Ordinance changes approved in Thompson

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

THOMPSON — Thompson taxpayers approved several ordinance changes on Feb. 13 with no real objection or negative votes, making for quick tallies with near universal approval to end the night. The ordinance changes were non-contentious in contrast to controversial plans to replace the roof on the Ellen Larned Museum.

First Selectmen Ken Beausoleil said he was proud of the turnout and well-informed voters played a significant role in making it a cut-and-dry vote for each ordinance change. Especially relevant for one change in particular, which previously failed during a public meeting in 2015. That ordinance now splits the Conservation and Inland Wetlands Commissions in Thompson into two separate entities.

"Based on statutes we had separated out Inland Wetlands and Conservation back in 2013. It was left from the past administration to move it forward. They did attempt to move it forward in an October, 2015 meeting. There was a lot on the agenda that day and it got caught up in the hype of that night with a variety of things," Beausoleil said. "So this was prepared in 2013. It separates the two ordinances and gives specific powers and definitions of both commissions, and the main distinction is the First Selectman appoints Conservation

Killingly approves sale of Main Street building

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

KILLINGLY — The town of Killingly continues its effort to breathe new life into its downtown area. The Town Council recently gave Town Manager Sean Hendricks the go-ahead to put together a sales agreement for a building at the center of those plans.

The Town Council held a special town meeting on Feb. 14th where its members unanimously authorized the sale of the town-owned Tighe Building at 140 Main Street, most recently, was known to house a Sherwin-Williams Paint Store. The building has been part of Killingly's long-term plan for Main Street for years, touted as a future project during a visit by Lieutenant Governor Nancy Wyman nearly a year ago.

Now a potential new owner, developer Daniel Smiley of Daniel's Plumbing in Danielson, is looking to turn the storefront into retail space and create apartments in the upper area of the building. The town utilized $85,000 from the Economic Development Trust in 2016 to purchase the building and plans on establishing a lease-to-purchase agreement spanning three years, using the lease payments to pay it back into the Economic Development Trust.

The pending agreement was met with no resistance from Town Council members or members of the public. Killingly Business Association member and part owner of Main Street business Black Pond Brews Mike Teed was the first to openly support the sale, albeit as a private citizens who did not speak for the Business Association as a whole.

"As an organization we obviously want to promote and create businesses here in town. I (personally) think this is a wonderful opportunity," said Teed. "This is a positive thing. I know that there has been a lot of back and forth on the issue, but I think overall, given the situation, I really am in favor of a more aggressive stance for creating economic growth in our town. I think that we've done a lot so far and we have a really great foundation of businesses and business owners here, but I think this will be a really good step moving forward."

Town Council members Joyce Ricci, who has been an outspoken supporter of growth on Main Street during her tenure on the council, said she believes the sale will allow Smiley a chance to add something new to downtown.

"I think this will be fantastic," she said. "His plans are wonderful. I hope it works out as well as he intends. He also wants to make an upscale apartment upstairs, which would be nice."

Hendricks told the council that even with the unanimous vote that was cast that night, the sale of the building is not a guarantee. The item was put on the agenda as a matter of proper procedure, and now the real work to solidify a lease-to-purchase agreement will commence.

"Under the proposed terms of this agreement, which we are hoping will come before the Council in March, the ultimate term is the sale of the property after 36 months of development," Hendricks said. "In order for the Council to enter into an agreement that calls for the sale of the building in three years we need to have approval to sell the building in three years. So this is an approval for a sale that's we don't envision to happen for at least another three years."

Hendricks added the possibility exists that the town may have some money available to help Smiley in developing the property. The town has received funding from the state in the past to improve its Main Street area and Hendricks implied there might be some funding available to help with the facade or the roof at 140 Main Street in the future.

QVCC open house highlights Rocky Point

BY JASON BLEAU
NEWS STAFF WRITER

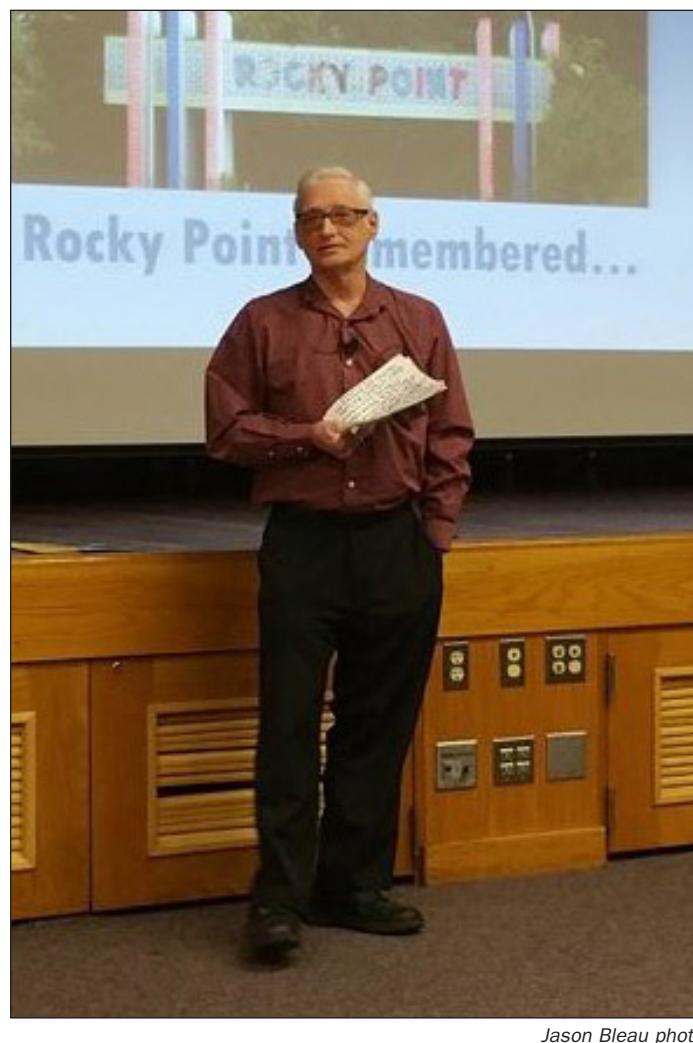

DANIELSON—Quinebaug Valley Community College's Adult Learners program held an open house on Friday, Feb. 17 at the school's Danielson campus, which included a special presentation about the history of theme parks in New England and the once popular Rocky Point in Rhode Island.

The LiR program, which used to stand for "Learning In Retirement" before the title was dropped, to promote the program for all seniors in the region, has been around for nearly 25 years. Former President Bill Brower, who presented the list of LiR courses during the open house, said the program has garnered quite the following and they are happy to see it continue to grow.

"We have classes every day of the week in the morning and afternoon. Basically it's all in the spring and then in the winter time we try to get people out of their houses providing free classes, movies, and programs," Brower said. "Our most popular series of classes has been local history and last year, for the first time, we totally sold out the auditorium. Today is our open house presentation. It's to try and draw new people into the LiR fold and introduce it to people who have not been here before. LiR member Ed Morin picks a topic he knows will attract people. We've done local history and last year we did 'A Hobo Life In America' and we had a couple of real life hobos who came to the presentation so that was phenomenal."

Another former president, Lenore Gudmundson, said the program's students call themselves "life long learners" and that there is a lot of variety to what the seniors can learn from the program.

"It includes all kinds of things that people are interested in, but maybe didn't have time to do. So we do travel, we do current history, and health," Gudmundson said. "People enjoy it—there are 400 members and we all enjoy it."

Long time LiR member Ed Morin was charged with giving the presentation on Rocky Point and other amusement parks during the Open House. Rocky Point closed its doors in the mid-90s but served as a staple of the region since its opening in the 1860s. Moore said the presentation was designed to bring back old memories of the fun the LiR members probably had in their youth at the park.

"It's kind of a general presentation on amusement parks and we key in on those in New England like Rocky Point. For the 10-town area that was the main one, but it wasn't the only one. We had White City in Worcester, across from UMass," Morin said. "So there were quite a few of them. We talk about penny arcades and the chowder hall so it brings back a lot of memories for those that were born and raised here."

Morin speaks from experience about the benefits of the LiR program. Around 16 years ago he joined after retiring as a chiropractor and within a few years began a new career of sorts, doing presentations like the one on Rocky Point. To date he has performed over 90 different presentations at local venues and said he probably would not have found that passion if the LiR program didn't provide a chance for him to explore it. He noted that he gets a lot of joy out of reminding his generation about the world they used to live in and seeing them embrace a program he himself has gained so much from being a part of.

Fire Captain- Will Skene; EMS Captain- Sue Calaman; Fire Lieutenant- Tony Foote

Fire Lieutenant-Dave Chrzan; EMS Lieutenant- Jake Keyes; EMS Lieutenant- Rich Dempsey.

The Executive Board includes: President-Russ Downer; Vice President- Erica Chrzan

"After I retired I was bored and someone was giving a Louis and Clark expedition presentation so I came down and I got hooked. I joined and I've been on the Executive Board for 16 years. About 15 years ago I did my first presentation," Morin explained. "It's fun. A lot of people will give a presentation on something they are well versed in and they give scholarly presentations. Mine is more off the cuff—to have over 400 members and to be able to keep that number up year in and year out, because we do have a lot of turnover, we have to do some advertising and we have these programs twice a year to bring people in to be a part of this."

The Rocky Point presentation was given to a packed house of around two 200 visitors, some new and others familiar with the LiR program, but all of them eager to embrace the old adage as members of the LiR community—you're never too old to learn something new.

Westviews names Keith employee of the month

DAYVILLE — Emily Keith, from Putnam, was named Westview Health Care Center's Employee of the Month for February. Ms. Keith is a 2014 Putnam High School graduate. She has been employed at Westview since August of 2013 and is currently a cook and night supervisor in the dietary department.

Putnam after school services raise funds for veterans

PUTNAM — The recent announcement by American Legion Post No. 13 of Putnam that it's embarking on a project to honor living World War II veterans has generated excitement among the leaders, parents and students involved in the Putnam After School Services (PASS).

Post No. 13, under the leadership of Commander Ronald P. Coderre, Past Commander Norman "Barney" Seney and Sons of American Legion Squadron Commander Arthur "Buster" Corey, is currently planning a program that will feature the photos and names of WWII vets on banners that will be located throughout the central core of downtown Putnam. A committee of Post 13 veterans along with Putnam Recreation Director Willie Bousquet is moving the project forward.

When Sue Allard, director of the PASS program and her assistant Colleen Dicolella heard about the banners they responded immediately, saying the group would like to assist with raising funds to offset the cost of the banners. The estimated cost for the banners is $3,000.

The PASS program and the students have always had a special interest in programs related to veterans. When we heard of this project we felt that this would be a way of demonstrating our appreciation for those individuals who served in the military during WWII," said Allard.

On Saturday, March 4 from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., PASS is sponsoring a Chicken Parmesan Dinner at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post on Providence Street in Putnam. The dinner, prepared ala Chef "Buster" Corey will include salad, chicken parmesan, pasta, dessert, coffee and bottled water at $10 per person. Meals will be served at the VFW Hall or will also be available for takeout. Tickets are limited to the first 300 diners.

