Healing nature with art at JEL

BY GUS STEEVES
CORRESPONDENT

SOUTHBRIDGE — In a major sense, while Webster’s Anne Tisdell retired from nursing, she has never retired from healing. She just changed how she does it – from medicine to art.

Tisdell has always loved art, but her father “said no daughter of mine’s going to be a starving artist.” So she took another interest – science – and turned that into a 45-year career in obstetric and maternity nursing.

This month’s art show at Jacob Edwards Library is one expression of the bridge between them. Through it, Tisdell aims to help heal Nature herself by promoting a long list of endangered and threatened species and some – like blue herons – she “just really enjoy[s].” It’s an interesting mix of styles, with some pieces being very naturalistic and some almost cartoony, in various media – watercolor, acrylic, pastel, oil and some with color pencil or ink details.

Charlton presents annual awards at Old Home Day

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON — Each year the Town of Charlton takes time during its Old Home Day to honor citizens, businesses, and organizations that have made outstanding contributions to the community over time. The town awarded the 2023 honorees in a special ceremony on Sept. 3 to cap off the annual celebration of everything Charlton.

The biggest award of the afternoon was Citizen of the Year, an honor given to a standout individual who has contributed countless hours of effort and volunteerism to help make the town a better place. This year’s honoree was Terri Gough. Gough has been a member of the Charlton Fire Department since 1986 when she was appointed to the auxiliary. Since then, she was appointed as a call firefighter and emergency management technician and assigned as Emergency Medical Services Coordinator. She served as Executive

Sturbridge BOS looks at migrant issue

CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — Selectmen dipped a toe in an issue that’s affecting many area community governments on Sept 5, when Town Administrator Robin Grimm raised concerns about an influx of migrants to town.

Specifically, she said about 27 local hotel rooms have been taken over by the state to house migrant families, some of them with kids the town will need to educate. While Sturbridge is seeking state reimbursement of local costs, including lost hotel and food taxes that tourists would have paid but the state doesn’t, the hotel costs themselves are “private transactions” and the “town can’t interfere in that process,” she said.

These come as a result of an Aug 8 emergency declaration “due to rapidly rising numbers of migrant families arriving in Massachusetts in need of shelter and services and a severe lack of shelter availability in the state,” Gov. Maura Healey’s website states. “... There are currently nearly 5,600 families or more than 20,000 individuals in state shelter, including children and pregnant women.” The same page also states last year’s numbers were around 3,100 families.

The declaration notes “in recent months, demand has increased to levels that our emergency shelter system cannot keep up with, especially as the number of families leaving shelter has dwindled due to a lack of affordable housing options and barriers to securing work.”

Grimm said hotel owners can’t refuse to rent rooms when the state demands them because Boston is paying the market rates.

“It’s almost like an eminent domain situation,” she said. “It doesn’t matter what the position of the town is, the governor has a tremendous amount of authority on this.”

She said she has spoken to state and federal representatives and several town departments to be prepared for this, including getting “health vetting.” In some cases, the migrants are transferring from other communities and have been checked there. Some have been here for months, some are more recent, but she said she doesn’t have access to their legal status. She noted the state “is still not clear on how many people are here. There’s not a lot of consistent information on this.”

Grimm urged people with questions to call her directly and not rely on social media.

Afterward, the board revisited a concern from a prior meeting about putting cell antennae on the town’s water tower. Mary Dowling said she’s concerned about health effects and whether the town should have a broader policy regarding how many antennae can exist and where.

In general, the board seemed to agree they’re interested in that, but do not yet have anything concrete to look at regarding this specific project. It’s actually a continuation of a current lease, but Grimm noted she’s also gotten interest from another firm elsewhere in town.

The water tower changes are being designed now and will go to Planning Board for public hearing, but the selectmen were talking about whether they should have their own hearing as well. Chair Jamie Goodwin said he’d like to get some public input on the issue at the board’s next meeting.

Most of the rest of the meeting handled a few new hires and a variety of permits – many of them one day liquor licenses

Flower Show showcases colors of the universe

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

CHARLTON — The Charlton Garden Club hosted their annual Flower Show on Sunday, Sept. 3, continuing their tradition of holding the event in coordination with Charlton’s Old Home Day celebration.

The 2023 show featured a theme of “The Universe” using outer space as inspiration. Participants could utilize the planets, spaceships, the sun, the moon, and the Milky Way as inspiration for their displays continuing with the Garden Club’s tendency to issue a loose challenge to its members for the big event. Garden Club members Amy Taraskiewicz explained that these are loose guidelines that still allow for plenty of creativity.

“We try to give a little bit of guidance. We usually have 12 categories, and we’ll name each category and give little suggestions. So, for the sun we might suggest a yellow flower or vase, but there are no hard

Wells Art Center’s Members’ Show an eclectic experience

SOUTHBRIDGE — The Wells Art Center’s annual Members’ Show last Saturday was a very eclectic affair. While most of the pieces on display were paintings, tucked in some places – sometimes literally almost underfoot – were pottery, wood sculptures, quilts, and photos. The most eye-catching may have been one that could roll away – a mountain bike turned into flowery art by Simone Germain.

In all, the show featured dozens of pieces from dozens of people

Southbridge Public Schools host Summer Enrichment Programming

SOUTHBRIDGE — Receiver/Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey Villar is pleased to share that the Southbridge Public Schools recently completed its summer programming at the elementary and middle schools.

Through a state grant — the Massachusetts 21st Century Community Learning Centers-Supporting Additional Learning Time (SALT) Grant — 226 Southbridge students attended summer enrichment programming across four schools throughout the summer.

The highly competitive grant program enables districts to host extracurricular after-school and summer activities that build on students' classroom learning at Eastford Road School, Charlton Street School, West Street School and Southbridge Middle School.

At the elementary schools, students took part in a wide range of academically-enriching and physical activities, including Forces in Motion, Earth Dome, Freedom Within — a program focused on helping children overcome stress and Magic of Science.

A highlight activity for students was the Skydome Planetarium assembly from Mobile Ed Productions, a traveling educational entertainment organization that delivers educational assemblies at thousands of schools each year. During the Skydome Planetarium assembly, elementary school students explored the solar system and beyond inside an inflatable planetarium.

The elementary programs also featured lessons on space, gravity, energy and positive life choices. As part of their summer experience, students took part in a sports-themed day and enjoyed a foam pit. Additionally, students kept their math and reading skills sharp and took part in daily assessments to chart their progress.

