New committee needed to consider housing

Planning Board Chairman Sandra Gibson-Quigley, Town Planner Jean Bubon, Planning Board member Heather Hart, and Town Administrator Leon Gaumond Jr. ask volunteers who wish to serve on an affordable housing committee to contact Colleen King, administrative assistant to the town administrator.

VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — Affordable housing may be coming to town sooner than you might think.

The Master Plan Committee met Thursday afternoon in the center office building. Town Administrator Leon Gaumond Jr. said he needs volunteers to join an affordable housing committee, and they are currently working with the Central Massachusetts Regional Planning Commission.

"Small towns struggle with affordable housing," Gaumond said. "They don't have the expertise to handle. However, I'd like to hire a regional housing specialist at maybe 30 hours a week to help develop a housing partnership."

Gaumond said although there aren't a lot of people in that line of work, there are people out there who are passionate about that field.

"It becomes daunting and overwhelming for a volunteer board to handle," Gaumond said.

He needs about four volunteers to serve on the board. Selectman Michael Suprenant has stepped forward.

Town Planner Jean Bubon said it's a short-term goal that the committee has.

For information, call 508-347-2500, ext. 1428, or email cking@town.sturbridge.ma.us.

Visual aids or visual aches? Signs of the times debated

BY TARA VOCINO
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — Eleven business owners, potential business owners, and town hall staff attended a sign bylaw business forum last week.

Town Planner Jean Bubon and Economic Development and Tourism coordinator Kevin Filchak facilitated a 20-minute slideshow presentation with about 10 minutes for questions and answers.

"Signs are a valuable means of communication," Bubon said. "However, a bylaw must balance the need for communication with the desire to minimize traffic hazards, reduce clutter, and improve community appearance."

Two audience members took advantage of the question and answer time.

Poor planning...or no planning...can be disastrous

Steps in building driveway debated

BY TARA VOCINO
VILLAGER CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — Commissioners debated over the steps to extend a working gravel driveway at 14 and 50 Douty Road for future homeowner Peter O'Connell, who wasn't present, during a Conservation Commission meeting last week.

Conservation agent Rebecca Gendreau said in a separate interview Friday afternoon that it was an old farmhouse, and that Escape Estates is intending to build about 45 high-end houses on the property.

Escape Estates, Inc. is planning to build 45 high-end homes past Stallion and Douty Road called Barrett Farm Estates on a vacant 2,200-acre cow farm lot.

Vice President Andre Cormier Sr. said in an earlier interview that each house will cost between $800,000 to $1 million, adding the estimated value of a house in town is $425,000. One hundred acres will be given to the town. Construction will begin in March.

"It's going to be a two- to three-year build," Cormier Sr. said. "It's going to be a beautiful view, one of the highest points in town, and private."

Cormier said Sturbridge is a vital location, minutes away from the MassPike, yet in the historic country with roots dating back to the 1700s.

Andre Cormier Jr., of Escape Estates, is looking to build a 12 to 15-foot-by-1160-foot driveway to the back of the house that could eventually become a street when the houses are built.

"The driveway serves a dual purpose," Cormier said during the hearing. "It will provide access for surveyors doing work. And it will allow us to get back there for tree cutting."

However, Conservation Commissioner Dave Barnicle didn't want to see the project broken up into parts, but rather all at once.

"All the other stuff is bound to come up later," Barnicle said. "You're building a driveway for a subdivision. That's exactly my problem."

Conservation Commission member Steve Halterman said

PRESIDENTS DAY

Car Buying Tips

Customers ask place: When is the best time to buy a Car or Truck?

The RIGHT answer: (PART 3) The NO TIME LIKE THE PRESENT theory. Almost every day is a good day to buy a new car or truck. We know that most new cars have rebates from the manufacturer. They may also have special finance terms or some combination of both. This theory is based on the fact that if you are trading your car, its value is at its highest right now. Depreciation is always eating away at the value of a used car. The other aspect to consider is the factory incentives when buying a new car. Incentives can be a volatile thing and can change at the drop of a hat. Manufacturers like Ford watch the markets very closely. They adjust their strategies based on sales and production targets in an effort keep the factories moving. As inventory levels, market share and consumer demand change the rebates and incentives change. A strong economy and low inventory might mean fewer rebates. High inventory or the desire to gain market share might mean higher rebates. In any case what we know today is how a vehicle is priced. If a customer finds a vehicle that fits their needs and the numbers make sense then buy now. Waiting could cost you more. Our current economy appears to be at a turning point. If the rebates go down or stay the same and your trade has lost more value your cost to buy will have gone up. Let us here at Place Motor show you how to take advantage of the current incentives and get the most for your trade. Let us show you why we are the Right Place to buy a Ford since 1923.

BY GUS STEEVES
STONEBRIDGE CORRESPONDENT

Watching the temperature many days of the last couple months and people might be reasonably skeptical it's actually winter. Other days, it's been frigid and/or had snow falling, as winters should.

All this month, Booklovers' Gourmet has been celebrating the latter with its Winter Palette art show. All along the store's walls are nature scenes of places with snow, both photos and paintings, intermingled with a few abstract pieces and others that don't quite seem wintery, per se.

One of the latter is a sheep painted as a postage stamp by Sturbridge's Cathy Moore.

To her, a key inspiration for the years she's been making art – since childhood – has been "beauty in nature."

"Other people's art, too, is inspiring," she said.

That was a key point of the show itself. That, and a chance for people to gather to share ideas, particularly at last Saturday afternoon's Meet the Artist reception. As they looked over the images or snacked on crackers, the store's guests – many of them the artists – chatted about everything: climate change, pets, raising chickens, tarot, and, of course, art.

"What I see is the everyday mundane thing. That is what inspires me," Anne Tisdell said. "I think the average person can relate to the everyday stuff, rather than things people don't normally experience."

Her contribution was a painting of a photo taken across the Connecticut River in northern New Hampshire.

Like Moore, her art goes back decades, although Tisdell said she had to put it on hold to pursue a career as a nurse practitioner until she retired in the early 2000s. Then she dove back into painting – "mostly pastels and watercolors," with a flurry of 10 acrylics since October.

"I was in snow up to my hips to get that picture," she said of her piece, noting all of her paintings start as photos.

As she talks, she flips through her portfolio, stopping at a scene of several dogs and cats on a couch, and said they were all of her brother's pets over many years. Unlike many artists, Tisdell said she's sending most of her art to Washington to get them copyrighted, "because I have some ideas of what I want to do with some of them, and I've known people who got their art stolen online."

For Webster's Laura Backus, the portfolio is all digital on her iPhone. Her contribution to the show, hung in a corner that causes the frame glass to reflect the store door when it opens, is a very Arctic-feeling image of a very low sun over seashore ice, a bird soaring overhead. She said it was "about 40 below" the day she shot it; to get photos, she had to jump out of her car for "10 seconds and run back to the car to warm up."

Backus, a recent addition to the Finance Committee, gets a lot of her inspiration in a somewhat unusual way: She's a storm chaser. That's how she got one of her favorite images, a lightning bolt curving to ground right inside a rainbow. But she notes she never went to school for photography, although she did have some art classes and has been an artist "my whole life." To her, the key is simply willingness to look at things from a different angle and to see what most don't look for.

"People will say 'What are you doing in that bush?' I'll be back in a minute," she said. "People don't think to stop and take pictures up the side of a tree."

Her husband, John, said he has "seen more of Massachusetts because of her." He's a native Bay Stater; she's from Pittsburgh.

Many others they know say the same thing, Laura adds. She labels where she got her images, and has had people say "'That's in my backyard?' and we get into a conversation about how to get there," she said. "We see more than people who live in town because they never leave the concrete." "More people should get out and see nature," she added. "Take a hike, take the dog for a walk."

Understand education benefits – and don't miss out

Did you know that federal tax benefits for education include credits, deductions, tax-deferred accounts and exclusions from income? The American Opportunity Tax Credit (AOTC) and the Lifetime Learning Credit (LLC) are examples. Each dollar of a credit reduces your tax bill by a dollar. Deductions reduce your taxable income. Tax deferred accounts let savings grow with no tax due until distributions are taken. And income exclusions provide benefits without increasing your taxable income.

Friday's Child

Alexis is a joyful nine-year old girl of Caucasian descent whose smile and laugh lights up the room! Alexis has had many medical challenges in her short life, but she has an optimistic spirit and brings so much joy to those who know her. While she cannot speak, Alexis makes her needs known in other ways through adaptive technology and non-verbal cues.

She also does make sounds and her caregivers are very attuned to what her different tones mean. Alexis loves being around other children and likes participating in different activities with her peers. She loves to be around other people and animals and has shown interest in toys, colors, sounds, and swimming!

Who Can Adopt?

Can you provide the guidance, love and stability that a child needs? If you're at least 18 years old, have a stable source of income, and room in your heart, you may be a perfect match to adopt a waiting child. Adoptive parents can be single, married, or partnered; experienced or not; renters or homeowners; LGBTQ singles and couples.

The process to adopt a child from foster care requires training, interviews, and home visits to determine if adoption is right for you, and if so, to help connect you with a child or sibling group that your family will be a good match for.

To learn more about adoption from foster care, call the Massachusetts Adoption Resource Exchange (MARE) at 617-54-ADOPT (617-542-3678) or visit www.mareinc.org.

The sooner you call, the sooner a waiting child will have "a permanent place to call HOME."

Is the barrier for entry into Real Estate too low?

REALTOR’S

I got my Real Estate license in 2004 and I took a 24 hour prelicensing class which was 3 hours on Wednesday nights for 8 weeks and then signed up for the test. They have increased the required hours to 40 hours but I am not sure if it is enough. To put it into perspective. They do classes 2 weekends in a row for 10 hours each day on Saturday and Sunday. I could potentially decide on March 3rd in the morning to start the class and finish by March 11th and get licensed March 12th and be affiliated with an office that same day and be putting your home up for sale that night. Yes you do technically work under a Real Estate Broker for 3 years before you can open your own brokerage but typically the broker is not there watching your every move.