"The members of Post #13 are thankful to the PASS program for this generous gesture. This collaboration between agencies and programs is another indication of the generosity of the people of the Putnam community. It is also a demonstration that the young people in our schools care about the veterans," said Commander Coderre.

The Banner Project will feature colorful 30-inch by 60-inch banners with the photo and name of each honored veteran proclaiming them as "Hometown Heroes." The committee is planning to display approximately 30 banners around Putnam. The cost of each banner is $80, with the hardware and labor provided by the Putnam Recreation Department.

The "Hometown Heroes" will be on display from Labor Day until shortly after Veterans Day. The Banner Project is being planned as an annual event by Post 13. In May of 2016 Post 13 was responsible for decorating the Veterans Memorial Bridge on Pomfret Street with flags. That project received rave reviews from the community and visitors to Putnam.

"The members of our Post are looking forward to seeing this project to its successful completion. This is another way of saying thank you to our veterans, especially those who served during WWII. We're extremely grateful to the PASS program for its support," said Past Commander Seney.

Tickets for the event may be procured from any member of PASS by calling (860) 771.1834 or RPC Associates (860) 928.6772.

Eastern professor is Windham County's poet laureate

Daniel Donaghy, English professor at Eastern Connecticut State University, recites William Shakespeare's "Sonnet 29" at the inaugural event for the poet laureate of Windham County.

WILLIMANTIC — Daniel Donaghy, professor of English at Eastern Connecticut State University, is Windham County's first-ever poet laureate. The position is a year-long term that allows the chosen individual to work with local schools and community groups to promote poetry through workshops and readings. The announcement was made on Feb. 14 at the Windham Town Hall during Willimantic's annual Cupid ceremony, in which local residents are honored for their love and dedication to the community.

"My goal for the next year is to help students and other community members hear their inner voice and inspire them to tell their stories," said Donaghy.

While the state of Connecticut has appointed a poet laureate, the Connecticut Coalition of Poets Laureate (CCPL) encourages cities, towns and regions to appoint local laureates as well. "The arts are essential to the health and vibrancy of every community," said the CCPL in a written statement. "Poetry is something people turn to for solace, enlightenment and delight. A poet laureate is someone who is recognized for his or her longstanding involvement in poetry. This person demonstrates passion and expertise in the field, and works to promote poetry in the general culture."

At the inaugural event, Donaghy read William Shakespeare's "Sonnet 29," which he considers to be the birth of blues and rock and roll music and a timely message for Valentine's Day. "The theme is essentially, 'I was nothing until I found you.'"

Over the years Windham County has demonstrated a strong commitment to the arts. "My hopes are to continue to build on the already established commitment and make literature, poetry and writing as visible in the town as the theatre," he said.

"I want to make poetry something people need in their lives. I think poetry is an essential voice within ourselves. It's where our stories, friendships, memories and regrets live. It's all the important things about us."

Donaghy expresses the importance that poetry has had on his life and how the work of Maria Mazziotti Gillan and Harry Humes really inspired him. "I want to help as many people as I can, as they helped me," said Donaghy. "I want people to see that their voices matter. I want people to see the value in what they have to say. I think once you have a teacher who shows you that, no one can undo it."

Throughout his career, Donaghy has been presented with numerous awards including the Connecticut Board of Regents teaching award, the CSU Norton Mezvinsky Trustees Research Award and Eastern's Club Advisor of the Year award. Donaghy was promoted to full professor in 2015 and teaches several courses, primarily focused on poetry.

"Having a faculty member selected as the region's poetry ambassador is an honor," said Ginny Connors, co-founder of the Coalition of Poets Laureate. "This lends credit to the talents found at Eastern. Writing poetry — good poetry — is not as easy as people think. Workshops on poetry add to the culture and can help people feel comfortable with writing and reading poetry."

Donaghy stresses the importance of writing and reading poetry throughout his teachings. "In our speeding world it's pretty revolutionary to write a poem," he said. "I know I'm supposed to be going around liking Instagram posts and taking funny selfies on Snapchat, but I'm not going to do that. I am going to sit here right now and think about what it means to be alive; make the world stop for a while and give myself the opportunity to grow. We never get a chance to nurture our inner voice or think about who we are and how we got here."

Over the next year, Donaghy will influence the members of Windham County through readings and writing workshops. The job comes with no limits and no description. "I look forward to working alone and with my poetry students. My work as poet laureate will allow me to further Eastern's mission as Connecticut's public liberal arts university and will create exciting service opportunities for creative writing students."

PUTNAM HIGH STUDENTS MAKE TRIP TO CAPITOL

Putnam High SADD students (Students Against Destructive Decisions) and Putnam High School social worker and SADD advisor Lisa Mooney were recently selected to attend the CADCA Convention in National Harbor, Md., with a Capitol Hill Day as part of the trip. The group went to Maryland and Washington, D.C., for five days along with Deputy Chief Leonel Konicki and Sergeant Niko Sezenias of the Putnam Police. Sezenias also serves as the school's SADD co-advisor. Also attending was Romeo Blackmar, who is the Putnam PRIDE coordinator. Pictured, from left, Sgt. Therapeutic student art project at Silver Circle Art Center

PUTNAM — In January, six students from Pomfret Community School exhibited paintings, masks, and handmade jewelry at the the Silver Circle Art Center in Putnam. The students had just completed the first session of a special Therapeutic Arts Mentorship program, designed to increase self-expression, confidence, self-image, and social skills among girls in grades 5 through 8.

This program is offered through a partnership between Silver Circle Art Center and PCS, and funded in part through a Regional Initiative Grant from the Windham Arts Council. Over the course of their six weeks together, the students created art projects that allowed them to explore their ideas about confidence and relationships, bullying and self-image, and their own identities.

In one class, students asked themselves, "What gives me wings?" and then created butterfly wings using the words that give them wings. This art project served as a springboard for the students to discuss larger questions, such as "How do people gain wings?" and "How can I help other people gain theirs?" Projects such as this one allowed students to explore their relationships with themselves and the world around them, to affirm their values and self-belief, and to cultivate positive self-image.

Three of the students in the fall Therapeutic Arts Mentorship session recently got together to describe their experience in the program. "We have learned that we can show our feelings by being creative," they said. "We got to be ourselves."

Taught by Art Therapist Johanna Pike, MA, ATR, in partnership with PCS Art Teacher Ana Lameiro, the Therapeutic Arts Mentorship program has just kicked off its second session, which ran through mid-February followed by another exhibit of student work at Silver Circle's Art Alley. A third session will be offered in the spring, and is open for enrollment for girls at PCS in grades 5 through 8.

"The impact of Therapeutic Arts for these girls has been incredible," said Pike. "Many students are busy with school, homework, and other after school activities. Often there is little time left for them to talk about the many issues they all may go through at this age. This program allows them time to discuss and express themselves on these important topics in a safe, supportive environment."

Silver Circle co-owner and Director Carly Sage Martin said "We hope to bring this program to other schools in the region." Interested schools are encouraged to reach out to Silver Circle Art Center to explore options for bringing Therapeutic Arts Mentorship to their students. Meanwhile, Silver Circle offers a full range of Integrative Therapeutic Arts Programs at its art center in Putnam.

It can be challenging for girls at such a fundamental and vulnerable age to discuss issues impacting emotional growth and development. By providing materials and therapeutic art projects based around specific topics, they have the support to openly address feelings leading to personal awareness and growth, independently and within their social setting. The Therapeutic Arts Mentorship program is offering three six-week sessions at PCS during the 2016-17 school year. These programs are offered through a partnership between Silver Circle and PCS, with funding from Windham Arts. At the conclusion of each six-week session, students exhibit their work in an art show at Silver Circle's Art Alley.

Using the arts as an outlet has been shown to be very beneficial for mental health. If you feel that your child or school could benefit from a program like this, please don't hesitate to contact Silver Circle Art Center through email at info@silvercirclegallery.com or phone (860) 928-2900.

Integrative Therapeutic Arts Programs are led by Silver Circle artist instructors. The focus is expressive art and exploration with creative materials in a safe, supportive environment. Instructors use the language of color and symbolism as a way to facilitate creative and emotional expression through acrylic painting, watercolors, oil, drawing, and other visual mediums. We believe the arts, creativity, and imagination are agents of wellness. Art creates a life-changing space for expression, release, and healing.

Creativity through art becomes a tool for communication, emotional release, self-empowerment, stress reduction, social connection, and ultimately enhanced quality of life.

PUTNAM — Motivational speaker Chris Sandy, whose program is called Choices Matter, shared his message on drunk driving at an assembly on Jan. 27 at Putnam High School. In April of 2000, at age 22, Sandy was of legal age to drink, attended a party where he drank beer and hard liquor. After the party he drove while intoxicated and crashed into a car driven by Mrs. Nellie King and her husband Mr. William King, both in their early 70s, and killed them both. Sandy spent eight and one-half years in prison. Mr. Sandy has spoken to over a million students in 35 states. His presentation at Putnam High School on making the right choices in life was funded by the Connecticut Highway Safety Office. Woodstock's Dufour returns after research project

WORCESTER, Mass. — Claudia Dufour of Woodstock, a member of the class of 2017 majoring in chemical engineering at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, was a member of a student team that recently completed an intense, hands-on research project in Venice. The project was titled Recreating the Neighborhood Marketplace. In their project outline, the students wrote, "This project explored the feasibility of a locally sourced and distributed marketplace comprised of revitalized local food stores."

At WPI, all undergraduates are required to complete a research-driven, professional-level project that applies science and technology to addresses an important societal need or issue. About two-thirds of students complete a project at one of the university's more than 40 off-campus project centers, which are located around the world. A signature element of the innovative undergraduate experience at WPI, the project-based curriculum offers students the opportunity to apply their scientific and technical knowledge to develop thoughtful solutions to real problems that affect the quality of people's lives and make a difference before they graduate.

The WPI project-based curriculum's focus on global studies brings students out of the classroom and their comfort zones and into the global community to apply their knowledge to solve real problems," said Professor Kent Rissmiller, interim dean of the WPI Interdisciplinary and Global Studies Division. "Students are immersed in all aspects of a different culture, from the way people live and work to the values they hold to the foods they eat—all valuable perspectives for surviving and thriving in today's global marketplace. They also learn the meaning and magic of teamwork; make a real and meaningful difference in their host community; and gain a competitive edge for any resume, or graduate or professional school application."

Dean's List

The College of Saint Rose in Albany, N.Y., congratulated Heather Mowry of Woodstock Valley, for being named to the Dean's List for the fall 2016 semester. Mowry is one of 751 students to achieve this mark of academic excellence. To make the Dean's List, Mowry had to complete a minimum of 12 credit hours and achieve a semester grade-point average of at least 3.5 with no grades of D, F, Incomplete or Pass/Fail.

Voluntary service for the greater good: priceless

Voluntary service is notably one of the most important dimensions of philanthropy and means by which society participates in voluntary action for the public good. It is about giving the gift of one's self, a precious gift of one's time, labor, or expertise for the benefit of others. It is often said that time is more precious than money. As such, so can the gift of service be more generous than a gift of money. This generosity in personal commitment has been at the core of Day Kimball Hospital since its inception and what continues to serve as the foundation for enriching the quality of everyday life of the patients and those who care for them.