At Southbridge Middle School, students in grades five and six explored units on short stories and space, while their peers in grades seven and eight learned about Southbridge's geographical features, as well as contemporary social issues. Mobile Ed Productions brought its Young Author's Day and The Spirit to Overcome — highlighting the challenges and triumphs of black women in America.

A group of 25 Southbridge High School students worked to support the programming across all four schools.

The Massachusetts 21st Century Community Learning Centers-Supporting Additional Learning Time Grant supports the implementation of academically enriching programming and project-based learning during Out-of-School Time and/or Expanded Learning Time (ELT) with the goal of increasing student engagement and contributing to a well-rounded education for all students. The programming supplements the learning that takes place during the school day.

Children who are enrolled in the program receive afterschool instruction and utilize project-based learning activities to strengthen their education and work to close any achievement gaps. This year's summer program saw increased participation over previous years.

Children who take part in the whole program gain access to more than 400 hours of additional, hands-on instruction and learning opportunities. A typical school year consists of 900 hours of instruction time, meaning that students who take part in the after-school and summer programming will have access to nearly 50% more learning time.

"These enrichment programs provide our students with a unique opportunity to build on their learning and stay engaged outside of traditional school time, while also having fun with their classmates," Dr. Villar said.

Southbridge Public Schools recognize Eagle Scout Peyton Sanborn for donation to renovate Eastford Road School blacktop activity space

SOUTHBRIDGE — Receiver/Superintendent Dr. Jeffrey Villar and Principal Kelly Gelineau wish to thank and recognize Eagle Scout Peyton Sanborn, whose Eagle Scout service project has benefited students at Eastford Road School.

Students were welcomed back to school on Aug. 28 and 29 and explored a renovated blacktop activity space. The new blacktop space includes games such as Hopscotch and Four Square, alphabet letter paths, and more.

Sanborn began efforts to improve the play space at Eastford Road School in March. Sanborn raised funds for renovation and managed other Scouts who assisted.

Service projects are a capstone to a Scout's ascension to Eagle, Scouting's highest rank. Service projects allow Scouts to acquire and demonstrate leadership skills while improving their communities. About 6 percent of all Scouts reach the rank of Eagle.

"On behalf of the entire District, I want to thank Peyton for her dedication and leadership, which will benefit Eastford Road School for years to come," said Receiver/Superintendent Dr. Villar. "This new outdoor activity space provides a great outdoor atmosphere for our students to learn and play."

Sturbridge Historical Society announces September 21 program

Prior to the floods of 1955 and the subsequent erection of flood control dams on the Quinebaug River, the Westville area of Sturbridge/Southbridge was a vibrant industrial area. In "Stories from the Flats", Brian Phelps discusses the history of local industries including the Litchfield Shuttle Company, Prest-Wheel Inc., and Snell Augur Co. He also includes Westville families' stories, maps, and photos.

Mr. Phelps is a native of Stafford Springs, a graduate of Quinnipiac College, an Air Force veteran, and a State of NH retiree. He has volunteered for the Army Corps of Engineers for eight years. In that role he has been tasked with organizing a history project for the towns of Southbridge, Sturbridge, Brimfield, and Fiskdale. His focus is to document the people's lives during the time period before the 1955 flood.

The Sturbridge Historical Society invites the public to join us for this discussion on Thursday, September 21 at 7:00, generously hosted by the Publick House.

Rotary Club of Sturbridge presents annual TREK Sturbridge Halloween 5K, 1K, Fun Walk

STURBRIDGE — The Rotary Club of Sturbridge has announced that its popular TREK Sturbridge Halloween 5K, 1K, and Fun Walk will return on Sunday, October 29, according to race director Klaus Hachfeld. The family-friendly event offers two timed races, including a 5K Trail Run & Fun Walk, and a 1K Road Race.

The timed 1K Road Race for pre-teens (12 years & under) starts at 9:30 a.m. It will be a road race along Old Sturbridge Village Road, making it accessible to persons with mobility challenges. The timed 5K Trail Run & Fun Walk will start at 10 a.m. using Old Sturbridge Village Road and the Arbutus Park Trail in the Leadmine Mountain Wildlife Conservation Lands.

All activities begin at the OSV Education Center on Old Sturbridge Village Road. Parking will be available in the Education Center lot.

The event also includes a costume parade for younger children, free games, and relay races beginning at 9 AM at the Education Center, and organized by a volunteer team from Burgess Elementary School. No pre-registration is required for the children’s activities.

Kegan Cline and his sons, Julian and Kegan, Jr. brought some colonial spirit to last year's event.

“This year, we’ve added a special prize for the best costume in both races,” says Hachfeld. “Judging will be by popular choice during the presentation ceremony at the end of the race.”

Pre-registration is now available on the RaceWire website at <https://racewire.com/register.php?id=13548>

All participants who pre-register by October 21 will get a TREK Sturbridge Halloween 5K, 1K & Fun Walk tee-shirt. On-site registration will also be available starting at 8:30 a.m.

The Trek Sturbridge Halloween 5K and Fun Walk is a Sturbridge Rotary Club fundraiser, with all profits going to local student scholarships and other community needs projects. For additional information, or to sign on as an event sponsor, email the race director at laserklaus@gmail.com. Administrative Assistant to the Fire Chief from 2001 through 2022 and as Deputy Emergency Management Director from 2011 through 2023. She is also the Community Emergency Response Team Coordinator for Charlton & Region 3. In addition to her services as a first responder, Gough has held positions with numerous community groups including as a member of the Tri-Epic Executive Board and the Old Home Day Committee. She has helped organize local Earth Day and Family Funn Day programs, served as the Town Wide CPR Organizer, served as Boy Scouts of America First Aid Merit Badge Instructor, and as a Regional Trainer for the Massachusetts Emergency Management Agency giving her an impressive resume of public service in many aspects of the community at large.

Another honor presented was for Parade Marshal which chooses a citizen or citizens to lead the annual Home Day Parade through town. Diane Doherty, a 29-year Charlton resident who raised her children in town, was given that honor for 2023. All of Doherty's children, and her grandson, were involved in local sports and recreation and in 1997 Doherty became involved in local government as an alternate member of the Planning Board and, eventually, fully elected member. She would serve as Vice Chair and Chair of that board during her run which ended in 2001. During her time with the board she became involved with the original Master Plan for Charlton and served on the Board of Director at Capen Hill Nature Sanctuary. She served on the Board of Second Chance Animal Shelter as a founding member and was adoption coordinator for the Becker College Partnership Program. She currently serves as a Volunteer for the People for Animals League in Spencer, as a member of the Charlton Rec Friends, and as Chair of the Charlton Recreation Commission continuing her dedication to local recreation and animal adoption and care.

