines are also among the Company’s worst performing transmission lines, due in large part to the lattice design of the transmission line supporting structures. The Existing Lines, each approximately 67 miles long, pass through the towns of Millbury, Auburn, Leicester, Spencer, East Brookfield, North Brookfield, West Brookfield, Ware, Belchertown, Pelham, Shutesbury, Leverett, Sunderland, Deerfield, Conway, Shelburne, and Buckland. The Company expects to start constructing the Project in April of 2029 and conclude in April of 2035.

The Project consists of: (1) removing existing 69 kV transmission lines and rebuilding them to a 115 kV design within the existing electric transmission right-of-way between the Millbury

#305 Substation and the Deerfield #4 Substation; (2) reconstructing the Quabbin Switch Tap Line, the Shutesbury Tap Line, and the Deerfield #3 Tap Lines; and (3) improving, establishing, and constructing access roads. Future operation of the Rebuilt Lines at 115 kV would require substation upgrades that are not part of the Project. An interactive map of the Project is available at the following link: New England Power Company - National Grid Central to Western Mass.

Route Descriptions

Millbury: The Rebuilt Lines would begin near Branch River at the Millbury Station in Millbury, run along Providence Street, cross the Blackstone River Bikeway intersecting the Providence and Worcester Railroad, and continue along South Main Street (intersecting Woodland Street, Sycamore Street, and Singletary Brook).