Every 2 years you need to complete continuing education of 12 hours. This can be done by logging into an online system and playing videos for 12 hours with no requirement of passing a test. This makes it so pretty much anyone can decide to get a Real Estate license part time with very little money to get and hold a license and minimal education to get the licenses as well. It is around $400 for the class plus around $250 to get the license and have it be good for 2 years from your birthday.

This is why as a consumer I always suggest to ask educated questions when interviewing agents to ensure that you know you are hiring the right agent. Yes everyone has to start somewhere and if you are hiring a new agent to help you with the largest financial decision of your life which is most likely buying and selling a home make sure you make the right decision. If they are new, ensure they are a professional which is someone who knows what they know and knows what they don't know and if they don't know then they know where to go to find the answer. Also, ensure they have a team backing them, which could be a mentor in the business that is showing them the ropes or they work on a Real Estate Team with seasoned professionals to help them with the sale of your home.

This is why I always suggest you ask questions when interviewing an agent to ensure you can compare one to the other. Questions such as:

How many home did you sell last year?

Do you work full time or part time?

Do you have a written marketing plan?

What percentage of your listings sell?

What percentage of list price do your listings sell?

Can you provide references?

GRANT AWARDED

BRIMFIELD - Hitchcock Free

Academy is thrilled to announce it is the recipient of a $7,300 capital grant through the Community Foundation of Western Massachusetts to install a new boiler at Hitchcock. The grant was funded by The Buxton Charitable Foundation Fund, Bank of America, Trustee - $4,100 and The Lochridge-Watkins Charitable Foundation administered by Bank of America, Trustee - $3,200. Noonan Energy installed the boiler on January 30th and we all rejoiced that we can get plenty of hot water to meet the board of health requirements from the tap and the heat in the basement now has programmable thermostats. Along with a much more efficient boiler, these improvements should save on our oil bill and we are compliant with Board of Health water temperature regulations. All great news in this 168 year old gem of a facility!

it's a gray area since the Wetland Protection Act doesn't allow segmented projects; however, Gendreau said it's not considered a development right now but rather an agricultural site.

"I used to work for the Department of Environmental Protection, and it's a fair warning not to get overzealous," Halterman said. "It's to protect the landowners for having sewer and bulldozers running over it."

Conservation Commission member Paul Zapun shared the same sentiment.

"If it was just a road, fine," Zapun said. "But it's a Master Plan. In six months, the road will be built up anyway."

Gendreau said Thursday's approval was only for the driveway and not for the street.

Wetland Consultant Matt Marro was also present.

In another public hearing, a raze and rebuild, where homeowner George and Rebecca Kondylis will tear down and rebuild their house at 47 Seneca Lane, less than 50 feet from Cedar Lake, was approved after some discussion about the grass.

Barnicle said he was disturbed by the grassy area. "I can't vote in favor of it with the open strip of grass," Barnicle said. "It could lead to erosion, or the pulling off of top soil, if it's not carefully tended."

Kondylis said if it was sloped, it could lead to erosion, but it was level.

In a separate interview, Gendreau said that the Kondylis' lawn will be within 20 feet of Cedar Lake - literally right on the water.

"Dave was asking if they could look for improvements," Gendreau said. "He thought that it was better to have trees and shrubs that provide shading and benefit wildlife habitat as opposed to just grass."

All of the other Conservation Commission members were onboard, and there was no further discussion about the patch of grass.

Five years after: tornado impacts

Danelle Laflower and Jen Santoro.

BY GUS STEEVES
NEWS CORRESPONDENT

Anybody driving through the tornado corridor can see that it's recovering. But Danelle Laflower and Jen Santoro wanted to look beyond the surface to actually see what's happening ecologically.

Laflower, until recently a forest ecologist for the Department of Conservation and Recreation, and Santoro, a University of Vermont grad student, spent last summer climbing all over the downed trees of Brimfield State Forest to see which tree species are coming back and how salvage-logging some areas affected that. Laflower did a preliminary survey of those sites in 2012, and they said they hope DCR will continue surveying five years from now.

They presented their work Feb. 11 at Norcross Wildlife Sanctuary in Wales to an audience of about 80.

"This forest is resilient to heavy damage, which I'm happy to see," Santoro said.

Later, Laflower added to that summary of their work, saying, "Individual trees were damaged, but the forest itself was not. It was just changed."

Overall, a key goal was to better understand "what should we do today to maintain these healthy forests" while ensuring safety for people who use them and live nearby, Santoro said. She noted tornadoes, hurricanes and the like can have "some very negative impacts, especially in an environment that includes us as people," but they're generally positive in an ecological sense.

They said they chose to work in Brimfield in part because the state declared the forest to be a "reserve" after the tornado, meaning it would not be salvage-logged, except to clear trails and create fire-breaks to protect nearby homes. As with Southbridge's McKinstry Wildlife Area, DCR officials intended to let it recover on its own, in large part because certain species of plants, birds and animals need what's called "early successional habitat" to thrive, and that's in short supply in state forests.

Indeed, Santoro said they found more species variety in the "blowdown" areas than in salvaged sections of nearby private properties, leading her to say "maybe coarse woody [debris] does assist regeneration," and suggest people should leave at least some of it in place whenever similar weather events hit. On the other hand, one audience member noted removing it may create habitat for different species, so there some benefit to both approaches.

"The forest is coming back in force," Santoro noted. Although "the tornado left really a patchy distribution of vegetation," that has a positive side, even if it may not appeal aesthetically: "It created a diversity of habitat for many species."

Among other things, they found the bigger trees tended to be hardest hit, especially if they were on rocky soil where their roots couldn't go down very far. Such trees on stony soil were 95 percent likely to experience severe damage, while only a third of similar sized trees on better soil did, Laflower said.

In general, they found the forest's dominant red oaks and red maples had a mixed response. The latter seem to be recovering pretty well along the tornado track, alongside black birch and American chestnut, while the former is doing better in the nearby "control" areas of untouched forest. The birches have been the big winner, comprising 60 percent of the regeneration in the blowdown zone, but Santoro noted the difference "may be time-related" if red oaks simply take longer to grow.

She said eastern hemlocks particularly benefited. Because they're usually shorter "understory" trees, when the tornado took out the larger ones, they became the strip's new canopy trees. They did, that is, if a bigger one didn't fall on a hemlock; Laflower noted they found many hemlocks broken that way.

When she toured the zone in 2012, she listed many "heavily damaged" trees as "alive" if they had even "one live leaf."

But many of them did not have enough energy to heal themselves and subsequently died. Overall, they found less than 75 percent of what existed in 2012 was still alive in 2017.

Santoro said one aspect of their study was to analyze the ecological effect of salvaging, which she termed "a compound disturbance" in some cases because it "knocks [the forest] down one step further," slows recovery, and is "a primary opportunity for gypsy moth and other invasive species to hit the forest when it's down." As a forester, she didn't specifically look at insect, bird or animal effects, but they found very little Oriental bittersweet, a notoriously invasive plant. Afterward, Laflower added DCR is funding a tornado-track bird study which is due for release soon.

Giving a little background, Laflower said the tornado in this area peaked as an EF-3, meaning it had wind speed in excess of 136 mph, although it was impossible to identify exactly what the speed was in any specific location. It affected more than 900 acres of the 3528-acre state forest, heavily damaging 618. To do their study, they identified dozens of one-fifth-acre plots, roughly equally split between blowdown, salvage and untouched control spots, and personally counted all of the damaged/dead trees, living ones and anything under 5 inches in diameter.

Bay Path one of several schools to receive grants

LYNN — The Baker-Polito Administration awarded $2.3 million in Skills Capital grants to seven high schools that will use the funds to purchase new industry-standard equipment, in a variety of fields, so students are better prepared for college and careers.

The goal of the Skills Capital Grants is to help high schools, colleges and other educational institutions invest in the most up-to-date training equipment to give their students an advantage when they continue in their chosen field or particular area of study. The Skills Capital Grants cover a broad array of fields, from construction and engineering to health-care and hospitality.

With today's announcement, the Baker-Polito Administration has awarded more than $38.2 million to 124 different programs.

"Skills Capital Grants make an enormous difference in the education and training students receive at schools across the Commonwealth," Governor Charlie Baker said. "These grants will have a lasting impact by ensuring more residents are able to move into rewarding careers and more companies have the skilled employees they need to grow."

"Skills Capital Grants impact students' education and influence programs to meet the needs of employers across the Commonwealth seeking skilled employees," Lt. Governor Karyn Polito said. "We are encouraged every time we visit a school that was awarded one of these grants and hear students talk about the difference the new equipment makes in their educational experience."

The competitive grants are awarded to educational institutions that demonstrate partnerships with local businesses, as well as align curriculum and credentials with industry demand, in order to maximize hiring opportunities in each region of the state. The Economic Development legislation, proposed by the Administration and passed by the Legislature, authorized $45 million in funding to award over three years.

"The number of educational institutions that compete for Skills Capital Grants with well-thought out business partnerships is impressive," Education Secretary Jim Peyser said. "Schools that receive these grants are ensuring their students are well-prepared for college and careers, making a difference in their students' future successes."

"Massachusetts is a national leader in life sciences, healthcare, technology, and manufacturing sectors," said Housing and Economic Development Secretary Jay Ash. "These grants allow us to build a strong pipeline of talented workers throughout the Commonwealth to support these key industries. A skilled workforce is essential to making Massachusetts increasingly competitive for the jobs of today, and of tomorrow."

"The Skills Capital grant program is helping to fill current and future talent gaps in the workforce that are vital to the Commonwealth's economic outlook," Labor and Workforce Development Secretary Rosalin Acosta said. "By continuing to invest in our workforce, we will ensure that the citizens of Massachusetts have the skills necessary to remain the best trained and educated in the nation."

Governor Baker and Lt. Governor Polito created the Workforce Skills Cabinet in 2015, bringing together the Secretariats of Education, Labor and Workforce Development and Housing and Economic Development in order to align education, economic development and workforce policies, and to strategize around how to meet employers' demand for skilled workers in each region of the state.