The Business Award honors a local business or organization that has made a substantial impact in the community and for 2023 the Charlton Beagle Club was recognized for their longstanding commitment to Charlton. Since 1962 this nonprofit has organized charitable events like Brake for Silence that raises awareness of mental health and suicide prevention, Dash 4 Nash for autism awareness, and events to benefit programs like the Heart to Heart Foundation that benefits people with chronic diseases. The organization also donated land for a local baseball field to help encourage involvement in youth sports. Their contributions have made them a staple of the Charlton community and they continue to make appearances at many local events year-round.

The Youth Service Award which recognizes a young member of the community for their contributions to Charlton. Sophia Ballou earned the honor in 2023 after using her birthdays to benefit the local food pantry CHIP IN. Her contributions have brought countless food items to the pantry to help feed those in need throughout Charlton many times over. Ballou also serves as a mentor to her fellow students at Shepherd Hill Regional High School where she spends time after school working directly with her classmates and music teachers to help those in need of a little extra guidance.

The final individual awards of the afternoon were the Posthumous Awards recognizing two individuals no longer with us for their contributions to Charlton. The first was Lowell H. Bond, who passed away in November of 2022, was born and educated in Charlton during a time that is now a distant memory for most. He was drafted at 18-years-old serving in the European Theater of Operations in the Army's oldest infantry division at the time called the "Bloody Bucket Division". He earned three battle stars for his service in the "Battle of the Bulge", Central Europe, and Rhineland battles although he rarely talked about his time in combat. He returned from war and served as a truck driver for 40 years and as a member of Teamster Local 170. In retirement he worked in landscaping at West Ridge Cemetery until he was 86 years old. He was an active member of St. Joseph's Church in Charlton and belonged to the Oxford American Legion Post #58.

The second Posthumous Award was presented to the family of Clarence A. Bachand, who passed away in June of 2022 after 99 years of life. Bachand moved to Charlton in 1960 and also served in World War II as a member of the Army Corps of Engineers 284th Engineer Combat Battalion. Like Bond, he also participated in the Battle of the Bulge and would later help form the first VFW in Charlton. He also served as a member of the American Legion Post 391 for over 50 years. In 2017, Bachand revisited his time in the Army by returning to Germany to follow the same route he took in World War II. Outside of his military service, Bachand made a living as an electrician working mostly for Warren & Bigelow Electric in Worcester and later serving Bay Path in Charlton for over 50 years including as a member of the School Committee for over 30 years, eventually joining the school's Hall of Fame. He also served as the town's wiring inspector. Bachand's other contributions to the community included his membership at St. Joseph's Church, his involvement of 50 years with Boy Scout Troop 165, and playing an instrumental role in the formation of the local Pop Warner football program. He also served on Charlton's Sewer Commission and Recreation Committee helping build the Little League field and form the Charlton Lassie League. Bachand was previously recognized as Citizen of the Year at Old Home Day 2021.

Capping off the ceremony were a pair of Community Service Awards presented to groups that have proven to be vital pieces of the Charlton community over the years. The Daughters of Anarchy is comprised of four young residents, Jenna and Sarah Miller and Ivy and Clara Dowdle, who borrowed their name from the popular show "Sons of Anarchy" and have gone on to raise money for cancer benefits like the Pan-Mass Challenge. Ivy Dowdle even rode the 109-mile Pan-Mass Challenge run in August to help fulfill the group's goals of supporting the Dana Farber Cancer Institute. The other group recognized for their community service was the Charlton Girl Scout Troop 65114 which, over the last four years, has aided the CHIP IN Food Pantry, provided holiday cards for hospitalized kids, brought caroling to the Overlook, and worked with numerous local groups and organizations to achieve a variety of badges including in robotics, veterinary services, and fire safety. Their annual cookie sales have also helped contribute funds to local entities like Capen Hill Nature Sanctuary, CHIP IN Food Pantry, Friends of the Charlton Animal Shelter, the Charlton REAS Foundation, and to The Children's Hospital at UMASS.

All honorees were chosen based on nominations presented to the Old Home Day Committee prior to the Old Home Day Celebration.

They literally represent beings from all over the world. You'll know many of them, either because they're native to our area or they're famous – elephants, polar bears, right whales, herons, swans, several owls. But she also features several more obscure species including a cat from Japan, an Iberian lynx, a sea turtle, and a pangolin.

"The common denominator with all these animals and plants is human activity," she said. As our consumption of resources, pollution and population grows, many species are losing their habitat and/or being poisoned by our chemicals.

Many of the birds in the show, for example, were hard-hit by DDT and other pesticides in the decades after World War II. While bald eagles have rebounded due to a widespread reintroduction program after DDT was banned, others are still in trouble, such as ospreys and some owls.

Both are hunting birds that "keep the rodent population in check, so if we lose them, we're in trouble," Tisdell said. Today, however, there's still a problem with use of various rat poisons, which kill the rodents but the raptors eat them anyway and get poisoned, too.

Gus Steeves

Anne Tisdell with a broad spectrum of her natural subjects. Top row: a turtle in a tutu, a Monarch butterfly, an Eastern cottontail and chipmunk. Bottom row: Pangolin, cheetah, polar bear and something partly blocked by Tisdell herself.

"Be careful [using them] because there's a whole chain reaction that's set off," she added. Later, she also noted millions of birds die from other human causes, including traffic, powerlines, pollution, wind turbines and more. Some of them are protected by the Migratory Bird Treaty of 1918.

A similar danger befalls Monarch butterflies and several other pollinators. They're often being directly poisoned (sometimes by GMO crops that have pesticides incorporated into their seeds and thus affecting any insect that feeds on them, pest or pollinator). Some are losing plants critical to their life cycles (such as milkweeds, which Monarchs need for their caterpillars).

"If we don't have pollinators, we're not going to have food," Tisdell warned.

Some of the avians in the show aren't in too much trouble, such as geese and swans. Tis-dell opted not to portray the latter with their nearly stereotypical big white adult phase, but with a trio of cygnets, their young.

"We developed a friendship and they allowed me in very close proximity to their babies," she recalled. She said she actually even asked the parents for permission to get close enough to take pictures when the cygnets were half-hidden in grass, and she returned every week or two until the young birds fledged.

Several of Tisdell's subjects are specifically endangered by climate change. Polar bears and Emperor penguins, for example, are both in trouble because the melting ice is eliminating their habitat. The bears need it to hunt for seals, their main food source. They can swim, but "the journey [between ice floes] is sometimes too much for the cubs. They don't have enough stamina and the cubs will drown," she noted.