If not for the voluntary actions of Mrs. Day Kimball to bring together a like-minded coalition of community volunteers, her vision for a community hospital may never have come to fruition. Formation of a voluntary governing Board of Trustees in 1894 was followed quickly by the formation of a voluntary Woman's Board in the same year who took it upon themselves to raise auxiliary funds for the hospital. It would take hundreds, perhaps thousands, of individuals since then on voluntary boards and committees to assist leadership with governance, fundraising, and social responsibilities to fulfill the mission of the hospital and its healthcare system. That commitment of community volunteers continues to assist in these roles today, as well as playing an integral part in advancing patient engagement and quality care.

Volunteer opportunities abound at DKH. Volunteers can work in 27 different departments across the organization, complimenting paid staff and those who provide core patient services. Led by Volunteer Services Coordinator, Janet Johnson, they assist in many ways, including escorting patients and visitors; running errands, delivering newspapers, cards, flowers, and medications; and providing clerical assistance in offices. Volunteers organize and manage the 'Comfort Cart,' bringing free items to patients in the hospital such as magazines, cards, puzzles, lip balm and other small personal items. Our Hospice volunteers offer respite to the patient's caregiver; provide transportation for patients and family members; run errands or grocery shop; plant gardens; offer massage, reflexology or healing touch; take photos; make decorative pins to commemorate loved ones; and fundraise for special needs of the patients.

The Junior Volunteer program engages local high school students in a seven-week program during the summer. The application process begins in January and students must have completed their freshman year to apply. The first 50 applicants are interviewed for up to 25 slots, depending upon needs. Junior volunteers do the same work as adult escort volunteers, work in departments on special projects, and engage in a fundraising activity to benefit a department of their choosing. They are led by a four-year, home-grown veteran of the program, Elizabeth Jezierski.

There are currently 134 active adult hospital volunteers and 60 junior volunteers. These numbers do not include other organized volunteer groups such as the 4WD volunteers who help to provide transportation during inclement weather; the Friends of Hospice Committee; Eucharistic Ministers; and Spiritual Care Committee members. Groups of students from the Regional Transition Program at EastConn come in weekly and assemble charts for various departments. Our youngest volunteers are 15 years of age, and up until recently, our eldest was 98. The DKH community lost a dear friend and long-time volunteer with the passing of Cliff Buttermark this past fall – role model and mentor to young and old in service above self.

We continually seek volunteers to help in our Development Office with annual appeals, clerical duties, mail-

Opinion and commentary from the Quiet Corner

Brick Mill was a marvel of its time

Have you driven through the lower section of Danielson lately near the junction of Maple Street, Route 12, and Route 6? If so, I'm sure you've noticed a difference in the landscape since the old brick mill, which had badly deteriorated, has been demolished.

Better known in later years as the Powdrell & Alexander mill, the factory was erected by the Danielsonville Company on the site of the company store of the original Danielson mills. This store was run by Ebenezer and Comfort Tiffany (father of the noted New York jeweler Charles L. Tiffany). Articles about plans for the new factory begin appearing in 1866. Marilyn Labbe, Director of the Killingly Historical Center, recently extracted the following information about that mill, which was erected in 1868 and 1869. The following research is hers.

"In the Windham County Transcript of 16 Aug. 1866: The first great improvement already decided upon, is the erection by The Danielsonville Company of a new brick mill, 276 feet long and 74 feet wide, four stories high.

In the 18 April 1867 Transcript: The foundation of the new brick mill is nearly completed. In the 8 Aug. 1867 A story from the correspondent of the Courant:

Despite hard times the Danielsonville Company is building a new mill 216 feet long by 74 inside, and an ell adjoining of two stories, 60 x 40 feet. The main mill is to be of four stories and basement.

"The 12 Mar. 1868: The Danielsonville Company have not yet fully decided to go on with their new mill, the foundation of which is already laid. It is believed, however, that they will decide to proceed with the work the present season.

"16 Apr. 1868: The Danielsonville Company are immediately to re-commence work on their new mill, Mr. Jeremiah Young will have charge of the work. The bricks have been purchased of Mr. Alexander, and before summer closes we shall see a handsome new structure on the foundation prepared last season. (Alexander's brickyard was located north of Alexander's Lake adjacent to the railroad tracks near present-day Trolley Road).

"23 Apr. 1868: Mr. George Clark, a competent mason, is to have charge of the brick-work on the new mill of the Danielsonville Company.

"10 June 1868: The New Mill, being erected by the Danielsonville Company is going up rapidly. The Agent, Mr. Sherman, informs us that he would employ a dozen bricklayers if they are soon on the ground.

"23 July 1868: The new mill of the Danielsonville Company has reached to the third story and is being vigorously pushed by the Agent — Mr. Sherman. Some of the windows are quite ornamental and the structure is to be very imposing.

"13 Aug. 1868: The New Mill has been completed to the third story. A smooth-cut stone with the raised figures 1868, to designate to the present and future ages the year in which the structure is erected, was placed on the south side of the building, on the second story, on Saturday afternoon. The "boss" carpenter and mason—Messrs. Jeremiah Young and George Clark—have the credit for mechanical skill they are displaying in the erection of this handsome mill.

"10 Dec. 1868: The outside of the magnificent mill is completed and the cupola is receiving complements on all sides for its artistic beauty. A new bell, the largest in the village, is to be placed in it, and it is hoped will ring out its peals on the Sabbath, as well as on weekdays. The bell is to be manufactured in Providence.

"7 Jan. 1869: The new bell in the splendid new mill of the Danielsonville Company,

AT 300

now daily sends its peals throughout the valley. 21 Jan. 1869: The machinery is now being put in, and early in the Spring we expect to hear its music." (Thank you Marilyn for this research).

The earliest Danielson cotton mill had been erected on the opposite side of the road in 1810 with a second mill being added prior to 1819.

By 1868 they were sadly outdated although the Danielsonville panel in Grey's Atlas of Tolland and Windham Counties shows that they were still standing at the time the new brick factory was constructed.

Now I'd like to jump ahead to more recent times and jog your memories. The December 26, 1974 issue of the Windham County Transcript printed a summary of a few of the leading stories of the year. I thought I'd share some of them. "The Place held its grand opening August 16 on South Main Street (Brooklyn)."

"The Dayville Girls Little League champions included Kelly Hanrahan, Lynn Bernier, Leslie Branski, Denise Landry, Kathy Ethier, Lisa Jacobi, Karen Hanrahan, Kathy Crowley, Kelly Smith, Cheryl Willard, Donna Vandemark, Andrea Jacobi, Sandra Radio, Patti Baiocchetti and Manager Pat Landry."

"A new women's club was formed in the area with the creation of a new chapter of the Business and Professional Women's Club. This was the 26th unit former in Connecticut."

"The Killingly High School Marching Band performed during half-time ceremonies at the New England Patriots-Philadelphia Eagles game on September 8." Were you there? "The Killingly-Brooklyn Midget Football Association launched its first season which proved to be very successful. The Jets won the championship."

"Homecoming Day at Killingly High School featured the 1949 Football Team, the school's first team to record an undefeated season. Homecoming Day queen was Lynne Chabot, with her attendants, Mona Derosier and Cindy Vachon.

Greg LaBelle put forth a tremendous effort and made it to the regional contest in the Punt, Pass and Kick competition."

"The Killingly Redmen put on one of the most thrilling gridiron displays Thanksgiving Day besting the Putnam Clippers 21-17. Dennis Petricola scored all three touchdowns for Killingly."

"The elderly housing complex, Maple Court, opened at the corner of Maple and North Streets."

"Quinebaug Valley Community College announced the site for its new campus on the Alden Danielson property, Maple Street and Rock Avenue."

"State Senator Louise Berry of Killingly was honored for her leadership in special education."

"Eight Killingly athletes were named to Eastern Connecticut Conference All Star teams.

Anne Seney, girls field hockey; Robin Godley, girls cross country; David Cassettari, football; Charles Adams and Eddie Berthiaume, soccer; Charles Lee, cross country; Kari Rajaniemi and Rene Barbeau, golf."

Feel free to share memories on any of the above stories by emailing me or calling the Killingly Historical Center.

Note: In case of inclement weather, the Center may be closed. Margaret M. Weaver is a Killingly Municipal Historian. Special thanks to Marilyn Labbe for her research on the old P & A factory. For additional information visit the Killingly Historical Center Wed. or Sat. 10-4 (or by appointment) or www.killinglyhistorical.org, or call (860) 779-7250. Breweriana (Beer Collectibles)

Statistics by the Brewers Association (www.brewersassociation.org) show that beer sales in 2015 were nearly even with 2014 sales. Craft beer sales increased greatly though. 2015 statistics show craft beer sales grew by 12.8%. Some craft breweries' beer is highly sought after. Buyers may line up hours before it goes on sale to buy the limited quantities that are available when a new batch is brewed. With the renewed interest in craft beers it's not surprising that beer related collectibles are also desirable.

As with most collectibles, the larger display pieces are typically the most valuable. Past auction results show rare, reverse painted, glass advertising signs have sold for over $30,000. Other older (typically 19th century) wood, enamel and tin signs can also bring prices in the tens of thousands. Neon signs are still popular in taverns. Even newer ones have value to people who use them to decorate their home bars. Old ones in good condition are difficult to find because the neon can be so easily broken over time. They can bring five figure sums.

Thompson leader urges public input in school budget

GUEST COLUMN

BILL WITKOWSKI

Dear fellow taxpayers of Thompson, in recent years the Board of Education has stepped up its efforts to get more input from the community on the annual building of our town's school budget.

We've tried several approaches. We have set up booths, manned by board members, at community events. We have conducted market research studies of voters to understand ways we can improve the budget process. We have sent home both letters to parents and direct mail post cards to residents as we work to include all in this process.

Last year, many residents told us that holding our annual public budget forum on a weeknight made it difficult for them to attend or participate in the process.

This year, we are changing the day and time of our annual public budget forum to a Saturday morning in the hopes that more people can attend and participate. We want residents to provide their perspective and suggestions in creating a school budget that we can all support the first time through.

Last year, it took multiple town meetings to get our budget approved. The added costs and efforts in holding multiple town meetings is something our entire Board is hoping to avoid.

We are hopeful that with your involvement in the budget process early on, we can avoid a repeat of last year's events. We want our supporters and our critics to attend this Saturday's forum so we can understand how best we as a town can provide an education to the children of our town in manner we all can support.

The forum will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 25, in the Tourtellotte Memorial High School auditorium. We hope to see you there.

William "Bill" Witkowski is the Chairman of the Board of Education for Thompson Public Schools

Why a life insurance claim may be denied

Plan Well: Life insurance can be an important financial tool for you and your family. For example, life insurance can help replace earnings that would cease upon your death. It can provide a legacy for your children or grandchildren, and can even be used to make a charitable gift after your death.

However, the fact that you've purchased life insurance doesn't guarantee that the death benefit will be paid when it's needed most — after you've died. There are several reasons insurance companies may attempt to deny, or at least delay, paying a claim for the death benefit. Here are some possible circumstances when a death-benefit claim may be contested.