The following high schools received grants:

Bay Path Regional Vocational Technical High School - $165,415: The school will purchase a Computer Numerical Control Door Production I Arch Machine for the cabinet making program. Students will develop advanced production skills used by cabinetmakers, furniture makers, bench carpenters, machine operators, and CNC programmers by creating real world capstone projects for community partners. Additionally, the equipment will be used in the evening for adults who are interested in cabinet making careers or upgrading existing skills.

Belchertown High School - $100,000: the high school will invest in STEM educational technology focused on information technology and engineering, including Cloud-based IT programming/coding language software, 3D printers, and robotics equipment. Students will receive hands-on applied learning on equipment aligned to standards in college and workplace environments.

Bristol-Plymouth Regional Technical School - $299,866: the school is launching a new engineering program that will expose students to opportunities in electrical, electronics, structural and civil engineering careers. The high school is working with local community colleges and universities to provide students with college to career pathways in engineering. With the award, the school will invest in training system modules and kits that will be used during the day with students, and in the evening with adult learners. The school is partnering with local career centers, regional workforce boards, and industry partners to provide these new adult programs to support unemployed and underemployed adults.

Lynn Vocational Institute - $395,685: the school will launch a new HVAC program, to support the North Shore region's construction trade industry. Students will gain hands-on experience using industry standard HVAC training equipment, including mounted split condensing units, heating units, simulated heating and AC for basement and attic areas, as well as gas-fired make up air units.

Northeast Metropolitan - $491,387: the school will create a new industrial automation program to support the region's growing manufacturing industry. The school will purchase industrial robots, PLC workstations, 3D printers, digital oscilloscopes, function generators, multi-mechatronics kits, microcontrollers, and hydraulic trainers.

Whittier Regional Vocational Technical High School - $420,000: the school will create a new secondary dental assisting vocational program, and will offer a night program to community college students and adults already employed in the dental industry. The school will purchase dental chairs, analog and digital X-ray equipment, steri centers, autoclaves, wet model trimmers, polishing and grinding equipment, and a denture processing center.

Worcester Technical High School - $465,616: the school will invest in new industry standard equipment for students in the IT, graphic design and marketing program. With the new equipment, students will be able to earn industry credentials, such as PrintEd GAERF/Skills USA Graphic Design, screen printing and Adobe Certified Associate.

Hollywood producer to deliver Nichols College commencement address

DUDLEY — Nichols College has announced Hollywood film producer Louis A. Stroller ‘63 will deliver the address at the college’s commencement exercises on Saturday, May 5 at the DCU Center in Worcester. During the ceremony, Stroller will also receive an honorary doctoral degree in communications and media from the college. The event starts at 5 p.m.

“Nichols College provided me with a nurturing environment that enabled me to grow as a person, a businessman, and a filmmaker,” said Stroller. “My education and experiences there served as my foundation for my career. I hope the graduates of the Class of 2018 will be inspired to know that no matter where you come from, you can achieve your desires if you put in the time and effort. I also hope students will understand how instrumental Nichols was in providing me with the tools I needed to reach my dreams and goals.”

Stroller has been an assistant director, production manager, and producer on more than 40 films, working with some of Hollywood’s most renowned actors, including Denzel Washington, Meryl Streep, Angelina Jolie, Al Pacino, Nicolas Cage, Sean Connery, and Sissy Spacek. His notable list of film credits includes “The Bone Collector,” “Snake Eyes,” “The Rock,” “Carrie,” “Scarface,” “Sea of Love,” and “Carlito’s Way.”

Brooklyn-born and a 1963 graduate of Nichols College, Stroller humbly began his storied career as a gopher, sweeping stages, and fetching coffee and Danish for the crew at a

New York City television studio. (One of his early assignments was to chauffeur Harry S. Truman to the studio for a documentary production on the former president.) He became the unit manager of the Mel Brooks comedy classic, “The Producers,” and served as first assistant director on films such as “Charly,” Woody Allen’s “Take the Money and Run,” and “Lovers and Other Strangers.”

In 1978, following a move to California, Stroller began an association with producer Martin Bregman and actor/director Alan Alda, and teamed with them for “The Seduction of Joe Tynan.” He went on to produce four more Alda films.

For television, he produced HBO’s “Half a Lifetime,” which won four Cable ACE Award nominations, and the reality series, “Grease: You’re the One That I Want.”

Stroller is president of Lucky L. Productions, a charter member of the Directors Guild of America, and a member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

“In many ways, Louis Stroller is anything but the quintessential Nichols alum,” said Nichols College President Susan West Engelkemeyer, Ph.D. “Alumni commencement speakers during my seven years at Nichols included individuals who founded major investment management firms and who turned around major retail chains. I imagine Lou is the first member of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences to whom we have awarded an honorary degree. Lou found his passion, started on the ground floor, and found success. I hope students see Nichols College’s vision statement — Learn. Lead. Succeed — come to life through Lou’s remarks. I hope they also see that the skills, abilities, and confidence gained at Nichols prepare them for success, no matter which career they choose to pursue.”

Stroller lived in California for many years and now resides in Maryland, outside of Washington, D.C., with his wife, Evelynne; and daughter, Leah.

In addition to Stroller, two other accomplished individuals will receive honorary degrees from Nichols College; M. Marcus Moran Jr. ‘66, recently retired CEO of W.E. Aubuchon Co. Inc.; and Marilyn Fels, an inspirational humanitarian and philanthropist.

Moran will receive an honorary doctoral degree of science in business administration.

Moran is a business and civic leader who has dedicated his career to the success of W.E. Aubuchon Co. Inc., the oldest family-owned and -managed chain of hardware stores in the U.S. He joined Aubuchon in 1970 and served in a variety of positions, including personnel manager and treasurer, before being named president in 1993 and CEO in 2011. Under his leadership, Aubuchon has grown to more than 125 hardware stores throughout New England and New York, which stock about 30,000 products, including plumbing, hardware, housewares, paint, and tools, effectively competing against national home improvement retailers.

A 1966 graduate of Nichols College, Moran earned a Master of business administration at Babson College in 1967 and was an instructor at Fitchburg State University, the National Retail Hardware Association, North Shore Community College, and Mount Wachusett Community College. He co-authored a business mathematics textbook for community colleges.

A devoted volunteer leader, he has served a number of educational, human service, and cultural institutions. Among them are Cushing Academy, Nichols College, Fitchburg State, Fitchburg-Leominster Boys & Girls Club, United Way of North Central Massachusetts, Thayer Symphony, and the St. Paul Consortium of Catholic Schools Inc.

Moran served on the board of IC Federal Credit Union for 29 years and as its chairman for 10 years.

In recognition of his contributions, Moran received the Key to the city of Fitchburg/ Saving a Life as well as awards from Fitchburg State College, Mount Wachusett Community College, Boy Scouts, and the Bishop of Worcester.

He lives in Westminster with his wife Tonia. They have three children and six grandchildren.

Fels will receive an honorary doctoral degree of humane letters for her contributions to the lives of Dudley and Webster residents. Her commitment to the community is pervasive and unparalleled.

Fels provided the primary funding for new facilities for the Webster-Dudley Boys and Girls Club, the Community Cat

Connection in Webster, and the Webster Animal Shelter — organizations she continues to significantly support. She was a major donor to the construction of the Pearle L. Crawford Memorial Library in Dudley as well as to the new Webster public library, which is under construction. She was among the chief benefactors for the renovated Harrington Hospital Emergency Room in Webster, and her multi-million-dollar grant to build a new police station in Webster was hailed by the town administrator as an “unprecedented show of philanthropy.”

In addition, Fels’ contributions have helped secure a new vehicle for the Dudley Police Department, an echocardiograph machine for Harrington Hospital, and July 4 fireworks for the town of Webster for many years. She also supports the Worcester County Food Bank, the Webster-Dudley Food Share, area animal shelters, Webster and Dudley public schools, and is a dedicated congregant at St. Andrew Bobola Church in Dudley.

Although she’s not a graduate of Nichols College, Marilyn and her husband Gerald Fels — a 1966 Nichols graduate and a trustee emeritus — are equally credited for creating educational opportunities for area residents here at Nichols, through scholarship aid to hundreds of local students, and their support of the Bartlett Honors Academy, Remillard Hall, the Fels Student Center, and other Nichols initiatives.

They live in Webster and have two children and two grandchildren.

“We’re looking at 40 acres, and about 2-3 weeks worth of time,” Clarke said.

Next, Moran asked about noise impact, citing Fiske Hill Road as a residential community.

“It’s hard to know, but there’ll be no more impact than other areas,” Clarke said to Moran. “It’s a subdivision, so it’s tough to predict.”

Conservation Commission Chairman Ed Goodwin said the board has hired Clarke themselves, but he doesn’t understand why Spencer Solar, LLC is denying access.

“I’m concerned,” Goodwin said. “It makes no sense. We want to protect wetlands and streams.”

Selectboard clerk Mary Dowling asked if it’s the first time that the board was not allowed on the site. Goodwin replied that it’s the first that he has seen in about 33 years, adding that interest has grown over time in forestry.

Only three of five selectboard members were present due to health- and traveling reasons.

Clarke described the area — it’s a gravel road from Fiske Hill North to Route 20 East, and trailers will be used for tree removal.

Resident Peter Zek asked if they are using the access road, and Clarke replied that the Department of Public Works will maintain the road.

“There won’t be any big trucks,” Clarke said.

Resident Jeff Cooper, who lives on Fiske Hill Road, asked if it will be a selective cut, and what will happen to the stuff left over.

“It will be a selective cut,” Clarke replied. “We’ll remove as much as possible, and we’ll leave the rest to rot.”

He asked if they could set up a buffer to reduce the noise.

“It’s not my house, but many other houses,” Cooper said. “If trees are thinned out, the noise will be even louder.”

Clarke responded that most of the trees are far back.

Dowling, who was quick to note that they’re limited in their jurisdiction because it is a state permit, said they can’t impose or regulate a buffer. But there are certain requirements, she said.

“There’s no cutting on Sundays, holidays, after dark, etc.,” Dowling said. “We’re supposed to be stewards of wetlands. But it’s difficult when we’re denied access. What are our rights? We’re limited to what the Conservation Commission can recommend, and all we can do is ask the forester to keep a closer eye on it.”