Tisdell said she's already working on the next painting, one that sort-of ties back to her working career – the orangutan. She said she got inspired because they give birth in the tree canopy and found it hard to imagine balancing well enough to do that.

"I get all kinds of ideas, but there's not enough time to execute them all,"

she added.

Library Director Margaret Morrissey noted Tisdell was a late change for this month's show, when the previous artist had to back out. She said Tisdell came from a contact with Deb Horan of Webster's Book-lovers' Gourmet and "I'm really appreciative of her willingness to do it."

Cornerstone Bank offers new checking account designed specifically for students

WORCESTER — With school back in session, Cornerstone Bank, a community bank with 10 locations throughout Central Massachusetts, is pleased to offer a new checking account designed for the unique needs of students. The account offers a variety of features and benefits to help students get a strong start toward financial independence. The best part? It's free for students ages 16 through 25.

"We are big proponents of financial literacy, so we wanted to create an account that makes it easier for students in high school and college to start banking on their own," said Cornerstone Bank CEO Todd Tallman. "Our RITE Student Checking Account is free for students until they're 26 and comes with many benefits and money-saving perks they will really appreciate."

It only takes $25 to open the account and there is no minimum monthly balance requirement. Unlimited ATM surcharge reimbursements, as well as online and mobile banking, mean the account works well for students attending school away from home.

Beyond banking benefits, which include rewards for everyday purchases and Early Pay with direct deposit, the RITE Student Checking Account also boasts valuable non-banking perks that both students and their parents will appreciate. These include discounts from local and national retailers, cell phone protection, roadside assistance, ID Theft Aid, buyer's protection and extended warranty, a health savings card and more.

"We know today's students have a lot of expenses and stress, so we wanted to offer them a checking account that provides the services and security they need," said Cornerstone Bank EVP, Retail Banking, Altaf Ahmed. "For example, if they pay their cell phone bill through their RITE Student Checking Account, the phone is covered for repair or replacement up to $400 per claim. It's extras like these that can help provide peace of mind for students and parents, especially when students are leaving home for college."

Applicants must be active students ages 16 to 25. Students who are 16 require a parent or guardian as a joint account owner. Monthly maintenance service charges are waived until the student reaches age 26, at which time a $6 monthly maintenance service charge will be assessed.

Governing Beyond Faith: Elected Officials Must Serve All

In a diverse and pluralistic society, the principle of separation between church and state is fundamental to preserving individual liberties and ensuring that government serves the interests of all citizens, regardless of their religious beliefs or lack thereof. Elected officials have a solemn duty to represent the entire community, making decisions that respect the rich tapestry of religious beliefs that exist in our nation. However, there have been instances where some officials have allowed their personal religious convictions to guide their governance, raising concerns about the fairness and inclusivity of their actions.

One of the cornerstones of democracy is the idea that elected officials are entrusted with the responsibility to serve the interests of all their constituents, not just those who share their religious beliefs. Our society is incredibly diverse, with individuals from various faiths and belief systems coexisting harmoniously. It is imperative that our elected representatives reflect this diversity in their decision-making processes and refrain from imposing their own religious beliefs upon the broader population.

When elected officials allow their personal religious convictions to dictate policy, it can lead to the exclusion of those who hold different beliefs. This is not only unjust but also undermines the very essence of a democratic society that values religious freedom and tolerance. Our nation's history is replete with instances where religious intolerance and discrimination have caused immense harm, and we must not forget the lessons of the past.

Furthermore, the potential for religiously driven governance to teeter into radicalism is a grave concern. While most people practice their faith peacefully, there is a risk that individuals with extreme religious views may seek to impose their beliefs on society through the political process. Such radicalism can lead to policies that not only infringe on the rights of those outside the particular faith but also create an environment of hatred and divisiveness.

It is crucial for elected officials to remember that the separation of church and state is not an attack on religion but a safeguard for both government and faith. It ensures that religious institutions remain free from government interference and that government remains neutral and inclusive. This principle allows people of all faiths and none to coexist peacefully and participate fully in our democracy without fear of discrimination or marginalization.

To uphold the values of fairness, inclusivity, and religious freedom that our nation holds dear, elected officials must commit themselves to serving all their constituents, regardless of their religious beliefs. They must resist the temptation to govern based on personal religious convictions and instead prioritize policies that promote the common good and respect the diverse beliefs of the people they represent.

The importance of elected officials serving all people, irrespective of their religious beliefs, cannot be overstated. Our democracy thrives when it respects the principles of religious freedom, tolerance, and inclusivity. Elected officials must uphold these principles by governing without bias and ensuring that their decisions reflect the diverse and pluralistic nature of our society. By doing so, we can build a stronger, more united, and truly democratic nation where every citizen is valued and protected.

‘If you don’t use it, you’ll lose it’ when it comes to the brain

The maxim "If you don't use it, you'll lose it"—heard so often—it's practically a back-ground track to our lives. But wait! Before you glaze over, have you ever considered the gravity behind this statement? It's not just a snap-py saying—it's a golden nugget of wisdom with far-reaching implications.

The workings of the brain are spellbinding. Picture your brain as a thriving tree in a lush forest. Each new piece of knowledge you gain is like planting a seed that eventually sprouts into branches and leaves. This isn't poetic license; it's backed by the science of neuroplasticity—the brain's incredible ability to form new neural connections throughout life.

Each time you learn or practice a skill, you reshape your brain and strengthen neural pathways, fortifying those branches and leaves on your cerebral tree. In this way, your brain doesn't just store information—it evolves, hard-wiring itself to flourish when you practice or learn something over time.

I began competitive swimming as a child, which was far from natural, but I was determined, and every lap I swam was like adding another leaf to a growing branch in my "swimming tree" in the brain. Each practice session was a mental workout, a "branching out" in my neural forest, solidifying the pathways that would improve my abilities.

I was learning to cut through the water more efficiently and grasping intricate techniques that required keen mental focus. While athletics is primarily seen as a physical endeavor, the cerebral component is enormous.

If you find the "learning tree" concept captivating, you'll be equally intrigued by the neuroscience of "pruning."

When you neglect other learned abilities or information, those corresponding branches in your brain don't get the same nourishment. Just as a gardener would trim away the dead or overgrown branches to let a tree flourish, your brain also conducts selective maintenance.

Pruning is when the brain cuts out extra connections between neurons. This helps the brain work more efficiently by eliminating pathways it doesn't need.