Misstatements on the application A clause that's commonly found in life insurance contracts is the contestability clause. A life insurance claim may be denied if the insurer finds that the applicant made misstatements on the policy application and death occurs within two years of the policy's start date. If the applicant makes statements intended to defraud the insurer, there is essentially no time limit, and the claim can be denied no matter how long the policy has been in force. That's why it is very important to provide accurate information on the policy application and not withhold information or facts that are requested by the insurer.

Suicide clause Most life insurance policies contain a suicide clause, which generally states that no death benefit will be paid if the insured's death results from suicide within two years from the inception of the policy. Often, policy owners inadvertently restart the two-year suicide clause when they replace existing life insurance with a new policy. Even in the unfortunate circumstance that death by suicide occurs within two years from the policy's inception, the beneficiaries may still be able to receive at least a portion of the death benefit, depending on the circumstances.

Policy lapse A life insurance policy may not be in force because the coverage has lapsed. Policies may lapse for several reasons, including nonpayment of the premium and expiration of a stated term. Insurers generally send written notifications when a premium payment is past due, when the policy is about to lapse, and when a policy has actually expired. Sometimes the policy owner may inadvertently or intentionally neglect to make premium payments. In any case, the insurance beneficiary may not realize that the policy has lapsed until after the death of the insured.

An insurer may deny payment of the death benefit when death occurs outside the policy coverage term. Term life insurance provides death benefit coverage for a stated number of years, usually from one to 25 years, depending on the policy purchased.

What can you do? Nothing can be more emotionally trying than having a life insurance claim denied while dealing with the loss of a loved one. Here are some tips that may help get the death benefit paid.

Whether you fill out the life insurance application or it is completed by a life insurance agent, be sure you review each section of the application and answer each question honestly. Do not withhold or falsify information.

Pay the premiums on time. Indicate an alternative address for mailing the premium notices and name another individual to receive notices of premium lapses. If you move or change financial institutions and don't notify the insurer, you may forget about the premium payments and the policy could lapse without your knowledge. If you have group life insurance, verify that it is still in force at least once each year. Also, review your policy with an insurance professional. You may not realize that your life insurance will end on a certain date.

*Skin So Soft polishes up vinyl dashboards. It cleans up dust and dirt, while leaving behind a protective finish that prevents cracking.

*It works in the bathroom to clean away soap scum from shower doors. Skin So Soft also removes lime and hard water deposits from fixtures, tile, shower doors and windows.

*Struggling with stuck labels? Skin So Soft removes glue and gum left from price tags and labels from glass, metal and most plastics.

*Rub a little Skin So Soft on a shirt collar before washing to remove "ring around the collar."

*Skin so Soft works as a great hot oil treatment to soften fingernails.

*Skin So Soft cleans paint brushes easily, and as a bonus, leaves the brushes soft and silky.

*Some Skin So Soft fans report using it on the air conditioner filter screen with success. They say the bath oil not only freshens incoming air, but makes the filter easier to clean.

Essential Uses for Essential Oils

Essential oils are popular and readily available. Here are some interesting unconventional uses for the array of liquid oils on the market.

Note: Use essential oils with caution and read directions carefully before use. Keep out of reach of children.

*Dust mites are the source of many allergies. Recent research has shown that eucalyptus oil kills dust mites that live in bedding. For best results, use about 25 drops of eucalyptus essential oil to each load of laundry or add one half ounce to a jug of liquid laundry detergent.

*To disinfect and scent home saunas, add several drops rosemary, thyme, pine, or lavender to a spray bottle with water and spray surfaces. This water can also be used to splash onto hot sauna stones.

*Adding essential oil to paint will counteract the unpleasant smell. And because essential oils are not fatty oils, they will leave no oil spots on the walls. Add several drops to one gallon of paint and mix well.

*A drop or two of rosemary essential oil on your hairbrush is said to promote growth and thickness.

*To release a stubborn splinter without pain or hassle, put a drop or two of lemon essential oil on the skin, apply a bandaid and leave it alone for several hours. The oil not only disinfects the area, but should make the splinter much easier to remove.

Super Softener Sheets

Fabric softener sheets have a variety of uses all around the house. Here are some ideas to add instant freshness wherever you need it.

*Tuck a fabric softener sheet inside a vase of silk or dried flowers for an extra bloom of freshness.

*Toss a sheet in your gym locker to deter odors.

*Give odors the boot by placing a dryer sheet in resting shoes.

*Tuck a dryer sheet in suitcases and vacation sleeping bags between uses.

*Keep a sheet in the bottom of the hamper to chase away odors.

*Place a sheet under the mattress pad to keep the bedding fresh smelling.

*Keep a sheet in the car glove compartment. Not only will it freshen the car, it's handy if you ever need to run it over a skirt to alleviate static cling

Fabulous Filters

Working well beyond the coffee maker, absorbent coffee filters are handy for a variety of household uses.

*Put a coffee filter in the bottom of a plant pot to help reduce water draining out too quickly.

*Coffee filters can be substituted for cheese-cloth when preparing foods.

*Open up a coffee filter to put at the bottom of round cake pans to keep bottoms from sticking.

*Instead of paper towels, use a couple of coffee filters to drain homemade French fries.

*Stacking glasses? A coffee filter tucked inside each glass prevents them from sticking together.

*Use coffee filters to wrap tiny holiday ornaments for safe packing.

*Coffee filters are the perfect size to use when cleaning the glass on small picture frames or prints.

In today's highly commercial marketplace, we are surrounded by an array of household products geared to make our lives a little bit easier. But very often the cans, bottles, boxes and bags of assorted "stuff" only makes an already overburdened household even more complicated. The key to reducing the mountain of home helpers is to choose handy products that have the versatility to perform multiple tasks around the house.

If "necessity is the mother of invention," then creative use is surely the offspring of a good imagination! Looking beyond the virtues of common items such as vinegar, salt and baking soda, all of which have been covered in past columns, we take a look at expanding the life of popular commercial items via creative alternative uses.

Volunteers are invaluable: as members of the community, our volunteers are often best attuned to what is needed to make our organization most effective in meeting community needs. In addition to assisting with service delivery, fundraising, and administrative tasks, volunteers serve as evidence of community involvement in the organization, helping us to build a foundation for social exchange and mutual trust.

Perhaps most important, is the value of a rewarding relationship and experience. There is proven research that shows that helping others brings feelings of happiness. A special report by Harvard Health Publications on healthy, happy living points out that while volunteering offers vital help to people in need, worthwhile causes, and the community, the benefits can be even greater to the volunteer (www.helpguide.org). The report points out four ways in which you'll feel healthier and happier as a volunteer: 1) Volunteering connects you to others and to your community to make it a better place; 2) Volunteering is good for your mind and body. This and other studies have shown that volunteering can reduce stress, combat depression, provides a sense of purpose, and helps you stay physically healthy; 3) Volunteering may also provide an opportunity to experience a field of interest without having to make a career change or long-term commitment. It can help you get experience in an area that interests you, provide the opportunity to meet professionals in the field, and practice important skills used in the workplace; and 4) Volunteering brings fun and fulfillment to your life, providing opportunities for renewed creativity, motivation, and vision that can carry over into your personal and professional life (www.helpguide.org).

While the value of volunteerism goes far beyond what can be measured in dollars and cents, the extraordinary economic impact of volunteerism is hard to ignore – nationally and close to home. According to the annual report of the Corporation for National and Community Service (CNCS), approximately 25 percent of all American adults volunteered through an organization in 2015 while nearly two thirds helped their neighbor in some manner. In the report, 62.6 million adults or 24.9 percent of the adult population volunteered in 2015, providing nearly 7.8 billion hours of service valued at nearly $184 billion. In Connecticut, 28.2 percent of its residents performed 81.84 million hours of service at an estimated value of $2.2 billion. The estimated average value of a volunteer in the US reached $23.56 in 2015, with Connecticut having the fourth highest value at $27.77 (The estimate is based on average hourly earnings plus 12 percent to allow for fringe benefits.) In 2016, DKH volunteers contributed 21,468 hours and the equivalent of over ten full time employees. If we were to apply the Connecticut average hourly value of a volunteer for 2015, that equates to approximately $566,166 for our small community hospital.

While the value that volunteerism has had on DKH over the past 123 years may be difficult to measure, its impact is clearly visible in DKH's physical presence and role in the community. Whether a few hours or days at a time, in the short-term or the long-term, your contributions in volunteer service and commitment of time – your most valuable asset and ours, will continue to make a difference at DKH today and in the future. Please let us know how you might want to become involved by contacting Janet Johnson in Volunteer Services (860) 928-6541, ext. 2279, or Kristen Willis in the Development Office at (860) 928-7141.

Twenty-five Killingly Youth Wrestlers competed in the qualifying tournament on Feb. 19 and 18 KYW grapplers qualified to move on and compete at States in New Haven.

Woodstock's Garceau nominated for coaching honor

WOODSTOCK — Richard Garceau, Woodstock Academy golf coach and social studies teacher, has been nominated as a finalist for the National High School Athletic Coaches Association National Coach of the Year in golf. Eight finalists from across the nation will be honored during The National Coach of the Year Awards Banquet which will take place at the National High School Athletic Coaches Association's national convention at the Embassy Suites in East Peoria, Ill., on June 21.

The highlight of the banquet will be the naming of the NHSACA national coach of the year in 19 sports categories. Garceau will also have the opportunity to present a mini-session on his area of expertise at the convention.

Coach Garceau was selected for this national honor by the Connecticut high school coaches' association. This selection was based on longevity, service to high school athletics, honors, championship years, and winning percentage. The nominees and finalists are evaluated by experts in the field of coaching using sport-specific rubrics to assign points in each category. The National High School Athletic Coaches Association is the oldest coaches association in the nation formed by coaches, for coaches, and has been recognizing national coaches of the year since 1978.

"Really very surprised at being the Connecticut Nominee for National High School Coach of the Year, let alone one of eight national finalists," Garceau said.

Garceau began coaching golf at Woodstock Academy in 2004, the same year he began teaching Social Studies at the school. Since 2004 he has proven himself to be a dedicated member of the school community.

"(Garceau is) very deserving of the NHSACA's recognition given his commitment to both students and the sport," said Woodstock Associate Headmaster Holly Singleton.

"Thrilled that one of our own, Rich Garceau, is in this elite group of nationally recognized golf coaches," said Aaron Patterson, Woodstock athletic director. "(Garceau) takes this responsibility very seriously, often attending week long seminars to better himself as a coach. His years of training has not only benefitted him, but also the student-athletes he has coached over the years. His coaching goes far beyond the wins and losses. He has truly made a positive impact in the young people he has had the privilege of coaching."

Garceau credited his players.

"Of course the young men who have played golf at Woodstock Academy during my time coaching are really the reason for any recognition," Garceau said. "Their hard work, commitment and dedication to Woodstock Academy golf has propelled this program to the respected stature it has achieved. I am just fortunate to be along with all of those people."

There are many collectors who specialize in collecting cans. Beer cans are post-prohibition collectibles. According to the Brewery Collectibles Club of America the first beer can was produced by The Gottfried Krueger Brewing Company of Newark, NJ in 1935. The original flat top cans used a "churchkey" to open them. Cone-top cans came on the market in September of 1935. G. Heilemann Brewing Company of La Crosse, WI first introduced them and Schlitz was the first major brewer to use them. The Pittsburgh Brewing Company introduced the pull tab in 1963. The pull tabs had the unwanted side effect of harming animals that ingested them. Stay tabs were introduced in 1975 and are used today. Older, rare beer cans in nice condition may also fetch prices in the thousands of dollars.