Dowling said the forester can get on the property, but the town can’t.

Agreeing, Suprenant said he’s sure that the forester has done a good job.

“But the local authority is the Conservation Commission,” Suprenant said. “They’ve been on there for a long time. The former agent looked at it. The current agent should be allowed on the property. It boggles my mind.”

Town Administrator Leon Gaumond Jr. said he will notify the Department of Conservation and Recreation representative of their conversation.

They voted to continue their deliberation until March 5, and approved the permit, subject to conditions.

“We should be able to access the property,” Moran said. “There’s something going on - I don’t know what it is.”

In other matters, Veolia project manager Shane Moody and OPM tech lead III and site safety coordinator Zachary Donahue presented the town with a safety award in the waste water treatment plant.

“There were no injuries in the waste water treatment plant,” Moody said. “And they held monthly safety trainings for employees.”

A partner with town employees, there is now a plaque at the treatment plant, and at town hall.

Holiday Inn Express sales director Patti McDonnell went before the Forester John Clarke said Spencer Solar, LLC thought it was their right to deny access to the property. Clarke said Tuesday night that he has seen denial multiple times.

selectboard to acquire a one-day liquor license for Saturday, March 3 for a 60th birthday party, and Sunday, March 4 for a baby shower. Guests will bring in their own alcohol for both events.

Moran advised her to consider acquiring an alcohol permit for liability reasons. However, the board approved the licenses since they won’t have a meeting before the functions.

“You’re currently responsible for what they do with that alcohol,” Moran said. “You might consider some sort of agreement.”

30 years of notoriety

There is an old adage about squeaky wheels and etc., etc.

Which is true up to a point. We truly do pay attention to a part or a piece making noise. We fix it, or oil it, or replace it entirely with a newer model.

Keep that in mind.

Because we were enlightened this week by a “new” month that’s been around for a whole 30 years and we were blissfully unaware. We probably knew, shrugged it off, and went about the business of actual work; but for some reason this year it slammed back in our faces again.

International Women’s Month.

Huh?

We know. We do know about inequality, we live it. We know about subversive behavior. We know about unfair labor practices and fighting for attention and how long it took to get the vote and all of it. The ERA is still out there sniveling.

But....

While righteous women are celebrating what has been accomplished (and yes, me too). Because yes, it is true. And there are wars to be fought over the way people live worldwide; women in America? Really?

If you aren’t happy with your pay, (and no one is, we all think we are worth more), either buck up and ask for more, find a different job, add a way to supplement your income, find ways to save money elsewhere so you aren’t spending as much or join with other people around you in your place of business and ask what can be done. Don’t whine internationally. Work locally.

If you don’t like what is happening with the schools or the government or potholes in your street, then attend meetings, join a committee, talk to your neighbors, find the right people, find out how to vote for the people who will make a difference or run for office yourself. More women in office only happens if more women actually get involved. Don’t whine. Get involved.

If you truly don’t want something to happen in your children’s schools; are fearful of the atmosphere, then find out about posing neighborhood watch groups, get involved with school based groups and committees and find out what is or can be done to keep kids safe; it starts in your own neighborhood, not with national laws.

Even with mental health issues. Can you help? Can you volunteer? Man a crisis intervention hot line? A suicide prevention phone?

Women are far from being the so called weaker sex here. They never have been. The expectations have changed because society has changed; and some women do adapt better than others.

As for history books and a whole month of paying attention? Well, ok. History books are always written by the winners; and for hundreds of years they have also been written by fusty old white men too. So if people want to get on their hobby horses and carry on about strong people we don’t always hear about, that’s good for us to know.

The day you stop learning is a bad thing.

On a whole different note we’d like to talk about local elections for a minute. In an age of tight budgets, slimmed down staffs and everything done via email, we are not going to be taking time to interview every single candidate for local public office this year. Instead, we will be sending out a survey of questions and requesting candidates take some thoughtful time to answer them, return them to us and we will print those answers the week before local elections. We are concentrating on the larger offices like selectmen and school committees; and contested offices; but we do invite everyone running for office to send their own letters to the editor explaining why they are choosing to run and a brief biography. We feel it is the best way to give space in the paper to everyone, to make certain everyone is fairly asked the same questions (we will be sending every candidate three or four questions to answer); and give everyone an equal opportunity to share their views and ideas.

Any questions please contact the editor at ruth@stonebridgepress.news.

Young: flag etiquette

To the Editor:

I live in Sturbridge and visited the Burger King over 2 weeks ago, and noticed their US and MA flag hanging together on one flag pole, at the same level, in terrible disrepair.

I said something to the manager about the flags and she said they were looking for someone who could climb a ladder and fix it. First of all, they have two flag poles, and the flags are supposed to be flown correctly according to flag etiquette.

The flags are intertwined and not displayed correctly. This shows complete disrespect for our national flag.

Tuesday I visited the Burger King and the flag situation has not changed.

Can you put a human interest article in the paper, so this can be fixed? I’m sure the local Boy Scout Troop, or perhaps the Fire Dept. could be of service in this situation. Thank you.

Goodbye, bullets fly...again

SUBMITTED BY BENJAMIN R. WHITE

Goodbye, goodbye, goodbye...
This is what we say;
I still don’t know why,
We had to part today

Bullets fly, and fly, and fly
From the barrel of a gun.
Each met with a child’s cry
And still, there is nothing we have done.

Again, and again, and again...
The trigger clicks.
Now we have to say, “goodbye my friend,”
As it’s the senseless targets a person picks.

Not today, not tomorrow, then when?
This has happened before.
Will we let it happen again?
Will we turn our backs once more?

When are we going to learn
That it is our fault too?
Stormy clouds are rolling in.
Bullets are raining down on you.

For now, rest my child,
And will hold you for a while.
For now, sleep my friend,
And one day, I will see you again.

Just dream of a life of bliss.
Your world wasn’t supposed to end like this.
Find yourself a happy place,

And I will wipe the tears from your face.

Forget the painful screams.
Clearly, this world is not what it seems.
Let the terror go away.
Find laughter once more in your day.

Now, don’t you worry about what is to come.
I pray this world has remorse for what has been done.
Brother, sister, friend, son, and daughter,
It is me, your sister, brother, friend, mother, father.

This may be our last goodbye,
But will this be the last time?
How many more will have to die,
Before we finally change our minds?

From our responsibility we do run.
It is time that we do not.
We keep saying goodbye to our daughters our sons,
Until we’ve lost everything we’ve got.

So, goodbye, goodbye, goodbye...
This is what we say.
I still don’t understand why,
We had to part today.

For now, rest my child,
And I will hold you for a while.
For now, sleep my friend.
When my day comes, I will see you again.

Merchants of Death: America’s toxic cult of violence turns deadly

“Mass shootings have become routine in the United States and speak to a society that relies on violence to feed the coffers of the merchants of death. Given the profits made by arms manufacturers, the defense industry, gun dealers and the lobbyists who represent them in Congress, it comes as no surprise that the culture of violence cannot be abstracted from either the culture of business or the corruption of politics. Violence runs through US society like an electric current offering instant pleasure from all cultural sources, whether it be the nightly news or a television series that glorifies serial killers.”—Professor Henry A. Giroux

We are caught in a vicious cycle.

With alarming regularity, the nation is being subjected to a spate of violence that terrorizes the public, destabilizes the country’s fragile ecosystem, and gives the government greater justifications to crack down, lock down, and institute even more authoritarian policies for the so-called sake of national security without many objections from the citizenry.

Take the school shooting that took place at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, FL on Valentine’s Day: 17 people, students and teachers alike, were killed by Nikolas Cruz, a 19-year-old former student armed with a gas mask, smoke grenades, magazines of ammunition, and an AR-15-style semiautomatic rifle.

This shooting, which is being chalked up to mental illness by the 19-year-old assassin, came months after a series of mass shootings in late 2017, one at a church in Texas and the other at an outdoor country music concert in Las Vegas. In both the Texas and Las Vegas attacks, the shooters were dressed like a soldier or militarized police officer and armed with military-style weapons.

As usual following one of these shootings, there is a vocal outcry for enacting more stringent gun control measures, more mental health checks, and heightened school security measures.

Also as usual, in the midst of the finger-pointing, no one is pointing a finger at the American police state or the war-drenched, violence-imbued, profit-driven military industrial complex, both of which have made violence America’s calling card.

Ask yourself: Why do these mass shootings keep happening? Who are these shooters modelling themselves after? Where are they finding the inspiration for their weaponry and tactics? Whose stance and techniques are they mirroring?

Mass shootings have taken place at churches, in nightclubs, on college campuses, on military bases, in elementary schools, in government offices, and at concerts. In almost every instance, you can connect the dots back to the military-industrial complex, which continues to dominate, dictate and shape almost every aspect of our lives.

We are a military culture engaged in continuous warfare.

We have been a nation at war for most of our existence.

We are a nation that makes a living from killing through defense contracts, weapons manufacturing and endless wars.

We are being fed a steady diet of violence through our entertainment, news

Women’s Day - how can women make financial progress?

BURDICK

On March 8, we observe International Women’s Day. This year’s theme is “Press for Progress,” and events around the world will celebrate women’s advancements in the political, social and cultural arenas. But right here in the United States, women still face barriers to their financial progress. If you’re a woman, you need to recognize these challenges – and respond to them.

So, what are the key obstacles to financial security for a woman? Probably the first thing that comes to mind is the gender wage gap: Women generally earn around 80 cents for every dollar men earn, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

But women also face other threats to their financial security. For one thing, they are far more likely than men to take time away from the workforce to raise a family – and time away means smaller Social Security payments and significantly lower balances in 401(k) plans and other retirement accounts. And women’s roles as caretakers don’t end when their children are grown – in fact, women are twice as likely as their male siblings to end up caring for an elderly parent, according to a Princeton University study.

What, then, can you do to help ensure a comfortable retirement and achieve your other financial goals? Here are a few suggestions:

Take full advantage of your employer’s retirement plan. If your employer offers a 401(k) or similar retirement plan, take full advantage of it. Invest as much as you can afford each year, and every time you get a raise, increase your contributions. At the very least, put in enough to earn your employer’s matching contribution, if one is offered.