This is one reason why we forget things that we haven't thought about in a long time. Every so often, I feel the urge to get in swimming shape again, but let me tell you, those first few laps? A downright battle!

So, while my brain still holds the blueprints of a capable swimmer, the lack of recent practice means those finely tuned circuits are no longer firing on all cylinders.

Have you ever had that frustrating "tip of the tongue" moment when you can't recall a word or name?

What about long division after years of not thinking about math? It's like trying to crack the Da Vinci code without a cipher. For me, those branches have been pruned.

If you don't regularly engage your mind and reinforce what you've learned, your mental acuity in those specific subjects may decline.

Brain pruning extends beyond mere skills and talents; it touches the very core of our dreams and ambitions. Your deepest aspirations require constant nourishment and attention. Whether penning poetry, mastering the guitar, or revolutionizing digital design, each dream has its dedicated neural pathway that thrives on focus and diligence.

Another way to think of it is that our brains are like librarians, constantly deciding which books—skills, memories, abilities—deserve prime shelf space and should be stored in the attic.

When you choose not to follow your dreams, you're pruning a part of yourself that once flourished. Keep those neural pathways strong and connected, and watch them grow into full-fledged realities.

The lesson here is to actively nurture the pathways in your brain that matter most to you, whether that's your dreams, goals, or cherished friendships. If you neglect them, your brain might prune these connections away, making it seem as if they never existed.

The "use it or lose it" principle is life's ultimate maintenance guide. It's a nudge to action. Your skills, your relationships, your dreams—think of them as a cherished garden. Left unattended, even the prettiest rose bushes turn to weeds.

So? What are you waiting for? Exercise that grey matter! You've got nothing to lose but everything you don't use.

Consider financial gifts for grandchildren

NIELSEN

If you have grandchildren, you probably enjoy spending time with them and watching them grow. And to help them achieve a bright future, you might like to make some financial gifts — but which ones?

You have several options. Let's look at three of them:

529 plans – When you invest in a 529 education savings plan, any earnings growth is distributed federally tax free, as long as withdrawals are used for qualified education expenses. (Withdrawals used for expenses other than qualified education expenses may be subject to federal and state taxes, plus a 10% penalty.) And in-state residents who invest in their home state's 529 plan may also receive state tax incentives. A 529 plan can be used for college, approved trade school programs, qualified student loan repayments and even some K-12 costs. And if the grandchild you've named as a beneficiary of a 529 plan decides to forego further education, you can generally switch beneficiaries to another immediate family member. You can contribute up to $17,000 in 2023, per grandchild, to a 529 plan without incurring gift taxes. Furthermore, as of the 2024–25 school year, grandparent-owned 529 plans won't affect financial aid eligibility. However, tax issues for 529 plans can be complex, so consult with your tax advisor about your situation.

Roth IRA – Any earnings growth in a Roth IRA is distributed tax free, provided the owner is at least 59½ and has had the account at least five years. If your grandchildren earn money from babysitting or a part-time job, they can open a Roth IRA with the help of a parent or other adult. You could “match” your grandchildren's contributions, possibly on a dollar-for-dollar basis, to provide them with an incentive for saving. In fact, you could fully fund the Roth IRA, up to the annual contribution limit, which is $6,500 or the amount of your grandchild's taxable compensation, whichever is less. (The annual limit is $7,500 for those 50 or older.) And your grandchildren can withdraw the contributions — not the earnings — at any time to pay for college or anything else.

Custodial account – You can open a custodial account, also known as an UGMA or UTMA account, for a grandchild, and fund it with most types of investments: stocks, mutual funds, bonds and so on. For that reason, it can be a good way to teach grandchildren about the nature of investing — risks, returns and the value of holding investments for the long term. Plus, there's an initial tax benefit to custodial accounts: The first $1,250 of your grandchild's investment income (dividends, interest, capital gains) is tax free, and the next $1,250 is taxed at the child's rate. Anything above that amount is taxed at the parents' marginal tax rate. However, once your grandchildren reach the age of termination — usually 18 or 21, depending on where they live — they take control of the account and can do whatever they choose with the money. So, while a custodial account could be considered as a funding source for college, it might alternatively serve as a gift that could eventually enable your grandchild to fulfill another desire

Brighten your fall landscape with mums

MYERS

Mums are a favorite fall flower that adds weeks of seasonal color to containers, gardens and fall displays. They are also a popular gift plant in garden centers and floral shops. Choosing the right one for the purpose and providing proper care will help you achieve your desired results.

Start by selecting the best mum for your gardening goals. You'll find mums labeled as garden, perennial, gift or florist mums. All these names for plants that look alike can be confusing. The answer lies in their response to day length, hardiness and use.

Mums set flowers based on day length. Growers can force them into bloom by covering them to create shorter days that initiate flowering. Those grown as gift mums, often called florist mums, usually require the longest periods of uninterrupted darkness or shorter days. When these mums are grown under natural daylight they usually don't flower until late fall or early winter. These late bloomers are usually killed by cold temperatures before or soon after the flowers appear in colder areas.

Nurseries selling mums ready to flower in the fall often refer to them as garden mums. These may be perennial mums or "florist" mums forced to flower for fall displays. The intent is to use them as annuals. Select ones with lots of buds and just a few if any open flowers to maximize the bloom time and your enjoyment. Place one or two mums on the front steps, plant them in vacant spots in the garden or combine them with other

These garden mums may be hardy and suited to the area but since all the energy is directed to the flowers little is left to establish a hardy, robust root system. If you have success overwintering your garden mums, feel free to brag. If your plants don't survive or you don't try, don't worry. You are using them as a fall annual as they were intended. This also provides space for new plants in the spring and an opportunity to try a different color mum next fall.

Those mums sold as perennials are hardy enough to survive the winter and flower in late summer or early fall providing weeks of color in the garden. They are often sold alongside other perennials, labeled as perennials, or promoted as hardy for the area. Increase your success by planting them in spring. This allows the plant time to develop a robust root system before it begins flowering in the fall which will increase its ability to survive cold winters.

Place mums in an area with full sun and water thoroughly and often enough to keep the soil moist but not soggy wet. Check the soil in containers daily and water when the top few inches of soil are starting to dry. Always use a container with drainage holes or a self-watering pot.

Increase overwintering success by leaving the plants intact in the garden over winter. Those gardening in colder regions may opt to cover the plants with evergreen boughs after the ground freezes, providing extra insulation. Remove the mulch when temperatures begin hovering above freezing. Whether covered or not, prune out the dead stems in spring as new growth appears.