There are other collectors searching for clocks, steins and even temperature movement related materials for their collection. It may be worth a look through those older pieces in your bar or attic to see if you have something valuable. Bottoms up!

Dissipated Eight perform at Westview

The Dissipated Eight

DAYVILLE — Westview Health Care Center was visited by 10 members of the all-male, a cappella group, The Dissipated Eight, from Middlebury College in Middlebury, Vt., on Feb. 10 for a lively performance.

The Dissipated Eight, also known as the D8, is considered a contemporary a cappella group with the inclusion of vocal percussion and beatboxing in their performance. The group, formed in 1952, have been performing nationally and internationally for over five decades; assimilating new undergraduate members upon the graduation of their current seniors. Using only their voices as instruments, the group performed a wide range of musical selections for the residents of Westview including: "Sh-Boom", "The Thing About Love", "Running to Stand Still" and "All Along the Watchtower".

"We're really excited to have been invited back to Westview," said Harrison Shroder, Music Director. "We're glad to spread our passion for music with all of Westview's residents and staff today."

"Westview is fortunate to be able to provide our patients and residents with first rate entertainment offerings such as The Dissipated Eight," said David T. Pantaleakos. "Their harmonic and unique performance is always a joy for all of us to witness and experience."

Courtney introduces bill tailored for young farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Connecticut Congressional Representative Joe Courtney, Democrat, along with Rep. Glenn Thompson, Republican of Pennsylvania, and Rep. John Faso, Republican of New York, introduced the Young Farmer Success Act in the U.S. Congress on Feb. 16 in a bipartisan effort to preserve America's agricultural economy and the security of its national food supply.

"America needs a new generation of farmers, now more than ever," said Courtney. "The number of new farmers entering the field of agriculture has dropped by 20 percent, while the average farmer age has now risen above 58 years-old. The skyrocketing cost of higher education and the growing burden of student loan debt are presenting major obstacles for young farmers. The burden of student loan debt can thwart their ability to purchase the farming operations they need to get started or drive them away from a career in agriculture altogether. This legislation would assist new farmers during the costly, initial phases of opening a farming business, and allow them a fighting chance to build a life on the farm for themselves and their families."

Thompson agreed with Courtney's assessment.

"Farmers are stewards of the land and cornerstones of our rural communities," said Thompson. "They provide the country with a safe and affordable food supply, but we need to do more to cultivate the future generation of farmers. They face tough odds by the very nature of the business, and this legislation will provide incentives for those who would like to pursue a future in the agriculture industry, which aids our national security and the long-term sustainability of our country."

Lindsey Lusher Shute, Executive Director of the National Young Farmers Coalition (NYFC), said: "It's time to recruit a new generation of farmers who will support our rural economies and feed the nation for generations to come. We are grateful for the bipartisan support for this bill, especially for its champions, Representative Joe Courtney, Representative Glenn Thompson, and Representative John Faso. As this bill demonstrates, this is not a partisan issue. It's not even a political issue. This is about protecting our nation's ability to feed itself, and preserving our rural traditions."

To address the critical shortfall of skilled young and beginning farmers and ranchers, the Young Farmer Success Act would incentivize careers in agriculture by adding farmers to the Public Service Loan Forgiveness Program, an existing program that currently includes professions such as government service, teaching, and nursing. Under the program, eligible public service professionals who make 10 years of income-driven student loan payments can have the balance of their loans forgiven.

Farming is an expensive business to enter, in part because of skyrocketing land prices, and beginning farmers often see small profits or even losses in their first years of business. In 2011, the National Young Farmers Coalition (NYFC) conducted a survey of 1,000 young farmers and found that 78 percent of respondents struggled with a lack of capital. A 2014 follow-up survey of 700 young farmers with student loan debt found that the average burden of student loans was $35,000 and that 53 percent of respondents are currently farming but have a hard time making their student loan payments, while another 30 percent are interested in farming but haven't pursued it as a career because their salary as a farmer wouldn't be enough to cover their student loan payments.

ECSU presents Two Gentlemen of Verona

WILLIMANTIC — "Two Gentlemen of Verona," the second Main Stage production of the 2016-17 academic year, will be performed at Eastern Connecticut State University from Feb. 23 to March 5. Presented by Eastern's Theatre Program and Drama Society, the play is a musical adaptation of Shakespeare's early comedy about young people exploring love, friendship and the temptations of city life.

The musical will take place in the Proscenium Theatre of the new Fine Arts Instructional Center (FAIC) on Thursday, Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m.; Friday, Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, Feb. 26 at 4 p.m.; Thursday, March 2 at 5:30 p.m.; Friday, March 3 at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, March 4 at 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday, March 5 at 4 p.m. The venue's pit will be used for the first time to feature a live band of musicians.

Eastern's rendition of "Two Gentlemen of Verona" features a cast of 32 students, directed by Theatre Professor David Pellegrini, with musical direction by guest conductor Anthony Pandolfe and choreography by Professor Alycia Bright-Holland. The multi-level set was designed by theatre student Nicole Rivera, with lighting design by theatre student Megan O'Brien and costume design by Professor Anya Sokolovskaya.

Originally produced by the New York Shakespeare Festival (incubator of such landmark musicals as "A Chorus Line" and "Hamilton"), the play was adapted by award-winning playwright John Guare ("House of Blue Leaves" and "Six Degrees of Separation"). "Two Gentlemen of Verona" received rave reviews after its December 1971 opening and won the Tony Award for Best Musical of 1972.

As Clive Barnes of the New York Times stated, "... it has a surge of youth to it, at times an almost carnal intimation of sexuality, and a boisterous sense of love.... The story of love and love's suddenness is certainly substantial enough for a musical, and archeological chips of the Shakespearean text that crop up from time to time fit in most snugly with the music and the additions. At times the poetry sounds ironic (which is fun enough), but most of the time it seems perfectly natural, which perhaps shows that there is rarely anything wrong with a musical book that a little blank verse might not put right."

Tickets are free for Eastern students; $5 for other students and groups of 10 or more; $10 for Eastern faculty, staff, alumni and senior citizens; and $15 for the general public. For ticket information and reservations, please call the FAIC box office at 860-465-5123 or email theatreboxoffice@easternct.edu. Groundwater awareness checkup on tap

The Eastern Connecticut Conservation District is reminding homeowners who get their drinking water from private on-site wells that it is a good idea to schedule a "well checkup" once a year. This checkup includes testing your water for harmful pollutants. The National Groundwater Association suggests that at least the following activities are included as part of this well checkup. A flow test to determine system output, along with a check of the water level before and during pumping (if possible), pump motor performance (check amp load, grounding, and line voltage), and pressure tank and pressure switch contact.

An inspection of well equipment to assure that it is sanitary and meets local code requirements. A test of your water for coliform bacteria, nitrates and anything else of local concern. Other typical additional tests are those for iron, manganese, water hardness, sulfides and other water constituents that cause problems with plumbing, staining, water appearance and odor. Connecticut has a high prevalence for groundwater that can corrode your pipes and leach out copper and lead into your drinking water, so it is a good idea to have your water tested for corrosiveness. You should check with your well contractor, Connecticut Department of Public Health, or your local health department for information on other local groundwater quality issues.

A concise, clear, written report should be delivered to you following the checkup that explains results and recommendations, and includes all laboratory and other test results. As a homeowner, it is your responsibility to maintain and know the condition of your private water supply. The majority of homeowners only test their water when they buy their home and assume nothing will ever change. A failing septic system can pollute your groundwater and increase the amounts of nitrates and bacteria in your drinking water supply. Road runoff can increase the amount of salts in groundwater. Many water treatment options are available, but knowing whether or not you need one is the first step.

For more information, please visit the National Groundwater Association website <http://www.wellowner.org/annual-checkup>.

Quiet Corner Reads announces book selection

Quiet Corner Reads is thrilled to announce that "A Piece of the World" by Christina Baker Kline will be their One Book choice for 2017. Kline is the author of the very well known book, "The Orphan Train", and "A Piece of the World" promises to be another bestseller.

In her new novel Kline turns her attention to another little-known part of America's history: the story of Christina Olson, the complex woman and real-life muse Andrew Wyeth portrayed in his 1948 masterpiece Christina's World. Told in evocative and lucid prose, A Piece of the World is a story about the burdens and blessings of family history, and how artist and muse can come together to forge a new and timeless legacy. Readers have been eagerly awaiting the book, which was published on Feb. 21.

In the spirit of the topic the public is invited to a 6:30 p.m. gallery reception with a Wyeth lecture following at Quinebaug Valley Community College on Tuesday, March 28. Light refreshments will be served at the reception, and copies of "A Piece of the World" will be available for sale. Book discussions and related programs will be offered at member libraries April through June.

"One Book" community reading projects, which connect people to literature through reading and discussion, have exploded in popularity in recent years. Quiet Corner Reads began their yearly One Book project in 2010, and the collaboration of libraries throughout northeastern Connecticut is still working together to encourage literacy, library support, and community development. Members include libraries in the towns of Ashford, Brooklyn, Canterbury, Eastford, Hampton, Killingly, Mansfield, Plainfield, Pomfret, Putnam, Scotland, Thompson, Union and Woodstock. This year the addition of Quinebaug Valley Community College and the Pomfret School brings the number of individual libraries in the group to 20.

The One Book project each year encourages residents of northeast Connecticut to read the same book or author at the same time, bringing people together to discuss ideas and to broaden their appreciation of reading. Past books include "In Defense of Food" by Michael Pollan, "Bill Warrington's Last Chance" by James King, "The Language of Flowers" by Vanessa Diffenbaugh, "Tag Man" by Archer Mayor, "The Obituary Writer" by Ann Hood, "What Strange Creatures" by Emily Arsenault, and "The Boston Girl" by Anita Diamant.

Quiet Corner Reads will host Ms. Kline at their finale event at the Pomfret School on June 13 at 7 p.m. Books will be available for sale, and the author will be autographing copies for attendees. Limited tickets will be sold at member libraries for $15, which includes light refreshments. The author visit is sponsored by The Beagley Trust, The Leo J. and Rose Pageau Trust, Pomfret School and area Friends of the Libraries. For more information, visit QCReads on Facebook and at the quietcornerreads.org website.

PUTNAM — Northeast Opportunities for Wellness (NOW) was among the recipients of donations from Jewett City Savings Bank. Northeast Opportunities for Wellness will use its $1,000 grant to purchase yoga mats, blocks, and other items for a children's yoga program. The Foundation also awarded $500 to the Brooklyn Park and Recreation Department for the installation of surveillance cameras.

President and CEO Kevin Merchant announced recently that the Jewett City Savings Bank Foundation has awarded a total of $5,000 in support of a variety of local youth education programs and services.

Plainfield Central Middle School received $1,000 from the Foundation to support student participation in the Exchange City financial education program, and a $1,500 grant to Griswold PRIDE will help Griswold Middle School students create a social norms media campaign. A $1,000 Foundation award to Safe Futures, Inc. will provide a healthy relationships program at Griswold High School.