Invest for the long term. Some evidence shows that women may be more conservative investors than men. But if you want to reach your long-term goals, you will need to consider some growth-oriented investments in your portfolio, factoring in your risk tolerance and time horizon. You may want to consult with a financial professional about the best way to invest for the long term.

Maximize your Social Security. If your spouse is the higher earner, you may want to consider how you can use this disparity to your advantage when you collect Social Security. Specifically, you may be eligible for Social Security benefits based on your spouse’s earnings and Social Security record. You’ll want to consult your tax advisor before making any moves.

Protect yourself from long-term care costs. More than two-thirds of nursing home residents are women, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. And the median rate nationwide for a private room in a nursing home is over $97,000 per year, according to the Genworth 2017 Cost of Care Survey. Medicare generally pays very little for long-term care, so if you ever need these services, you’ll have to find other ways to pay for them. A financial professional can suggest some ideas.

As a woman, you face special financial challenges, and striving to overcome them will be a lifelong activity. But it’s worth the effort.

Railroads develop industry in the 1800s

BY TARA VOCINO
CORRESPONDENT

STURBRIDGE — About 75 people traveled back in time and traveled along railroads at the Publick House during the Sturbridge Historical Society meeting.

Guests commented on what they learned after author and historian Larry Lowenthal’s presentation.

During a question and answer session, Sturbridge resident Peter Mimeault asked about materials that the rails were made of.

Irish and Italian steel and wood laborers on the Titanic made the steel/iron rails, although the material itself came from England.

“The rail spur helped to develop industry,” Mimeault said. “We had some factories around here. But it was all about carrying freight.”

His wife, Rebecca, a New Hampshire native, said she didn’t realize how involved railroads were in town since she’s not originally from here.

“My grandfather, Ai Otis Gould, was a fireman on the steam engine,” Rebecca Mimeault said.

Peter Mimeault said they quickly built the main rails from 1830 to 1850, whose route was from Boston-Springfield-Albany.

He said that Lowenthal started his presentation by comparing the train’s evolution to how fast technology is evolving today.

The Mimeaults said they read the last article on antique coins in the Sturbridge Villager, and that is what prompted them to come. They are considering joining the Historical Society.

West Brookfield resident Bill Jenkins said that Lowenthal did an excellent job, and that he knows everything that there is to know about railroads.

“I learned that Brimfield didn’t have any rail service,” Jenkins said. “And how important railroads were to the town’s development. Sturbridge wanted to be the destination, not just a stop.”

During the presentation, Lowenthal said a case study was done in 1830 when they decided that they didn’t need horse-drawn equipment, and by 1835, they were relying on steam locomotives. There was a line that ran from Worcester to Albany, but Worcester wasn’t supportive of the project.

“They wanted to be the terminus,” Lowenthal said. “It was completed in 1841, and it comes out where Route 9 is today. It extended into the Quaboag River and into Warren a few miles away.”

Lowenthal said people considered riding the Western railroad, or “taking/riding the cars,” a luxury.

“It was a special event,” Lowenthal said. “They showed up in letters as late as the Civil War with men going/coming back from overseas.”

Lowenthal went on to say that the main purpose was causing a rivalry between Western traffic and Boston, Philadelphia, and Richmond.

With the exclusion of Brimfield, he said residents had multiple choices on where to travel since the cars ran east, west, north, and south.

“Brimfield covers a large area,” Lowenthal said.

He went on to say that Sturbridge didn’t have as much industry as the Brookfields.

“It was largely an agricultural community with small industry,” Lowenthal said. “But the depot was active all of the time. It was an exciting place to be. There wasn’t any Internet or TV, but there was constant live action.”

Lowenthal said it was a devious, roundabout way to get to Boston when the Boston-Hartford line went bankrupt.

An extension in 1862 allowed residents to travel from Brimfield into Palmer.

He said Southbridge didn’t support a railroad connection in 1870, but by 1877, Southbridge was onboard. However, a vote at town meeting narrowly lost, and it was the end of that project.

Although the Wells family was supportive, there wasn’t enough support, and it was the end of passenger service.

“Check for personal belongings in the overhead rack,” Lowenthal concluded his presentation. “And thank you for riding.”

The audience laughed.

Examining maps, charts, old books and getting to talk to expert historian and author Larry Lowenthal was a highlight for those who attended the meeting last week.

ANTIQUES,
COLLECTIBLES
& ESTATES
• • • • •
WAYNE TUISKULA

I’ve discussed coin collecting in previous columns. We have received many calls in the past few months from estate administrators and individuals looking to sell their collections, so I thought this topic was worth further discussion.

The number of members in groups such as The American Numismatic Association can provide some insight as to how many coin collectors there are in the United States. Some estimates begin at 1 million people. Ian Russell runs a coin business on the West Coast. He believes there could be 10 million coin collectors in America.

Coin collectors typically have a focus when they collect. They may try to collect every year and variety of one version of coin. For instance, they may collect every type of Lincoln penny from 1909 to the present. Type collectors collect one coin of every type. For example, they seek out one Barber, Walking Liberty, Ben Franklin and Kennedy half dollar. Depending on their budget, they may even collect older ones and rarer ones. Some collect error coins, such as the 1955 double die (struck twice) penny. Others collect coins from their birth year, novelty coins, tokens, medals, foreign coins or ancient coins. There are collectors of topical coins. For instance, fans of the Olympics may collect Olympic coins. Currency collectors specialize in paper money.

Many find coins to be a good investment as well. Dimes, quarters, half dollars and silver dollars from 1964 or earlier contain 90% silver. Some buy coins of this era strictly for the bullion. U.S. and foreign gold coins are also popular with collectors.

Both collectors and investors seek out rare coins. A rare gold St. Gaudens double eagle sold for $7.5 million in 2002. A 1794, silver dollar that experts believe was the first struck at the mint, brought $10 million at auction in 2013. Of course, there are other rare coins for those with smaller budgets.

When we handle the sale of coins from an estate, we typically encounter three types of situations. Sometimes the collection has been carefully curated. Some coins may be graded in plastic holders. Others may be in coin books. Other times, coins have just been passed down through the family. In one local estate, we found six coffee tins full of coins. The coins were spread throughout hiding spots in the cellar. Often, what we find is somewhere in between these two scenarios. Some coins have been placed in coin books, vinyl or cardboard holders, while others are in bags, boxes or tins.

When evaluating these coins, we check for rare types of coins, condition, dates and mint marks. Silver and gold coins are worth at least the melt value, but others can command prices well above the value of the metal. For example, we sold 58 Lincoln pennies from 1924 in one of our auctions. Despite 75,178,000 of these coins being minted, the outstanding conditions made them desirable. They sold for over $11,000 at auction. Gold and rare silver coins regularly sell in the hundreds to thousands. One rare Morgan silver dollar or other rare coin can be worth many Benjamin Franklins.

I’ll be at the New Braintree Town Hall on March 4th from 12:00 to 3:00 appraising items for the Quaboag Historical Society. I’ll be teaching my Evaluating your Antiques class held at Bay Path Evening School in Charlton on March 5th. Keep checking www.centralmassauctions.com for details on other events.

Tantasqua salvages Milford Tournament consolation win with districts up next

Nick Ethier photos

Jackson Hall of Tantasqua pulls up to take and make a jump shot.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

MILFORD — It makes you wonder what he could have done on two good ankles. Tantasqua Regional's Cam Arello poured in a game-high 30 points, including 22 in the first half, to help lead the Warriors boys' varsity basketball team past Norwood High, 76-64, in the consolation game of the Scarlet

Hawks Classic, played Wednesday, Feb. 21 at Milford High. The game was the regular season finale for both teams. Tantasqua improved to 14-6 with the win, while Norwood dropped to 1-19 with the loss. The Warriors will now shift their focus to the postseason and the Western Mass. Division 2 Tournament, where they gained the No. 3 seed and will host No. 6

Taconic Vocational (13-7) on Thursday, March 1 at 7 p.m. Arello's performance, which included a string of 12 straight points for his team in the second quarter — he finished with 14 in the period — came just two days after the Tantasqua senior injured his ankle in the Warriors' 74-65 loss to Milford in the first round of the tournament. "Maybe I'll start hurting my ankle before every game," Arello said with a laugh.

As he made the trip to the Norwood game, Tantasqua head coach Tom O'Neil wasn't even sure if Arello would play against the Mustangs. "We taped him up before the game and he told me, 'I'll try, coach,' and then he came out and had 30; that was awesome," said O'Neil, who was pleased with Arello's performance, but not surprised by it. "Cam has that ability where he can just go off. Teams kind of forget about him. They focus on Drew [Peretti] and Evan [Couture] a lot. Evan is our leading scorer but he has been struggling the last few games, and Cam has just stepped up."

With his team ahead, 21-15, as the second quarter began, Arello scored the first six points of the period on a put-back basket, a free throw and a three-point play, to push the Warriors' lead to 27-15. Norwood's Dan Grasso (13 points) stopped the bleeding with a 3-pointer, but Arello answered with a layup off a drive to the hoop to push Tantasqua's lead back to double digits (29-18).

The Mustangs' Akhil Sripada-Vaz (17 points) made it 29-20 on a drive to the hoop, but Arello scored on another layup to increase the Warriors' lead to 31-20. Norwood's Dan Gunning (nine points) then pulled his team to within eight, 31-23, with a 3-pointer, but Arello came back with yet another layup to push the Tantasqua lead back to double figures, 33-23.

"My teammates were getting me the ball and I was taking it to the hoop," said Arello, who also found time record a double-double, thanks to his tenacity on the boards (12 rebounds). "I felt really good, especially in that second quarter. My teammates realized it, too; they just kept feeding me the ball and I just kept driving to the hoop."