Whatever you call them, add a few colorful mums to your fall displays. You are sure to enjoy the blast of color they provide to your landscape before winter arrives.

New Hampshire woman finds 'life-changing' painting from thrift shop

ANTIQUES

WAYNE TUISKULA

The latest auction news begins here in New England, where a New Hampshire woman who purchased old frames from a thrift shop later found that she had walked away with something much more significant. An old white frame she purchased for $4 from a Saver's store held a painting by renowned artist N.C. Wyeth, according to NPR. Maine conservator Lauren Lewis was called in to help determine the painting's authenticity. She described Wyeth as one of the "preeminent illustrators in the early 20th century." Wyeth's illustrations appeared in Robert Louis Stevenson's 1911 "Treasure Island" book. He was the father of painter Andrew Wyeth and grandfather of artist Jamie Wyeth. The painting was one of four illustrations that Wyeth did for Helen Hunt Jackson's "Ramona," which is about a Scottish-Native American orphan living in California after the Spanish-American War. After consulting with Christine Podmaniczky, curator emerita of the Brandywine Museum of Art, Lewis is determined it was an authentic Wyeth. The sellers have chosen to remain anonymous, but Lewis did share some information about them. "They are not your typical art collectors," she stated. The auction estimate is $250,000 and "this would be life-changing for them," she added.

Elsewhere in the United States, a gun created during the 1976 Bicentennial for Elvis Presley recently sold at auction, according to Fox Business News. The Smith & Wesson model 53 was inlaid with silver and gold designs. The gun was heavily engraved with two silver stars. It was designed with an American flag and eagle below the hammer and marked "1776-1976." A golden Minuteman appeared on one side of the frame and Liberty Bell was on the backstrap. It was delivered to Elvis on November 16, 1976 before he passed away on August 16, 1977. It brought nearly $200,000 at auction.

In news from across the pond, an uncorrected proof copy of "Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone" was recently sold by a British auction house. The proof book published by Bloomsbury Publishing was one of only 200 copies ever printed. The title page misspelled JK Rowling's name as JA Rowling. A primary school purchased it in a warehouse sale for £1 in 1997. The book had a white cover with a yellow band along the center and didn't stand out among the other children's books that featured brighter, more appealing covers. It appeared to have been barely read when the school pulled it from the shelves in 2002 after realizing that the book might have value due to the popularity of Harry Potter. It was temporarily misplaced and school officials feared it may have been discarded until they found it in 2015. The school recently consigned it to auction. It sold for £15,000 (approximately $18,697 U.S.), proving the adage that you can't judge a book by its cover.

We'll be auctioning some books soon, but of the comic variety. Our toy and comic book online auction will begin later this month or in early October. Our next auction after that is scheduled for late October or early November and will include art, sterling silver, and a wide variety of antiques and collectibles. We are still accepting coins and other consignments for that auction. I'll also be teaching my "Evaluating your Antiques" class on Tuesday, October 3rd at Bay Path Adult Evening School in Charlton. # Still a strong fishing season as bird hunting looms

The weather sure has been hot for the last few weeks, but it should start to cool off before you read this column. Fishing has been hot on the saltwater for many species, much like the weather. The tautog bite is getting better every day, and sea bass fishing is also staying strong. Catching limits of seabass requires catching a lot of throwbacks, but some impressive fish are being caught.

Reports of schools of false albacore are coming in every day. Galilee, Rhode Island has been hot out in front of the lighthouse and the shores around Matunic, and the Charlestown Breachway are also producing a lot of fish including a few bluefish.

Striper fishing is good one day and a bit slow on another, but anglers that know where and when to fish have enjoyed some great strip-er fishing, although most need to be released because of the slot limit size. As always, evening fishing is the best. The canal fishing is not for the elderly, as climbing over the rocks to get down to a good fishing spot can be dangerous, as most anglers know.

Pheasant hunting is only four weeks away, and sportsmen that have a good dog to hunt alongside, have had to do some early morning training before the season opens, and will pay off when the season opens! There are a few Rod & Gun Clubs that are planning to open a bit earlier, but opening day in Mass. will be on October 14, statewide. This year Up-land bird hunting will open on the same day as waterfowl which could see some conflict among hunters. Woodcock hunting opens on October 2, if you can find any birds in the area. The Blackstone Valley continues to lose a lot of the habitat essential for local and migrating birds like woodcock. Local woodcock habitat in the Blackstone Valley area has taken a hard hit in the past 10 years or more, and open covers continue to dwindle, mainly because of construction of new homes. Going North of Worcester to hunt could provide some better hunting opportunities.

Grouse are almost extinct in the Uxbridge area and surrounding towns. Areas like Petersham, Mass. do have a small population of grouse, and the farther you go North, their populations are still quite good.

If you are looking for an area to hunt quail heading towards the Cape is your best bet. A small population of Grouse are still providing some good hunting, if you know where to go.

Duck hunting in the valley opens on October 14 along with the regular goose season. The two bird daily limit on geese this year is troublesome, but it is what it is. The early Canada goose season closes September 22. The youth waterfowl hunt opens September 13 and October 7. Early waterfowl season for active military and veterans is scheduled to be September 23 and 29. Always check your hunting abstracts before hunting any wild game.

Two goals per half help Bay Path defeat Indians in season opener

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS EDITOR

WEBSTER — Two goals scored in each half, including a hat trick by Ryan Bray, was enough to propel the Bay Path boys’ soccer team past Bartlett, 4-0, in the season opener for both on Tuesday, Sept. 5. Bray scored both goals in the first half and, after Trent Szela made it a 3-0 game early in the second half, Bray finished the scoring in the 77th minute.

David Martinson, head coach of the Minutemen, will be able to rely on Bray and Szela, both senior co-captains along with senior Shaun McLaughlin and junior Bryce Hutchinson, for their explosive play in the middle of the field.

“They’re very strong,” Martinson said of Bray and Szela. “They can control the game for me. Just being seniors and taking it on their shoulders. With the seven or eight seniors that we lost last year, they’re stepping into that leadership role.”

A majority of the seniors lost included a good chunk of the defensive unit, so Martinson was pleased to see the Minutemen pitch a shutout with new players stepping up.

“Good way to start. Coming back, I lost the majority of my defense. Trying different defenders in this first game was helpful. They kept it simple,” said Martinson.

Keeper Cayden Young is a first-year starter, and he made 10 saves for the clean sheet.

Bay Path notched the game’s first goal in the 26th minute when Dominic Paldino unleashed a shot toward Bartlett’s goal. There, keeper Kole Sebastianski got his right hand on the ball, but Bray followed up the rebound and deposited his shot into the net.