"We're always aware of the importance of programs and activities that focus on today's youth and are pleased to provide financial support where we can help make a difference," said Merchant.

EASTFORD — The first community-wide Cupcake Wars! was held on Feb. 11 at the Congregational Church of Eastford. Eighteen contestants from Eastford and surrounding towns vied for the best recipe and for the best display of their cupcakes. Contestants ranged in age from young children to older adults. The event was coordinated by Robin Sabad, Frietha Lawrence, and Allison Gormley.

Three leaders of the Eastford Community, Heather Tamsin (Eastford Elementary School Principal), Lennox Brodeur (wife of Eastford's First Selectman, Art Brodeur, who was unable to attend at the last minute), and Brett Laffert (Proprietor of Coriander Café in Eastford), took on the challenging task of judging the competition. Awards were given to first, second, and third place in each category.

First Fridays returns with celebration of cinema

PUTNAM — Since its advent in the 1890s, film has found a way to capture our collective imagination, visually transporting viewers into a different world. Though technology has changed how films are made — moving from short, silent pictures to today's digital epics — the impact remains. Films stimulate the senses, challenge thought and perception, and bring the art of performance and story to a global audience. Titled, First Fridays Feature Films, the Putnam Business Association and First Fridays committee invites the public to celebrate six distinct genres of film with this fun, interactive outdoor art festival.

May 5 kicks off the seventh season of Putnam's downtown outdoor festivals on Main Street — happening on the first Friday of each month — with the fan favorite genre of film: Science Fiction and Fantasy. May's event is subtitled "Revenge of the Fifth," with a playful nod to the celebrated Star Wars films. As with previous seasons, the First Fridays committee encourages visitors of all ages to dress up and engage with the theme. The evening promises art projects and performances that reference the many celebrated science fiction and fantasy films of the past and present.

On June 2 First Fridays will leap into Action & Adventure films, celebrating "Iconic Heroes." From the unlikely hero of a teenaged Marty McFly saving the future, to a resourceful Katniss Everdeen saving humanity, to the wise-cracking Iron Man and his band of Avengers saving the world, heroes come in all shapes and sizes. The evening will give attendees a chance to channel their favorite heroes.

July 7 celebrates the golden age of film of the 1930s and 40s with "Silver Screen Classics." These films have a staying power that continues to ensure generations of future viewers will fall in love with the stories and stars of yesteryear. First Fridays will revisit the understated glamour of the many films that achieved cinematic greatness.

Aug. 4 will take a whimsical turn with a fun exploration of Musicals and Animated films, subtitled "Sound & Color." The evening is sure to be filled with the vibrant images and infectious songs that famously have become associated with family favorite films. From the Broadway musicals that have made the leap from stage to film, to the animated classics of Disney, the August event promises to be a fan favorite.

As fall approaches, First Fridays will head west into the territories of John Wayne and Clint Eastwood. The Sept. 1 event is subtitled "The Old West Comes East," and the evening will embody the iconic scenes, lawlessness, and adventure that are celebrated with the Western film genre.

As has become tradition over the last several seasons of First Fridays, the final evening of the season will take a symbolically sinister turn. On Oct. 3 First Fridays will celebrate the Horror genre with "A Nightmare on Main Street." Downtown Putnam will play host to the annual Zombie Fashion Show. Come dressed in costumes inspired by favorite horror films and join in the frightful fun of the evening!

With the 2017 season quickly approaching, the First Fridays committee is also launching the fourth annual First Fridays poster contest in search of a poster to represent the theme. Artists of all ages are encouraged to create an iconic movie poster with inspiration from all six film genres to be explored this season: Science Fiction & Fantasy; Action/Adventure; Silver Screen Classics; Musicals & Animation; Westerns; and Horror. The winning entry will encompass the season's theme with originality. The poster will be reproduced as the cover of the First Fridays Program, which will have 5,000 copies printed and distributed throughout the region. The winning artist will be awarded a $250 cash prize and will be featured in the program.

Over the past seven seasons, First Fridays has grown in size and recognition, drawing crowds in the thousands and has transformed into an award-winning seasonal event. For more information on First Fridays, the upcoming season, and poster contest, visit <http://www.discoverputnam.com/firstfriday>.

Observation platform constructed in Pomfret

Rector School students construct the observation platform.

POMFRET — A well-constructed brand-new observation platform overlooking the Duck Marsh on Windham Land Trust property off Holmes Road was built on Martin Luther King Jr. Day in Pomfret for use by the Windham Land Trust. Rector School students, under the direction of Mavic Hurtado, Rector's Director of Facilities, were the construction crew assisted by Rector parent, Jon Fahey, owner of East Coast Home and Gardens based in Johnstown, R.I.

All the materials needed to complete the platform were donated by Gordy Bradon from Scituate Lumber in Scituate, R.I. The original platform was heavily vandalized several years ago and the Windham Land Trust said the reconstruction of the platform would not have been possible without the Rector School and all others who participated in the effort.

Every year Martin Luther King Jr. Day is a day of service at the Rector School. Groups of students accompanied by faculty and staff fan out in the Quiet Corner area to provide a wide range of services at hospitals, nursing homes, and other non-profit agencies throughout the day. Happily the Land Trust was a beneficiary of the school's service in 2017.

When the opportunity permits the public is invited to take a trip up Holmes Road to use the platform. The view overlooking the marsh and the Amaral Farm to the northeast is spectacular. The Trust's first official gathering at the site will take place in a celebration of the summer solstice on Wednesday, June 21.

Kennedy Drive, concerns of public safety are nothing new. Putnam's Mayor and Selectmen believe they have waited long enough. Selectman Roy Simmons brought up the issue on Feb. 6 before the rest of the board noting that in recent month Police Chief Rick Hayes has expressed concerns. Simmons said he feels there are legitimate concerns.

"The Chief of Police has written a letter to start the ball rolling on a light at the intersection by the YMCA. After he sent the letter I started thinking it should be followed up with a letter by the Mayor and the Board of Selectmen with a request," Simmons said. "Evidently, from what I'm told, the reason it's so bad there is because it's twice the amount of patrons that they expected at the YMCA."

Putnam Mayor Tony Falzarano said he shares Simmons' concerns and he has taken the liberty of reaching out to officials on the state level.

"I've already contacted Senator Mae Flexer and State Representative Danny Rovero to put a light there," said the Mayor. "I'm just waiting for them to respond and I, as well, will write a letter of support on behalf of the board."

Leading up to the opening of the YMCA a study was conducted to examine traffic near Technology Park Drive with the findings failing to justify the need for the traffic signal. The YMCA is successful and more businesses expected to fill the technology park. Simmons said he feels the numbers speak for themselves.

"If you use a number and you know that one number, in and of itself, is doubled maybe they don't have to do the whole (study) process all over again. We don't have to wait several years before someone gets killed. Maybe they just have to plug in that number," Simmons said.

Mayor Falzarano said any new study would have to start from scratch to get precise numbers to reassess and justify the need for the traffic signal.

"There are 10 warrants that they have to follow. It depends on the traffic flow," Falzarano said. "If you've seen those things in the middle of the road to count cars at certain times they use that and they have their own process. I'm not saying it's good, but they have their own process to follow."

Selectman Simmons suggested that the town and Chief Hayes also look into the number of traffic incidents recorded in that area with the help of the State Police at Troop D. Simmons said a prolonged wait could result in even more traffic issues.

Woodstock Academy dynasty flying high

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
 VILLAGER EDITOR

DANIELSON — Grace Logan met Paige Stuyniski 13 years ago when they attended Village Green Preschool in Brooklyn. The duo never imagined the bond would endure to their senior year of high school.

"We actually went to preschool together. We've been together since age 5," Logan said. "I've never really stepped a day in the gym without her. So it's been crazy."

Stuyniski and Logan are the latest links in Woodstock Academy's chain of gymnastics excellence. The Centaurs dynasty is nearing a decade of dominance. Woodstock won its eighth straight Eastern Connecticut Conference Gymnastics Championship on Feb. 15 at Deary's Gymnastics. Centaurs coach Kasey Fillmore does not take her senior captains for granted.

"They're such great role models for this gym and especially the whole team," Fillmore said.

Fillmore sensed their will to excel as youngsters — she should know, Fillmore was a state champion gymnast for Killingly High and went on to compete for Bowling Green University. The coach recalled a smaller, younger version of the pair — but both had a big work ethic.

"You can tell," Fillmore said. "You can see that in them, the drive in them, the want to be here, live here, breathe gymnastics. Those kids got it and they've had that bug ever since they were little."

The ECC title on Feb. 15 marked the first of four crowns the Centaurs seek to capture this season — the CIAC Class S State Championships are scheduled for Feb. 25 at Pomperaug High School, followed by the State Open Championships March 4 at New Milford High, and capped with the New England Championships, which Woodstock Academy will host on March 11 at Alumni Fieldhouse. The bar is set high and much work remains.

"We're trying to take it one meet at a time," Logan said. "So now we're going to focus on states. We're really trying to buffer out the little things — we're going to work on all the imperfections and fixing those."

Woodstock has won six straight Class S or Class M state titles. The Centaurs have captured five consecutive State Open Championships. And Woodstock has won two out of the last five New England Championships — finishing second at New England's the last two seasons. Logan and Stuyniski were freshmen when Woodstock last won New England's and they aim to reclaim that prestigious title.

Woodstock's team total of 150.15 points at the ECC Championships was a good omen.

"We're extremely focused. The last time we won (New England's) was our freshmen year and it was with a 150. Hitting a 150 tonight really set us up for that," Logan said. "We're peaking at such an awesome time and I'm so proud of this team."

New England's will be extra special for Stuyniski.

"We're really focused especially because we're hosting New England's so that will be awesome," Stuyniski said. "And I think tonight we showed what we're capable of doing and we're just going to keep improving from there."

At the ECC Meet, Stuyniski won gold medals in vault (9.7), uneven parallel bars (9.8), beam (9.8), and all-around (38.9). Stuyniski won silver in floor exercise (9.6). Logan captured gold in the floor exercise (9.75), and took silver medals in vault (9.65), bars (9.65), beam (9.3), and all-around (36.35). Woodstock won the ECC team title with 150.15 points, followed by Killingly High (128.75), Norwich Free Academy (128.6), Stonington (126.6), Co-Op (124.15), and Windham (83.6).

WOODSTOCK 60, UNIVERSITY 40

WOODSTOCK — Senior guard Nick Short scored 14 points to help Woodstock Academy get past University 60-46 last Friday at Alumni Fieldhouse. The win on Feb. 17 was the Centaurs eighth victory, giving them the required eight wins needed to gain a berth in the CIAC Class

L State Tournament — their first trip to the state tourney since the 2013-14 season. In their final game of the regular season on Feb. 20 the Centaurs fell to Plainfield High 44-39 to drop to a record of 8-12 through 20 games.

Woodstock Academy took a 16-9 first quarter against University and a 35-20 halftime lead — before University made a 15-point run in the third quarter to tie the game at 41. Woodstock outscored University 19-5 down the stretch as sophomore forward Cole Hackett made three key baskets in the fourth quarter and finished with 12 points.

The Centaurs hit 6-of-7 free throws in the final minutes to close out the game including 4-of-5 from Short. Woodstock sophomore guard Chase Anderson scored 13 points. Rasau Russell scored a game-high 16 including for University (7-12).