The Warriors led, 41-31, at halftime. In the second half Norwood cut Tantasqua's lead into the single digits just once, and that came in the first two minutes of the third quarter. The Warriors led after the third frame, 57-47. Also scoring in double figures for Tantasqua were Peretti and Hayden Peterson, who scored 11 points each. Couture added eight points, Jackson Hall six, Ethan Brunelle four, Garrett Cassavant three, Chase Freeland two and Jeremy Dingui one. "This game was just like how our season went; we've been up and down a lot this year," O'Neil said. "We came out in this game with some energy and then they hit some shots and we hit some shots. We made a run and then they hit some 3's. It seems like every game kids are hitting real tough shots on us. We play good defense and we've got a hand in the kid's face and the kid just makes the shot anyway."

Norwood finished the game with eight 3-pointers. Tantasqua canned six shots from beyond the arc. "We didn't back down; we kept fighting," O'Neil said. "This is a long drive for us and our kids are sick and hurt, but we fought through all of that. Everybody who played really battled for us and we toughed it out."

Tantasqua's Garrett Cassavant finishes off a post move down in the paint.

Cam Arello of Tantasqua releases a jump shot over Norwood defender Chris Sheehan.

Tantasqua's Evan Couture looks up before firing a pass down the court while on the fast break.

Jeremiah Dingui of Tantasqua is able to get out of a Norwood defensive double-team by flicking a pass over to teammate Evan Couture.

Warriors' Zahr clears 6-feet at All-State Track and Field Meet

At the 33rd annual MIAA Indoor Track and Field All-State Championship, held at Boston's Reggie Lewis Track, Tantasqua Regional's Ryan Zahr qualified for the high jump event. And Zahr cleared 6-feet at the meet, which tied him for 13th place overall.

Shepherd Hill overpowers Rangers to claim Clark Tournament championship

Jason O'Regan and the Shepherd Hill boys' varsity basketball team is all smiles after defeating Westborough, 73-52, for the Clark Tournament Large Schools Division title.

BY KEN POWERS
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

WORCESTER — The Shepherd Hill Regional boys' varsity basketball team won its second Clark Tournament Large Schools Division championship in four years, thanks to the play of Jason O'Regan, Cody Adams and Kenny Flynn, who combined to score 58 points for the fourth ranked Rams in their 73-52 victory over No. 6 Westborough High Saturday, Feb. 24 at the Kneller Athletic Center.

Behind the play of Mike Rapoza, now starring at Anna Maria College, Shepherd Hill defeated Nashoba Regional, 55-51, to win the title in 2015. The Rams won Clark Tournament Small Schools championships in 1975 and 1976, defeating Bartlett High and Oakmont Regional, respectively.

"I can't wait to go home and take a picture holding both the 2015 and now the 2018 championship plaques," said O'Regan, who recorded a double-double, scoring 21 points and grabbing 16 rebounds, both game highs. "I was thrilled to win in 2015, but I think I appreciate this one more.

"I have a great memory of winning the Clark as a freshman, coming in right out of middle school and contributing," O'Regan continued. "This one means the most to me, though, because this was my last Clark Tournament. Winning it all this year made the dream come true."

The first half of this year's Large Schools final was an up and down affair, which featured nine lead changes and two ties and after which the Rams led, 31-27.

The 6-foot-5 Flynn led the way in the first 16 minutes, scoring 11 of his 17 points. He made his presence felt on the defensive end, too, blocking four shots and altering several others with his long wingspan.

"I just wanted to start something," Flynn said of his productive first half. "Once I started I knew the rest of the team would have my back and get going, too. I felt good."

Adams scored eight of his 20 points in the first half while the 6-foot-5 O'Regan added seven points and nine rebounds.

Shepherd Hill (16-6) broke the game open in the second half, outscoring the Rangers, 24-2, during an eight-minute span that bridged parts of the third and fourth quarters.

Leading, 41-35, with 4:23 to play in the third quarter, the Rams finished the period on a 10-2 run, which allowed them to take a 51-39 lead into the fourth period. Shepherd Hill then erased any thoughts of a dramatic come-from-behind victory by Westborough by scoring the first 14 points of the final frame, extending its lead to 65-39 with 3:41 to play.

Adams paced the Rams' attack during the 24-2 run, scoring 12 points. O'Regan added seven, Danny Cavic (10 points, two 3-pointers) three and Flynn two.

From that point the Shepherd Hill faithful simply counted down the minutes and seconds until they could officially celebrate another Clark Tournament title.

Like in their semifinal round win over Auburn High, the Rams' chances for victory greatly improved when they made a conscious effort to get the ball inside and take advantage of the fact that they were the taller team.

"We came out of half-time knowing we wanted to pound the ball down low because we knew we had a size advantage," Adams said. "Kenny and Jason inside are tough for any team to deal with and they were very active tonight, taking the ball to the hoop and crashing the boards. They're very good finishers on the inside. It's very tough to stop those two when they get going."

Adams, who scored 12 of his points after intermission, was also tough for the Rangers to stop. In the second half the junior's points came on three slicing drives, three free throws and a 3-point-er.

"Cody is an athlete," said Mike Byrnes, Shepherd Hill's first-year head coach. "Offensively he's great and defensively we expect a little more from him than we do everybody else and he always comes through. He's huge for the way we play. We play fast and he gets up and down the floor and makes steals and knocks down shots. We couldn't ask him to play any harder. We wouldn't be here without him."

O'Regan (second half) and Flynn (first half) both dominated the play

OBITUARIES

Daniel J. Hennessy, 84

CHARLTON / STURBRIDGE - Daniel Joseph Hennessy, 84, passed away peacefully after a short illness on Feb 19th at Overlook in Charlton, MA. He was a long-time resident of Sturbridge, where he lived with his beloved wife Mary “Marie”(Carey) Hennessy, who passed away in 2011. He is survived by his son Daniel Hennessy, Jr. and his wife Jane Elizabeth; his daughters, Patricia Hennessy, Kathleen Hennessy and Mary Beth Imbarrato and her husband Dave; his sister Margaret Sedlacek; six grandchildren; one great-grandchild; his sister-in-law Mary Frances Hennessy; and four nieces and six nephews. He was also predeceased by his brother Francis. Dan was born in NYC on April 4th, 1933 to Gervaise and Margaret (O'Connor) Hennessy. He attended parochial schools and was an honors graduate of Cardinal Hayes High School in the Bronx in 1951. Shortly after graduation, he left his high school sweet-heart and future wife Marie and enlisted in the US Marine Corps. He completed basic training at Camp Lejeune and as a PFC was soon deployed to Korea – India Company 3rd Battalion. Once in country, Dan was assigned to a machine gunnery unit and soon distinguished himself in numerous battles with enemy forces. He was wounded twice for which he received two Purple Heart medals, a commendation for bravery and a battlefield promotion to Staff Sargent and unit leader. At the end of his 2-year enlistment he was offered an OCS commission but declined and returned to civilian life in 1953. Dan was justifiably proud of his service to our Country and happily reconnected with members of his USMC Company later in life.

He then pursued his college education at Fordham University, at night, and worked a variety of jobs during the day to earn his way - including a short stint as a NYC beat cop and loading trucks for the NY Times! Dan married the love of his life, Marie, in 1956 at Church of the Good Shepherd and they began life as a young couple living on West 211th Street in Inwood. His life-long devotion, love and care for Marie was unwavering and truly inspirational and spanned 55 years of marriage until her death in 2011. They traveled around, often driving hundreds or thousands of miles together to visit friends and relatives in Michigan or vacationing in Florida – now that’s true love!

Dan’s professional life formally began when he joined Corning Glass after earning his Bachelor’s degree and was then recruited by the Dow Chemical Company where he remained for the entirety of his career. Dan understood that his Fordham degree was the key to his future and a better life for his family. He instilled these same values and aspirations in his children and was immensely proud of the fact that all of his children earned college degrees and found career fulfillment and independence. In his later years he loved to hear stories of his grandchildren’s academic successes. His tenure at Dow spanned over 30 years selling bulk chemicals all over the Northeast and Midwest US. Dan’s industriousness, friendly demeanor and unrelenting focus on customers earned him numerous promotions, accolades and professional recognition. He retired in 1990 and remained close to many of his Dow “buddies” who became life-long friends.

Dan’s life-long fascination for all living things began in 1964 when he moved Marie and his 4 young children to a new home that he designed and mostly constructed with his own hands, on Wallace Pond in Peekskill, NY. It was here where he taught his children how to swim and fish in the summer and ice-skate in the winter. And it was here, in this rural place, where he became transfixed and a passionate, life-long observer of the ever-changing flora and fauna through his always-handly binoculars. In his later years, having retired with Marie to a tranquil setting on Walker Pond in Sturbridge, he would spend hours out on the back deck patiently watching and waiting for the rare heron or trumpeter swan to pass. It was also here that he taught his grandchildren a healthy respect and appreciation for the water and spent many hours cruising around on his beloved “pontoon” boat.

Our Family wishes to express our deep gratitude for all of the wonderful care and support provided by the Overlook professionals. Their tireless efforts were certainly appreciated by Dan and Marie as well as our family and friends. Dan and Marie also leave many wonderful memories and experiences while enjoying their time at the Overlook community.

His funeral was held on Saturday, Feb. 24th, from the Daniel T. Morrill Funeral Home, 130 Hamilton St., Southbridge, with a Mass at 10:00am in St. Anne’s Church, 16 Church St., Fiskdale. Burial followed in St. Anne’s Cemetery, Fiskdale. Calling hours in the funeral home were held on Friday, Feb. 23rd, from 4:00 to 7:00pm.

Time to collect gardening tips

TAKE

TRAINOR

After a New England winter spent poring over seed catalogs, most backyard gardeners are itching to get their hands into some soil this time of year. Whether you start seeds indoors, or prefer to wait to transplant commercial seedlings, this week's column will give you a head start on making the gardening chores ahead go a little smoother.

Seed Sense: Hard shelled seeds do not always germinate properly. But you can aid the germination process by making an x cut in the hard seed with a sharp knife. Or, to speed germination in without breaking the surface, try soaking hard shelled seeds overnight in water.

Corn Caper: Garden experts recommend this clever method to get a jump start on germinating corn: Place corn seeds in a wet paper towel, and fold over towel, covering the top and bottom of the seeds. Allow to pre-sprout. As a bonus, corn seed treated this way is less likely to rot in cold soil.