Then, nearing the end of the first half, the Indians’ Adrian Tetzner nearly knotted the equalizer, but his shot was turned aside by Young, who dove to his right to make the save.

The Minutemen then made it a 2-0 game just before halftime when Szela sent a nice pass in toward Bray, who received the ball and ultimately scored.

Szela then opened the second half with his goal, a perfectly placed shot from distance. Bray then got in tight for the final goal with mere minutes remaining.

Martinson, now in his 20th season at Bay Path, has seen his Minutemen qualify for postseason play in 16 of his previous 19 years. He, along with longtime assistant Robin Cotrona, hopes for Bay Path to do the same in 2023.

“That’s our goal again. We have Districts and States again this year, as well as the Vocational Tournament that we want to get into,” Martinson said.

Martinson is pleased with the direction the program is taking, which includes the numbers on the junior varsity team.

“We’re fortunate that we a lot of freshmen come in, so our JV program we have a lot of players. Getting some depth there is going to be helpful with all of these guys leaving,” Martinson said of his seven current seniors.

Bartlett, meanwhile, is under a new regime, with

Bay Path’s Willis Perrault intercepts a Bartlett ball kicked down the field.

Dan Bengtson taking over for longtime head coach Ryan Renauld. Bobby Phillips and Keith Sebastianski are Bengtson’s assistants.

“We don’t have the numbers right now, so we’re trying to get the guys who are here to work hard and push as long as they can until they need to come out,” said Bengtson, which he believed did happen against Bay Path. “Even as the game went on, as they got tired, some kids that started off slow started working harder.”

Bengtson was pleased with Sebastianski’s play and his 25 saves.

“Cayden for the other team has been playing goalie for years. This is Kole’s third, so I think he’s got great instincts,” said Bengtson. “Maybe he made a bad read here or there, but overall I think he has great instincts and knows when to attack it, (and) he has great communication.”

Bengtson is adding boys’ varsity soccer head coach as one of his many hats, as he also coaches the middle school boys’ basketball team in the winter and the boys’ tennis squad in the spring.

Braeden Lapointe of Bay Path controls the ball in the open field.

Bay Path’s Trent Szela slides in to gain possession of the ball.

Annual Police vs. Fire Baseball Classic raises $15,750 for Why Me and Sherry’s House

WORCESTER — To launch Childhood Cancer Awareness Month in September, the second annual Police vs. Fire Baseball Classic, presented by Country Bank at Polar Park on Sunday, August 27, raised $15,750 for Why Me & Sherry’s House, a Worcester nonprofit that provides resources and support to children battling cancer and their families.

The Worcester Police Officers defeated the Worcester Firefighters 14-3 in nine innings.

As the home team, the Worcester Fire Department selected Why Me & Sherry’s House to benefit from this year’s event in honor of retired Fire Captain Mark Wyco, who lost his daughter Bridget to childhood cancer in 1996.

After the game, the Worcester Red Sox and Country Bank presented the check for $15,750 to Rebecca Kuczarski, the Executive Director of Why Me & Sherry’s House.

They also presented the 2023 Paul Scully Most Valuable Player Award to Officer Ty Sterner, a southpaw who allowed just two hits and one run in six innings pitched. The Worcester native, who has served in the Worcester Police Department for two years, was drafted by the Cincinnati Reds in the 23rd round of the 2014 Major League Baseball June Amateur Draft from the University of Rhode Island. However, a pair of Tommy John surgeries cut his professional baseball career short.

As the M.V.P., Officer Sterner won a Country Bank jersey, four V.I.P. tickets to a future WooSox game—at which he will be honored with the opportunity to throw a Ceremonial First Pitch—and a gift card to The Mercantile Restaurant.

“There was an extraordinary feeling at this year’s event,” said Dr. Charles A. Steinberg, President of the Worcester Red Sox and the WooSox Foundation. “Our first responders are the heart and soul of Worcester, and we believe this friendly but competitive game will continue to grow into a civic treasure. We thank our friends and founding partners at Country Bank for collaborating with us yet again on what has become one of the most fun—and impactful—events of the year.”

“Country Bank is honored to partner with the Worcester Red Sox Foundation in presenting the Police vs. Fire game,” said Paul Scully, President and CEO of Country Bank. “We have been a longtime supporter of the Police and Fire Departments across the many markets we serve. The critical work these departments do each and every day truly makes a difference for our communities. It is also our privilege to support Why Me Sherry’s House with this year’s donation to assist them in the great work they do for Childhood Cancer.”

At the inaugural game September 26, 2022, $15,680 was raised for the Manny 267 Foundation, which honors and celebrates the life of the late Worcester Police Officer Enmanuel “Manny” Familia, who made the ultimate sacrifice June 4, 2021, when he heroically dove into Green Hill Pond to attempt to save a drowning teenage boy.

In its first two years, the event raised $31,430 for local causes that hit home for Worcester’s first responders.

Country Bank is one of the WooSox’ 21 founding partners. The WooSox Foundation and Country Bank also collaborate on the “Most Valuable Teachers” (MVTs) program, which recognizes extraordinary teachers in the region, as well as the “WooStars” program, which rewards nonprofits driving social change across Central Massachusetts.

So far in 2023, the WooSox Foundation has donated $88,760 toward the effort to conquer cancer.

Warriors open season strong, top hard working Leicester squad

BY NICK ETHIER
SPORTS EDITOR

LEICESTER — Season openers in high school varsity soccer can oftentimes produce sloppy play. Passes may be off the mark, collecting those passes may be missed and communication may be less than proficient. But, for Tantasqua Regional’s girls’ squad, it appeared as if the Warriors had been playing all summer when they took on Leicester High on Friday, Sept. 8.

“Coming along well for game one,” said Tantasqua head coach Matthew Rickson instead of the alternative, which he called a “nightmare.”

The Warriors controlled play in the first half and, after a strong period of second half action from the Wolverines, they regrouped and finished off a 3-0 decision.

“We moved the ball well, and we were able to put the ball in the back of the net. Usually, game one is a real tough time finding frame and causing unforced turnovers. As always, you’re going to have those, but they did well moving the ball and did well spreading out,” explained Rickson.

Tantasqua got on the scoreboard in the game’s 27th minute, when Lilina Shiers’ shot was turned aside by keeper Jill Rodrique. That resulted in a corner kick, and Eleanor Colati serviced the ball into Eleanor Leland, whose shot got past Rodrique.