PLAINFIELD 40, TOURTELLOTTE 38

PLAINFIELD — Senior forward Evan Ware led the Tigers with 17 points but Tourtellotte could not get the game-tying basket as time expired in Tourtellotte's loss to the Panthers in boys basketball on Feb. 16 at Plainfield High School.

Tourtellotte's Connor Weiss attempted a three-pointer with time running out and Tigers junior center Jackson Padula could not get the putback up before the final buzzer. Ware hit a three-pointer at the halftime buzzer to give Tourtellotte a five-point lead at the break. Plainfield took the lead with 7.7 seconds left in regulation on two free-throws by Markeith Conyers (11 points) — before Weiss's three-point attempt for the win hit the front of the rim. The loss dropped Tourtellotte's record to 6-13. The win lifted Plainfield's record to 16-2.

Division II Girls Tournament on Feb. 16 at Alumni Fieldhouse.

Tourtellotte's record fell to 6-12.

Woodstock resets in drive for state title

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

POMFRET — The pressure to stay undefeated can weigh like a ton of hockey pucks. Woodstock Academy's first loss of the season to Hall/Southington back on Feb. 6 might have been the best 3-2 defeat Nathan DeLuca ever suffered. It punctured Woodstock's unbeaten streak but reset the Centaurs on the drive toward a state championship.

"I don't like saying it, I was disappointed we lost, we weren't unbeaten anymore. But after the game I felt like a weight had almost been lifted," said DeLuca, after scoring four goals to reach 200 career points in an 8-0 win over Taconic last Saturday. "Because at that point I think we still were looking at the season like 'Finish unbeaten. Then win the state championship.' It's almost like, that loss happened, we can focus now on what actually matters."

Coach Mike Starr never likes to be on the wrong end of a final score but knew the defeat at the hands of Hall/Southington might turn out to be a positive.

"None of us really wanted to lose but at that same time I don't think any of us were really upset after the game," said Starr after the win over Taconic, Mass., on Feb. 18 at Jahn Rink. "There wasn't a lot of 'I can't believe this.' Being overconfident is a killer. And I think we might have had a little overconfidence going into that game."

Starr used the defeat as a teachable moment heading toward the state tournament, which is slated to begin on March 6.

"The message in the locker room after that game was 'Hey, listen, we didn't play our best hockey.' The kids knew they didn't play their best hockey," Starr said. "And I said this might not be a bad thing. Lose now. Realize that, hey, we can be beaten if we don't play good. We've got to come every night playing hockey. We need to keep that in the back of our mind. From here on out it needs to be playoff hockey all the time no matter who we're playing."

DeLuca, a senior centerman, scored his fourth goal against Taconic at 3:30 of the third period to lift his career point total to 200 (106 goals, 94 assists). Senior Ryan Black tallied two goals against Taconic. Senior Will Liscomb and freshman Jake Starr each scored one goal. Liscombe notched three assists. Black had two assists. Ryan Wojciechowski, Patrick Delany, Doug Newton, and Ethan Thorpe each recorded one assist. Woodstock senior goaltender Cal Wilcox made 18 saves to earn the shutout.

After losing to the Warrior

Knights on Feb. 6, the Centaurs won four straight games to lift their record to 15-1-1. Woodstock is ranked No. 1 in the state in Division III.

"Since then we've just been playing hard. I think the loss woke us up," Wilcox said. "No give-up right now. We'll just keep going. Come states we can't lose like that."

The Centaurs are next scheduled to play at Joel Barlow on Friday, Feb. 24. Woodstock concludes its regular-season schedule at home against Conard at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 25.

The game against Taconic on Feb. 18 was billed as Senior Night and the upperclassmen honored in a pre-game ceremony on the ice included DeLuca, Black, Wilcox, Liscomb, Jacob Brule, Bruce Dexter, Liam Dyer, Zach Gagnon, Tyler Huhtanen, Jack Jellison, Dawson Normington, and Cassidy Thorpe.

Those seniors recently had a ton of pucks lifted off their shoulders. The pressure to stay unbeaten is gone. Now Woodstock can focus another weighty goal — a state title.

"I think we reset," DeLuca said. "I actually think we're playing different now. I think we're playing better team hockey the last couple of games. I think everyone's getting involved when they're on the ice. I definitely think we're playing better hockey since the loss."

Woodstock's netminder doesn't mind the pressure

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

POMFRET — Woodstock Academy's Cal Wilcox learned to skate when he was 4 years old and at 7 he started begging his father to let him be a goaltender. It took a few years but his dad, Keith Wilcox, finally relented.

"I told him when I was like 7 but he didn't let me until I was like 10," Wilcox said. "I just begged him because we needed a goalie one year and that was it — I think fourth grade, somewhere around 10 years old."

Wilcox figured he was a natural for the position.

"I've always been really flexible," Wilcox said. "Doing splits everywhere."

Goaltending isn't the most glamorous profession but he's never regretted the decision and every game presents a myriad of chances to stop the puck.

"I love it," Wilcox said. "I think it's kind of like anything happens."

Wilcox is well aware that on any given night he could wear the goat horns along with his goalie mask but accepts the scrutiny.

"You don't really get the credit if you win. You get the credit if you lose," Wilcox said. "But I kind of like that because it inspires me a little more."

Coach Mike Starr said Wilcox keeps an even keel and that rubs off on his teammates.

"It's funny. He can be the most intense person on the ice but at the same time he can kind of be making fun of his teammates and giving the coaches a hard time too," Starr said. "When it's time for him to be intense he's intense. And when it's time for him to kind of joke around he's that kid where he's joking around."

It's vital to wipe the slate clean after allowing a goal.

"I don't let it hit me that hard. I usually let things blow by me," Wilcox said. "If you have a long memory then if the puck goes in the net you're going to be mad about it for a little while, so that will throw you off."

Starr said Wilcox will be integral to Woodstock's chances of reaching the state tournament championship game. Woodstock's record was 15-1-1 through 17 games. The Centaurs are ranked No.

1 in Division III in the state. The D-III state tourney is scheduled to begin on March 6.

"If you look at the past state champions in any division over the past couple of years, it all starts with goaltending, it really does," Starr said. "And then you need depth in your lines, and right now we've got some really good depth in our lines."

But Starr has no worries about Wilcox when the state tournament arrives in the first week of March.

"He's going to have to be on his 'A' game. I have to say there's not many games when he's not," Starr said. "He knows he's got to step up his game and hopefully the kids in front of him respond."

Woodstock Academy honored its upperclassmen on Senior Night in pre-game ceremonies before playing Taconic, Mass., on Feb. 18. The bond between Wilcox and his fellow seniors started way before high school. He started playing with many of his Woodstock teammates over a decade ago. They began together as youngsters with the Griffin Youth Hockey program at Pomfret School's Jahn Rink. Among those skaters who were honored on Senior Night and have teamed with Wilcox through the years include Ryan Black, Nathan DeLuca, Zach Gagnon, Tyler Huhtanen, Will Liscomb, Dawson Normington and Liam Dyer. The bond is strong between the senior cohort.

"That's why we're all are so close because we've known each other for so long," Wilcox said. "I've pretty much know everyone on my team for almost my whole life."

On Senior Night Cal stood on the ice with his parents, Erin and Keith Wilcox, as Woodstock's upperclassmen were recognized in a pre-game ceremony at Jahn Rink — a rink he stepped on at age 4 — the net effect wasn't lost on the Centaurs senior netminder.

"It definitely flew by," Wilcox said. "It just hits you and you're like 'Wow, it's been awhile.'"

Killingly reaches state tourney by default

BY CHARLIE LENTZ
VILLAGER EDITOR

PLAINFIELD — Killingly High won just seven games and finished the regular season at 7-13 — but 15 teams in Class M earned less wins than the Redmen. And although eight victories are required to guarantee a berth in the state tourney, 32 teams are needed to fill the tourney bracket. Killingly's record ranked it 30th in Class M so coach Jim Crabtree said the Redmen would reach the tourney "by default."

Crabtree would have preferred making the tourney with eight wins — and the Redmen almost got there last Friday night at Plainfield High. Killingly led the Plainfield by one point after three quarters but faltered down the stretch in a 50-40 loss to the Panthers at Plainfield High on Feb. 17. The Redmen fell to Waterford 68-65 in their regular-season finale on Feb. 20.

Senior guard Jared Gospersank a three-point er at the third-quarter buzzer to put Killingly up 34-33 over Plainfield on Feb. 17. But Plainfield outscored Killingly 17-6 in the fourth quarter and dominated the offensive boards in the final frame.

"We ran out of energy," Crabtree said. "We went brain dead offensively."

Plainfield put the game away with a physical presence in the paint — and seemed to be the beneficiary of the referees calls. Plainfield went to the foul line 30 times, sinking 16. Killingly went to the foul line just 10 times and connected on six. But Crabtree refused to use the disparity from the foul line as an excuse.

"Things that we did in the defensive set for three and a half quarters, leaving a shooter or finding this guy . . . (Plainfield) had some good size and they didn't make shots early but at the end they made them," Crabtree said. "It was like night and day, three quarters to the fourth quarter."

Killingly could not keep Plainfield junior forward Chris Peasley off the offensive glass. Peasley scored a game-high 26 points including 11 in the fourth quarter.

"Their offensive rebounding killed us," Crabtree said. "That's energy. That's desire. That's toughness."

With Killingly trailing 37-34, Peasley sank a three-pointer with 5:35 left in the game to push the Panthers lead to 40-34. Killingly senior center Dommooy Ennis answered with a six-foot jump hook with 4:44 left to pull the Redmen within four points, 40-36, but Plainfield outscored Killingly 10-4 over the final four minutes. The win lifted Plainfield's record to 17-2. The Panthers were ranked No. 2 in Class M.

Gospersank led Killingly with 18 points but no other Redman finished in double figures.

"We didn't get what we expected out of a couple of guys and we needed it. (Plainfield) stepped up and different guys made shots for them in the fourth quarter," Crabtree said. "We were only getting it from one or two players."

But as Crabtree said, the Redmen will qualify for the Class M State Tournament "by default."

And yet the coach said Killingly might find itself right back here at Plainfield High for a state tourney game. The coach would have preferred eight wins this regular season — the Redmen hope to get a few more in the postseason.

"We've got to work to do on our end. (The state tournament) is a long ways away. We'll see what happens in the ECC Tournament," Crabtree said.

"I remember thinking so highly of Courtney and Bree. I was only a freshman so I really didn't understand how important it was," Logan said.

"Osborn finished in the first year you never know really what to expect. Now we know what to expect,"

"We know how hard we need to work to get back there and do really well again. I think it's going to be awesome and we're going to end with a bang this year."

"Success at New England's will require a team effort."

"It takes a team hitting there. We can't afford those little mistakes," coach Fillmore said. "So they know that and it's what they've really been pushing and working towards."

Stuyniski and Logan push each other to do their best — links in a chain of gymnastics dominance.

"It's crazy how much me and Paige are alike. She is just the best teammate you could ever ask for," Logan said. "I want her to do so well, if that makes me be second place that's perfectly fine. There's no stress about who's going to win. We just want one of us to dominate."

From preschool to high school — sandwiched between countless hours at Deary's Gymnastics — the friendship endures.