To Sprout or Not to Sprout: If you are using last year's seeds, you can easily test the package by viability this way: Wrap a few of the seeds in a moist paper towel and then into a ziplock bag to keep the towel from drying out. Keep it at room temperature and within a week most of the seeds should sprout. If they don't, toss out the old seed package.

Sowing Seeds: Many veteran gardeners mix fine seeds in sand or very loose potting soil to allow for even seed distribution. Just make your row and drizzle the seed evenly. And, when you are planting dark seeds, you can better see where you're sprinkling them if you sprinkle some flour into the package and shake it up for even sowing.

Stamping Out Damping Off Disease: Damping off disease, which causes seedlings to die from fungi, is a gardener's nightmare. Here are some tips to prevent the common plant plague:

Since fungus thrives in moist conditions, a seedling bed provides the perfect source of growth. But you can up the odds of beating damping off disease by watering this way: Thoroughly saturate the soil and then do not water again until the soil is dry but before plants begin to wilt. This procedure keeps the soil dry for the longest time possible without killing the plants. Frequent sprinkling promotes fungal growth.

Let There Be Light: Did you know it isn't always necessary to purchase costly plant light bulbs for inside seedlings? It is possible to achieve satisfactory results by utilizing your ordinary shop lights. Simply replace the bulbs with two four watt bulbs, one cool white and one warm white. Hang the lights about two feet above the seedlings.

Can't wait to plant? Here's how to force blooms:

Bringing budding branches indoors and forcing them to bloom is a surefire way to infuse a bit of spring into your winter-weary space. Nearly any shrub that blossoms in the spring is suitable for forced blooming. Here in New England, a perennial favorite is the Forsythia. The hardy, bright yellow flowers and long, woody branches make for an impressive live winter centerpiece. Other popular candidates include pussywillow, flowering dogwood, as well as peach and apple trees.

To do: Prune branches that are beginning to bud from healthy, mature shrubs. Cut at an angle below a node, snipping evenly around the plant until you have several suitable branches. (As a bonus, the pruning will promote more blooms in the spring). Once inside, submerge the branch under water and make a fresh, angled cut on the bottom; if you split or smash the cut, the branch will take in more water. Immediately after cutting, place in a clean vase with room temperature water. If your house is dry, you might want to increase the humidity by loosely wrapping the branches in plastic wrap for at least the first few days or until buds begin to respond. Keep branches in a cool area, changing water every few days. Before long, the buds should open and you'll be treated to the fragrance and color of springtime for several weeks.

Note: Expect pussywillow to bloom in about two weeks; forsythia, two to three weeks; apple, three weeks; flowering dogwood, three weeks.

and politics.

All of the military equipment featured in blockbuster movies is provided — at taxpayer expense — in exchange for carefully placed promotional spots.

Back when I was a boy growing up in the 1950s, almost every classic sci fi movie ended with the heroic American military saving the day, whether it was battle tanks in Invaders from Mars (1953) or military roadblocks in Invasion of the Body Snatchers (1956).

What I didn't know then as a schoolboy was the extent to which the Pentagon was paying to be cast as America's savior. By the time my own kids were growing up, it was Jerry Bruckheimer's blockbuster film Top Gun — created with Pentagon assistance and equipment — that boosted civic pride in the military.

Now it's my grandkids' turn to be awed and overwhelmed by child-focused military propaganda in the X-Men movies. Same goes for The Avengers and Superman and the Transformers. (Don't even get me started on the war propaganda churned out by the toy-makers.)

Even reality TV shows have gotten in on the gig, with the Pentagon's entertainment office influencing "American Idol," "The X-Factor," "Masterchef," "Cupcake Wars," numerous Oprah Winfrey shows, "Ice Road Truckers," "Battlefield Priests," "America's Got Talent," "Hawaii Five-O," lots of BBC, History Channel and National Geographic documentaries, "War Dogs," and "Big Kitchens." And that's just a sampling.

It's estimated that U.S. military intelligence agencies (including the NSA) have influenced over 1,800 movies and TV shows.

And then there are the growing number of video games, a number of which are engineered by or created for the military, which have accustomed players to interactive war play through military simulations and first-person shooter scenarios.

This is how you acclimate a population to war.

This is how you cultivate loyalty to a war machine.

This is how, to borrow from the subtitle to the 1964 film Dr. Strangelove, you teach a nation to "stop worrying and love the bomb."

As journalist David Sirota writes for Salon, "[C]ollusion between the military and Hollywood - including allowing Pentagon officials to line edit scripts - is once again on the rise, with new television programs and movies slated to celebrate the Navy SEALs...major Hollywood directors remain more than happy to ideologically slant their films in precisely the pro-war, pro-militarist direction that the Pentagon demands in exchange for taxpayer-subsidized access to military hardware."

Why is the Pentagon (and the CIA and the government at large) so focused on using Hollywood as a propaganda machine?

To those who profit from war, it is — as Sirota recognizes — "a 'product' to be sold via pop culture products that sanitize war and, in the process, boost recruitment numbers. At a time when more and more Americans are questioning the fundamental tenets of militarism (i.e., budget-busting defense expenditures, never-ending wars/occupations, etc.), military officials are desperate to turn the public opinion tide back in a pro-militarist direction — and they know pop culture is the most effective tool to achieve that goal."

The media, eager to score higher ratings, has been equally complicit in making (real) war more palatable to the public by packaging it as TV friendly.

This is what professor Roger Stahl refers to as the representation of a "clean war": a war "without victims, without bodies, and without suffering":

"Dehumanize destruction' by extracting all human imagery from target areas ... The language used to describe the clean war is as antiseptic as the pictures. Bombings are 'air strikes.' A future bomb-site is a 'target of opportunity.' Unarmed areas are 'soft targets.' Civilians are 'collateral damage.' Destruction is always 'surgical.' By and large, the clean war wiped the humanity of civilians from the screen ... Create conditions by which war appears short, abstract, sanitized and even aesthetically beautiful. Minimize any sense of death: of soldiers or civilians."

This is how you sell war to a populace that may have grown weary of endless wars: sanitize the war coverage of anything graphic or discomfiting (present a clean war), gloss over the actual numbers of soldiers and civilians killed (human cost), cast the business of killing humans in a more abstract, palatable fashion (such as a hunt), demonize one's opponents, and make the weapons of war a source of wonder and delight.

"This obsession with weapons of war has a name: technofetishism," explains Stahl. "Weapons appear to take on a magical aura. They become centerpieces in a cult of worship."

"Apart from gazing at the majesty of these bombs, we were also invited to step inside these high-tech machines and take them for a spin," said Stahl. "Or if we have the means, we can purchase one of the military vehicles on the consumer market. Not only are we invited to fantasize about being in the driver's seat, we are routinely invited to peer through the crosshairs too. These repeated modes of imaging war cultivate new modes of perception, new relationships to the tools of state violence. In other words, we become accustomed to 'seeing' through the machines of war."

In order to sell war, you have to feed the public's appetite for entertainment.

Not satisfied with peddling its war propaganda through Hollywood, reality TV shows and embedded journalists whose reports came across as glorified promotional ads for the military, the Pentagon turned to sports to further advance its agenda, "tying the symbols of sports with the symbols of war."

The military has been firmly entrenched in the nation's sports spectacles ever since, having co-opted football, basketball, even NASCAR.

This is how you sustain the nation's appetite for war.

No wonder entertainment violence is the hottest selling ticket at the box office. As professor Henry Giroux points out, "Popular culture not only trades in violence as entertainment, but also it delivers violence to a society addicted to a pleasure principle steeped in graphic and extreme images of human suffering, mayhem and torture."

No wonder the government continues to whet the nation's appetite for violence and war through paid propaganda programs (seeded throughout sports entertainment, Hollywood blockbusters and video games) — what Stahl refers to as "militainment" — that glorify the military and serve as recruiting tools for America's expanding military empire.

No wonder Americans from a very young age are being groomed to enlist as foot soldiers — even virtual ones — in America's Army (coincidentally, that's also the name of a first person shooter video game produced by the military). Explorer scouts, for example, are one of the most popular recruiting tools for the military and its civilian counterparts (law enforcement, Border Patrol, and the FBI).

Writing for The Atlantic, a former Explorer scout described the highlight of the program: monthly weekend maneuvers with the National Guard where scouts "got to fire live rounds from M16s, M60 machine guns, and M203 grenade launchers...we would have urban firefights (shooting blanks, of course) in Combat Town, a warren of concrete buildings designed for just that purpose. The exercise always devolved into a free-for-all, with all of us weekend warriors emptying clip after clip of blanks until we couldn't see past the end of our rifles for all the smoke in the air."

No wonder the United States is the number one consumer, exporter and perpetrator of violence and violent weapons in the world. Seriously, America spends more money on war than the combined military budgets of China, Russia, the United Kingdom, Japan, France, Saudi Arabia, India, Germany, Italy and Brazil. America polices the globe, with 800 military bases and troops stationed in 160 countries. Moreover, the war hawks have turned the American homeland into a quasi-battlefield with military gear, weapons and tactics. In turn, domestic police forces have become roving extensions of the military — a standing army.

So when you talk about the Florida shooting, keep in mind that you're not dealing with a single shooter scenario. Rather, you're dealing with a sophisticated, far-reaching war machine that has woven itself into the very fabric of this nation.

You want to stop the gun violence?

Stop the worship of violence that permeates our culture.

Stop glorifying the military industrial complex with flyovers and salutes during sports spectacles.

Stop acting as if there is anything patriotic about military exercises and occupations that bomb hospitals and schools.

Stop treating guns and war as entertainment fodder in movies, music, video games, toys, amusement parks, reality TV and more.

Stop distributing weapons of war to the local police and turning them into extensions of the military — weapons that have no business being anywhere but on a battlefield.

This breakdown — triggered by polarizing circus politics, media-fed mass hysteria, militarization and militainment (the selling of war and violence as entertainment), a sense of hopelessness and powerlessness in the face of growing corruption, the government's alienation from its populace, and an economy that has much of the population struggling to get by — is manifesting itself in madness, mayhem and an utter disregard for the very principles and liberties that have kept us out of the clutches of totalitarianism for so long.