Leicester hardly pressured the Warriors’ net in the first half, as keeper Elizabeth Thompson was faced with just one shot as Tantasqua led 1-0 at the break.

“The second half started much better,” said Joe Mercier, head coach of the Wolverines. “We made the corrections at halftime. The girls really took ownership of what they needed to focus on and accomplish in the second half, which is play the way that we want to play.”

Leicester peppered the Warriors’ net to the tune of four shots in the second half, but all were turned aside by Grace St. Laurent, who took over for Thompson in the final 40-minute stanza. The Wolverines’ best chance came when St. Laurent dove to her left to stop a shot by Abby Baker. The rebound rolled out and Tantasqua defender Nicki Vejack cleared the rebound.

“They were taking it to us, and we weren’t getting past half,” said Rickson.

But all that changed in the 56th minute when Kaydie O’Neil sent a pass over the Leicester defenders and to Shiers, who then slipped her shot by Rodrique.

“That is huge because that took the gas they had, all that drive,” Rickson said of stopping the Wolverines’ momentum. “But Leicester did very well that second half. They were just unlucky they couldn’t get the ball in the back of the net.”

The Warriors then put the game away with a goal in the 64th minute.

Brookfield native Cipro excels on mound in North Carolina

PINEVILLE, N.C. — Brookfield native Spencer Cipro, who played his high school baseball at Tantasqua Regional and for the Sturbridge Post 109 American Legion team, helped lead his collegiate summer team to a championship. The Pineville Porcupines, based in a suburb of Charlotte, are a member of the Old North State League, a summer league for college players from around the country that plays its games across North Carolina. Managed by Chris Manriquez, the team finished the regular season with a 20-12 record and a bid at the league playoffs.

However, it wasn’t an easy road to the tournament for the Porcupines as they got off to a rocky start, emphasized by a 13-inning one-run road loss in Marion on opening night. Midway through June, the Pineville squad picked up some much-needed momentum, going 7-3 to finish the month and were able to collect some important wins in heated contests against division rivals.

During this time the pitching staff rose to the occasion, affirmed by sending five pitchers to the league all-star game. Among them was Cipro, who produced for the Porcupines all summer long. The 6-foot-5, 225-pound right-hander finished the regular season 6-0 on eight starts with 55 innings pitched, 57 strikeouts, only 11 walks, and a 0.94 ERA. During the summer, Cipro also found a new college baseball home, transferring from local Assumption University to top-ranked contender Belmont Abbey College in Belmont, N.C. All-star catcher Jackson Hugus of Presbyterian College was impressive behind the plate and the two formed an electric duo in the regular season. However, Cipro’s finest moments of the summer arrived during the playoff push.

When July arrived, the Porcupines had a decent record, but uncertain playoff chances. Manriquez inspired his team to go on a run, defy the odds, and make the playoffs. With three divisions in the league only the top two record-holders of each qualify for the tournament. Division leader Hendersonville sat atop the standings with a 22-9 record, so the Porcupines had to square off directly against rival Lexington who had a narrow lead for second in the standings. The Porcupines rattled off seven straight wins in the final weeks of the season, leading to a battle with Lexington to decide the final playoff spot. In a true pitchers’ duel, Cipro took control, firing eight innings and taking the win while allowing only one run and one walk. This outcome was an exclamation point on an incredible undefeated streak by Pineville to close the regular season.

When the playoffs began, the Porcupine offense became just as much of a force as the pitching staff. In the opening contest against the Sanford Spinners, the Pineville bats plated an unbelievable 17 runs in a blowout that saw pitchers pinch-hitting in the late innings.

Next, the Porcupines faced off against the Brunswick Surfin’ Turfs, owners of the best overall record in the league. Cipro got the ball with a chance to send Pineville to the championship series with a win. The game began with a bang for Brunswick though as they hit a surprising three-run home run off of Cipro in the first inning. Then, in a performance that Cipro said he is most proud of, the right-hander battled back and fired six shutout innings and struck out 10 against a league-best Brunswick offense. The game remained tied late into extra innings when the Porcupines surged ahead to take a heart-stopping 14-8 victory in an incredible comeback effort led by Hugus and shortstop AJ Anderson.

After the drama of the previous night, the Porcupines swept the Clayton Clovers to win the Old North State League championship series. On a road paved by clutch-hit comebacks and huge pitching performances, Pineville arrived at the championship and took care of business with statement win after statement win. For Spencer Cipro and the Porcupines, a fun rollercoaster summer of intense baseball ended with hoisting a trophy above Jack D. Hughes Park in Pineville, N.C. on a perfect summer night.

“Mysteries of Roanoke” was inspired by a mixture of things including history and conspiracy theories, according to artist Melissa Parent.

from about age 6 to 96, all to a soundtrack of piano by Ava Simon.

One visitor gets some close-ups of some of the works on display.

Simone Germain's clothes are almost as bright as her paintings.

and fast rules. We give them the idea and let them get creative with it,” Taraskiewicz said.

The show has been a constant on the Garden Club's yearly calendar for almost as long as the Club has been around, over 80 years, and has always taken place with Old Home Day. The Garden Club followed that event to its new date on Labor Day Sunday this year. Club member Marcia Liedigk counted 107 displays for the 2023 show, which is about average. She explained that the show not only allows members to present what they've been growing, but also hopefully inspires others to join their group and embrace their love of gardening and expression in new ways.

“It always varies but it's usually over 100 entries – Everything here has come from our personal gardens. We naturally hope to get more members for the club as well as show off what we grow. It's nice to show people what we do and have them come and really appreciate it,” said Liedigk.

Club members Brenda Higgins explained that this tradition is an important one for the Club as they feel they are a big part of the Charlton community. “We feel like we're really part of Old Home Day. It always falls on the same weekend,” Higgins said. “I think we're always amazed by the variety of flowers we get and how nicely they're done and how clever everyone is who do these arrangements.”

Those interested in joining or learning more about the Charlton Garden Club can contact Co-Presidents, Virginia Charette at (508) 248-7300 or Marcia Liedigk at (508) 434-0506.

and changes to existing ones. All of them passed easily, but one of them – a change of manager for Old Sturbridge Village – drew a little annoyance from board members who objected to the fact the company did not send a representative. That fact alone prompted Goodwin to vote no.

“We're not trying to ... interrupt their business, but the sale of liquor out of one of the largest facilities in town is fraught with certain risk,” he said. “They need to take it seriously, and this does not indicate taking that particularly seriously.”

The others indicated agreement, with Dowling briefly considering changing her yes vote. Grimm said she'd “make that very clear” to OSV when she speaks to them next.