"I don't know how that aligned but it's awesome. She's one of the few who's actually stuck with gymnastics," Stuyniski said.

"Grace and I have always been together.

We were always in the same group, always working out together, at school together — it was crazy. And we're still together. I'm so glad I have her beside me. I don't know what I'm going to do without her and I'm going to miss her next year."

first place in the all-around (38.125) at the 2014 New England's but Stuyniski and Logan made critical contributions at Algonquin High — Stuyniski won gold in floor exercise (9.575) and Logan captured gold in bars (9.725). Now the duo are the wizened veterans.

"Both Grace and I are captains now so we try to lead by example," Stuyniski said. "And help the other girls whenever they need it. We try our best."

Team gold at New England's was won when the duo were freshmen but has eluded the Centaurs the past two seasons.

"The whole team, all nine of them, every single one of them put in something tonight," Fillmore said. "We have such a depth this year, they've had to fight on the team for their own spots."

Stuyniski and Logan can't do it alone. The Centaurs supporting cast will be critical over the next three weekends.

"It takes a whole team to do well," Logan said. "Their contribution is literally just like the energy and setting us up for just awesomeness."

Stuyniski and Logan both know they're links in a long chain of excellence. Logan recalled Woodstock's win at the New England Championships at Algonquin Regional High in Northborough, Mass., in 2014 — Logan was a freshman and Courtney Osborn and Bree Husson were the senior co-captains she aspired to emulate.

"The first year you never know really what to expect. Now we know what to expect,"

Stuyniski said. "We know how hard we need to work to get back there and do really well again. I think it's going to be awesome and we're going to end with a bang this year."

OBITUARIES

Chris Natale Carminati, 89

WOODSTOCK - Chris Natale Carminati, 89, of 7 West View Dr., died, February 15, at Matulaitis Nursing Home. He was predeceased by his loving wife, of 55 years, Ann (Russo) Carminati.

Born in Calabria, Italy, Chris was the son of the late Dominick Carminati and Maria (Montalto) Carminati.

Chris was a graduate of Theodore Roosevelt High School in the Bronx, New York. Although he loved the city, he relocated his family to Woodstock in 1958 when he earned an opportunity to manage the Putnam Herzl Finishing Company located in Putnam. He worked there for 30 years and became Vice President and General Manager of the facility.

Chris always put his family first. He was a devoted husband, father and grandfather who lived to enrich and enjoy the lives of his three cherished grandchildren. He and his wife grew to love living in the Quiet Corner as they made so many good friends over the years. Chris enjoyed inviting them into his house for a bite to eat, some cake and coffee, or maybe a drink or two. He also loved sharing holidays with his family and friends. One of his favorite times of year was Christmas. Maybe it was because his birth name "Natale" means Christmas in Italian which is why he was called Chris. In December, he loved decorating his entire house with colorful lights and on Christmas Eve enjoyed the traditional "Feast of the Seven Fishes" meal. On Christmas morning he could not wait to see the joy on his family's faces when they opened their presents. He also looked forward to bringing in each New Year with his family and friends at his annual New Year's Eve party where he would propose a toast for everyone's health and happiness.

Francesco (Frank) Marchionni, 70

PUTNAM - Francesco Marchionni, age 70, passed away on Saturday February 18, peacefully at Matulaitis Nursing Home. He formerly lived in East Killingly. He was born May 31, 1946, son of the late Mario and Giovanna (Amici) Marchionni in the town of Palombara Sabina, Rome, Italy.

He is survived by his sister Anna Belotti of Palombara Sabina, Rome, Italy. His two daughters and son in laws Brenda and Larry Wallace of Danielson, Lynn and Noel Marino of Ledyard. His grandchildren Meagan, Eiel, Brandon, Tianna, and a great granddaughter Jorgina, and companion ion Eunice Brown, several nieces and nephews.

He worked for Amtrak railroad for 40 years. He was a parishioner of St. Joseph's Church in Dayville. He was a member of the Putnam Elks, he enjoyed many days riding his motorcycle and being with his family and friends.

In lieu of flowers, please make donations to the Matulaitis Resident Recreation Fund. Frank enjoyed the many people there at Matulaitis (Where good conquers) with a special thank you to all the A wing nursing and staff and all the facility staff.

Friendships Come In All Dimensions— Sometimes In The Most Unlikely Sizes

(NAPS)

What is so fascinating about unlikely friendships? Is it that opposites attract? Does it point to hidden mutual respect?

Unlikely animal friendships have long held a particular fascination, documented with countless funny and adorable videos: a cat adopting baby ducks, a Labrador and an elephant, a baby lamb and a pig, a giraffe and an ostrich.

Child and adolescent psychotherapist Katie Hurley, a parenting expert and author of "The Happy Kid Handbook: How to Raise Joyful Children in a Stressful World," notes "The wonderful thing about being a child is that friendships form just about everywhere! So it's important to allow kids the space to form new relationships, even if they don't appear picture perfect from the outside looking in."

Nothing tells us more about this than characters in movies. Walt Disney Studios and Pixar have many improbable couplings in their tales. In "Finding Dory," the mischievous Septopus Hank reluctantly befriends scatterbrained Dory, yet they overcome their struggles and help each other grow in wonderful ways. "Lilo & Stitch" brings a little girl and an alien together and the resulting bond teaches them companionship and understanding. "Toy Story" finds Woody and Buzz ultimately setting aside their differences and realizing they were meant to be friends all along. In "Ratatouille," a human befriends a rat. Rats are unwelcome in all places, especially the kitchen. But Remy and Linguini find that love and compatibility can be found anywhere.

Disney's "The BFG" and its remake of the classic "Pete's Dragon"—both available November 29 on Blu-ray, Digital HD & Disney Movies Anywhere—add beautifully to this legacy.

"The BFG" (Big Friendly Giant), directed by Steven Spielberg, is based on the beloved children's classic by Roald Dahl. "The BFG" tells the story of a courageous and spirited orphan, Sophie, and the kind giant who becomes her protector. While initially afraid, Sophie comes to overlook the superficial homely appearance of the BFG and to appreciate his noble intentions. The BFG and, Sophie, are actually very similar—both are lonely and yearn for the connection and safety of a friend, which they're able to find in each other.

"Pete's Dragon" is a reimagining of Disney's cherished animated and live-action film—the adventures of an orphaned boy named Pete and his best friend Elliot, who just happens to be a dragon. Pete and Elliot belong to two different worlds but they still manage to build a foundation of love, compassion, caring and friendship. Both have lost those closest to them and are able to find comfort in each other.

Hurley adds, "As these movies so creatively suggest, helping children open up to aligning with someone different can result in a whole new way of looking at things." Here are some ways parents can encourage children to connect with a world outside the immediate family:

Be Open-Minded. Find ways to help your child identify the differences between themselves and prospective friends and look for ways those differences can make playing together more fun.

Adopt Optimism. A person different from your child

Leonard G. Bissonnette, 77

Board in Brooklyn, was a life member of the NRA. He enjoyed the outdoors, hunting, nature and feeding the birds.

There are no calling hours. A Mass will be held Wednesday, March 8, at 10:30 AM in Saint James Church, Franklin St., Danielson. Burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, will be private for the family only. Omit flowers and donations may be made in his memory, to the St. Jude Children's Hospital. Shaw-Majercik Funeral Home, 48 School Street, Webster, Mass., has been entrusted with his arrangements.

your child be brave enough to make the first move and invite a new friend to spend time together. Whatever the activity, the important thing is bonding. And if you support it, they're more apt to take the chance and see what happens.

Discover Mutual Passions. If your son or daughter sees a new friend light up when talking about something, encourage your child to ask more questions about the subject. Or if there's a key word that provides a clue to their friend's interest, suggest they use that to talk more in detail. You'll be surprised how helpful that can be in fostering a meaningful connection.

Make Them Laugh. Laughter makes conversation fun and joyful. Encourage your children to be silly, to share their sense of humor with others and to not take anything too seriously—just have fun with getting to know others!

FAMILY

Homeschooling—The Original School Choice

For many parents, when it comes to a quality education for their children, there's no place like home.

(NAPS)

While many families are considering area schools for their children, an increasing number of families are opting to homeschool their children. Since its rebirth in the 1970s, homeschooling has rapidly grown. Currently, more than 2.3 million students are involved in K-12 home education. More than 2,000 homeschool groups across the country are participating in National School Choice Week 2017 this week, highlighting an educational option that has been effective for their children and families.

Why is homeschooling becoming so popular? Many parents say they like being able to customize their children's education in pace and curriculum and achieve more academically.

The freedom and flexibility that homeschool students experience allow them to progress academically at their own pace, taking 6th grade math and 5th grade reading in the same year, for example, or working through part of the summer to catch up or move ahead.

Homeschooling is legal in all 50 states, and the advantages speak for themselves. On standardized tests, homeschool students typically score in percentiles 15 to 30 points above their peers in public school, and they routinely score higher than average on college admissions tests like the ACT and SAT.

"All parents want to provide the best education for their children, and for many families, that means homeschooling," said Andrew Campanella, president of National School Choice Week. "The time management and academic initiative that many homeschoolers develop set them up very well for further education and a career."

Homeschool students participate in a variety of social activities, with their homeschool groups, churches, scouts, 4-H, sports teams, and art or music programs.

While homeschooling may seem like a daunting project for families just beginning to explore their options, it doesn't have to be. More experienced homeschool parents and homeschool group leaders are usually eager to help new parents find the resources they need. For more information about National School Choice Week events in the area, including homeschool events, visit www.schoolchoiceweek.com.

National School Choice Week is an independent public awareness effort. The Week is nonpartisan and nonpolitical, and NSCW does not advocate for legislation.

Junior Achievement Reaches 100 Million Student Milestone

(NAPS)

Were you in Junior Achievement?

Since its inception in 1919, Junior Achievement (JA) has helped inspire more than 100 million young people with its programs focused on entrepreneurship, financial literacy and work readiness. Now, JA is hoping to engage these former students, today's JA Alumni, as volunteers to inspire and prepare today's young people for success.

JA programs have been demonstrated to have a great impact on students. According to a survey of more than 700 JA Alumni conducted by JA USA, former JA students are 30 percent more likely to have a four-year degree, earn about 20 percent more than the average American, and are 2½ times more likely to be involved in starting a business. Additionally, about one in three (30 percent) JA Alumni say their involvement with Junior Achievement influenced their career decision and one in five (20 percent) work in the same career field as the JA volunteer they had in school.

"Our alumni are an important constituent group for Junior Achievement," said Jack E. Kosakowski, president and CEO of Junior Achievement USA. "With our 100th anniversary coming up in 2019, we invite anyone who had a JA program during his or her school years to reconnect with Junior Achievement. Our goal is to engage with alumni to help empower local students to own their economic success."

Given the overall gains demonstrated by JA Alumni when compared to the general public, plus the benefits that many JA Alumni themselves attribute to their JA experience, what better way to engage today's youth than through those who have already reaped its benefits?

Did JA make a difference in your life? Do you want to reconnect with JA? You are encouraged to find out more by visiting www.JA.org/Alumni, or by contacting your local Junior Achievement office.

Kids who join groups such as Junior Achievement are more likely to finish college and to start a business.