Stop falling for the military industrial complex's psychological war games.

Niklas Cruz may have pulled the trigger that resulted in the mayhem in Parkland, FL but something else is driving the madness.

As Stahl concludes, "War has come to look very much like a video game. As viewers of the TV war, we are treated to endless flyovers. We are immersed in a general spirit of play. We are shown countless computer animations that contribute a sense of virtuality. We play alongside news anchors who watch on their monitors. We sit in front of the crosshairs directing missiles with a sense of interactivity. The destruction, if shown at all, seems unreal, distant. These repeated images foster habitual fantasies of crossing over."

We've got to do more than react in a knee-jerk fashion.

Those who want safety at all costs will clamor for more gun control measures (if not at an outright ban on weapons for non-military, non-police personnel), widespread mental health screening of the general population and greater scrutiny of military veterans, more threat assessments and behavioral sensing warnings, more CCTV cameras with facial recognition capabilities, more "See Something, Say Something" programs aimed at turning Americans into snitches and spies, more metal detectors and whole-body imaging devices at soft targets, more roaming squads of militarized police empowered to do random bag searches, more fusion centers to centralize and disseminate information to law enforcement agencies, and more surveillance of what Americans say and do, where they go, what they buy and how they spend their time.

All of these measures play into the government's hands.

As we have learned the hard way, the phantom promise of safety in exchange for restricted or regulated liberty is a false, misguided doctrine that has no basis in the truth.

What we need is a thoughtful, measured, apolitical response to these shootings and the violence that is plaguing our nation.

As I point out in my book Battlefield America: The War on the American People, the solution to most problems must start locally, in our homes, in our neighborhoods, and in our communities. We've got to de-militarize our police and lower the levels of violence here and abroad, whether it's violence we export to other countries, violence we glorify in entertainment, or violence we revel in when it's leveled at our so-called enemies, politically or otherwise.

Our prolonged exposure to the toxic culture of the American police state is deadly.

State health and human services secretary to speak at Chamber luncheon

STURBRIDGE — The Chamber of Central Mass South is very excited to welcome Marylou Sudders, Secretary of Health and Human Services who will share the latest news from Beacon Hill and answer your questions at a luncheon to be held on May 3 at the Oliver Wight Tavern at Old Sturbridge Village. The invitation to join us is extended to the members of the Chamber of Central Mass South as well as our affiliates with the Worcester Regional Chamber of Commerce and any non-members who are interested in attending.

Topics the Secretary will cover include: state and federal changes in health care and how they affect Massachusetts residents and the Massachusetts response to the opioid crisis.

The Chamber is very grateful to our generous event sponsors: our Platinum sponsor for lunch with Secretary Sudders is Harrington HealthCare System. Our Gold level sponsors are The Center of Hope Foundation of Southbridge, Christopher Heights of Webster, and Venture Community Services of Sturbridge.

A three-course lunch will be served featuring chicken Arrabiata as the entrée with a delectable dessert of dulce de leche bread pudding with brown butter glazed pears.

The luncheon takes place Thursday, May 3 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. at Old Sturbridge Village's Oliver Wight Tavern. To attend, please RSVP by calling the Chamber at (508) 347-2761 or emailing info@cmschamber.org. Feel free to call with any questions. The cost is $30 per person with tables of eight for $225 for members and affiliates. The cost for non-members is $40 per person with tables of eight for $320. Space is limited so reserve today. The deadline to RSVP is Thursday, April 26.

EOHHS services directly touch the lives of slightly more than one in four residents of the Commonwealth.

Sudders' responsibilities include the state's MassHealth (Medicaid) program that provides health coverage to 1.9 million low income or disabled residents, chairing the board of the state's health care marketplace (The Connector), the Autism Commission and, the Center for Health Information and Analysis (CHIA) Oversight Council; and, co-chairs the Governor's Interagency Council on Homelessness and the state's first Governor's Council to Address Aging in Massachusetts. THE GREAT
TRUE

Ice fishing anglers had hoped for a long season, but mother nature had other plans. With most lakes and ponds ice free, fishing with rod and reel has anglers catching numerous fish including trout. A reminder that Wallum Lake in Douglas is now closed to all fishing as of Feb. 28. Wallum Lake is an interstate pond and is governed by Rhode Island regulations. Wallum Lake reopens on the second Saturday of April. Local club ponds are also giving up some nice trout to members fishing with rod & reel.

Saltwater anglers are catching some nice cod at Coxes Ledge when the boats can get out, but heavy winds have kept most boats at their docks. Hopefully the weather will improve in the coming weeks and days, allowing the boats to get onto the fishing grounds. Boat captains have reported large schools of cod at the fishing grounds on past trips, with plenty of bait in the area to keep them there. Past trips have also had boat captains anchoring up on large schools of fish for their patrons on past trips, but they seemed to have lock jaw. The bite is expected to start any day now!!

While at the Springfield Sportsmen's show at the Big-E last week I had time to talk to a Captain of the "Captain John Boat" at 10 Town Wharf Road in Plymouth! Some of the best haddock fishing in a long time was realized by his patrons during the last few years and he expects this year to be even better. Haddock fishing starts in early April, and a limit of 15 fish is expected again this year. Unfortunately this year, cod are not allowed again, to be retained on the Gulf of Maine. For a complete list of fishing opportunities and rates on the Captain John Boats, go to the web site at www.captainjohnboats.com.

Also while at the show I was fascinated by a small animal from Australia called the sugarbears. They are a tiny rodent like animal that pretty much resembles a chipmunk. Although somewhat cute they are certainly not something I would want in my home. The are also considered pocket pets and can be carried around in your pocket as you travel around on your daily chores. They cost around $300 to $ 500 each and can live to 15 years old. One person acknowledged to me that they do not make great pets, as the can become very noisy, need a lot of veterinarian care, and that they need company of another sugarbear. Now you got two new members of the family to care for.

Tautog management changes are coming to Massachusetts this year and they are long overdue. There will be no spring commercial fishing this year and for good reasons. As the tautog migrate back to coastal water in the spring, they are ready to spawn. Taking the fish before they spawn is ridiculous. "This species is one of the most localized of all popular recreational and commercial species, and the proposed changes to the new plan will create four regions — each with its own conversation goals and regulations" the report stated. Commercial fishermen will be required to place a small metal tag on each tautog that they keep to sell.

"Tracking commercial fishermen and their catch of tautog and their sale of fish in the past few years by Environmental Police have concerns about illegal and undocumented fish that are destined for instate and out of state sale. to markets and restaurants" the report stated.

The good news for Massachusetts fishermen is that the tautog stocks are healthy. Massachusetts and Rhode Island will be working together to maintain their healthy stocks of tautog in the coming years.

This year recreational sea bass limits will be adjusted to open on May 20 and will close August 29. The five fish daily limit and 15 inch minimum size will remain.

Massachusetts recreational summer flounder regulations will also be changed this year. A four fish daily bag limit and an increase from 16 inches in length to 17 inches were made to comply with the AMC management plan. The season for summer flounder remains from May 22 to September 23.

If you fish saltwater you need to attend the New England Saltwater Fishing show in Providence on March 9-11. More on the show next week.

A public hearing will be held on March 7, at the Massachusetts Fish & Wildlife Headquarters in Westborough to discuss the possible extension of the archery deer season this year in zones 10-14. A good turnout is expected. There will be no changes in zones 1-9.

This week's picture shows Junior Ranger Steven, from the West Hill Dam group enjoying some fishing for Redfish while on vacation in South Carolina! Nice fish. Redfish are on my agenda of things to do before I get too old!

Economic Development and Tourism coordinator Kevin Filchak opened and closed the discussion.

Publick House manager Michael Glick asked if he could install the A-frame sidewalks signs on the front lawn along Route 131 to advertise events, such as a fundraiser or event. "As long as it's anchored," Bubon

responded. "You wouldn't need our approval."

He asked if there's a limit on how many directional signs he can install since he has four buildings on the property. Bubon replied that there's no limit.

Glick asked if he could install a sign on the Chamberlain house, a 20-room hotel, which doesn't have a sign on it currently.

"You'd need to go to the town," Bubon said to Glick. "It would have to be a minimum of two feet."

Glick said afterwards that he plans to have the sign installed.

Center of Hope marketing consultant Kayla Krause asked if she could install sandwich boards.

"You would have to take them in every night," Bubon said to Krause.

During the slideshow presentation, Bubon said signs have different uses, ranging from finding destinations, protesting to advertising for small businesses.

"I can't tell you the number of times that people have come in asking for directions to Old Sturbridge Village, the Publick House, or hiking trails," Bubon said. "Some people think that Old Sturbridge Village is Sturbridge itself."

Bubon said black and gold signs were recently installed to give travelers directions to their destinations.

However, signs can have an unintended consequence.

"They can be a distraction for drivers if the font isn't readable," Bubon said. "For instance, there was a sign that took me four days to figure out what it said."

Lofty goals of the sign bylaw is to provide businesses and others to communicate effectively; reduce sign clutter; allow for aesthetically pleasing signage that respects the character of the community; and minimize traffic hazards.

Zoning enforcement officer Nelson Burlingame said after the presentation that he gets three weekly complaints with the biggest being a neon sign or not having the right sign layout.

"I usually talk to them three or four times before fining them," Burlingame said. "It's a good bylaw, but it's overwhelming. But they've made it clearer."

Bubon said that the bylaw was updated in 2012, and the town held several business forums so that residents had a chance to give their opinion.

"They made it so that small business owners could bring in a sign at night to advertise specials," Bubon said. "Prior to that, they could only put up the sign for 14 days three times a year. That's a drastic improvement."

Bubon broke down changes of the bylaw.

She referenced the Bedrock Plaza sign, which may not carry a business sign or logo, but it is intended for a multi-tenant property.

Bubon went onto say that contractor signs must be removed within seven days of work completion, and neon signs are prohibited, excluding hotel/motel (no) vacancy signs.

Filchak said they host these bylaw business forums quarterly with the next one being March 6, on marijuana bylaws, at the Publick House.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
